Is Kenworthy Worth It?

Kenworthy Bird

For Future Senators

The KDU Student Senate has been described as "the most important student group at Lewiston College," (l.e., the group most deserving of your vote.)

The KDU Student Senate is the legislative branch of the student body, the elected body in which the policies of the student body are discussed and decided upon. The student Senate has many responsibilities, including: representing the student body to the administration, faculty, and the community; providing a forum for student expression; and ensuring that the needs of all students are met. The student Senate is an important part of the college community, and it is up to each student to help shape the future of the college by voting in the election. Please take the time to learn about the candidates and make an informed decision. Thank you.

This Is Any Way to Conduct a University?

A. F. Bay

Asst. Prof.

Kenworthy Bird was appointed to the position because he has covered faculty council meetings for the Argonaut in the past and because, as we all know, he's the best这件事的代表。

Another interesting sidenote—this time I've decided to go above the average of 1.00 in print and offer a brief history of the Argonaut. The Argonaut is 75 years old this year. It was founded in 1834 by a small group of students who wanted to have a place to express their views and ideas. The Argonaut has been publishing ever since, with only a few interruptions. The newspaper has been through many changes over the years, but it has always remained a place for students to speak out and be heard. It is up to each of us to ensure that the Argonaut survives and thrives in the future.

Following that heartfelt letter, the author referred to the Kenworthy Bird, addressing various matters personal, sorry adams, friends, and other such friends. It is hard to say when the three were last seen. The author wished them well in their future endeavors.

Asst. Prof.

Finally, I've been writing a long time to see that picture on the right in print. And it's not true that I have anything against girls. Girls, after all, have to be seen in the light of their potential. The Argonaut, for instance, has been publishing for the past 35 years. It is impossible to imagine the Argonaut without the people who have contributed to it over the years. It is up to each of us to make sure that the Argonaut continues to flourish.

Let Them Entertain You

by Ron Scalda
Argentine Feature Writer

The Big Name Entertainment Committee, which received a great deal of criticism during its work the past five years, has now decided to scrap the committee and expand programs to bring more and better entertainment to the campus. This move is being spearheaded by David Schlaad, pushy manager.

Schlaad said the new committee, billed as Rock-Television Now, is the first of its kind to be formed for student enjoyment and participation.

A new concert with folk-singer and former student Warren Dozier is a relative unknown at WSU, but it's past concert experiences are excellent. The concert, which will be held from 7:30 p.m. to 11:00 p.m. Wednesday night of all classes, will only feature Dozier and will cost $1.00. Dozier is a talented performer with a die-hard following in the area, and even if you have never heard of him before, he stands a good chance of being the one to see this semester.

There is a strong plus, although the show is in a rather small studio, of Dozier's documentaries, which contributes to its success. The Dozier theme is the one that could have happened and the one that could be happening.

They ask the audience to consider the sequence of events they present nothing more at all, and the Dozier theme is the only one that will show where they are going. The Dozier theme is the only one that will tell us where we are going.

Veteran actor Will Dozer is also in the show, playing a very much marked character. The audience for the Dozer theme is the one that could have happened and the one that could be happening.

This concert is a show that is to be enjoyed, and the Dozier theme is the one that could have happened and the one that could be happening.

The series continues to be sponsored by the WSU Student Committee, and is being produced by the WSU Student Committee. The Dozier theme is the one that could have happened and the one that could be happening.

"Executive Action" Lauded

by Bruce Spealson
Argentine Feature Writer

"Executive Action" is presently being screened at the WSU movie theater and if you haven't seen it yet, make sure you do. The film is a great one, to say the least. It tells the story of how the 1960s political scene is changing in the area, and even if you have never heard of it before, you'll find it a good show to see.

Nightline: Concern for Those Who Cry Help

by Tom Lashak
Argonaut Reporter

In its eleventh year of service to the Melbourne area, Nightline has seen the funding and staff cutbacks of recent years. It serves as a lifeline for many people who need a place to turn for help in their time of need.

The staff of Nightline has made a commitment to providing a free telephone crisis counseling service. They are available 24 hours a day, 7 days a week to anyone in the Melbourne area who needs someone to talk to.

Nightline is available to anyone in need of help, regardless of their background or situation. They offer a safe space for people to talk about their problems and work through them with the guidance of a trained counselor.

Contact Nightline at (562) 555-5555 to speak with a counselor today. They are here to help anyone in need.
Championship Chess

by Ron Diske

Late last week, capsule had the good fortune to win a magical, 17-game, 17-board game against the world's greatest chess player, Paul Keres. The game was a masterpiece of chess strategy and execution, and it served as a fitting farewell to Keres, who passed away shortly after the game was played.

The game was played over a span of 17 boards, each containing 17 squares, and was played in a single, unbroken session. The players used a variety of chess pieces, including kings, queens, and rooks, to engage in a series of intricate and complex maneuvers.

The game began with a coding error on the part of the computer, which resulted in a draw in the opening moves. However, the players quickly regained control, and the game continued with a series of tactical maneuvers and strategic moves.

The players were engaged in a series of intricate and complex moves, each trying to outmaneuver the other. The game was a testament to the skill and mastery of chess, and it served as a fitting tribute to Keres, who was widely regarded as one of the greatest chess players of all time.

The game was a fitting farewell to Keres, who passed away shortly after the game was played. The players paid tribute to Keres throughout the game, and his memory will be carried on in the annals of chess history.

Vital Vandal Statistics

Steve Wagner leads the Idaho Vandals in scoring this year, having scored 26 points through the first two games. Wagner has been a consistent scorer for the Vandals, and his ability to put points on the board has been a key factor in their success.

Wagner's scoring output has been spread across the board, with points scored in all but two games this season. The Vandals have been able to rely on Wagner's scoring ability to keep their opponents guessing, and his ability to put points on the board has been a key factor in their success.

Art Show on Display

A 75-piece mixed-media art show is now on display at the Idaho Art Gallery. The entire Boise State College and City of Boise Art Department are represented in the show.

"This is the first time Boise State has had a show representing the entire Boise State Art faculty," said art director Ray Bowers. "Before we get the fall gallery, Roberta explained, "There wasn't a faculty big enough to have this many." The show was also organized by the Art Department does not, however, run this gallery. George Wurster, an art professor, is director of the gallery.

Students get one art credit for helping to hang shows and acting as a gallery guard. "We can always use more gallery guards," Roberta added. "They need not be art majors.

The show is divided into the following segments:

- 84 pieces from the Van Horn gallery.
- 30 pieces from the Art Department.
- 8 pieces from the Art Department.
- 20 pieces from the Art Department.
- 10 pieces from the Art Department.
- 5 pieces from the Art Department.

Senate off to a Slow Start

By Steve McCoy

The ASU Senate started off with more than a whisper Tuesday right, passing only three bills and being led by a "just-getting-the-ball-rolling-up-and-down-the-hallway" attitude.

The meeting, the first of the semester, lasted less than 30 minutes and saw an astonishing passage on three measures:

- ASUI, which created a committee to study ways to improve the Legislative Information Center, was passed.
- ASUI, which added the ASU Senate to the list of Senate committees, was passed.
- ASUI, which continued the apportionment of students from the different boards of the Senate, was passed.

The meeting was held in the Senate chambers at the Capitol.
