CAMPUS DAY

BRILLIANT EVENT

Fine Weather and Host Pageant
Yet Add Finishing Touches
To The Day.

The second Annual CAMPUS DAY at the University of Idaho was pulled off, Friday, with more than its usual "class" in the length and quality of the pageant and in the spirit of those attending.
Long before the day was done it was evident! to all just where Augs Nater Idaho stood in the eyes of her students, alumni and her host of friends.
For about an hour, beginning with 9:45 a.m., the elements of the long pageant began to arrive.
Near all of the departments of the University were represented,
many of them being startlingly realistic. The "nackless" turned out a "forty-niner" — red shirt,
long whiskers, rustly overcoats,
and top hats with the traditional accompaniment of a rusty Winchester and rugged bugle re loaded with pack and pans; the Civilian, with their lines and instruments compiled and Mosco-
son's mock debated paving;
monkey wrenches, squares, and a small model steam engine
were displayed by Mechanic's dressed in the garb of their profession.
The Chemists displayed bottles, retorts, colored lights, etc. on a portable stand which was ornamented with shrubs and flowers fixed by structural formulas
of carbolic acid; the German department introduced "Deutscher Studenten" with all their characteristic sausages and dances.
Results of the pageant will be found in the Daily Idaho issue.

"AS YOU LIKE IT"
WELL DONE.

Baked Brown and Finished Most Palatably For Critical Audience.

The climax of the English U-I's dramatic work for the year was the presentation of Shakespeare's
"As You Like It" on the University campus Friday evening. It was the first outdoor play that has been given at the University and the novel poetic setting of the Forest of Arden with true trees and grass delighted a large audience.
The illusion was more nearly perfect, most people believed they could see on the campus.
The production was in charge of Dr. Moore, who coached the play and was responsible for its suc-

Miss Helen Deneko of Boise played the leading role of Ros-lind with spirit and dramatic powers. Her expressive voice in the varying moods of the lovely Shakespearean heroine was notable. The quick sympathy for Rosalind with her quick transition from boyish bravado to womanly tenderness; the final surrender to her love; all was portrayed by Miss Deneko with intelligence and sympathy.

Miss Whitley, who in the last week took part the part of Celia, for which Miss Rowley has been traditionally noted, showed those who knew of her circumstances by her skill and sappiness of manner. She read the blank verse most charmingly and a little voice being remarkably clear and poetical. Her pleasing or her smooth. Few voices before her father was a fine end of a thing. Acting Miss Whitley is a "fine" in University dramatics.

Miss Tuttle gave her known gift of clever interpretation to the role of Duke, and her voice also was remarkable for its carrying power in the open air. As the Noble country maiden scorning
the affections of the boastful Silvius and the sudden victim of the gaze of the Duke, Miss Whitley was affectionate.

Miss Allen, called to the role of Auray at a late date, made much of her few lines, the original part being heavily cut for the

...to popularize their float by dispensing ice cream during their ride. In addition to many other fine exhibits was the stock exhibit, closing the pageant. Among these were the nationally famous Pekes, the Amsorita, and other fine stock.

Led by a mounted trumpeter, and the University girls, bearing wreaths and marching in column of twos, the pageant entered a reserved space on the campus where the two Maypoles had been erected. The pageant then disbanded, dances given by the University girls came next in order, including the Narcissus, the Russian Dance, the Norwegian Mount, and March, and concluding with the winding of the Maypole.

This having been completed the audience gathered into the reserved space and, after a few preliminary remarks by President Maclean, the band struck up, and the audience and the glitter of the four classes of the University and ladies of the class and the band in the middle was formed, the red point of address of an alumnus, Robert O. Jones, '10, as the occasion of the day.

Sixteen gallons of the best ice cream, in company with loads of sandwiches, also awaited the visitors at Ridenour Hall, Lunch, strolling over the grounds, and games kept the visitors only too busy until 1:15 p.m., when a band concert was given. At 3:15 this was succeeded by a vocal and orchestral concert from the balcony of Ridenour Hall—some of the finest numbers ever presented by the University being given there. Too much cannot be said in this connection of the work of Mr. E. H. Buxton, nor of the work of Professors F. L. Perlman and G. W. Case.

The day was brought to a brilliant close by the presentation of Shakespeare's 'As You Like It' on the campus at 7:30 p.m.—an account of which is found elsewhere in these columns.

We know they music made In Heaven, even men's observation; But when God threw it down to us that strayed

It dropped with lamentation, And ever since doth its sweet shade.

With sighs for its first station.

performance. She did a great deal of acting while on the stage and secures many laughs from the audience. She and Touchstone made a funny pair.

Mr. Lehane as Orlando acted in his usual clever, finished style. His experience was evident. He thoroughly understood the possibilities of his part and "got them across" the footlights. Mr. Fjelsted played the sinister elder brother, Oliver, with intelligence and courtesy. He secured with skill the necessary contrast between the characters of Orlando and Oliver.

