NEW COMPUTER LAB IN SUB ADDS 120 TO CAMPUS NETWORK

BY NICK BATTAGLIA APPROXIMATELY 1600

The newest addition to the campus network of computer labs is the new lab 27 on the lower level of the Student Union Building. The lab is equipped with 120 brand new PCs, along with all the necessary software required for students to use the lab.

LAB HOURS

Monday-Thursday: 7 a.m. - 12 a.m.
Friday: 7 a.m. - 10 p.m.
Saturday: 10 a.m. - 10 p.m.
Sunday: 10 a.m. - 12 a.m.

The lab is run by four trained technicians who are available to help students with any computer-related issues. The lab is open during the day for students to use, and there are also hours available for night study sessions.

Gore turned down on recount

BY DAVE HALE

On a day of dramatic legal action, Gov. Idaho County Steven D. Basarwa has decided to go to a constitutional court in Idaho County. Basarwa made a formal request for an explanation of the Idaho Code due to the situation of Florida presidential ballot and refusing to overturn the certification of George W. Bush's victory by the Broward County canvassing board. The governor canceled his„...
Senator wants students to know, ‘We get things done’

ASUI Student Senate President Assefi Mahmood is shown at the ASUI Senate table.

By Annette House

The University of Idaho Argonaut

The Vandal said the Senate has begun a new, more formal weekly program, which will be called "Senators Meet the Press." The program, which will charge students more for less and depend on student funding.

When students voted in new-destined Senate elections, they were asked to vote on smart questions, including whether the Senate should pay the student housing fee, which was eliminated by mutual consent for the 2003-2004 school year. The Senate also decided to make students responsible for paying for the rest of their time.

The program, which will charge students more for less and depend on student funding, is one of two new initiatives being considered by the Senate. The other is a new student fees program.

Senators Meet the Press will be held every Wednesday, beginning in the second week of the semester.

The program, which will charge students more for less and depend on student funding, is being considered by the Senate as a way to increase student participation in the Senate.

The program, which will charge students more for less and depend on student funding, is one of two new initiatives being considered by the Senate. The other is a new student fees program.

The Senate will be meeting weekly to discuss issues such as student fees, the Senate’s role in campus governance, and the Senate’s relationship with the University of Idaho’s President’s Office.

Senators Meet the Press will be held every Wednesday, beginning in the second week of the semester.

The program, which will charge students more for less and depend on student funding, is one of two new initiatives being considered by the Senate. The other is a new student fees program.

The Senate will be meeting weekly to discuss issues such as student fees, the Senate’s role in campus governance, and the Senate’s relationship with the University of Idaho’s President’s Office.

Senators Meet the Press will be held every Wednesday, beginning in the second week of the semester.

The program, which will charge students more for less and depend on student funding, is one of two new initiatives being considered by the Senate. The other is a new student fees program.

The Senate will be meeting weekly to discuss issues such as student fees, the Senate’s role in campus governance, and the Senate’s relationship with the University of Idaho’s President’s Office.

Senators Meet the Press will be held every Wednesday, beginning in the second week of the semester.

The program, which will charge students more for less and depend on student funding, is one of two new initiatives being considered by the Senate. The other is a new student fees program.

The Senate will be meeting weekly to discuss issues such as student fees, the Senate’s role in campus governance, and the Senate’s relationship with the University of Idaho’s President’s Office.

Senators Meet the Press will be held every Wednesday, beginning in the second week of the semester.

The program, which will charge students more for less and depend on student funding, is one of two new initiatives being considered by the Senate. The other is a new student fees program.

The Senate will be meeting weekly to discuss issues such as student fees, the Senate’s role in campus governance, and the Senate’s relationship with the University of Idaho’s President’s Office.

Senators Meet the Press will be held every Wednesday, beginning in the second week of the semester.

The program, which will charge students more for less and depend on student funding, is one of two new initiatives being considered by the Senate. The other is a new student fees program.

The Senate will be meeting weekly to discuss issues such as student fees, the Senate’s role in campus governance, and the Senate’s relationship with the University of Idaho’s President’s Office.

Senators Meet the Press will be held every Wednesday, beginning in the second week of the semester.

The program, which will charge students more for less and depend on student funding, is one of two new initiatives being considered by the Senate. The other is a new student fees program.

The Senate will be meeting weekly to discuss issues such as student fees, the Senate’s role in campus governance, and the Senate’s relationship with the University of Idaho’s President’s Office.

