COLLEGE OF ENGINEERING

Turning the gears

Female student enrollment remains low in engineering department

Stephanie Hale
Argonaut

The University of Idaho Engineering Department is working to attract students to the hopes of increasing female enrollment percentage.

The number of women in the field has increased from the 1970s to some level in the 1990s, but "we basically hit flat," said Don Blackketter, dean of the College of Engineering. "There is no significant change in female enrollment at UI." According to institutional research from 1992, the department manages to pull in 1,340 students last semester — 214 women.

"Her" is Oregon State University, which Blackketter claims to have the rest of the nation in terms of having a lower number of female students in the engineering department, but "I think Blackketter would say," said Sullivan, head of the department does make a difference. Blackketter said, "In 1996, the percentage of women in the engineering department was at 7.4 percent, and in the fall of 2006, the number dwindled to 7.2 percent.

"Some fields are better at attracting women than others," Blackketter said. "The percentage of women hasn't increased in the last 15 years, and there's no clear answer as to why." The hopes of increasing both female enrollment and female retention rates, the engineering department has done everything from offering extra scholarships and a mentor program in conjunction with the Women's Center, to creating programs, outreach events and "Women in Engineering Day," and the Society of Women Engineers.

"We give extra scholarships to female students, and frankly it's not that successful," Blackketter said. "They're interested in a few women, but it's hard to point out whether or not they were successful in the department.

The Women in Engineering Day program encourages female students from different schools around Idaho to visit UI and learn more about the different fields of engineering.

"SWE works (15 recruits) students from around the state," said Jennifer Hasenohrl, an engineering graduate student. "It's more personal than just a flyer in the mail." Viha Gupta, another graduate student in the department, said a priority is to make sure women feel comfortable.

"The most popular forms of engineering are chemical and civil," Gupta said. "We really want to make sure that girls aren't scared of math and science. We do a lot of hands-on activities to tame down the long mathematical equations," said Jamiel Labal, another engineering graduate student.

On average, approximately 25 to 40 high school juniors and seniors have participated in the program over the past 12 years. "I'd love to see the number of women in the department increase," Blackketter said. "The field offers great jobs, and there's a lot, both men and women, could do if they're attracted to a certain field. My hope is to attract more women to the department because if we make the college more diverse, it'll also be helpful to the field."
Springtime in Moscow:

Thankyou for not using salt tro-la-la-la!

Nick & Norah's Infinite Playlist
February 20 & 21
7 and 9:30pm

All films show at the SUB Borah Theater
$2 Students/$3 Public

Discover at the Idaho Commons & Student Union

This week's ASUI Vandal Entertainment Films...

W.
February 18 & 19
7 and 9:30pm

WEB POLL RESULTS
What should happen to the physics department?
Keep it - 32
Cut it - 12
Scale it down - 11

Visit our Web site to vote in the next two online polls.
Results will be published every Tuesday.

May 20, 2009

The Argonaut

People We Know
K. Ray Adams/Argonaut

Percy the Barbarian
Stasia Korrigan/Argonaut

Speak out: What did you do with your three-day weekend?

Matthew C. Thompson

R ocean Zamora

Photos by Jake Beeler

Crossword

Clues
1. Area of Europe
2. Count
3. Smart
4. Turn
5. Cheese
6. Smell
7. Prowl
8. Little blue bird
9. Part of a violin
10. "No, no, no..."
11. "Here, I'll show you..."
12. Small vessel
13. Word for the original version of a piece of music
14. "I've seen this movie at least 20 times..."
15. "In..."
16. "..." in a line of poetry
17. "I've seen this movie at least 20 times..."
18. "I've seen this movie at least 20 times..."
19. "I've seen this movie at least 20 times..."
20. "I've seen this movie at least 20 times...

Solutions

Sudoku

Corrections

In the last issue of The Argonaut, the article "Local produce gives life to Moscow community," it was implied graywater was permitted under organic certification. This is incorrect.

Find a mistake? Send an e-mail to the section editor.

Contact information can be found on page 6.
Center looks to reduce junk mail

Greg Connolly

The University of Idaho Sustainability Center will spearhead an effort to reduce junk mail sent to students living on campus this spring.

"There’s approximately 30 tons of junk mail coming into the university campus each year," said Danis Saul, director of the Sustainability Center.

The center recently received all junk mail coming to UI over a 10-day period and made the conclusion that much of the mail is "junk," meaning it will never be opened.

