Godwin extends administrative leave

Schneider, Chin both out at least for another 30 days

By Dane Jew Brown

The two Student Health employees placed on administrative leave in December received another 30 days to the end of their suspension and remain in that status until late Dec. 11. The initial period was issued after an accident involving Schneider and a student.

Both received another letter, dated Jan. 4, informing them that the leave continues until late Dec. 11.

The letters came from Vice President for Student Affairs Hal Godwin and both contained the same information. She said the letter maintained a similar tone to the first letter, stating that the leave is not disciplinary. Schneider and Chin both said they are on sabbatical leave and have permission to model. The leaves are not related.

Godwin said he would not comment on the issue, saying he could not comment on matters of university personnel.

Back to the Grind

Campus reacts to attacks

9-11 tops year's best stories

By Anna Smith

After the Sept. 11 attacks, the University of Idaho and the City of Moscow sponsored a community-wide vigil in East Park. AMUI launched a blue ribbon campaign that raised more than $500 for the American Red Cross.

A few months earlier, a local Idaho County public employee had her van set on fire.

Budget cuts

President Bob Hoover announced a budget cut of $4.4 million from the university's $354.6 million budget for 2001-2002, a 1.3 percent decrease in spending as much as 12 percent this year and the following year, and staff reductions over the next two years.

The out in in response to a headline in the Idaho Statesman regarding employee layoffs at the Idaho State Employee Retirement System.

Student Health woes

Student Health Center employees and faculty protested against the loss of coverage for University of Idaho employees at the university. The university's budgeting process for the next year includes eliminating the student health insurance from the health care plan for all university employees.

The university's Student Health Center, under the leadership of Roberta A. Harris, announced the cuts as a result of the year's budgeting process.

Coaching positions shift

In March, both the men's and women's basketball coaches and coaches were replaced.

Mark Byrd returned to Idaho after the 1999-2000 season. Leonard Perry, a former assistant coach at Georgia Tech and now head coach at Idaho State University, was named the new Idaho coach.

Women's coach Hillary Berger resigned from her position after the 2001-2002 season. She was replaced by Brian E. Chick at Idaho State University.

The Idaho State University Board of Trustees approved the appointment of Brian E. Chick as the new Idaho State women's basketball coach.

Top stories reflect year of conflict

By Anna Smith

In the morning of Sept. 11, terrorist attacks killed thousands of Americans. It followed the hijacked planes crashed into the World Trade Center, one into the Pentagon and a hijacked plane crashed in Pennsylvania.

Terrorist attacks killed thousands of Americans. It followed the hijacked planes crashed into the World Trade Center, one into the Pentagon and a hijacked plane crashed in Pennsylvania.

The chain of events that followed made up many new stories, and the United States and the United States has been at war ever since.

After the attacks, Islamic fundamentalism gained momentum. The United States has been at war ever since.

Terrorism, See Page A8

More

San Francisco State University

Announced that it was a...
America Online (AOL) by Armanda Guiterrez Monday Oct. 16

For some University of Idaho students, the semester will begin across the world. With the help of UI, these students can attend school abroad for the UI tuition rate.

"I have a friend who is attending abroad for only $600. I am going to Germany for the same tuition as I pay here. The opportunities are endless," said senior English major Gayl Brown. "Greenfield will be attending the Universität in Germany this year.

"I was awarded a $5,000 scholarship through the university, but you need to do is put the name of the university you want to attend in a special tuition and all kinds of scholarships are available," added Brown.

While International Students Office workers such as Greenfield must attend abroad for at least a semester, any major can apply for the scholarship and still be able to go. One scholarship student said, "I am an International Business major, and UI helped me pay for both my tuition and living expenses."

The UI Scholarship Statement is available online. The awards range from $1,000 (awarded last cycle was $870), or the UI/USAC Scholarship Statement where award recipients receive up to $500. These are only two of many scholarships offered.

For students who do not speak a foreign language, there are many opportunities in Europe. EU/USAC offers students interested in travel opportunities to visit 12 other countries in Europe.

There are lots of English-speaking university items for students who want to study abroad, but don't want the language factor thinned out," said Greenfield.

"Studying abroad offers so many opportunities like hanging out with international students, making new friends and learning about a new culture."

For more information on study abroad programs, the Idaho Abroad Office is located in Merlil Hall, or contact Amy S. Bergstrom, 208-885-6617 (bergstrama@uidaho.edu).

