Teamwork needed, Warnick says

Opening and closing with quotes from the late Sen. Robert Kennedy, new ASUI President David Warnick asked the senate and the student body Tuesday night to use teamwork to solve student problems.

In his inaugural address, Warnick told the just sworn-in ASUI Senate, "Students have little power or responsibility—and dividing it weakens our positions."

Who's the boss?

Dissension in the ranks, or is it in the ASUI? Gordon Slyter, chairman of the SUB board, doesn't want newly elected ASUI President, David Warnick, controlling the SUB budget. Reporter Randy Staplus reveals why on page 3.
Senate bill creates asst. manager

A new ASUI senate assumed office Tuesday, bringing with it twelve new bills on ASUI organization and procedure, and the end of the 1974-75 senate.

Four bills died with the passing of the two-term, including provisions for the appointment of SUB board members, and several changes in rules and regulations.

One bill was passed by the old senate, concerning the status of the ASUI General Manager, SUB General Manager and the SUB board.

The bill was held back until this week chiefly to eliminate "sexist wording", according to Gregory Butts, former ASUI President and new ASUI Vice-President.

The first part of the bill creates the position of ASUI Assistant Manager, who would help the General Manager and also serve through the General Manager.

The Assistant General Manager would be responsible for the overall administration of the SUB, involving not only budget but also any other activities involving the spending of ASUI money: signing contracts, requisitions, sales and so on. He will also be responsible for the operation of the golf course.

Support for the bill was widespread through the room, but there was debate on whether the old senate should pass it or leave it for the new. New senator Bill Butts said "I, for one, want the chance to consider this bill."

Other new senators voiced agreement.

But former Vice President Rick Smith pointed out the need for expertise in considering the bill. "This is a very complicated issue, there's a lot at stake... We (members of the out-going administration) have been studying this issue for months."

In an information report to the senate, Smith and out-going president Dirk Kemphorne wrote "We hope the new administration will realize that by not accepting our decision, we will only delay the problem for another year, at the end of which time you will see the same thing we do now."

When business of the old senate was concluded, President Kemphorne swore in the new senate and officers. This was followed by voting for the President Pro-Tempore.

Four candidates were originally nominated: Kim Smith, Britt Nichols, Mark Beatty, and Bill Butts.

Beatty led the other candidates in voting but dropped out, as did Butts. Nichols emerged with the title, which is effectively that of third in rank in the ASUI, and ex-officio member of all committees.

The first eight bills faced the new senate concern reorganization of the ASUI. They were all sent to the Rules and Regulations Committee, now chaired by John Rupke.

The bills would reorganize the Communications Department, the Student Union Department, the Recreation Department, the Scholarship Department, the Golf Course Department, and the creation of a Promotions and a Cooperative Services Department.

The new senate did pass two resolutions, one commending the old administration for their work, the other supporting the reorganization of the Argonaut and Entertainment Department.

The rebudgeting allows the Argonaut and the Entertainment Committee to make use of profits they made during the year.

Idaho golf course requests funds for operating expenses

by BILL LEWIS of the Argonaut Staff

The University Golf Course is asking for an increase of $6000 for operating expenses for 1975-76 despite original projections that the course could become self sufficient by 1976.

The course is asking for $19,000 in ASUI funds for operating expenses in 75-76, according to SUB Manager Dean Vettrus. Last year the course received $13,000 from the ASUI.

Vettrus said, for operating expenses and an additional $4600 for capital outlay.

An original five year plan for golf course operations projected that $7800 would be needed for 1975-76 operations, less than half the actual request.

The five year plan also projected that the course would have a surplus of about $1000 by 1976-77.

The $13,000 given by the ASUI last year was less than the five-year plan had projected. Capital outlay appropriations, however, had increased last year's actual subsidy at about $2000 over the projection.

Vettrus said the reason for the increased request is expenses in fertilizer, utilities, fuel and salaries.

Fertilizer costs have doubled in the past year, Vettrus said, and it is that increased expense that is "knocking us out of the saddle."

Increases in the minimum wage last year also made necessary increased funds for irregular help, Vettrus said.

According to ASUI Vice-President Greg Luman, capital outlay expenditures were appropriated last year because the senate had been told that new equipment would make decreases in irregular help unnecessary.

Vettrus said that although irregular help has become more expensive because of required salary increases, it would have been more expensive without senate money appropriated for equipment.

A major capital outlay approved by the senate last year, a greens mower, made possible through creation of two new senatorial positions because of more efficient operation, Vettrus said.