Mr. Davis as Touchstone won the audience from his very entry. His sense of the comic, his ease in acting, the original whimsical turns which he developed himself, made his role almost professional.

There is a possibility of billsteff in Mr. Davis. His illustrations of the comic with which any one could write rhyme and his elongation of the house Corn in a philosophical terms in an argument particularly pleased the audience.

Mr. Johnson doubled on Duke Senior and Duke Frederick. He read his lines with authority— as becomes a duke, Mr. Warren interpreted the role of the melancholy Jaques skilfully and effectively. His rendering of the seven ages of man was particularly good. Mr. A. L. Johnson as Le Bran was the courtly gentleman; Mr. Backman as Corin was the simplehearted old shepherd with a realistically squeaky voice, an easy hit for Touchstone's wit.

Mr. Woolridge, another recruits, secured at the last minute to take the place of Mark Anderson, was the lovelock Bumpkin, Silvius; Mr. Robinson was the husky Charles the Wrestler; Mr. Nash doubled on Adams and William in a very effective makeup and save a strong illusion of age. All in all, under the great difficulties caused by the early departure of original members of the cast, the hands of the the deliverance of the cast, the hands up an experiment in outdoor staging, with the impossibility of securing regular rehearsal at this busy time of the year, and with the distracting low temperature of the evening, the campus production of "As You Like It" was pronounced a success.

Little Richard McAdoo, who was naturally dressed a few years ago is reported to be out of danger from the fever and will soon be about again.

A NEW COURSE
FOR BACCALAUREATE DEGREE

A Course in Commerce and Business Administration is Under Contemplation.

The Regents will take under consideration the advisability of offering a four-year course in Commerce and Business Administration, leading to a baccalaureate degree and designed to prepare students for business careers.

This is a recognition of a view which the American College has come to hold in recent years, that a business career is a profession in a true sense whose successful pursuit requires, besides general knowledge of facts and principles, the trained mind and habits of thought which the University with its great resources can offer to those who enter the older professions. Harvard, Wisconsin, Chicago, and other eastern universities have introduced such courses with great success and the soundness of the view is thoroughly established.

The course proposed for Idaho would follow largely the Wisconsin plan. Its general purposes may be stated to be:

1. To offer the general advantages of a college education.
2. To afford a thorough knowledge of the processes common to all branches of commerce and business administration together with a more specialized knowledge of some one of them.
3. To afford training methods.
4. To set forth the resources of the state from the standpoint of business opportunity.

The structure of such a course fall in three groups.

- Foundational Studies, which are recognized as essential in a liberal education and as a necessary foundation for the more specialized subjects which follow.
- These comprise courses in natural sciences, mathematics, English, foreign languages, history and economics.
- Most of these courses are already offered to students of the University Professional Studies distributed throughout the College campus, the aim would be to teach students to understand and actually perform various processes common to all branches of commerce. They would comprise business correspondence, accounting, auditing, salesmanship, advertising, credits and collecting, and similar business courses. The purpose of these studies is to add to the course in commerce.

Kappa Sigma and Sophomore are the winners in their respective leagues as the result of games played within the last week. The Sophomores won their first game against the Juniors after that team had given them a hard battle for five innings.

In the Inter-frat league, the Theta Mu team finished the season running strong and only a basting essay in the final inning prevented Theta Mus from tying Kappa Sigma for first honors.

To date all the scheduled games have been played except the Senior-Freshman game in the Class league, which has been reserved for class day and the three remaining Phi Delta Theta games. Regarding the class day event, some of the faculty have openly hedged that the professors will win this go. If they do, there will be three teams tied for the bottom position, but at present it looks like the Faculty for the cellar.

Sophomores 6–Juniors 2

In one of the best games played this season the Sophomores won from the Juniors last Tuesday afternoon by a 1-2 score. The game was anybody's until the sixth, with the score tied, the Sophomores put four runs across the plate. Kinnison and Perkins opposed each other on the slab. The former allowed but seven scattered hits, while the Sophomores bunched their six hits in two innings.

Theta Mu Epsilon Beats Barbs.

The Non-frat team, weakened by the loss of its best men, was easy for Theta Mu on Decoration day, the latter winning by a score of 17-9. Errors were responsible for most of the runs of the frat men.

Kappa Sigma Wins in Seventh-

With the score seven to three against them in the last inning, the Kappa Sigma sluggers turned apparent defeat into victory and clinched the cup in the game with Theta Mu last Saturday morning. Three hits, an error and a passed ball tell the story of the break which led in five runs. At that the game was a good one, much better than the average inter-class league. Kappa Sigma scored a run in each of the first three innings, while Theta Mu took three in the first and fifth and one in the sixth. This game gives Kappa Sigma the trophy, unless Phi Delta Theta can win all three of her remaining games, which hardly seems probable.

The following batting and fielding averages are given for the teams which have completed the schedule. This includes all the names in the class league with the exception of the Seniors and Faculty, and the Theta Mu team in the frat league. For those who played in only one game no average is given.