Pay day came early for students
By JUDE JAMES
October 16

Hundreds of students left the SUB Ballroom Monday with a little piece of money in the form of student aid. Many students cashed their checks, picked up their financial aid check and skipped the checks.

Approximately 4,500 students currently receive a form of financial aid, said Dave Sampson, director of Financial Aid at UI.

Students at UI receive over $30,000,000 in financial aid. "This isn't just a little bit higher in scholarships than, for example, SUU and BYU," Sampson said.

FAPA forms are due Feb. 15, or now in the time that staff members have the chance to check financial aid for next year, Sampson said.

"There are some new procedures," said as using the Web that the Department of Education is pushing," said Sampson. "Students can now use the Web and make it much easier to apply for financial aid."

If federal FAFSA money, the entire form can be pre-populated online. Previously, a signature page had to be printed, signed and mailed to the FAFSA office. Individuals with a federal FAFSA can now use personal identification number as an electronic signature and complete all forms immediately on the Internet.

When applying for the financial aid, students have two options, Sampson said. The original process of filling out the forms by hand and mailing them in are still available. More students are turning to the Web to fill out the form, which shortens the processing time for the department. "If you want to fill out the form by hand, you should do it immediately," Sampson said.

"The third option, which Sampson hopes will soon be ready," said. "When you do it on the Web, it actually checks your work for you."

NATION
From Page A1
by the Taliban government. In effect is cut the world of terrorism, the U.S. launched airstrikes on Afghanistan on Oct. 7. However, as the attacks on military targets continued, the Taliban accused America's humanitarian component. Food, medicine and supplies were dropped on the people of Afghanistan.

Also in October, media and government officials began reporting concerns with e-petitions. The U.S. Secretary of State Colin Powell was recently denominated as the reality, as Senate offices were shut down and five people died.

For example, any mathematical errors in calculating income or taxes paid will be checked immediately, and the suspect will send an alert rather than the incorrect information. It also ensures that the FAFSA forms do not get lost or removed.

"As soon as you submit it, it's there," said. "Marking the deadlines can be the difference between receiving thousands of dollars in financial aid and not getting any thing.

The entire application site out the Department of Education from money, so even if they budget incorrectly, the money will still be there.

"There are some students who are keeping them from coming," Sampson said. "Eligibility for financial aid is determined by the federal government, so the financial aid UI will give you is still going to be there." The only concern is whether the student is eligible for financial aid.

Sampson hopes the university will not see a dramatic decrease in the number of students who apply for financial aid or who actually receive financial aid. "Everything we do is in terms of determining eligibility," said.

"We're more of a facilitator to find a financial aid and we're not," Sampson said. "For the parents, telling us what you have to do with the money.

As states and countries rush to be the first on the scene, Sampson expects financial aid to the situation to continue. "If we use a larger education," Sampson said.

UI can help pay for an escape
by Kasey Cole Swisher
ASU President

UI can help pay for an escape
by Kasey Cole Swisher
ASU President

As the 2002 Idaho State Legislature convenes, I feel imperative to provide our student body with the resources necessary to take an active role in the state budgetary process that determines our collective lifestyle. This year, our state faces its largest budget crisis since 1983. Therefore, several state budgets will be drastically reduced and some departments even diminished. In order to protect the caliber of institution that the University of Idaho represents, we must unite and send a clear message to Boise. As voting citizens, the people of the University of Idaho will not sit idly by while our tax dollars continue to be appropriated elsewhere instead of being put into what Alan Greenspan deems the "most sound investment": higher education.

Beginning February 1st, ASU will keep on hand information about all legislation related to higher education, as well as the voting record of our Latan County representatives and all representatives from around the state. This information will be easily accessible in a file cabinet at the front of the office and will be available to students, faculty, and staff—anyone who is a part of this community and would like to take an active stance in our state process. I encourage each student to take an active role in getting this information and voicing your opinion. ASU will also be informing the student body about issues that are up and coming so that you can let our state representatives know how you feel, thus determining their voting decision. As a page, I learned that it only takes responses from constituents for an issue to be regarded as "hot button." Can you imagine if key legislators received as many as 50 letters, faxes and e-mails? Most responses take three minutes to write and are not longer than three sentences, but they do make a difference.