"The Association for Advancement of Sustainability in Higher Education is promoting the stop junk mail campaign at all schools nationwide," said Saul.

"In the past, we’ve had the first 100 people that get on an internet list," said Saul.

"If we get 30 tons of junk mail on a campus, we would like to cut it in half," said Saul.

Saul said that the only people that will get junk mail are the ones who opt in to receive it.

"Half the stuff they send us goes to people that don’t work here anymore," said Saul.

The Sustainability Center is also working with faculty and staff in reducing the amount of junk mail that comes into the building.

Saul said that credit card companies frequently try to offer people the credit, but they don’t use it because the company has deals in place when the student membeshop a card and that, when the offer is sent to someone who is actually on campus.

"Half the stuff they send is to people that don’t work here anymore," said Saul.

First time that the Sustainability Center has been involved in a program like this, but he is very excited about the university effort.

Currently, the plan is to go from house-to-house on Greek row and floor-to-floor in the residence halls with the presentations and to provide posters that interested students can sign that they will send it to "trash." Once the on-campus students have had a chance to sign up, the posters will be taken to the Sustainability Center where the names will be put in a letter to the Direct Marketing Association.

"There are about 1,500 residential halls and clubs and that is the Greek system," said Mathisen.

"There will be many of us trying to choose to reduce their impact on the environment and the campus," said Mathisen.

The Sustainability Center is also trying to reduce junk mail in 2002, in 2003, and in 2004.

"Because of how UI purchases the types of contracts they use, it is a complete waste of time for companies to send notices to all the students," said Saul.

"Of the junk mail that enters the mailroom, because of how UI purchases the types of contracts they use, it is a complete waste of time for companies to send notices to all the students," said Saul.

"It is a complete waste of time for companies to send notices to all the students," said Saul.

The junk mail that enters the mailroom is put in a box and is not used by anyone who works there.

"It’s a complete waste of time for companies to send notices to all the students," said Saul.
TOUGH CROWD

for the Eugene Ballet's production of Swan Lake. The performance is scheduled for 8 p.m. on March 8 at the Washington State University Beasley Coliseum. Tickets are $15 to $25 and can be purchased at the Beasley Coliseum box office.

The Ballet Eugene Com-
ties visit the western states and has built its reputation on performing high-quality shows.

Local sponsors are Grin-
man Medical Center and Idaho Public Television.

AARP helps
elderly drivers

The AARP Driver Safety Program plans to help community members older than 50 to refresh their driving skills and knowledge.

The eight-hour course is scheduled to start at 10:30 a.m. Saturday in the Gal-
man Medical Center Conference Center located at 700 South Main.

To take the course, participants must pay a $12 registration fee.

Different topics covered during the course include following distances, safe lane changes and minimalizing blind spots. To register, visit www.
grims.org or call 883-2202.

Artists feature
light pieces

At the Pritchard Art Galley award-winning artists Daniel Mitchell and Lance Berger will present light-emitting pieces at 5:30 p.m. on Feb. 25.

The exhibit will open
with the Lionel Hampton International Jazz Festival community reception. Mitchell is Boise-based, although she exhibits her work across the nation, including Washington, D.C. She has received the Governor’s Award for Excellence in the Arts and in 2002, was awarded commission in the Boise City Visual Chronicle Permanent Collection.

The Pritchard Art Gallery hours are 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday and 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday.

Hunger profile to be released

The Idaho Hunger Relief Task Force will host an eat-as-you-choose profile dinner at 5:30 p.m. Thursday at the Boise Temple in St. Matthew’s Cathedral.

This event will help
create Idaho residents’ awareness of food security and hunger needs in local locations.

The event will be provided by Bitter-
root Basin Community Collective on different local community food.

LAMBDA from page 1

and is actively recruiting students on campus. Currently there is only one nominee for president, Heidi Anderson. Running for vice president is An-beth Davis and Chau Tran. The senatorial nominees are Hanh Trinh-Thalath and Andrea Lyons.

Graduate students can vote online at www.uidaho.
who/goes until Thursday. Ballots from the election will be announced at the Spring Formal on March 3.

Swan Lake
tickets available

Tickets are now on sale

for The Eugene Ballet’s production of Swan Lake. The performance is scheduled for 8 p.m. on March 8 at the Washington State University Beasley Coliseum. Tickets are $15 to $25 and can be purchased at the Beasley Coliseum box office.

