ASSISTING VICTIMS OF THE INDIAN EARTHQUAKE

Students experience Indian cuisine and help earthquake survivors

by Leah Andrews

Students from different parts of India needed help in the aftermath of the earthquake. The Indian Student Association rallied together to help raise money for the victims. The students raised $8,000 for disasters in four days. Student members wrote in large letters on a map of India showing the center of the earthquake and afterwards that devastated their homeland, Jan. 31. The plea for help drew hungry students, faculty and community members who wanted to support the group's cause and supply Indian food. The event was a way for the students to teach their peers about India. Everyone who attended was able to contribute as much as he or she wanted.

"I am embarrassed to be a part of the university that has given (this professor) 10-year reviews with an adequate evaluation," said mathematics professor [name redacted]. "Our challenge is to come up with a plan that is not too academic, but that is adequate. We are raising funds in the event of another natural disaster. We have a primary school building," said [name redacted].

"I think it will result in a significant impact as the PTTF is being used in Asia. It is giving them something to do, to give to their country to help when they can't be physically in India. We will help the Indian students here as much as we can," said [name redacted].

The earthquake occurred on India's Republic Day and it was a party celebration held by many of the Indian students at UI of the earthquake. We had friends there, so we called everybody and made sure that we do," [name redacted] said.

Students from different parts of India needed help in the aftermath of the earthquake. The Indian Student Association rallied together to help raise money for the victims. The students raised $8,000 for disasters in four days. Student members wrote in large letters on a map of India showing the center of the earthquake and afterwards that devastated their homeland, Jan. 31. The plea for help drew hungry students, faculty and community members who wanted to support the group's cause and supply Indian food. The event was a way for the students to teach their peers about India. Everyone who attended was able to contribute as much as he or she wanted.

"I am embarrassed to be a part of the university that has given (this professor) 10-year reviews with an adequate evaluation," said mathematics professor [name redacted]. "Our challenge is to come up with a plan that is not too academic, but that is adequate. We are raising funds in the event of another natural disaster. We have a primary school building," said [name redacted].

"I think it will result in a significant impact as the PTTF is being used in Asia. It is giving them something to do, to give to their country to help when they can't be physically in India. We will help the Indian students here as much as we can," said [name redacted].

The earthquake occurred on India's Republic Day and it was a party celebration held by many of the Indian students at UI of the earthquake. We had friends there, so we called everybody and made sure that we do," [name redacted] said.

Conference and Events, SPL

Runums unfounded about possible merger

by Thysa May

Runums that Sound, Production and Lighting was voted by students and faculty to be unfounded at this time, said [name redacted], provost for student affairs. "We want to consider putting in place an organization that benefits the students and the school, but it's unlikely that if the school does not back us, we will do it," [name redacted] said.

"We are considering another possible merger, but that is subject to the board," [name redacted] said. "We are not sure what will happen, but it will not be a merger," [name redacted] said. "We do not believe that it will work."
Parking restricted due to Jazz festival

Four days and Worship: Idaho for one the 9:15 anf supervisors II 10-2 Disney It living a0 crucial of will... "The present parking lot west of the Kibbie Dome will be available for general parking and permits will not be required. A portion of the parking area in front of the Administration Building parking lot will also be available for permit parking only."

Starting Wednesday, Feb. 21, the Kibbie Dome east-end parking lot will be open dur- ing the morning for permit parking only. Parking will be closed after 5 p.m. each day and all day Saturday and Sunday. Parking area for buses will be set up near the jazz festival performances on campus. Loading zones will be on Railroad St., behind the LDI Institute at the north side of the Administration Building, at Blake Avenue at the School of Music, and in the Student Union.

"This parking area for buses will be serviced by the College of Science, School of Business, and at the Agricultural Science Building, Science Building, and on Student Union east-side and the Kibbie Dome parking lot," said the Office of Parking and Information Services at 885-4242.

Questions regarding parking and street closures should be directed to the UI Parking and Information Services at 885-4242.

Call Ben Bryam at 885-6571 to have your church in the Argonaut.
Campus Calendar

Friday 16

University West Club vs. Lewis & Clark College at Portland State University
Corbett Student Center
8:00 p.m.

Saturday 17

UW Husky Club vs. Boise State at Idaho State University
Contradictions Pub
3:00 - 6:00 p.m.

Sunday 18

UW Husky Club vs. Lewis & Clark College at Portland State University
Corbett Student Center
11:00 a.m. - 1:00 p.m.

Monday 19

President's Day Closed
No classes

Majors fair to appear annual event

Free press will encourage col-
gen students to attend any event, but the information was the biggest draw at the fair.

On the fourth floor of the Main Classroom Building, students attended the first annual Major's Fair. Representatives from more than 20 colleges and universities attended the fair to give students who were interested in career options and degrees related to specific majors.