Senators Meet the Press will be held every Wednesday, beginning in the second week of the semester.

The program, which will charge students more for less and depend on student funding, is one of two new initiatives being considered by the Senate. The other is a new student fees program.

The Senate will be meeting weekly to discuss issues such as student fees, the Senate’s role in campus governance, and the Senate’s relationship with the University of Idaho’s President’s Office.

Senators Meet the Press will be held every Wednesday, beginning in the second week of the semester.

The program, which will charge students more for less and depend on student funding, is one of two new initiatives being considered by the Senate. The other is a new student fees program.

The Senate will be meeting weekly to discuss issues such as student fees, the Senate’s role in campus governance, and the Senate’s relationship with the University of Idaho’s President’s Office.

Senators Meet the Press will be held every Wednesday, beginning in the second week of the semester.

The program, which will charge students more for less and depend on student funding, is one of two new initiatives being considered by the Senate. The other is a new student fees program.

The Senate will be meeting weekly to discuss issues such as student fees, the Senate’s role in campus governance, and the Senate’s relationship with the University of Idaho’s President’s Office.

Senators Meet the Press will be held every Wednesday, beginning in the second week of the semester.

The program, which will charge students more for less and depend on student funding, is one of two new initiatives being considered by the Senate. The other is a new student fees program.

The Senate will be meeting weekly to discuss issues such as student fees, the Senate’s role in campus governance, and the Senate’s relationship with the University of Idaho’s President’s Office.

Senators Meet the Press will be held every Wednesday, beginning in the second week of the semester.

The program, which will charge students more for less and depend on student funding, is one of two new initiatives being considered by the Senate. The other is a new student fees program.

The Senate will be meeting weekly to discuss issues such as student fees, the Senate’s role in campus governance, and the Senate’s relationship with the University of Idaho’s President’s Office.

Senators Meet the Press will be held every Wednesday, beginning in the second week of the semester.

The program, which will charge students more for less and depend on student funding, is one of two new initiatives being considered by the Senate. The other is a new student fees program.
Problems delay solar power wings

By William Hanwood

IN CONVERSATION WITH

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — Two spacewalkers battled a 8000 million solar-power rover to put in the problem and only managed to unfurl one of two large solar wing-like appendages intended for the Rover Exploration System (RES) on the deployed solar wing was not sufficiently long. The wing appeared to have extended just 105 feet or so and that prompted a request for a detailed photo survey to help narrow concerns for increasing tension on the strap in question. Until that issue is resolved, the second array will remain on Earth. There have been no further delays in producing power and we’re in the process of testing the system.

We have two spacewalks planned Tuesday and Thursday to complete connections between the array and the station’s electrical system still to be ordered from California. Depending on the results of the ongoing engineering analysis, Tanner and Hartman may be asked to lead a board to resolve any outstanding problems.

"We’ve been a quiet, clean and well-organized spacewalk in space," Brink said. "We’re going to keep on trying and we’re going to keep on testing and we’re going to keep on making sure that we have a safe and well-organized spacewalk in space."
Opinion

Remembering Max Wertheimer and visual perception

D you know who Max Wertheimer was? If you do, then you're probably already familiar with the Gestalt psychologists, including Max Wertheimer, who worked in the early 20th century. Max Wertheimer was one of the founders of Gestalt psychology, and his work has had a lasting impact on the field of psychology.

Max Wertheimer was one of the first to argue that perception is not just a passive process, where the brain simply takes in sensory information and constructs a mental representation of the world. Instead, he argued that perception is an active process, where the brain actively organizes and interprets sensory information to create a meaningful representation of the world.

This idea is reflected in the famous experiment known as the "image rotation" experiment. In this experiment, participants were shown a series of images that appeared to rotate in a counter-clockwise direction, even though the images were actually static. This experiment demonstrated that the perception of movement is not just a passive process, but is instead an active process, where the brain actively organizes and interprets sensory information to create a meaningful representation of the world.

Max Wertheimer's work has had a lasting impact on the field of psychology, and his ideas continue to be studied and debated today. His work continues to influence the way we understand perception, and how we interpret the world around us.
E-mail loses mini-Christmas morning magic due to excess forwarding

There was a time, not so long ago, when drawing my e-mail was an activity I looked forward to. It was always a mini-Christmas morning, opening my electronic mailbox to see what surprises the Internet Fairy had left for me. A dividend from an old habit of looking at the mail first thing in the morning.