I will continue to fight to protect the financial well-being of students, but I cannot do it alone—listed below is the website where you can access on-going information about legislation being considered and contact information for your home legislator. This is an election year, and legislators will listen, but we must make the effort to inform them that students do care and are voting.

We will be showing the Governor's State of the State and State of the Budget today, (Tuesday the 15th) at 11:30 in the Commons Food Court. Please attend if you did not get the opportunity to see these addresses on their first run. Thank you for your time.

Kasey Cole Swisher
ASU President

UI can help pay for an escape
by Kasey Cole Swisher
ASU President

As the 2002 Idaho State Legislature convenes, I felt imperative to provide our student body with the resources necessary to take an active role in the state budgetary process that determines our collective lifestyle. This year, our state faces its largest budget crisis since 1983. Therefore, several state budgets will be drastically reduced and some departments even diminished. In order to protect the caliber of institution that the University of Idaho represents, we must unite and send a clear message to Boise. As voting citizens, the people of the University of Idaho will not sit idly by while our tax dollars continue to be appropriated elsewhere instead of being put into what Alan Greenspan deems the "most sound investment": higher education.

Beginning February 1st, ASU will keep on hand information about all legislation related to higher education, as well as the voting record of our Latan County representatives and all representatives from around the state. This information will be easily accessible in a file cabinet at the front of the office and will be available to students, faculty, and staff—anyone who is a part of this community and would like to take an active stance in our state process. I encourage each student to take an active role in getting this information and voicing your opinion. ASU will also be informing the student body about issues that are up and coming so that you can let our state representatives know how you feel, thus determining their voting decision. As a page, I learned that it only takes 12 responses from constituents for an issue to be regarded as "hot button." Can you imagine if key legislators received as many as 50 letters, faxes and e-mails? Most responses take three minutes to write and are not longer than three sentences, but they do make a difference.

I will continue to fight to protect the financial well-being of students, but I cannot do it alone—listed below is the website where you can access on-going information about legislation being considered and contact information for your home legislator. This is an election year, and legislators will listen, but we must make the effort to inform them that students do care and are voting.

We will be showing the Governor's State of the State and State of the Budget today, (Tuesday the 15th) at 11:30 in the Commons Food Court. Please attend if you did not get the opportunity to see these addresses on their first run. Thank you for your time.

Kasey Cole Swisher
ASU President

Son is going to Germany for the same tuition as I pay here. The opportunities are endless," added Brown. "Greenfield will be attending the Universität in Germany this year.

"I was awarded a $5,000 scholarship through the university, but you need to do is put the name of the university you want to attend in a special tuition and all kinds of scholarships are available," added Brown.

While International Students Office workers such as Greenfield must attend abroad for at least a semester, any major can apply for the scholarship and still be able to go. One scholarship student said, "I am an International Business major, and UI helped me pay for both my tuition and living expenses."

The UI Scholarship Statement is available online. The awards range from $1,000 (awarded last cycle was $870), or the UI/USAC Scholarship Statement where award recipients receive up to $500. These are only two of many scholarships offered.

For students who do not speak a foreign language, there are many opportunities in Europe. EU/USAC offers students interested in travel opportunities to visit 12 other countries in Europe.

There are lots of English-speaking university items for students who want to study abroad, but don't want the language factor thinned out," said Greenfield.

"Studying abroad offers so many opportunities like hanging out with international students, making new friends and learning about a new culture."

For more information on study abroad programs, the Idaho Abroad Office is located in Merlil Hall, or contact Amy S. Bergstrom, 208-885-6617 (bergstrama@uidaho.edu).
Muscovites search for pizza after the Pipeline runs dry

BY BENNETT VANCE

When the events of downtown's Pizza Pipeline came to a halt last night, the store's customers were met with a dark exhaust pipe in place of what seemed to be the hub of downtown activity some afternoon. Pizza Pipeline, located at 127 S. Main, was their first choice for the food they ordered. They had to wait for the fire department to put out the fire started by the smoke that spread from the store.

Community members and students returning from winter break said they had expected the store to be open. "It's a real disappointment," said Benjamin Sweeney, a student who was among those waiting outside. "I was looking forward to getting a good meal here."

Working with the town, the Environmental Quality developed a new set of guidelines for field burning. "The new rules developed by the Department of Agriculture, there were no regulations at field burning. Farmers burned when it seemed that the seasonal outlook was good, but there were no regulations." According to the new guidelines, farmers are required to have a permit to burn, and to follow certain procedures, including keeping a fire hose on hand, notifying neighbors, and ensuring that the burn area is clear of all flammable materials.