To cope with increased costs, Vettrus said a 20 percent increase in charges for golf course use have been approved.

The 20 percent increase could bring in as much as $12,000, according to last year's figures, although that figure may be lower because of decreased course use that could result from the fee hike, Vettrus said.

ASUI President David Warmick, who will recommend a budget to the senate next month, said the golf course "will have to justify every penny of the subsidy," before it will be approved.

The senate will want to know "exactly why they need such a huge appropriation," according to ASUI Senator Mike Helbing.

Helbing added that some "re-evaluation" of golf course operation is needed.

The senate will also be acting on Warmick's nominations of golf course manager and golf course control committee after spring break.

Who controls SUB budget?

by RANDY STAPILUS
of the Argonaut Staff

"You cannot reverse the decision of the SUB Board, or grant salary increases to its employees," SUB Director Gordon Service said in a memo to the new ASUI President, David Warwick.

I think all departments are directly responsible to the president, including the SUB," Warwick said after receiving the note.

Present ASUI regulations state the SUB Board Director — Slyter — "shall be responsible to the president for the proper administration of this department."

Regulations continue to say that the director's policies are subject to review by the ASUI president and senate.

However, Slyter wrote in his letter that SUB department bylaws say the SUB Board will have "final approval of the budget of the Student Union."

He said the board is "closely aware" of the SUB's operation, and the financing of the board "cannot reflect yearly politics, but ... objective consideration."

This is provided by the appointed SUB Board.

He wrote that the ASUI president and Senate keep their authority over the board by "the selection and appointment process, not by budgetary control."

The issue triggering this exchange was a proposed raise for SUB Manager Dean Vettrus and other SUB employees.

Warnick had apparently opposed the raise, calling for freezes. Although the administration would pay for the raise until July, and retroactive through January, the ASUI would be obligated after that.

Under the new ASUI Constitution, "the senate shall approve the budgets of all other bodies." The new Constitution is expected to be approved by the regents at their April meeting here.

Benefit sale helps boost Sobotta fund

A benefit art sale to help pay the hospital bills of Terrill Sobotta of Frisco has raised $218. Sobotta was seriously injured in a toboggan accident last month.

According to Emergency Medical Fund secretary, Laurie Simos, "The sale was really good." She stated the amount of the faculty and members and many students contributed to the fund.

Simos estimates over $300 has been raised for Sobotta thus far in all projects.

More on dogs
Canines aren’t noticed

To the editor:
This is in response to the many letters published in the Argonaut recently concerning dogs on campus. Since almost all the letters were negative on the idea, and the reasons given were for the most part, intended to reflect the obvious opinion of all the students, I am forced to speak for myself.

My first opinion is that most of the students here could care less if the dogs are allowed on campus or not. They have more important things to think about. So they will never really take a stand on the issue.

I was taken aback until I read a lot of ridiculous accusations which one person attempted to get a cheap laugh for the author. We should all back and accept all these “facts” as the truth? Do you suppose the out-of-town subscribers to the Argonaut are getting a truthful view of the situation?

How many students have actually been interrupted by dogs barking outside their classroom? I have been here for four years and I have never been subjected to it. I’ve seen maybe two dogs in this time, and near enough to anyone to endanger them.

And about dogs: I like to take pride in at least knowing where my feet are at. If you’re so undisturbed as to actually step in a pile, you deserve it.

Dogs expected to check into a motel if they feel like getting it on? I think we are mature enough to accept the fact that when a dog gets the hots, he’ll take what finds where he finds it. You don’t have to stand around and sell tickets, though. It’s a natural act, don’t let it bother you.

How about the reports of vigilante bands of vicious hounds stealing lunches, tripping, biting, chasing, evencornering people? Who were the victims? And why haven’t they spoken up?

And Mr. Yake, am I supposed to believe that one can choke a tree to death by tying a dog to it for an hour?

I am concerned, as most of us should be, about dogs being put to sleep in May because they were endured by a thoughtless owner. But does that really enter into this particular argument?

I do dogs. Do they deserve the contempt a lot of people wish to give them? We have the option to see a lot of beautiful breeds of dogs, and there are some very well behaved, well trained poodles on campus. I enjoy taking a break between classes and watching dogs playing on the UCC plaza. I think I’d miss them if they were booted off the campus.

What this whole dog thing boils down to is a few people venting their frustrations on what they believe to be an important issue. But don’t you owe it to the off-campus subscribers to represent a situation?