The event was sponsored by the College of Education, the College of Arts and Humanities, and the College of Business and Economics.

This year's event has been named Career Day and is part of a larger effort to encourage students to attend the fair and to think about their career goals. In all, more than 60 stall spaces were available with representatives from departments throughout the State University system.

The date of the fair was chosen because it's a little different from other events and the students who attend the fair are likely to have made at least some career decisions already, said England.

Bill English, program coordinator for the Career Development Center in the Martin School of International Affairs, said the fair was targeted at the right audience.

The majority of students currently looking for jobs or internships at the University, he said, do not have their major or minor. The fair gave them an opportunity to speak to students in the program and explore the options at the University, he said.

England's job is to ensure students have a chance to learn about different career fields and to help them prepare for careers at the University. The fair gives students an opportunity to talk with representatives from the University's departments.

Cynthia Smith, director of the Career Development Center, said, "I think it's important that students feel supported as they make career decisions. This fair helps students make informed decisions and feel confident in their choices."
Greek majority senator not representative of student body

I magine that Sen. Larry Craig (R-ID) has suddenly retired. In the days of the senator, he would have gone on to higher office or

Editor | Leah Andrews
Phone | 885-7175
E-mail | arg@argonaut.edu
On the Web | www.argonaut.edu/opinion/index.html

Greek majority senator not representative of student body

I imagine that Sen. Larry Craig (R-ID) has suddenly retired. In the days of the senator, he would have gone on to higher office or run for Congress. But now, with Craig's resignation, the spotlight falls on the next generation of leaders in the Senate. One name that comes to mind is Sen. Ted Cruz (R-TX), who has been a vocal critic of Craig's actions and has called for the Senate to move forward with its work.

Our view

Thou shalt share mp3s

In a world where more and more people are sharing music online, it is easy to see why Senate Majority Leader Dean Smith wants to ban the practice.

Smith is concerned that music piracy is a growing problem, and he believes that the Senate should take action to protect the rights of music creators.

But is Smith's ban on music piracy the best way to solve the problem? There are other options that might be more effective in protecting the rights of music creators.

For example, the Senate could work with the music industry to develop new business models that allow artists to earn a fair living from their music.

Another option is for the Senate to support the development of new technologies that allow for legal online music sharing.

Ultimately, the Senate needs to find a solution to the music piracy problem that is fair to both music creators and music consumers. Only then can the Senate ensure that the music industry can thrive in the digital age.

Grampyas award talent, not morals

We gratefully acknowledge our Abigail in the editor's letter. Currently, the editor is working on a new article about the music industry and its impact on society.

In the meantime, we encourage you to read our previous article, "Music and Morals," which can be found on our website. We welcome your feedback and hope to continue our conversation about this important topic.

Letters policy

Argonaut welcomes your letter to the editor about current issues. However, we do not allow letters to be anonymous. Letters must include your name, school and phone number.

Letters should be no more than 300 words, typed double-spaced, with a title (if any). If you have questions, please contact us at arg@argonaut.edu.

Thank you for your support.

Editor, The Argonaut
Deep, soulful art on display in Commons

BY BRUCE MANH

Anchorage Daily News

This week is deep into the soul. It is a great job doing the cuddling process. Unfortunately, Ul-Usko has the amazing ability to pull in a sentence, capture their attention and grasp your heart.

Sponsored by the Office of Multicultural Affairs, the 15th Annual “Black Experience,” is being held from Feb. 1-10 in the Idaho Commons.

The impetus for the exhibition comes from the Office of Multicultural Affairs, PB 114, 8-4600, 9:45 a.m. to 4 p.m.

When (Ul-Uso) showed me his work, I was struck by the intensity and color. It was beautiful.

The themes of spirituality, movement, and emotion and art is brought through Ul-Uso’s media works. His paintings were being done before the last of his day. His work showcases the depth and passion of Ul-Uso, whose father was Higler and a member of the black tribe, explain his art as the manifestation of his passion and messages of tradition.

Ul-Uso’s art has been in awe of the impact and experience of the visitors. He is a student of Roosevelt High School.

I am thankful for everything the Lord and my mother have given me,” Uso said.

“My mother is basically my best friend. She is really truly talk about and share with me. I don’t think that when Ul-Uso graduates in May with a Bachelor of Science degree in graphic and interface design, he plans to head to the fine, Frandis Bay area, where his mother lives, to pursue her career. Already having received a few job offers, Ul-Uso is planning to do something "revolutionary" with Ul-Uso’s art. For the best, see the exhibition through March 25, with a formal opening on Feb. 18 in the Idaho Commons.

Behind Ul-Uso, exploring his art, which is an display at the Idaho Commons. The display is titled "Black Experience" and will be on display through March 10.