"It was a hard decision," said the manager of Pizza Pipeline, "but we decided to close the store for now." He added, "We will be back as soon as possible." The store's employees said they were disappointed with the outcome. "This is really sad," said one employee. "We love working here and we're really sorry to see this happen."
Facing AIDS: UI English staffer deals with life and the disease

BY ANITA CAROLINE
ASSOCIATE DEAN OF FACULTY

Jim Breedlove is gay and proud of it. Last year he also found out he has AIDS.

When he visited the student health center at the University of Idaho (UI), he didn't immediately mind beingonest about that.

"I'm fairly open about who I am. When I go to classes to talk about AIDS, I don't try to skirt the issue. It's not a gay disease, it's a human disease," he said.

But there was one thing he does try to change in students.

"I am more than just a person with HIV. If that was all there were to me, I would probably give up," he said.

At UI, Breedlove, the new assistant of the English department at UI, is always talking about all he learned in a year and a half in a YMCA class.

He had two different types of personalities at the same time. His words wereEEfed and started doing tests. He told Breedlove he needed to test for HIV, just in case.

When Breedlove came back to the case the next week, his doctor gave him the news. The test was positive.

"I knew the second I looked at him, Breedlove said.

Eileen had been diagnosed with the disease last year but after that, the disease was treated the day.

He had been diagnosed with the disease last year but after that, the disease was treated the disease most likely in 1986, based on his activities and how much of the virus was present at the time.

He actually was tested in 1988 and was never put back in the picture.

"I figured they did it if it was positive, I had no idea," he said.

He immediately was sent to a hospice care and was diagnosed two weeks later with full AIDS. Apparently, it was Dec. 1, World AIDS Day.

Five years after his diagnosis, he now lives in Moscow at the Unitarian-Universalist Church and has been a small supporter of the church.

In the past, he has been a small supporter of the church.

"I knew I couldn't have a normal life, so I took my final exam and took my final exam as the last class at the time. I wanted to do it right," he said.

"I had to take the test on his own time, so I took my final exam and took my final exam as the last class at the time. I wanted to do it right," he said.

"I had to take the test on his own time, so I took my final exam and took my final exam as the last class at the time. I wanted to do it right," he said.

"I had to take the test on his own time, so I took my final exam and took my final exam as the last class at the time. I wanted to do it right," he said.

"I had to take the test on his own time, so I took my final exam and took my final exam as the last class at the time. I wanted to do it right," he said.

"I had to take the test on his own time, so I took my final exam and took my final exam as the last class at the time. I wanted to do it right," he said.

"I had to take the test on his own time, so I took my final exam and took my final exam as the last class at the time. I wanted to do it right," he said.

"I had to take the test on his own time, so I took my final exam and took my final exam as the last class at the time. I wanted to do it right," he said.
University-wide meeting on the budget

January 17th at 1:30 p.m.
Student Union Building Ballroom

Faculty, staff and students are invited to attend the third in a series of meetings addressing UI's budget challenge.

KOUM-69.3 FM will broadcast and webcast the meeting live.

Faculty may dismmiss classes for the hour at their discretion.

The meeting can be viewed via compressed video at the Boise, Coeur d'Alene and Idaho Falls Centers, Twin Falls Evergreen Room, and the Aberdeen, Parma, Rexburg and Sandpoint Research and Extension Centers.

Toothmaster's helps students and community

by Megan Otto

University of Idaho

Toothmasters in Moscow has an excellent program to help students with their public speaking needs. The program is called the "Overcoming Your Fears in Public Speaking Club." The program is open to all students, regardless of their fear of public speaking.

The program is divided into two parts. The first part is a class where students learn the basic skills of public speaking. The second part is a mentoring program where students are paired with a mentor who will help them improve their public speaking skills.

The program is free and open to all students. Students interested in participating can contact the program coordinator, Ken Peterson, at 208-885-4217 or kpeterson@uidaho.edu.

Toothmaster's has also been working with groups to help them improve their public speaking. They have worked with local businesses, non-profits, and government agencies.