And I think the truth is that most U of I students never notice the dogs.

Facts, Dan, we want facts

To the editor:
Concerning “Dan Yake’s major objections to dogs on campus (some made with facetious intent, I’m sure, but it is difficult to distinguish between as all charges have been vastly exaggerated),”
1. Loud, obnoxious barking: two dogs;
2. Canine larceny: one dog;
3. “Lusty serenades” offening the eye;
4. Saplings killed by leashed dogs;
5. “Miles and miles of puppy poop-oo.”

No Dan, you are not so sensitive as to allow barking to distract you from your fascinating classroom lectures. And you were the last time anyone had their lunch stolen by a dog (more like a student dog). If lusty serenades offend you, don’t look! How many saplings have actually been killed (facts, Dan, we want facts)? And finally we get to the major gist of the article, miles of doggy piles. I personally have covered miles and miles of campus grounds this spring, and have yet to step in any dog shit (puppy poop-oo, if you prefer.)

The potential is there, certainly, but if one exerts a reasonable amount of caution one can hope to limit his/her encounters with dog shit to a maximum of one or two for the rest of spring. Is this grounds for eradicating the U of I pet population?

In my humble opinion, you’re exasperating, Dan. Do you intend to say in your last paragraph that a happy dog/pet relationship is impossible, that one must be a member of the establishment with a house and a yard before one should have a dog? Surely you jest, the facts (which one sees everyday) do not support you.

The dogs on this campus are happy, and the students seem to enjoy them, whether the dogs are their own or not.

Old ASUI Senate fades away

Last Tuesday night a senate passed away — one of the finest ASUI Senates, on the whole, in years. There were no fights, no bickering and other assorted inexcusable problems, but those are inexcusable in any kind of governing body.

The senate overcame such difficulties to take leadership position on issues such as the $5 fee increase, for both the new stadium and the commons; election reform; making the $8 athletic fee optional; funding the golf course and, of course, crucial changes in and total submission of the new ASUI constitution.

The senate, no one else, worked out the ins and outs of the stadium question. When they did finally approve the fee increase, the administration had to make important compromises to the students — including choosing the building manager ourselves, having a large say in the design of the stadium and having our own student policy board for the administration of the faculty.

Dogs aid green grass

To the editor:
In relation to the “Miles of doggy piles” article by Dan Yake, it seems evident that the dogs on this campus have more common sense than our friend Mr. Yake.

The dogs seem to realize the fact that the grass on campus is to be respected and cared for, and therefore, “deposited” so to speak. Not to be walked on and trampled on, we thought the dogs and their well placed defecation.

Art Rover says “thank you!”

Old ASUI Senate fades away

Last Tuesday night a senate passed away — one of the finest ASUI Senates, on the whole, in years. There were no fights, no bickering and other assorted inexcusable problems, but those are inexcusable in any kind of governing body.

The senate overcame such difficulties to take leadership position on issues such as the $5 fee increase, for both the new stadium and the commons; election reform; making the $8 athletic fee optional; funding the golf course and, of course, crucial changes in and total submission of the new ASUI constitution.

The senate, no one else, worked out the ins and outs of the stadium question. When they did finally approve the fee increase, the administration had to make important compromises to the students — including choosing the building manager ourselves, having a large say in the design of the stadium and having our own student policy board for the administration of the faculty.

The senate proved its ability to back up its recommendations when the approved beverage container policies for the stadium and elsewhere. It did not stick obstinately to a decision that would obviously be appealable to the administration; rather, it worked with them to arrive at something both felt they could live with.

The senate was not without its flaws. One mistake, I feel, was the large scale funding of the golf course at the expense of other projects touching more students. The senate erred in some of its appropriations, as all senates before.

Following Parkinson’s Law, it spent far too much too often in trivial issues, like all senates before it. The classic example was the reimbursement of less than $50 to a person owed money as a result of personal spending for Blue Mountain Skiing fees — nearly 90 days after the two-month period — was spent on a request for $57.

But its solid achievements far outweighed these. Last year’s senate was not afraid to talk back to the administration if it was either university or ASUI, and frequently had scouring experience to recommend it.

More than one senator has said over the past year, “If I did nothing else, I’d be glad just to leave the students with the new constitution.” This is probably their greatest work — a document that eats up a viable, functional ASUI like no other before.

