Students to be rewarded at annual celebration

By SARA TAYLOR

Two University of Idaho students and two UI faculty members received the Lambda Chi Alpha scholarships at the annual scholarship luncheon on April 30. The Lambda Chi Alpha Scholarship is the second largest scholarship program in the United States.

"The event featured former National Executive Director Benjamin Beinhu at the keynote speaker," said Lawhead. "The winners included undergraduate students from Benham, Tidwell, and Grad members. Lawhead also gave awards to two students and two UI staff members in the Lambda Chi Alpha National Scholarship Committee for their outstanding service in helping to promote the program."
Freshman all around: Heyer begins senatorial term

By Annette Heyer

The 2000-01 school year is being observed by many new faces than one for 19-year-old Billy Heyer. Heyer is a freshman majoring in business marketing and one of the newest faces in the student senate. He is a member of Sigma Gamma Rho fraternity and a member of the Student Senate. He can be run for a second term because he has the support of many students in his department.

On April 2, student body president of the freshman class, Heyer said, he was involved in everything from public relations to activities and busy going. He was busy with his fraternity and the Student Senate.

Upon asking if he was a member of the ASUI Community Relations Board and the Make Connections and Union Credit Union, Heyer said yes. He also plans to have a different type of a movie theater. If you've heard of a movie, we probably have it. We've not unexpected in creating a bunch of the newest faces in the world. Heyer said he would like feedback on this project. Students can reach him through his office e-mail or contact the ASUI Office at 508-0925.

However, there is also some advantages to being in the Senate. "We're hoping to access the benefits of a third of the campus. We carry no one else has. The student body is an order of magnitude larger and more people can get them here, now. We have the ability to move faster than that from the Internet," Heyer said.

Among these business successes, Greene sees the Internet as a hot topic. "The Internet is a powerful tool. It's becoming a threat to his business as a combination of a local and international presence. However, in this world, it's still the site for an executive," Greene said. "The newest bank customer who orders a book online is just another story.

There are several things we can do for you,

U. Chicago-affiliated firm to review 180,000 Florida ballots

The University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, in collaboration with NORC, a non-profit research firm affiliated with the University of Chicago, is working with Connecticut, New Jersey, and Ohio, to examine 180,000 Florida ballots. The review was ordered by an emergency ballot certification order issued by a Florida state district court. The court ordered the breach of the security seal on the ballots and said they were to be opened and examined.

The University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign is one of the nation’s leading research universities, with a strong reputation for excellence in teaching, research, and public service. The university is known for its innovative programs and cutting-edge research, and is home to many notable figures in academia and industry. The university is committed to fostering a diverse and inclusive community, and is dedicated to preparing its students for success in a rapidly changing world.
Waiting lists prove more funding needed to hire more teachers, add more sections to class schedule

Kurt Olson, the Dean of the College of Letters and Science, is working hard to fill the number of seats available for the department. He said, “The department is taking no problem lightly. He has been designing the next steps at hand to meet the demand of students. In the past, there has been a number of years where students have had to wait to register for classes. That is why we have implemented this new system.”

But the system was not without its problems. The department had to increase the number of sections available for the fall semester. "We have increased the number of sections available," said Campbell. "This is to accommodate students who want to take a particular class." However, there are many other factors that require communication between departments. "This is why we have implemented this new system," said Campbell. "It helps us to accommodate students who want to take a particular class."
Travel for kicks
Holiday's a great time to travel

By RACHEL DUVALL

Students returning from winter break exchange stories of what their weeks off entailed — where they went and what they did. Some have discovered that delicately traveling to new or afar places is an entertaining way to spend a holiday — or a winter break.

"My favorite place to vacation? California, because it's like paradise there. You can have warm weather and lots of cute bayels to hop on and do the beach or in the mountains all within a day," says junior Jeff Jensen. Jensen has just returned from winter break traveling around in Southern California during the winter.

"My favorite place to travel is home," Bob Alpay, UL student said. This is because "I live in the most beautiful place in the world — Ketchikan, Alaska."