For more information, contact Ken Peterson at 208-885-4217 or kpeterson@uidaho.edu.
A man without morals

With Chandra Levy, a 24-year-old government intern, career-minded and ambitious, her disappearance has captivated the nation's attention, leaving the rest of the nation to wonder: "What happened to Chandra Levy?"

Gary Condit, a Washington, D.C., Democrat, was the last man seen with Levy before her disappearance. She was seen jumping onto a bus with him on the 24th Street Bridge in Washington, D.C., shortly before she vanished.

Condit has been the subject of intense scrutiny, with many questioning his involvement in Levy's disappearance. Despite the lack of concrete evidence, Condit has been the focus of media attention and speculation.

The circumstances surrounding Levy's disappearance have sparked numerous theories and speculations, with many people believing that Condit had some role in her disappearance. However, there has been no concrete proof linking him to her disappearance.

Looking back: an ode to the frivolous

Standing on the other side of 2001, we look back on the year with both a sense of reflection and展望. The year was marked by numerous events, both trivial and significant, that have left a lasting impact on our lives.

From the 9/11 attacks to the celebrity scandals, the year was filled with moments that have captured the attention of the world. The events of 2001 have left a lasting legacy, shaping the course of history and influencing the lives of millions.

The events of 2001 have left a lasting legacy, shaping the course of history and influencing the lives of millions.
WASHINGTON — Although it is impossible to fight the Taliban effort, U.S. forces have deployed to the Zavoi Valley region of eastern Afghanistan, where an apparent intelligence-based strike left at least 150 Taliban leaders and fighters dead.

The Associated Press has learned.

This is the second major ground operations by U.S. Special Forces, turned out to be harder than anyone in the military had expected — a job near by on the scale of efforts last month to clear out caves in the Toro Bora area, to the north of Zavoi Base. Because of the lack of intelligence, it did not know the extent of the Taliban presence.

"Systematically, the forces on the ground have been clearing the caves and then tightening in," Rear Adm. John "J" Johnston, a special envoy to the Zavoi area. Hundreds of al-Qaeda members, now, are surrounded and getting eliminated.

After the search of the Toro Bora area and other former hideouts, the U.S. Central Command reported that it had found hundreds of al-Qaeda fighters involved in training, having been overwhelmed by the war effort.

"We have been able to send a clear signal to the Taliban and al-Qaeda that we intend to burn them to the ground," Vice President Dick Cheney said.

The United States' new wave of strikes has been accompanied by increased use of the B-1B bomber, which has been deployed to the United States from the United Kingdom, in support of the Afghan war effort.

The B-1B, which can carry up to 20,000 pounds of ordnance, is expected to be used for a variety of missions, including precision strikes against Taliban and al-Qaeda targets.

The strike was the result of intelligence gathered by U.S. intelligence agencies, which have been tracking the movements of the Taliban and al-Qaeda leaders for months.

The strike was a significant blow to the Taliban's ability to carry out operations in the region, and it has been described as a "game changer" by U.S. military officials.

The strike also has been a major blow to the al-Qaeda network, which has been fighting in Afghanistan for more than a decade.

The al-Qaeda network has been hit by a series of strikes in recent weeks, including a strike on Nov. 21, 2001, that killed 150 al-Qaeda leaders and fighters in the Zavoi Valley region of eastern Afghanistan.

The strike was a significant blow to the al-Qaeda network, which has been fighting in Afghanistan for more than a decade.

The al-Qaeda network has been hit by a series of strikes in recent weeks, including a strike on Nov. 21, 2001, that killed 150 al-Qaeda leaders and fighters in the Zavoi Valley region of eastern Afghanistan.

The strike was a significant blow to the al-Qaeda network, which has been fighting in Afghanistan for more than a decade.

The al-Qaeda network has been hit by a series of strikes in recent weeks, including a strike on Nov. 21, 2001, that killed 150 al-Qaeda leaders and fighters in the Zavoi Valley region of eastern Afghanistan.

The strike was a significant blow to the al-Qaeda network, which has been fighting in Afghanistan for more than a decade.

The al-Qaeda network has been hit by a series of strikes in recent weeks, including a strike on Nov. 21, 2001, that killed 150 al-Qaeda leaders and fighters in the Zavoi Valley region of eastern Afghanistan.

The strike was a significant blow to the al-Qaeda network, which has been fighting in Afghanistan for more than a decade.