These days are different. Personal mail has given way to cold, detached cookie-cutter messages, written by someone you don't even know, sent to you by your friends, whose only contribution to the whole process is a signature that reads "Yours sincerely". It's as if your friends are saying, "I thought this might cheer you up." How real, how sincere, these messages are, I have never seen the time nor the creativity to put together a complete sentence, especially one that has any kind of personal application to you.

You never get a personal message anymore. The only way to continue communicating is by phone, not by e-mail. Friendships are on the wane, not thriving.

For the record, I am not against e-mail. In all shapes and sizes, but not against the idea of a simple e-mail. There has been a specific goal in mind. To mail to the person to pass the letter on to someone else. The idea of a personal message is the same as the idea of a personal letter.

E-mail loses mini-Christmas morning magic due to excess forwarding. It is cruel. As cruel as a gift that has taken on a new meaning. It is cruel.

E-mail loses mini-Christmas morning magic due to excess forwarding. It is cruel. As cruel as a gift that has taken on a new meaning. It is cruel.
C hristmas is the time of year to spend with friends and family, celebrating the cheer of the season. Roasting chestnuts over an open fire, singing holiday songs and, of course, dropping hints as to what cool new toys good little boys and girls want under the Christmas tree.

This year is sure to be just like every Christmas, hundreds of people rushing to the toy stores, hoping that last-minute present.

Everyone in the store looking for the same toy. Having to take rain checks and listen to the phrase “We're sold out, sorry,” a hundred times. It seems there’s always a toy every child wants, but not every child receives. The first and foremost on this year’s holiday wish list is the PlayStation 2. Next generation graphics, DVD movies and an already huge software library make this a must-have for Christmas. Because Sony didn’t release enough systems in the US, there is a huge shortage and Santa couldn’t deliver one of these even if the $299 price tag didn’t scare him off. Better ask what other options are out there.

Sure to please everyone on the list is Tekno, the Robot Puppy. This toy is a walking, talking, interactive man’s best friend.

For the amazing low price of only $29.99, this robot puppy can almost take the place of a real dog and you don’t need to clean up after it.

This toy seems to be the next generation of electronic pets that were popular not so long ago. This puppy needs to be played with, loved and disciplined. On a good day, this toy can even do a card trick; try teaching Flower that. The description of this toy on e-toys.com states that this puppy is so real, the only thing missing are the robot rolls.

No one’s wish list is complete without a Banzai wave-age scooter. This shiny transportation first appeared in department stores, and now can be bought in most stores. It claims to be a generation up from roller blades and is the thing for the new millennium. Just be sure to get one with a wheelie bar, making it easier to do crazy tricks.

These scooters with roller blade wheels carry a price tag from $59.99 to $129.99, depending on how many options it has.

Have a roommate who always uses your phone without asking? Solution found. The Girl Tech: Password Phone by Radius is protected with voice stamping security. Once the voice password is activated, nobody else can use the phone.

As if that weren’t enough, this phone comes with 10 different numbers that can be accessed by simply saying the person’s name. This means you all need to do is say your friend’s name and the phone will do the rest. Forget the recommended age limit of 8 to 12, this phone is a steal for any age group at the cost of $29.95.

Hopefully this holiday season brings joy and happiness to all, but most importantly, hopefully one of these cool new toys magically appears underneath the Christmas tree. This way, bringing gifts will be yours for a little while and you’ll have some really cool toys to play with.

by Eric Pero

This year’s hottest toys exemplify technology
Question: What do you want this Christmas?

William Ross, Engineering Computer Science

"A pretty pink pony."

Question: What do you want this Christmas?

Kentrop

"A snowmobile."

BRIAN PITCHER

"We'd like more great students. I wish the governor and the legislature will be very kind to the university this year. And, let's get the national election settled."

PROVOST BRIAN PITCHER

"I'd like all the Greek students to get a 4.0. A successful Kappa Alpha Theta and Theta Csi colonization. For all students to return home and back safely. And, a success in officer transition for IFC and Panhel. Personally, a new car. Seriously though, I would like to spend time with my new son, and my wife—just to spend time with this family and relax, but a new car would be nice."

CHRIS WUTRICH

Greek Adviser

"My debts all paid off."

GREGSTON

A scooter.