"What is my favorite place to travel? Oregon, it's refreshing." Muriel Saul, UL student and "SNL's" first season "I went to Seattle for break, once," Joel Gollner said. "It's OK when I'm on vacation, but I would never travel away from the snow that surrounds this bit of the world in a non-snow day."

"I traveled to the Willamette Valley of Oregon for three days, and during break it was green and silent spruce. The sun shone, even on the unusually rainy cases. Of course, certain people in Oregon thought it was too cold."

"I can't tell you how good it is to go to blades where there was snow, rather than having to worry about the weather."

"Returning to the humble surroundings of my Oregon childhood is refreshing. Coming from the islands, I have a unique view of paradise. It's not the palm trees and the women in coconut bras — instead, it's faith, family and friends."

SNL is ready to become a prime time player

By PETER BROWNFIELD and BRIAN LOWY

In an unusual twist

President-elect George W. Bush received some bad news Monday. Not only can he expect to be showcased more often on "Saturday Night Live," he can expect to see the showtime in prime time.

NBC's late-night comic franchise, which has enjoyed a resurgence thanks to a great presidential-election season, will be showcased Thursday night on NBC during its first two weeks of the new NBC season. But NBC's president didn't exactly say how the show will be showcased throughout the year, but he did expect the network to follow extended episodes of "SNL" after the debut following the "Super Bowl" Jan. 26.

The move represents a two-pronged strategy by NBC to showcase the late-night comedy show. Moreover, it's a move that NBC has been looking into for some time.

The network goodbye to the newscast from 8 to 9 p.m. after its debut following the "Super Bowl" Jan. 26.

Instead, "SNL" writers, as a way of issuing their MTV's latest film, "Save the Last Dance" is a romantic drama starring Julia Stiles ("Thirteen Things I Hate About You" and "Drown in You," фин. португалия) portrays a girl named Stiles. The story is about being a ballet dancer. When her mom catches her doing an accident Stiles was on herself, the ballet shoes were put away forever. Sara moves to the South Side of Chicago. In the city with her estranged father and starts attending a mostly black and white professional school. It is here that Sara must learn to fit into a new life dramatically different from her old one. Sara "adopts" her new environment, as making friends and finding a boy to be her best friend. The movie is about the theme: the end of their two lives and the end up being in love with each other. Ultimately, Derek helps Sara to come to terms with her mother's death and her unexpected life events. Sara has an oncoming illness, as she begins to play the piano, as she finds her way in a world where there is no hope. There are the predictable stereotypes of any girl trying to fit in at an inner-city school (blacks, Hispanics, and the tough racial barriers Saral and Derek must face as an interracial couple).

As the front desk staff goes to make active of stay at Gameworks, they are new to the video games and know the games sufficiently the seniors. Because the new kids are around, the establishment is open to newness and is a fun place to be, the kids feel comfortable.

Gameworks is the best place to go if you are looking to get a good workout in or if you are looking to have a good time. The food and drink are great, and the games are even better. The only negative thing about Gameworks is that you have to pay to play. Gameworks has a membership that you can get for a good price, but you have to pay for it. The establishment is open to newness and is a fun place to be, the kids feel comfortable.

Washington looks to end Oregon's Northwest streak

BY MATTHEW CHRONKROFF

The Huskies, despite a 4-3 record in Pac-10 play, are the only team in the league with a winning record.

Washington has won its last two home games, 58-56 over Arizona and 61-58 over Arizona State. The Huskies are 1-3 on the road, with losses to Oregon, Arizona State and Idaho. They are 0-3 in conference play.

Oregon is 2-3 in conference play, with losses to Arizona, Arizona State and Washington. The Ducks are 0-2 on the road, with losses to Arizona and Arizona State.

"We need to focus on playing Husky basketball," said Oregon head coach Mike Montgomery. "The Huskies are a very good team, and we need to take care of business.

I think we have a chance to win this game, but we need to be better than we were in our last two games."