The ASUI now truly is a reflection of national government, a true check-and-balance team. No longer will overbearing senators (or presidents) be able to completely dominate the other branch. The president now has a true administration. At last we have a workable judiciary system.

More candidates ran for the senate this year than in any year in recent history. Any one of these was something to do with the fact that the outgoing senate was one of the best in history.

The new senate looks even more promising than the last one did. I hope it will fulfill that potential.
Corpsmen must adjust

This is the sixth article of a series dealing with the experiences of Peace Corps volunteers in the Philippines.

Living in a foreign culture affects Peace Corps volunteers in many different ways, but their reactions seem to fall into certain categories. Most volunteers get depressed or disillusioned, are frustrated at their jobs and may become antagonistic towards Philippines.

These feelings cause the volunteer to try and temporarily escape their problems by reading, drinking, traveling or getting stoned. They may also get compulsive habits like smoking or taking drugs (like I did) to try and compensate for what is lacking in their environment. Plus, each volunteer has to find his own answer to the problem of sex.

After a while the volunteer will usually make some sort of personal adjustment that allows him to be reasonably happy. Some volunteers, however, never did adjust themselves and these problems plagued them for two years or made a few leave early.

As I feel my reactions are pretty typical, I will give a few instances to let you feel what culture shock is like. These excerpts are grouped by topics and won't follow a date sequence.

9/27/71 "In education you see much more of the thing you are trying to build; just glimpses it when the sun sets the clouds for a minute. But it's generally cloudy every day and you retreat to the room, to the escape that sleep brings, passing you from the clouds of today to tomorrow's morning light. And the enthusiasm drains from your veins and you feel holding that piece of chalk. It gets so heavy like the eyelids of your students (most girls 16-19 years old). This is some game we are playing; they think of it as checkers, you think of it as chess."

What's the use? Might as well sit down, give one of them the book, and let her write the facts on the board for the rest to copy — that's what the last science teacher did. The same thing happened as the few answer the questions, the same few don't sleep. The rest is dreaming of seeing "Love Story" or humming some "Beetle" song to themselves."

How can you break them from their lethargy? Most of them can't; they're too busy dreaming about love.

So you pass most of them — a few A's, a few F's — the important thing is that they attended some class with the name "Earth Science" for four months. And a midterm and a final were given and grades were turned in. That's all that matters in the head of my school."

I guess my job satisfaction was about average for my Peace Corps group (89). But it surely wasn't the way the Peace Corps books write it. I don't feel bitter — well, maybe some. I just would have liked to see some changes or progress somewhere.

3/17/71 "Sometimes the whole scene here is like a dream. I especially feel it when I get drunk and have to take a piss. I start pissing and then I get the feeling that I am asleep and pissing in my bed. And that I am going to wake up from this Philippine dream and be in the States. Full length, color dreams with Philippinoes and church bells. I am almost afraid to piss sometimes thinking that it might actually happen."

3/11/71 "What blows my mind is that I am really in the Peace Corps, especially when I read a book or look at pictures about the Peace Corps. It's still something that I read about and can hardly connect to what I am doing. It seems the pictures and stories are all about the Peace Corps, but what I am doing is something different."

More instances of culture shock will be given in the next article. When you read these excerpts, keep in mind that you are reading about negative feeling and they only represent part of the Peace Corps experience.

Collective bargaining investigated

The general faculty directed the faculty council yesterday to investigate the effects of collective bargaining on the University community.

The directive came in a motion passed by the faculty in a special meeting to discuss collective bargaining. The motion essentially reads that "the faculty council will set up an ad-hoc committee to investigate possible means of implementing collective bargaining, its effects on the faculty and the University community and also the effect on the Board of Regents, the legislature and the general public."

The motion passed with little discussion by the majority and even less opposition. Much of the discussion was not on the motion but on collective bargaining in general. Most of the discussion completed much of the proposed committee's work.

Local representatives of the American Federation of Teachers and the American Association of University Professors discussed costs, possible pitfalls, popular misconceptions and scattered facts about collective bargaining.

The faculty council will act on the motion at its next meeting the last Tuesday of April. It has taken last Tuesday the council approved a change to the University Handbook regarding student judicial actions.

The handbook will now read: "The University judicial council shall have appellate jurisdiction over decisions of living group disciplinary bodies."

The change would use the words "and decisions of the ASUI judicial council."

The ASUI judicial council is proposed in the newly ratified ASUI Constitution. The constitution must still be approved by President Hartung and the Board of Regents.