KEMPTON

A snowmobile.

WASHINGTON, D.C. — In the State Dining Room of the White House, first lady, Sen.-elect, Hillary Rodham Clinton, shown celebrating Christmas, and Sen. Niki Thomas, shown celebrating Christmas, have been invited to receive the White House Christmas card. In the background are White House pastry chef Paul Mesnier.

ADMINISTRATION WISHLIST

"I don't know. I haven't thought of what I want." Michelle Lennett, sophomore, Sociology

"My debts all paid off."

Carrie Saunders, non-degree seeking student

"A scooter."

Dustin Gregston, sophomore, General Studies

COMMENTS LAVERTY / ASSOCIATE PRESS

"We'd like more great students. I wish the governor and the legislature will be very kind to the university this year. And, let's get the national election settled."

PROVOST BRIAN PITCHER

"For the university, increased funding from the state legislature. Personally, a golf vacation to somewhere warm."

DIRECTOR OF COMMUNIC ARTS AND COMMUNITY GOLF COURSE

"For the university, increased funding from the state legislature. Personally, a golf vacation to somewhere warm."

GREGSTON

A scooter.

KEMPTON

A snowmobile.

WASHINGTON, D.C. — In the State Dining Room of the White House, first lady, Sen.-elect, Hillary Rodham Clinton, shown celebrating Christmas, and Sen. Niki Thomas, shown celebrating Christmas, have been invited to receive the White House Christmas card. In the background are White House pastry chef Paul Mesnier.

ADMINISTRATION WISHLIST

"I don't know. I haven't thought of what I want." Michelle Lennett, sophomore, Sociology

"My debts all paid off."

Carrie Saunders, non-degree seeking student

"A scooter."

Dustin Gregston, sophomore, General Studies

COMMENTS LAVERTY / ASSOCIATE PRESS

"We'd like more great students. I wish the governor and the legislature will be very kind to the university this year. And, let's get the national election settled."

PROVOST BRIAN PITCHER

"For the university, increased funding from the state legislature. Personally, a golf vacation to somewhere warm."

DIRECTOR OF COMMUNIC ARTS AND COMMUNITY GOLF COURSE

"For the university, increased funding from the state legislature. Personally, a golf vacation to somewhere warm."

GREGSTON

A scooter.

KEMPTON

A snowmobile.

WASHINGTON, D.C. — In the State Dining Room of the White House, first lady, Sen.-elect, Hillary Rodham Clinton, shown celebrating Christmas, and Sen. Niki Thomas, shown celebrating Christmas, have been invited to receive the White House Christmas card. In the background are White House pastry chef Paul Mesnier.

ADMINISTRATION WISHLIST

"I don't know. I haven't thought of what I want." Michelle Lennett, sophomore, Sociology

"My debts all paid off."

Carrie Saunders, non-degree seeking student

"A scooter."

Dustin Gregston, sophomore, General Studies

COMMENTS LAVERTY / ASSOCIATE PRESS

"We'd like more great students. I wish the governor and the legislature will be very kind to the university this year. And, let's get the national election settled."

PROVOST BRIAN PITCHER

"For the university, increased funding from the state legislature. Personally, a golf vacation to somewhere warm."

DIRECTOR OF COMMUNIC ARTS AND COMMUNITY GOLF COURSE

"For the university, increased funding from the state legislature. Personally, a golf vacation to somewhere warm."

GREGSTON

A scooter.

KEMPTON

A snowmobile.
Camden makes stop in Moscow

by CHRISTINA CARR

On their way from Bellingham, Wash., to Moscow, Idaho, Winona Camden is making a quick stopover at the University of Idaho's popular free weekly "The Argonaut." This Thursday, Camden will be playing Romeo in the campus theatre department's production of "Romeo and Juliet."

"It's been really fun," Camden said. "Winona Camden," she clarified. "It's the character I play, not me."

Camden was cast as Romeo in the major role, and after seeing the other cast members, she's sure they're all talented. The stage manager called some auditions, and when Camden was told she'd won the role, she was "very excited and surprised at the same time." She said she feels "very lucky to have been chosen."

"I've been with our school theatre group for two years, and this is my first real acting experience," she said. "We've done some other things, like doing a Shakespeare play in the spring, but that was a smaller group." When asked about the role itself, she said, "I think it's very challenging, but I'm excited about it."