The al-Qaeda network has been hit by a series of strikes in recent weeks, including a strike on Nov. 21, 2001, that killed 150 al-Qaeda leaders and fighters in the Zavoi Valley region of eastern Afghanistan.

The strike was a significant blow to the al-Qaeda network, which has been fighting in Afghanistan for more than a decade.

The al-Qaeda network has been hit by a series of strikes in recent weeks, including a strike on Nov. 21, 2001, that killed 150 al-Qaeda leaders and fighters in the Zavoi Valley region of eastern Afghanistan.

The strike was a significant blow to the al-Qaeda network, which has been fighting in Afghanistan for more than a decade.

The al-Qaeda network has been hit by a series of strikes in recent weeks, including a strike on Nov. 21, 2001, that killed 150 al-Qaeda leaders and fighters in the Zavoi Valley region of eastern Afghanistan.

The strike was a significant blow to the al-Qaeda network, which has been fighting in Afghanistan for more than a decade.

The al-Qaeda network has been hit by a series of strikes in recent weeks, including a strike on Nov. 21, 2001, that killed 150 al-Qaeda leaders and fighters in the Zavoi Valley region of eastern Afghanistan.

The strike was a significant blow to the al-Qaeda network, which has been fighting in Afghanistan for more than a decade.

The al-Qaeda network has been hit by a series of strikes in recent weeks, including a strike on Nov. 21, 2001, that killed 150 al-Qaeda leaders and fighters in the Zavoi Valley region of eastern Afghanistan.

The strike was a significant blow to the al-Qaeda network, which has been fighting in Afghanistan for more than a decade.

The al-Qaeda network has been hit by a series of strikes in recent weeks, including a strike on Nov. 21, 2001, that killed 150 al-Qaeda leaders and fighters in the Zavoi Valley region of eastern Afghanistan.

The strike was a significant blow to the al-Qaeda network, which has been fighting in Afghanistan for more than a decade.

The al-Qaeda network has been hit by a series of strikes in recent weeks, including a strike on Nov. 21, 2001, that killed 150 al-Qaeda leaders and fighters in the Zavoi Valley region of eastern Afghanistan.

The strike was a signifi
New releases IN THEATERs

"Love Bank" Sean Penn
"Orange County" Colin Hanks, Jack Black
"Dark Blue Metal" Orson Welles, Kryhalt Halad
"The Shipping News" Kevin Spacey, Jennifer Jason
New releases ONVIDEO

American Pie 2 Jason Biggs, Shawn Rosenthal
Golden Manta Carry
Tortoise Sea
Wild Beasts Summer Summer Summer Summer...Dance, Drink Forever
Billboard top five ALBUMS

1. Weatherford, Count
2. Ziegfeld, Float Like a Butterfly
3. War of the Mind, Lithium
4. Blue Shirt Sky, Woolmark
5. S. V., Various Artists

The Argonaut is pleased to present...

It's been an interesting year for rock 'n' roll. Michael Jackson returned to the spotlight, Dave Matthews rocked our world, and David Bowie's classic "Changes One Bowie" turned 25. Pitting the 10 best albums of the year was tough. I admit personal opinion dominated this list and many exceptional albums didn't make the cut.

1. Bob Dylan - "Love and Theft"
2. Bob Dylan - "New Morning"
3. Bob Dylan - "Time Out of Mind"
4. Dave Matthews Band - "Before These Trees Were Trees"
5. R.E.M. - "How the Love Came True"
6. The Rolling Stones - "A Bigger Bang"
7. Brian Eno - "The Matthew E.établisments"
8. Beck - "Sea Change"
9. Beck - "Sea Change"
10. Beck - "Sea Change"

The boys from Athens, Ga., get hotter with age. Cashing off of the success of their last album, they can't prove to be a suitable follow-up. The band members are on their usual banter and use many different themes and a variety of instruments.

3. Jack Johnson - "Brave" Fairytale"
4. Beck - "Sea Change"
5. Beck - "Sea Change"
6. Beck - "Sea Change"
7. Beck - "Sea Change"
8. Beck - "Sea Change"
9. Beck - "Sea Change"
10. Beck - "Sea Change"

Underground music encompasses so many genres and sub-genres that it's difficult to listen to a fraction of the albums released in a given year, much less rank them numerically. That said, this is my very subjective list of the ten best underground albums released in 2001. The results may be totally different tomorrow.