The proposed judicial council will have jurisdiction over constitutional questions and be an appellate body for the ASUI.

Outdoor programs offers skis

The Outdoor Programs office has many pairs of skis remaining for rental over spring break, according to Jim Rennie, director.

"All our other equipment is rented out," said Rennie, but for some reason the skis haven't gone, and there still is plenty of fine touring left.

Outdoor programs will remain open today until 5 p.m. It will be closed for Spring Break, and reopen Monday March 24.
By JOHN HAWLEY of the Argonaut staff

Due to some late mailing for information, the Argonaut ski supplement will not be as extensive as planned, but we'll do our best to include all ski areas.

GRAND TRAQUIHE

Although accommodations are booked solid for Spring Break at Grand Targhee, there are still places available at the nearby town of Driggs, Idaho.

The area manager called long distance to inform the Argonaut Spring skiing will be the best in years. With a 100 inch base at the bottom of the hill and eight inches of light dry powder so far this week, skiing should be dynamite.

There is a restaurant and a bar near the ski area which provides entertainment. A special student rate will be in effect, students will pay only $6.50 a day for lift tickets rather than the regular $7.50.

Located in the heart of the Teton Range, Targhee has an almost endless variety of runs ranging from beginner to expert and constantly boasts some of the best powder in the West. The area usually stays open well into April and sometimes into May because of its elevation.

BRIDGER BOWL, MONTANA

Located sixteen miles north of Bozeman, Montana is Bridger Bowl. It has three double chairlifts which are over a mile long, and two lifts to relax in during the day.

Accommodations are available in Bozeman at any of 11 motels and there are plenty of places to entertain the skier when the sun goes down.

The mountain has 11 trails, eight of which are rated most difficult, but there are plenty of intermediate and easier courses available. Lift tickets run $6.50 full day and $5 half day.

With a snow fall of over 400 inches a year, Bridger has outstanding dry powder as well as packed runs.

SOLDIER MOUNTAIN

This year Soldier Mountain added 14 new runs, five of which will never be packed to permit powder skiing. This area is located between Mountain Home and Sun Valley, Idaho. It is about 52 miles from Sun Valley and some overnight accommodations are available in nearby Fairfield and Gooding.

The area has two double chairlifts, a T-Bar and lodge for relaxation. Ticket prices are $5.50 full day and $5.00 for a half day.

Most runs are at a northern exposure which means more and better skiing for the powder skier. Several runs are left un-packed to allow moguls to develop and are very challenging. The longest run on the mountain is two miles in length.

The area rarely has long lift lines and the ski season usually extends into late April.

NORTH SOUTH

For those who will be in the Moscow area for Spring Break, North-South Ski Bowl is fine for a quick day trip.

Although the hill is short and relatively easy to ski, it usually has plenty of sun and fair snow conditions. Lift tickets are only $3.75 for a weekend full day, and $2.50 for a half day. North-South is one of the few areas around to offer night skiing and stays open until 10:00 p.m.

The area is only 40 miles north of Moscow and the roads are good the entire way. There is a lodge and food available, but no other accommodations.

BOGUS BASIN

Just 16 miles from Boise at the top of the mountain lies Bogus Basin. From Thanksgiv- ing to April skiers enjoy great skiing conditions during the season.

There are runs for every ability, gentle, tree-lined trails, and open slopes and 1,500 foot vertical competition downhill over a mile and a half long. Ten feet of snow falls annually at Bogus and is groomed by cats.

There are two lodges which provide good food and one lodge has a bar which sells beer and wine. With two mountains and 30 runs any skier can work up a thirst for a cold one, which is always nice to have on the slopes. An all day lift pass will run $7.50, but there are enough runs and challenges for a skier to get his money's worth. Full day passes are $5.00 and night passes run an extra dollar.

Accommodations are easy to come by in Boise, where there are countless motels and hotels. If you prefer a package deal they are available through the Downtown Ramada Inn in Boise.

SUN VALLEY

One of the most famous ski areas in the world, Sun Valley, Idaho, is famous for pleasing all types of skiers.

A description shouldn’t be necessary to those from Idaho, but besides some of the world’s best skiing, dining, and nightlife. Sun Valley has three ice skating rinks, one of which is in doors and heated, transportation for the exotics who can afford to break virgin snow on remote hillsides.

The chairlifts are among the most efficient running anywhere and the slopes are the best in the West if not the country. This week there is still 100 inches of snow at the top and skiing is good. Last weekend they received 4 inches of light snow, but it has been skied off.