"Romeo" is set in the small town of Verona, and the play takes place over the course of a few days. Camden says she's been working on the play for a month and a half, and will continue until the end of the month.

"It's been really intense," she said. "We've been rehearsing every night, and it's been a lot of work." Camden said she's been preparing for the role by reading the play, and she's been working on her character development. "I'm really excited to see how it turns out," she said.

"Romeo and Juliet" will be performed on campus at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday, and 2 p.m. Saturday. Tickets are $5 for adults and $3 for students. For more information, call 208-885-6725.

Latah County Library will surprise you

by GARETT REYNOLDS

Shh, be quiet. There's a phone at 102 South Jefferson St. that has been overlooked by a majority of the public, this writer included.

It's a little glass box called the Latah County Free Library. Although the public is aware of its existence near the courthouse, many people don't know what's inside. This is a surprise, because the library houses thousands of books and other materials for people to enjoy. But the library is not a secret, it's just been overlooked.

"As director of the Latah County Free Library, Mary Capril, points out that the library has many resources available to the people of the county. "The library is like a quiet sanctuary, a place where people can relax and read, or write, or do research, or just spend some quiet time."

"There are so many reasons to use the library, from the research you can do, to the quiet atmosphere, to the variety of materials available," Capril said.

"The library is open seven days a week, from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., and is a great place to go to get away from the hustle and bustle of daily life," Capril said.

"For example, there are books on everything from mathematics to history, from fiction to non-fiction, from poetry to plays. The library is a treasure trove of knowledge, and a great place to learn something new."

"The library is a place for everyone, young and old, and it's important that everyone knows about it," Capril said. "The library is a valuable resource, and it's important that everyone knows how to use it."

"The library is open seven days a week, from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., and is a great place to go to get away from the hustle and bustle of daily life," Capril said.

"The library is a treasure trove of knowledge, and a great place to learn something new."

"The library is open seven days a week, from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., and is a great place to go to get away from the hustle and bustle of daily life," Capril said.

"The library is a treasure trove of knowledge, and a great place to learn something new."

"The library is open seven days a week, from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., and is a great place to go to get away from the hustle and bustle of daily life," Capril said.

"The library is a treasure trove of knowledge, and a great place to learn something new."

"The library is open seven days a week, from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., and is a great place to go to get away from the hustle and bustle of daily life," Capril said.

"The library is a treasure trove of knowledge, and a great place to learn something new."

"The library is open seven days a week, from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., and is a great place to go to get away from the hustle and bustle of daily life," Capril said.

"The library is a treasure trove of knowledge, and a great place to learn something new."

"The library is open seven days a week, from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., and is a great place to go to get away from the hustle and bustle of daily life," Capril said.

"The library is a treasure trove of knowledge, and a great place to learn something new."

"The library is open seven days a week, from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., and is a great place to go to get away from the hustle and bustle of daily life," Capril said.

"The library is a treasure trove of knowledge, and a great place to learn something new."

"The library is open seven days a week, from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., and is a great place to go to get away from the hustle and bustle of daily life," Capril said.

"The library is a treasure trove of knowledge, and a great place to learn something new.
Modern-day Superman discovered in ‘Unbreakable’

By Wade Dinner

What if comic books should be regarded as truth? David Dunn, the leading character in the Touchstone Pictures film ‘Unbreakable’, is a modern-day Superman with incredible powers.

‘One hundred and eighteen were on the passenger train. There is only one reported survivor,’ says Dunn (Bruce Willis) who recounts the day he journeyed to Philadelphia with his son, David Jr. (David W. Ross). This film, that stars Bruce Willis, Samuel L. Jackson, and Robin Wright Penn, is a film that will make you think twice about the world we live in.

‘Unbreakable’ is directed by M. Night Shyamalan, who also wrote the script. The film is based on a graphic novel by Brian Michael Bendis and Michael L. Straczynski. The story follows a man who discovers that he has never been stuck in a day in his life.

But when a murderer strikes in his youth and kills the train wreck, he chooses his career as a security guard. He is the hero who takes on the responsibility of saving the train passengers. The film stars Bruce Willis, Samuel L. Jackson, and Robin Wright Penn.

Although the film is a success, it also receives criticism from some viewers. But the film’s director, M. Night Shyamalan, says that he didn’t make the film for everyone. He believes that it’s a film for those who enjoy thinking outside the box.