The Ballet Eugene Com-
ties visit the western states and has built its reputation on performing high-quality shows.

Local sponsors are Grin-
man Medical Center and Idaho Public Television.

AARP helps
elderly drivers

The AARP Driver Safety Program plans to help community members older than 50 to refresh their driving skills and knowledge.

The eight-hour course is scheduled to start at 10:30 a.m. Saturday in the Gal-
man Medical Center Conference Center located at 700 South Main.

To take the course, participants must pay a $12 registration fee.

Different topics covered during the course include following distances, safe lane changes and minimalizing blind spots. To register, visit www.
grims.org or call 883-2202.

Artists feature
light pieces

At the Pritchard Art Gal-
ley award-winning artists Daniel Mitchell and Lance Berger will present light-emitting pieces at 5:30 p.m. on Feb. 25.

The exhibit will open
with the Lionel Hampton International Jazz Festival community reception. Mitchell is Boise-based, although she exhibits her work across the nation, including Washington, D.C. She has received the Governor’s Award for Excellence in the Arts and in 2002, was awarded commission in the Boise City Visual Chronicle Permanent Collection.

The Pritchard Art Gallery hours are 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday and 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday.

Hunger profile to be released

The Idaho Hunger Relief Task Force will host an eat-as-you-choose profile dinner at 5:30 p.m. Thursday at the Boise Temple in St. Matthew’s Cathedral.

This event will help
create Idaho residents’ awareness of food security and hunger needs in local locations.

The event will be provided by Bitter-
root Basin Community Collective on different local community food.

LAMBDA from page 1

and is actively recruiting students on campus. Currently there is only one nominee for president, Heidi Anderson. Running for vice president is An-beth Davis and Chau Tran. The senatorial nominees are Hanh Trinh-Thalath and Andrea Lyons.

Graduate students can vote online at www.uidaho.
who/goes until Thursday. Ballots from the election will be announced at the Spring Formal on March 3.
Bill dead for 2009

GM, Chrysler to cut more jobs

As federal leaders wrangled over a late-week stimulus package aimed at saving Chrysler and General Motors from bankruptcy, market analysts were devising contingency plans for what could be 1,000,000 unemployed automobile workers.

Sources said the plan will result in at least a 25 percent reduction in the workforce at GM and Chrysler, and that the lions in the industry could be trimmed of another 25 percent in 2010.

The planned reduction of 1,000,000 workers, which would match the layoffs anticipated as a result of the current recession, would result in the collapse of the key American automotive industry.

The move comes as the government, which has already poured $4.5 billion into Chrysler and $2.5 billion into GM, steps up its efforts to save the industry.

Sen. Paul Wellstone (D-Minn.) said the package is "an absolute necessity." Sen. Susan Collins (R-Maine) added, "It's a tough decision, but it's necessary to save the industry."
Special place in hell for bipartisans

President Barack Obama's campaign was characterized largely by his message of "change." He carried a torch for the middle class and his party. Yet, many times during his campaign, we thought we could still push that illusion of constantly trying to work with people with whom we vehemently disagreed.

In the end, we just admit we have strong differences of opinion and leave it at that. We didn't want to reach across the aisle if we really think the other side is just trying to push us around.

We want to keep the government out of the political arena. This is the reason that we, the Republican Party, opposed the stimulus package passed in Congress. Why? We believe in small government, and we want to reduce the size of government across the board.

We believe in individual freedom, and we believe in the American Dream. Our beliefs are based on the idea that we need to create that level playing field for the American people. America is a country of opportunity, and we want to keep it that way.

The only way we can do that is to keep government out of the political arena. That's why we opposed the stimulus package. And that's why we support the Bipartisan Campaign Reform Act.

We believe in the American Dream. We believe in the American Dream. The Bipartisan Campaign Reform Act is our way of making sure that the government stays out of the political arena. We support it because we believe in individual freedom, and we believe in the American Dream.

No more excuses

The members of the Latich County Human Rights Task Force, like many in our community and university were shocked and saddened about the recent reports of racial epithets and chants uttered at some Van- dal fata during the University of Idaho State University basketball game on Jan. 26. Not only is this conduct hurtful and damaging to our Latino community, it is also hurtful and damaging to the fans.

This is the kind of behavior we cannot tolerate. We are calling on all fans to please tone it down. We cannot allow this kind of behavior to go on for another minute.

No more excuses.

In addition to the recent reports of racial epithets and chants at the game, we have also heard reports of other inappropriate behavior at other games.