Prices are outrageous for the average student, but low rate accommodations can be found in nearby towns like Hailey and Ketchum.

SCHWEITZER BASIN

Located near Sandpoint, Schweitzer boasts seven double chairlifts, and four T-bars, plus service week-end and holidays.

Schweitzer provides a ski school and baby-sitting service, and day and overnight lodgings.

The run has considerable snow depth - 153 at the top of the mountain. The lift toward the bottom, at the lodge.

Prices for lift are $7 for weekdays, $9 for weekends and holidays, with half day tickets respectively.

From the pickle barrel grocery to the market basket of our day

The General Store with its pickle barrel was the early-cay family shopping center. As communities grew to towns, and towns turned into cities, there was increased demand for the conveniences that made life easier.

It took a lot of energy to meet this normal growth. All of a sudden the supply barely meets the demand.

Our job is to somehow provide the energy needed to continue normal, healthy growth. With the understanding and cooperation of the public we believe it can be accomplished.

Vandal bunch plays at Banana Belt

After missing two doubleheaders last week the Vandal will join the annual Banana Belt Tournament at the proverbial twin cities—Leavenworth and Clarkston, this weekend, (March 14-16).

Bad weather and rain dampened coach John Smith's efforts to initiate the Vandal baseball season as they battled to a six inning scoreless tie against Whitworth in the only game they were able to play. Idaho will enter the tournament this weekend with only six innings played.

The eight squads entered include Oregon State, Boise State, Washington State, Puget Sound, Western Washington, Gonzaga, Lewis and Clark and Idaho. Games will be played on three fields, Bengal and Harris in Lewiston and Adams in Clarkston.

The Vandal will open the classic with Puget Sound on Bengal field at 9:30 a.m. today.

Idaho will find the first round with a 12:30 engagement on Adams Field against Gonzaga's Bulldogs.

Saturday the Vandal again be the first ones on the field as they take on Western Washington State at 9:30 and then battle host Lewis and Clark State at 12:30. Both games are slated for Harris Field.

Sunday will be a rough day for Idaho when it faces two big rivals, Boise State and Washington State. The Vandal will tangle with the Broncos at 12:30 p.m. at Adams Field, and at 3:30, Bengal Field will be the site of the battle with the Cougars.

The champion of the event is decided by the best win-loss record, but if a tie occurs, a special tiebreaker system will be put into effect. Idaho has never won the event although they have finished in a tie for the best record.

Idaho's coach Smith is pleased with the squad's progress but is disappointed with the lack of consistent hitting. He said hitting will improve when the team has the opportunity to hit against live pitching.

Sports Briefs

The ATO 1 team overcame a five point deficit in the fourth quarter to defeat Upham Hall 1 by a score of 32 to 23, to win the Intramural B-Basketball Championship Wednesday night. Upham led 15 to 10 at the half, in the hard-fought game. The ATO's balanced scoring attack was led by Craig Burkhardt with 8 points, followed by Larry Wickham and Zane Blegen with 6 points each. Other team members were Brian Kastler, Ed Thomas, Terry Houseknecht, and Dan Dinning.

Hot-shooting Johnny Sims led Upham with 11 points.

In the consolation game, Delta Tau Delta 2 downed Fiji 2 by 28 to 20, to grab third place.

Highlighting the 1975 Vandal Booster Basketball Banquet was a special award given to Henry Harris—the "Crowd Pleaser Award."

When "Highballer" Harris received the special honor, the crowd gave him a tremendous applause and standing ovation. Harris then gave a short "thank you" speech and wished the team the best of luck in the future.

Harris, who thrilled the crowd with his long high arching shots this year, was the second leading scorer in the conference for the season.

The entire outfit is new, but the Vandal mentor feels it is "stronger in last year and probably the best since I've been at Idaho." This year marks the completion of one decade of coaching work by Smith.

The veteran coach said he was pleased with the first outing by righthanders Steve Williams and Tim Kampe. Only two hits were contributed from Williams' five inning debut last week and Kampe pitched the last frame before rain stopped the game.

Bubble bouncers winding up season

As the women's intramural basketball program nears its finish this week. Off Campus 2 has clinched the playoff spot for League 1 while Pi Beta Phi has a commanding lead with one game left to play in League 2. Both teams are undefeated; Off Campus 2 holds a 7-0 record and Pi Beta Phi stands at 6-0.