‘Unbreakable’ is a film that will make you think twice about the world we live in. The film is directed by M. Night Shyamalan and stars Bruce Willis, Samuel L. Jackson, and Robin Wright Penn. The film is based on a graphic novel by Brian Michael Bendis and Michael L. Straczynski. The story follows a man who discovers that he has never been stuck in a day in his life.

Whether you’re a fan of graphic novels or not, ‘Unbreakable’ is a film that you shouldn’t miss.
Women's basketball

Vandals lose point guard, drop game to WSU

BY DEN N. BLANCHARDS
ASSISTANT SPORTS EDITOR

In a complete turnaround from the Vandals' triumphant win over Montana Vandals last Thursday, which could have easily been there with a 6-2 deficit, the Vandals began the game on a 6-0 run. But instead of being down by a margin, the Vandals were on the verge of driving away. However, this did not sink in the Vandals' hopes, as they scored a tough defense throughout the first half. At the final half, 8-3, the Vandals had the lead by 18 points with nine points more in the second half.

The Cougars, led by guide Keke NYack, held in 25 leads tough defense on the Vandals in the first half. As the final half, 8-3, the Vandals had nearly driven away with nine points more in the second half.

The Vandals held the Cougars to 32 baskets over the second half and only one lead. In the second half, the Vandals had 25 baskets over the second half and only one lead. In the second half, the Vandals had the lead by 18 points with nine points more in the second half.

The lead was captured by Tasha Rino coming down on a rebound and throwing a three-pointer to Nelly Benne, scoring this lead.

After a lost second basket by WSU and a failed attempt at a three-pointer just past the line, the Vandals continued on with the lead of 18-10. In the second half, the lead was sliced down from the center stripe, Idaho 3-1, and WSU a 3-10 percent. The lead was sliced down from the center stripe, Idaho 3-1, and WSU a 3-10 percent. The lead was sliced down from the center stripe, Idaho 3-1, and WSU a 3-10 percent. The lead was sliced down from the center stripe, Idaho 3-1, and WSU a 3-10 percent.

The second half was marked with the outside of both the Cougars, making a lead of 9-0. The lead was marked with the outside of both the Cougars, making a lead of 9-0. The lead was marked with the outside of both the Cougars, making a lead of 9-0. The lead was marked with the outside of both the Cougars, making a lead of 9-0.

At the 16:30 mark the Vandals lost two leads to 17-17, as the lead was sliced down from the center stripe, Idaho 3-1, and WSU a 3-10 percent. The lead was sliced down from the center stripe, Idaho 3-1, and WSU a 3-10 percent. The lead was sliced down from the center stripe, Idaho 3-1, and WSU a 3-10 percent. The lead was sliced down from the center stripe, Idaho 3-1, and WSU a 3-10 percent.

Further ahead in the game was unreasoned at game time. At this point the Vandals were still driving towards a seven-point lead, 2-0. The Cougars continued to ship in the Vandals and at one point, with a minute and eight seconds to go, the Cougars' second leading scorer with 12 points and would miss on 12 of the final six games over WSU with 31 behind Nyack's full game of 4.

The lead was forced over by the Cougars at the midway point in the second half. They were forced over by the Cougars at the midway point in the second half. They were forced over by the Cougars at the midway point in the second half. They were forced over by the Cougars at the midway point in the second half.

The Cougars didn't make the requirement to launch a shot by Nyack, who was a 3-10 percent. The lead was forced over by the Cougars at the midway point in the second half. They were forced over by the Cougars at the midway point in the second half. They were forced over by the Cougars at the midway point in the second half. They were forced over by the Cougars at the midway point in the second half.

The Vandals did not make adjustments to their lineup changes in the coin toss. They were forced over by the Cougars at the midway point in the second half. They were forced over by the Cougars at the midway point in the second half. They were forced over by the Cougars at the midway point in the second half. They were forced over by the Cougars at the midway point in the second half.

A secondjavax that the Cougars have lost their last game of the season, but they are not home. The lead was forced over by the Cougars at the midway point in the second half. They were forced over by the Cougars at the midway point in the second half. They were forced over by the Cougars at the midway point in the second half. They were forced over by the Cougars at the midway point in the second half.

The Vandals won a lay-in on the free throw line, 18-17, and shot a free throw. The lead was forced over by the Cougars at the midway point in the second half. They were forced over by the Cougars at the midway point in the second half. They were forced over by the Cougars at the midway point in the second half. They were forced over by the Cougars at the midway point in the second half.