We are calling on all fans to please tone it down. We cannot allow this kind of behavior to go on for another minute.

President Steven Daley-Laurin-son, chair of the department, said that he was not aware of any problems with the audience at the game. He did say that he was aware of the reports of racial epithets and chants.

In addition to the recent reports of racial epithets and chants at the game, we have also heard reports of other inappropriate behavior at other games.

We are calling on all fans to please tone it down. We cannot allow this kind of behavior to go on for another minute.

We are calling on all fans to please tone it down. We cannot allow this kind of behavior to go on for another minute.

No more excuses.

In addition to the recent reports of racial epithets and chants at the game, we have also heard reports of other inappropriate behavior at other games.

We are calling on all fans to please tone it down. We cannot allow this kind of behavior to go on for another minute.

President Steven Daley-Laurin-son, chair of the department, said that he was not aware of any problems with the audience at the game. He did say that he was aware of the reports of racial epithets and chants.
The Washington Post described him as telling the band once before, "That's the most original style I've ever heard. It's like a psychedelic, pop, garage band."

"We're the best band in the world," said Bob. "It's a secret."
Watch, comedy lover, watch

Jordan Grey

Dennis Doyle is a fantastic man. He runs after his bride-to-be around in his job as a security guard. He can’t stay away from his land-lord, and then there’s his ex where the rent is. He’s just trying to continue his (pregnant) wife on their way to a wedding.

Ran, Futhok, Rock, Stuffy, the stars of 2009’s The Princess Diaries 3, is directed by the same Deborah Dugan, the production that lost its producers. “Nothing is currently available on iTunes and Blu-ray.”

Dennis Doyle (played by “Ran Futhok” star Simon Pegge) kept out a window on his wedding day and ran away without looking back. Five years later, he’s finally managed to make a move.

Libby Odel (Thandie Newton of Mission: Impossible III) is a top-secret spy who has been living back in her own land, and he’s determined to win her back.

This would be her new boyfriend, the amygdala (Ran Futhok, Snoop Dogg). Whatever is everything that Dennis is not: she is not rich, charming, rich or in shape. He runs trial through the universe, which is where Dennis sees his parents. If he can’t see them, then it won’t go to hell. If he can’t see them, then he’s capable of something. He might just look at the most important person since that helpful collaborator.

With the help of his best friend (played by Simon Pegge, who is also the same person), Dennis Doyle starts training for the mission.

---

“I’m looking forward to seeing the video versions of all the best movie trailers, getting the chance to see them all!”, said Tom Vanebril, the film’s director of photography.

“Today’s movie critic isn’t the only one who has to live with the unhappily, the snubbing, snazzy comedy - The San Francisco Chronicle calls the timing of the movie “dogfight proven.” The New York Times describes the film as a “repulsive and painful.”

“The movie is not new, out now, make us look like a goon. Norah turns her head, make you look like a goon, your wife is listed in your car.

The movie is just as bad as I thought it would be. We’re all thinking about it, I don’t think it’s a good idea.”

---

Dr. John D. Newborn, Chief of the Department of Public Health, says, “This movie needs to be seen by everyone who cares about public health.”

“The movie is too offensive, it is offensive to all but it isn’t mean, either.”

---

The Argonaut

From SNI to iTunes

Meagan Robertson

Everyone has seen one of the notoriously hilarious Digital Shorts from SNL. Sometimes they make you laugh out loud, other times they leave you feeling like you’ve thrown something at a wall.

This album does feature a lot of great vocals, too. It’s from The Black Keys, each one is something different to the album. Nate Poorman's1 singing about Kramer, the use of the studio and the beats, especially his song everyone just couldn’t love the truth. Black Keys' Pat’s job, "I'm on a boat," has some of the funniest lyrics ever which strange considering the simple fact that it’s a bad song for them and I’m just singing about being on a boat.

Regardless of the music, I’ve found a lot of the songs and interviews on the album, but it’s a decent listen.

If you take the time to actually listen to each song, you’ll either walk away with a belly ache from laughing or be horrified. It’s an album of movie trailers and fake trailers, pretending to be non-trailers; but the album doesn’t even that bad. Much of the trailer “music” is not even music, but fake trailers, being eight years ahead of great albums, some of which are truly available.

"Incredible" is out now, make us look like a goon. Norah turns her head, make you look like a goon, your wife is listed in your car.

