ASU thanks legislature
Petition seeks better student relations with state legislature

ASU officials and leaders at other state universities are circulating a damage-control petition after Boise State University disrupted the Idaho republic two weeks ago.

The petition thanks Idaho legislators for their "leadership in higher education," and expresses student's "gratitude and deepest respect" for the legislature's work in higher education, "This action is a testament to the fact that we have a really good working relationship with the legislature. It is our hope that this action will continue to thrive."

Boise State and Idaho State University students are also gathering signatures on the petition.

A number of ASU students, including members of the BSU students, were arrested for dumping confetti and string and running onto the field during the Idaho game Saturday...\n
ASU students have found the low salaries they're offered for working in state farms, and the fact that they don't get paid for working in the state farms, is something that affects students in a big way. They're not able to make ends meet. They're not able to pay for their tuition. They're not able to pay for their rent. They're not able to pay for their books.

This is a really big problem for students. It's really hard for students to get through school if they don't have enough money to pay for their tuition. And it's really hard for students to get through school if they don't have enough money to pay for their rent. Mardi Gras has violent history, 2001 celebration no exception

By Ed Timme and Carolyn Hart

DALLAS — It's not a big secret when a lot of people gather and start drinking, troubles can emerge.

Add to that the tradition of Mardi Gras, historically one of the biggest law enforcement events in the year. Still, for the Mardi Gras festivities this weekend, police and emergency personnel are on high alert to keep the revelers safe.

This year, the weather forecast is calling for rain, which adds another layer to the problem. Even a light drizzle can cause slick streets and make it more difficult for emergency personnel to get to the scene of an accident.

In New Orleans, a bar owner, one of the busiest in the French Quarter, said he expects a lighter crowd than usual.

"We're trying to keep things simple," he said. "We're not trying to create a scene. We're just trying to have a good time.

"We're just trying to keep things simple. We're not trying to create a scene. We're just trying to have a good time."
It's a simple calculation:

The air is crisp, the night is young, the line is long and the man in front of you will drop their pants for the chance to see beads. Also, the women of the night and their publicly accessible bosoms can soon be seen on their knees, knocking or using their bodies to try and get your attention. A group of four or five girls, five or six more guys get the whole orchestra going. What is the meaning of Mardi Gras? How does it fit into the advertising industry? That's how it began in New Orleans, originating in the southern states of the United States and spreading, via the Mississippi River, across the country. It is now celebrated in various forms in several countries around the world.

We, an all-female group, celebrated the religious holiday Good Friday, and on Saturday, the traditional bead of beads, beads and hidden human anatomy.

Basically, Morden Gras was a disguise to mankind. It was defended the purpose of the real event. It was ten crowded; it was worthless to wear past five, until you will be a sinner. The beads are not to be used as a means of attraction. You can't have Morden Gras without past garb.

You would think that to sponsor such an event, as a group of groups, it would be aexpand to what occurred. We are致力于 the experience of any group that is not part of the story. We, an all-female group, celebrated the religious holiday Good Friday, and on Saturday, the traditional bead of beads, beads and hidden human anatomy.

A taste of Argentine music comes to UI

THERE'S Music AND Events

by Christy VIETMIE

The music of Argentine composer Mauro Pujol is, no doubt, engaging to find its way to campus with the UI World Music Festival this weekend. Pujol is the director of the music program and director of the University of Texas Music Department, where he teaches in the School of Music and has been a music professor and has been at the University of Texas since 1975. Pujol's music is full of energy and has a unique style that is both traditional and modern.

Guido Pujol's music is a taste of Argentine culture and is a sight to be seen. The music is rich in cultural history and is a reflection of the people and the land. The music is a reflection of the past and the present and is a reminder of the rich history of Argentina.

The music of Pujol is a reflection of the history and culture of Argentina. The music is a reflection of the people and the land. The music is a reflection of the past and the present and is a reminder of the rich history of Argentina.

Vandal wins final regular season game

The second time through the mandated COVID-19 protocols became a drastic change in some ways. The previously COVID-proof basketball teams followed up their wins with performances that topped off one of its best to top Cal State-Fullerton 79-65.

"This was a great team effort," head coach Ernie Kent said. "I'm proud of our guys."

"Our post players did a great job down low," Kent added. "They stepped up and did what we needed them to do."

Vandal’s front court played key roles in the game, according to Kent. They controlled the rebounds, playing to an 11-8 advantage in total rebounds. The Vandals took their 1st win against a Big West team in 6 games this year.

"We’re obviously going on a two-game hot streak," Kent said. "We’re starting to find our rhythm, and we’re starting to play with more energy and intensity.

The game started off strong with both teams scoring impressive points. The Vandals led by 7 points in the first half, but Fullerton fought back in the second half to tie the game. The game was then sent to overtime, where the Vandals maintained their lead and took the win with a final score of 79-65.

The University of Idaho kicks off the 2021 football season Aug. 20 when it takes on Washington State University in the Battle of the Palouse.

The game will be carried live on Fox Sports West, with kickoff at 7 p.m.

This is a great way for us to kick off the 2021 football season," Idaho coach Lui Tende said. "Not only is it a great rivalry game to play, but it also gives our players a chance to showcase their skills on the national stage."

Idaho online fans can see the game live on the Idaho football team’s YouTube channel. The game will also be played on the Idaho football team’s official Facebook page.

2001 Vandal football schedule announced

The University of Idaho football schedule for the upcoming season 2001 was announced on August 20, 2000.

The season kicks off with a home game against Montana State University on Saturday, August 25. The following week, the Vandals travel to Missoula, Montana, to take on the University of Montana.

The home schedule includes games against Boise State, Oregon State, and Washington State. The road schedule features games against Colorado, Utah State, and New Mexico.

The season concludes with a home game against Idaho on November 8. The game will be played at the Kibbie Dome in Moscow, Idaho.

The 2001 Vandal football schedule is part of a successful recruiting effort by the Idaho football program. The program has signed several top recruits over the past few seasons, including quarterback Jared Veldman, running back Jon Fontes, and defensive tackle Jon Eads.

Vandal golf deserts the Inland competition

The University of Idaho women’s golf team opened the season with a strong showing at the ESPN Great Lakes Invitational. The team finished in 16th place after the first round, but improved to 14th place after the second round.

Coach Brad Nickel was happy with the team’s performance, saying, "The girls played well today. There were a few bogeys here and there, but overall they played really well."

The team finished 36 holes with a score of 989. Individually, junior Elyse Kwan finished 30th with a 229, while senior Rachel DeForest tied for 34th with a 230.

Next up, the Vandals will compete at the Women’s NCAA West Regional Championship in March.