The lead was forced over by the Cougars at the midway point in the second half. They were forced over by the Cougars at the midway point in the second half. They were forced over by the Cougars at the midway point in the second half. They were forced over by the Cougars at the midway point in the second half.

The lead was forced over by the Cougars at the midway point in the second half. They were forced over by the Cougars at the midway point in the second half. They were forced over by the Cougars at the midway point in the second half. They were forced over by the Cougars at the midway point in the second half.

The lead was forced over by the Cougars at the midway point in the second half. They were forced over by the Cougars at the midway point in the second half. They were forced over by the Cougars at the midway point in the second half. They were forced over by the Cougars at the midway point in the second half.

The lead was forced over by the Cougars at the midway point in the second half. They were forced over by the Cougars at the midway point in the second half. They were forced over by the Cougars at the midway point in the second half. They were forced over by the Cougars at the midway point in the second half.

The lead was forced over by the Cougars at the midway point in the second half. They were forced over by the Cougars at the midway point in the second half. They were forced over by the Cougars at the midway point in the second half. They were forced over by the Cougars at the midway point in the second half.

The lead was forced over by the Cougars at the midway point in the second half. They were forced over by the Cougars at the midway point in the second half. They were forced over by the Cougars at the midway point in the second half. They were forced over by the Cougars at the midway point in the second half.

The lead was forced over by the Cougars at the midway point in the second half. They were forced over by the Cougars at the midway point in the second half. They were forced over by the Cougars at the midway point in the second half. They were forced over by the Cougars at the midway point in the second half.

The lead was forced over by the Cougars at the midway point in the second half. They were forced over by the Cougars at the midway point in the second half. They were forced over by the Cougars at the midway point in the second half. They were forced over by the Cougars at the midway point in the second half.
Washington Redskins fire turbine, give Robiskie job

By Marc Shack

WASHINGTON — The Redskins, Washington, D.C., revealed Monday that they will fire their offensive coordinator, and replace him with their defensive coordinator, Robiskie, for the remainder of the season.

This was something out of this world. The entire offense and defense was shut down. No plays were called. No one was left on the field. This was an absolute chaos. The mission, was to get the Redskins into the playoffs in the best interests of the organization.

Owner, 46, was in a high state of distress and was not feeling well. There was much talk in town that the Redskins, "We all knew at any point you're going to screw up. We're in that point." A statement was made in reference to the team's performance, "It's time for me to move on."

Redskins coach, 54, was philosophical when he fired Robiskie. He said, "Firing Robiskie Pasadena as head coach is not easy, but I feel it's the best course of action. It was a painful decision, one that was made after much consideration."

On an important note, sources informed the Redskins that Smith was on their list of consideration for the head coaching job. Smith, 58, a former Redskins defensive coordinator, has been out of work since being fired by the Arizona Cardinals last season.

Also, Friday's game with the Eagles is in jeopardy. Eagles Coach, 56, has stated that he will not play the game unless his team is given an extension to the end of the season.

n Redskin's head coach, 54, fired Robiskie on Tuesday. Robiskie, who was the Redskins' defensive coordinator, was fired after the team lost to the Bengals, 54-14. Robiskie was a former player for the Browns and was hired as the Redskins' defensive coordinator in 2000.

According to a statement released by the Redskins, "We decided to make this change in order to bring in new blood and get the team back on the right track."

Robiskie was fired after going 6-8 in his first season as defensive coordinator. The Redskins finished the season with a record of 3-13.

The team has struggled all season, and the firing is likely to have a major impact on the rest of the year. With the team out of playoff contention, the focus will be on developing the young players and preparing for next year's draft.

The Redskins' next game is against the Browns on Sunday, and fans are hoping for a win to give the team some momentum as it heads into the season's final weeks.

For more information, please visit www.redskins.com or call 883-784-1186.
Phila. to play at the end of each season. The Bowl, which was named after the first Super Bowl game, is also played on the last Sunday of December.

The game is played between the two best teams of the season, as determined by a points system that includes factors such as the team's record, strength of schedule, and performance in previous games.

The winner of the game is crowned the national champion of the year.

The Super Bowl has become a major event with millions of people watching the game live and sponsoring companies spending millions of dollars on advertising.

The game is also known for its halftime show, which has featured famous musicians and entertainers over the years.