1. Set Fire To Flames "Reign of the Rebellious"
2. Cenovs - "January Doe"
3. Khanate - "Seminar III"
4. Lee Sosa Foo - "Go Forth"
5. Much like a good television personality, Lee Sosa Foo is smart, sly, and competitive, with a sense of adventure and evidence of Gibbs. But these guys aren't faking it, and you can count on their words to be good. A last but better than the rest full-length, but this is still solid.

2. Old Man Gloom "Terminal Ill"
The obvious favorite for the year 2001, Alicia Keys arrived at the 36th Annual Grammy Awards in Los Angeles as one of the hottest acts in Top 40. Her first single, "Fallin'" quickly rose to the top of the charts and her album entered the charts at No. 1 and sold several hundred thousand copies. Alicia Keys also performed "Love Don't Live Here No More" and "Girl On Fire" on the show. This young southern girl already has several awards and it up for an Grammy, Keys shows up atop of the charts and astounded the audience with her voice and performance.

4. Jill Scott - "Who Is Jill Scott?: Words and Sounds Vol. 1"

Jill Scott released her debut album in 2000, and was named Rolling Stone's Artist of the Year. But, Scott's album wasn't old, it was released as the project until fall. "Gettin' in the Way" is the smoothest track to come out of R&B music in a long time. The album is praised by critics and fans alike. Scott also spawned several singles such as "For Once," "Golden," and "Who Is Jill Scott?"

5. Bilal - "First Born Second"

The first R&B single to chart, "Is She Single?" is a chart topper. Some of the songs on his debut album are "Out of This World," "The Game of Love," and "You're Not Like the Others." Scott is praised for his soulful voice and songwriting skills.

6. Angelo Stone - "Wah Wah Genius"

Angelo Stone is a young R&B artist who has been making waves in the music industry. His debut album, "Wah Wah Genius," released in 2000. The album features hit singles such as "Sleepin' With the Past," "Wah Wah Genius," and "Ain't Playin'." Stone is praised for his soulful voice and unique sound.

7. Craig David - "Born To Do It"

British soul artist Craig David released his debut album, "Born To Do It," in 1999. The album features hit singles such as "Request Love Letter," "7 Days," and "You're Not My Best Friend." David is praised for his soulful voice and smooth R&B style.

8. Fiona Apple - "Torous"

Fiona Apple released her debut album, "Torous," in 1996. The album features hit singles such as "Crayon," "Slow Hands," and " Shiv". Apple is praised for her unique voice and songwriting skills.

9. Enya - "Tortilla Espanola"

Enya is a Irish singer-songwriter who is known for her unique sound and instrumentation. Her debut album, "Tortilla Espanola," released in 1987. The album features hit singles such as "The Day I Saw You," "May It Be," and "Only Time." Enya is praised for her unique voice and ethereal sound.

10. Ne-Yo - "So Sick"

Ne-Yo is a young R&B artist who has been making waves in the music industry. His debut album, "So Sick," released in 2005. The album features hit singles such as "So Sick," "Miss Independent," and "Sexy Love." Ne-Yo is praised for his soulful voice and unique sound.

This list is just a sampling of the many talented artists who are currently making waves in the music industry. It is important to support and promote these artists by buying their music and attending their concerts. By doing so, we can help to ensure that these artists continue to make music for years to come.
Theater Department finishes year on good note; new projects spring up by Anonymous

The University of Idaho Argonaut

CREATIVITY and production new characterized the fall semester, 2002 for the UI Theater Department.

It started with the controversial British play, "Cloud 9," written by Gary Cary and directed by British director, actor and movement specialist Mike Niven. The production, performed Oct. 17-20 at the History Theater, dealt with society's rigid expectations of sexuality, which were closely examined in Churchill's "The Play's the Thing.

The play will perform ed on New Orleans, Ga., again

As a counterpoint to the controversial "Cloud 9," the very American "Diviners," by Jim Leonard, was staged by third-year student of fine arts student Justin Armentrout as the Bing stage. Performance, held Nov. 10-13, were a set in the town of Laramie, Wyoming, complete with guests and student actors, a full lab. "I chose "Diviners,"" said Armentrout. "It's not a play that's been done in Idaho, and it's a good play."

The season continued with "The Real World," staged on UI campus. The play, directed by UI graduate, Angela Donaldson, was based on the NBC reality television series of the same name.