Four games remain to be played after Spring Break on Tuesday, March 25. At 6:30 Tuesday night. Tri-Delt plays Kappa Kappa Gamma and Pi Beta Phi plays Hays Hall, French Hall vs. Law Students and Off Campus 1 vs. Campbell Hall happen at 7:30. The championship games will be played Thursday, March 27 in the WHEB starting at 6:30.

PUT IT ALL TOGETHER IN AIR FORCE ROTC
The world renowned Murray Louis Dance Company will be in residence at the University of Idaho Thursday through Saturday, March 27-29. The company has performed in Europe, Africa and Central America, with recent engagements in Tunisia and Yugoslavia sponsored by the U.S. State Department.

The agenda includes a concert at 8 p.m. Saturday, March 29, in the Performing Arts Center (PAC) with $2 admission for non-students and $1 for students; a free lecture-demonstration at the PAC at 8 p.m. Friday, March 28; and master classes during the three days with a fee of $2 per day. The shows will perform three very colorful dances at the concert. The company also tours with its own light board, additional lights and other technical paraphernalia for the production.

The first dance, "Proximities," will be a tribute to Brahms' "Serenade in A." The second number, "Personae," was premiered at the Civic Theatre in Chicago Jan. 5, 1971, and was well received. "Hoopla," the last dance, uses the traditional music performed by the "Los Canarios" (members of the Lisbon State Police Band) and other selected sounds. "Hoopla" is described by "The New York Times" as "Mr. Louis' most hilarious dance."

The residency is sponsored by the Idaho Commission on Arts and Humanities, the National Endowment for the Arts, and the University of Idaho and will be held in conjunction with the Northwest dance symposium at the U of I. Approximately 100 students from the four states of Idaho, Washington, Oregon and Montana will be represented at the symposium.

Other dancers in the group include Michael Ballard, who danced with the Nikolais Dance Theatre on tour; Richard Hlavacs, who danced the with the Nancy Hays Dance Company of Minneapolis five years before joining Murray Louis; Helen Kellerman, who danced with the Murray Louis Dance Company in 1970; Anne McLeod, who toured with the Louis Nielson Dance Theatre Lab before joining the company; Robert Small, who toured with the group in 1971; and Marcia Wardell, who has performed her own choreographic work in the "Space" in New York City.

What's happening

Charles Reith

The big thing happening this weekend is students traveling the highways throughout the United States and Canada during the nine day spring break.

As for Moscow, the usual movies and nightclub entertainment keeps on truckin' throughout the vacation period.

Ending at the Micro-moviehouse tonight is Andy Warhol's "Frankenstein." For those who like blood and guts, this gory epic should provide a great taste of something among its fans.

Starting Saturday and running through till Monday is Frederico Fellini's classic "La Strada." This 1954 black and white movie stars Anthony Quinn and Giulietta Masina in a traveling circus and their escapades concerning the particular events during their travels. Admission to the 7:30 and 9:45 showings are $1.50. All others are $1.00.

At the Moscow City Hall, the wildlife story "Perri" will be presented tonight at 7:30. This Walt Disney feature presents a true life fantasy of the lives of two squirrels. Admission is free.

The Kenworth presents Mel Brook's hilarious re-creation of the classic horror story of Frankenstein. The new "Young Frankenstein" stars Peter Boyle and Gene Wilder and showings are at 7 and 9 p.m.

At the Nu-Art the highly praised musical "Cabaret" starring Liza Minnelli and Joel Grey is currently showing at 7 and 9:10 p.m. daily. In Pullman the blockbuster movie "The Towering Inferno" is now showing. This motion picture stars Steve McQueen and Paul Newman in a high rise structure engulfed in flames. One showing nightly at 7:30.

At the Aududen movie the "Wixer Family and The Goldsilver Twins" is currently being shown. This film is an improbable story about a would be country singer (Sally Kellerman), a foul mouthed 15 year old (Michael Phillips) and a bourbon swilling ex-marine career man (Alan Arkin).

As for music, the Rathskeller Inn is featuring Jim Brady and his Sonics from Seattle playing fancy rock 'n' roll while local country rock artist Hal Olsen is playing at the Eagles Capricom. Otherwise try to make your own kind of music during the spring vacation. Happy Holidays!
Events

Governor's Summer Intern Program

The Governor's Summer Intern Program will be held in Boise this year from June 9 to August 11, 1975. This program is open to all college students who are Idaho residents, and affords them the opportunity to work with various projects in executive branch agencies. Twelve interns will be chosen for each program and will be individually placed in an agency for project work. The interns will complete 40-hour weeks, with weekly internship meetings. Compensation is at $2.00 per hour, or $580 for the summer.