Cast saves Silverman

BY CHRIS KOHLMANN

Anchorage Daily News

"Saving Silverman" looks great in the preview, but the movie might leave some feeling disappointed. It is directed by Young and co-starring by virtue of its intense actors. Almost everyone, in fact, includes "Save Silverman" by John "Buddy" Silverman, Jack Black (J.D.), Steve Zahn (Wayne) and Daryn's girlfriend (played by Andrew Port). Wayne and Daryn are friends and they are the main characters in the movie. With this, "Save Silverman" by John Buddy Silverman, who was obsessed with the idea of a "Save Silverman." His idea was born when he was 11 years old, 18 years old, and 10 years old.

The fact that anyone could be obsessed with "Silverman" on his way, is itself, hilarious. Ul-Uso has spent most of the last year working on a pop superstar: Port does a great job, though it is clearly played for the comic effect. Vignette who does his best to follow the script. It seems the writers had a good idea for this one. In this scene, the writer had to make up for a few poor transitions in the writing script. It seems the writer had a good idea for this one. It is a simple scene, but it is not the main focus of the movie.

A clip from the movie shows a character playing a guitar and singing. The portrayal of Jack/Hotel is a good one. He does a good job, though it is clearly played for the comic effect. The script. It seems the writers had a good idea for this one. In this scene, the writer had to make up for a few poor transitions in the writing script.
Hidden campus recreation opportunities

by Gary J. Sotirovsky

Winter has fallen upon the Palouse with no sign of equaling its fall predecessor. Layers of fluff have accumulated on the roofs of students, professors and the buildings that house them. The pressure of the snow has caused several of the campus buildings to experience power outages. Someone has to tell them to use an emergency generator or a snow blower.

Out of the dozen or so buildings that house students, professors and the buildings that house them, only the one that houses the students has the power out. The other buildings have the power on. So, the students are the only ones who have to use an emergency generator or a snow blower.

One of the advantages of the snowfall is that it has caused the students to use less power. This has resulted in a decrease in the amount of electricity that needs to be generated for the winter months.

Another advantage of the snowfall is that it has caused the students to use less water. This has resulted in a decrease in the amount of water that needs to be supplied for the winter months.

One of the disadvantages of the snowfall is that it has caused the students to use less energy. This has resulted in a decrease in the amount of energy that needs to be supplied for the winter months.

On the other hand, the snowfall has caused the students to use more energy. This has resulted in an increase in the amount of energy that needs to be supplied for the winter months.

The University of Idaho recreations department has decided to use the snowfall to its advantage. They have decided to use the snowfall to create an opportunity for the students to use less energy. This has resulted in an increase in the amount of energy that needs to be supplied for the winter months.

The University of Idaho recreations department has decided to use the snowfall to its advantage. They have decided to use the snowfall to create an opportunity for the students to use less energy. This has resulted in an increase in the amount of energy that needs to be supplied for the winter months.

The University of Idaho recreations department has decided to use the snowfall to its advantage. They have decided to use the snowfall to create an opportunity for the students to use less energy. This has resulted in an increase in the amount of energy that needs to be supplied for the winter months.
Lady Vandals looking for three in a row in Big West

by Ron Haslam

This weekend, the women's basketball team will travel to California for their first two games, against Long Beach State University and Pepperdine University. The team will then return to the Big West Conference for their home games against UC Santa Barbara and UC Irvine. The Vandals are currently on an 11-game winning streak, with only two losses this season. Their next home game is on February 29th against UC Santa Barbara.

Classifieds

For Sale

Land for sale in Idaho. Great for camping, hunting, or simply enjoying the outdoors. Contact 208-555-1234 for more information.

For Rent

Four bedroom house available for rent in downtown Boise. Includes all utilities and central air conditioning. Pets accepted. Rent is $1500 per month. Contact 208-555-1234.

For Sale

Antique furniture collection for sale. Includes dining room set, living room set, and bedroom set. Contact 208-555-1234 for more information.

Miscellaneous

Be sure to check out the February Craft Show at the Center for Craftsmanship and Design on February 22-25. Featuring local artists and crafters, there will be a variety of handmade items for sale. Admission is free.

Information

The Idaho State University Women's Basketball team will be playing against the University of California, Santa Barbara on February 29th. For more information, visit www.isu.edu/wbb.

Community

The annual Spring Clean-Up event will be held on Saturday, March 1st. Volunteers are needed to help with various tasks around the community. For more information, contact 208-555-1234.

Music

Local band, The Blue Jays, will be performing at the Blue Jay's Den on February 28th. Doors open at 7pm. For more information, contact 208-555-1234.
GO VANDALS

BEAT THE BRONCOS!

20% OFF ANY VANDAL HAT IN STOCK!!
EXPIRES 2/24/01

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 17. ASUI KIBBIE DOME. 7:05PM