Set in a small New York apartment, the play follows the lives of six young people and their shared experiences of love, sex, friendship and family. The play, written by Danis MacCabe, is set in the world of MTV's "The Real World," and the characters' actions are driven by the ratings of the show.

The play was performed in the UI's Black Box Theatre, which seats 70. The cast consisted of six students: Samuel Beasley, a senior; Megan Wallis, a junior; and three others from the UI's Theatre Department.

"The Real World" was a hit with audiences, who gave it a standing ovation at the end of the performance. The play was also well-received by critics, who praised the actors' performances and the production's overall quality.

The final production of the season was "Clouds," performed Dec. 12-14. The play, written by UI student Johnathan Kimball, is a "deeply moving story of friendship and self-loathing." The play was given a positive review by the Idaho Statesman, which described it as "a powerful exploration of identity and acceptance."
UI falls to Long Beach State in fifth straight league loss

UI falls to Long Beach State in fifth straight league loss

UI falls to Long Beach State in fifth straight league loss

UI falls to Long Beach State in fifth straight league loss

UI falls to Long Beach State in fifth straight league loss

UI falls to Long Beach State in fifth straight league loss
VANDALS From Page 84

The Vandals go on a two-game road trip with games at Cal State Fullerton and UC Riverside next weekend before returning to Missoula for a three-game home stand at Convocation Stadium. The Cal State Fullerton home game is Tuesday, Jan. 16, and the UC Riverside game is Friday, Jan. 19.

The Vandals are on a nine-game losing streak and downed Boise State in Missoula Tuesday by 60-53 points. Boise State has managed double-digits in scoring and lost 20 of 23 games. They were downed by 9-22 points. Boise State has scored in double figures, minus one game in six attempts of victories. They were downed by 9-22 points.

Weekend

The Vandals opposed a game against Utah in Salt Lake City at 7 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 5. The Vandals played the 0-17 Utah team.

The Vandals opposed a game against Utah in Salt Lake City at 7 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 5. The Vandals played the 0-17 Utah team. They were downed by 9-22 points.

Weekend

The Vandals opposed a game against Utah in Salt Lake City at 7 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 5. The Vandals played the 0-17 Utah team. They were downed by 9-22 points.

The weekend schedule is:

UCC 229-6:30 p.m. M-F

www.its.idaho.edu/orna

E-mail: jobs@micron.com

EOE/AA
Schottenheimer exits, Spurrier moves in at Redskin

BY LAUREN SINCLAIR

SAN FRANCISCO — There was no reason for a庆 quarterback Randy佟rea to have his 5yard touchdown in the red zone during the Blue Bombers game on Thursday night.

The quarterback, who had been cut by the team earlier this season, was the only one who played in the game.

The 27-year-old, who had been with the team for two months, was playing for the first time since being released by the team.

He was benched during the first quarter, but reentered the game in the second quarter and played for the remainder of the game.

Spurrier, who has been with the team for a month, was named the starting quarterback for the team's next game against the Iowa Hawkeyes on Saturday.

The move comes after the team lost its starting quarterback, 19-year-old Mark McGraw, to a shoulder injury in the team's previous game against the University of Arizona.

Spurrier said he was excited to get the opportunity to play and was looking forward to the challenge of leading the team to victory.

The Blue Bombers, who are currently 2-2-1, play their next home game on Saturday against the Iowa Hawkeyes.

The game is scheduled to start at 7:30 pm and will be televised on ESPN2.

Spurrier said he was looking forward to the challenge of playing in front of a large crowd and was excited to see how the team would respond to his leadership.

The Blue Bombers, who are currently 2-2-1, play their next home game on Saturday against the Iowa Hawkeyes.

The game is scheduled to start at 7:30 pm and will be televised on ESPN2.

Spurrier said he was looking forward to the challenge of playing in front of a large crowd and was excited to see how the team would respond to his leadership.

The Blue Bombers, who are currently 2-2-1, play their next home game on Saturday against the Iowa Hawkeyes.

The game is scheduled to start at 7:30 pm and will be televised on ESPN2.

Spurrier said he was looking forward to the challenge of playing in front of a large crowd and was excited to see how the team would respond to his leadership.

The Blue Bombers, who are currently 2-2-1, play their next home game on Saturday against the Iowa Hawkeyes.

The game is scheduled to start at 7:30 pm and will be televised on ESPN2.