Credits for the internship should be individually obtained through the student's academic advisor and institution, but may also be obtained through Dr. Syd Duncombe, U of I; Dr. John Eyre or Dr. Richard Foster, ISU, or Dr. Bill Mech, BSU.

Selection will be based on written resumes, recommendations, and other information the student wishes to enclose, with attention given to grade-point averages, activities, and the student's reasons for wishing to join the program.

Applicants are requested to enumerate 3 specific internships, in order of preference, from the following list that they wish to be considered for. This list includes the agencies offering positions, the number available, and any special subject matter involved. Further information may be obtained through the professors listed above or the Dept. of Administration. Students should be informed of their selection and placement by April 30, 1975.

Resumes must be submitted by April 18 to the Department of Administration, 145 Len B. Jordan Building, Boise, Idaho 83702. att: Diane Plastino

Stadium manager position open

The search for a manager of the new Idaho Stadium has begun, according to the Stadium Board.

An advertisement for the position was approved by Alternative Action, an anti-discrimination agency affiliated with the government.

The ad describes the position as that of manager of an "enclosed multi-purpose stadium on the University campus." Applications will close at April 15, and the position begins July 1.

The board is continuing to finalize the job description which will be sent to applicants for the positions.

In other board action, a resolution was passed asking the architect to consider certain features for installation, such as a trainer's room, a manager's room, a safe for the manager's room and storage facilities for bleachers.

The board did not ask for special ticket facilities, which they had previously considered.

Aspin says he's wrong, Zumwalt doesn't owe

WASHINGTON AP

Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., says he was wrong and Adm. Elmo Zumwalt, doesn't owe the University of Idaho student fund any money.

Aspin and Zumwalt appeared jointly before the Borah Symposium in Moscow, Idaho, Jan. 30, and Aspin asserted that 20 or 21 of the 24 Democrats on the House Armed Services Committee are admirals or generals in the reserve.

Zumwalt disputed this and declared that he would give the student fund $500 if Aspin could name 15 or more who are admirals or generals in the reserve. He said he would donate $300 if Aspin could name 10 or more and $100 if Aspin could name five or more. Aspin, a frequent critic of the military establishment, said he would check it out.

When no further word was forthcoming after more than a month, Aspin was contacted by a lawyer in Washington Tuesday and said there were 16 reservists on the committee, but no admirals or generals.

"I'd said reserve full colonels or captains, I'd been right," Aspin said.

Summer work gives academic credit

Looking for a summer job with academic credit? There might be one for you.

Idaho Governor Cecil Andrus sponsors each year 12 internships within the administration of the State. The program is open to all college students who are Idaho residents, and it affords them an opportunity to see how state government really works.

The program is two months long, beginning June 9 and running until August 6. Compensation is $2 an hour, or $590 for the summer.

Credit is arranged through the student's school. At the U of I the advisor is Sydney Duncombe, chairman of political science department. The method varies, but credits can be arranged for either during the summer, or for next fall.

There is no application form necessary, but selection will be based on written resumes, recommendations, and other information the student wishes to enclose. Attention will be given to grade-point averages, activities, and the student's reasons for wishing to join the program.

Applicants may apply for up to three different internships, in order of preference. Deadline for application is April 18, and the final decision and placement will be made by April 30.

For further information contact Duncombe in the Political Science department. Applications should be sent to Ms. Diana Plastino, Department of Administration, 145 Len B. Jordan Building, Boise, Idaho 83702.

The departments that have openings are: Attorney General, the Bicentennial Commission; Education; Employment (data processing), accounting, writing personnel and training material, economics; Health and Welfare (budgeting, legal aide); the Historical Society (library, museum); Industrial Commission (workers' compensation law); Insurance; and Labor and Industrial Services;

Lands (administration and finance, forest inventory, research); the Lieutenant Governor's Office; Legislative Fiscal Office; Parks and Recreation (recreational and range planning, landscaping);

Vocational Rehabilitation (casework); Revenue and Taxation (inheritance tax - must be in advance accounting, circuit breaker tax); the Secretary of State's office (writing biographies, government information for the "Idaho Blue Book"); Sunshine Law research - must be an advance law student;

Transportation (writing administrative brochures, real property analysis, environmental impact information, personnel projects); and the State Library.