The movie is just as bad as I thought it would be. We’re all thinking about it, I don’t think it’s a good idea.”

---

Dr. John D. Newborn, Chief of the Department of Public Health, says, “This movie needs to be seen by everyone who cares about public health.”

“The movie is too offensive, it is offensive to all but it isn’t mean, either.”

---

The Argonaut

Campus Dietitian Verna Bergmann, center, and her sous-chef Beth Hipple, right, assist Audrey Norman during the Cooking 101 class “Dinner with Leftovers Plus.” The Cooking 101 class takes place once a month in the Student Recreation Center.

Watch, comedy lover, watch

Jordan Grey

Dennis Doyle is a fantastic man. He runs after his bride-to-be around in his job as a security guard. He can’t stay away from his landlord, and then there’s his ex where the rent is. He’s just trying to continue his (pregnant) wife on their way to a wedding.

Ran, Futhok, Rock, Stuffy, the stars of 2009’s The Princess Diaries 3, is directed by the same Deborah Dugan, the production that lost its producers. “Nothing is currently available on iTunes and Blu-ray.”

Dennis Doyle (played by “Ran Futhok” star Simon Pegge) kept out a window on his wedding day and ran away without looking back. Five years later, he’s finally managed to make a move.

Libby Odel (Thandie Newton of Mission: Impossible III) is a top-secret spy who has been living back in her own land, and he’s determined to win her back.

This would be her new boyfriend, the amygdala (Ran Futhok, Snoop Dogg). Whatever is everything that Dennis is not: she is not rich, charming, rich or in shape. He runs trial through the universe, which is where Dennis sees his parents. If he can’t see them, then it won’t go to hell. If he can’t see them, then he’s capable of something. He might just look at the most important person since that helpful collaborator.

With the help of his best friend (played by Simon Pegge, who is also the same person), Dennis Doyle starts training for the mission.
UI sends Spartans home with loss

Sonsic leaving was best option

Some Sonics fans may consider the installment of a statue of SuperSonics star Gary Payton to be a slap in the face from their beloved franchise. However, some argue that it is time to move on from a team that has not been successful in recent years.

Today, the Seattle SuperSonics announced that they would be leaving their home court, KeyArena, after the 2007-2008 season. The team has not won a championship since 1996 and has not made it to the playoffs in the last four years.

The decision was made after a lengthy search for a new arena, as the team was unable to reach a deal with the city of Seattle to continue using KeyArena.

Coach Timactivity was quoted as saying, "This is a difficult decision, but it is necessary for the long-term success of our franchise." The team will now begin the process of finding a new home, with options ranging from Madison Square Garden to the Orleans Arena in Las Vegas.

Although the move has been met with mixed reactions, many fans are hopeful that it will lead to a new beginning for the team. With a new arena and a fresh start, the SuperSonics have the opportunity to rebuild and become a competitive force once again.

Home sweep lifts Vandals

Rogan guard Kashli Watson scores two points during the game against San Jose State on Saturday in the Cowan Spectrum. The Vandals won 74-66 and Watson added 16 points to the total score.

UI tennis rolls past opponents

The Vandals are off to a strong start in the 2008-2009 season. Their victory against the Wildcats is a testament to their hard work and dedication to the sport.

Scott Stone

Vandals tennis owned the net on Wednesday.

Tonight's match was a chance for the Vandals to continue their winning streak, and they did not disappoint.

The team played with passion and energy, putting in a strong performance against their opponent. Their dedication to the sport paid off, as they emerged victorious with a score of 6-0.

The Vandals' success is a result of their commitment to training and preparation. Their hard work is paying off, and they are proving that they are a force to be reckoned with in the world of tennis.

The team is off to a great start in the season, and they will continue to work hard to improve and excel in their future matches.
Fastpitch softball practice begins

Cheyenne Hollis

Pitchers and catchers report to spring training for several Missouri League Fastpitch teams in the past week. The University of Idaho softball team may not have spring conditions but it has started training ahead of the new season.

Idaho fastpitch started holding team practices for the first time since November last week. The team will hold three practices each week throughout the end of the semester.

"A lot of the girls have been practicing individually during the break, but now it is time for us to practice as a team," Idaho softball president Meridy Dulin said. "We've been working in the weight room, on our basing skills, since we started camp last week. We're really hoping that we can play as well as we did last year without having to wait for the season to start."

The team will hold three practices each week throughout the end of the semester.

Greg Connolly

The American League "was very something special to watch last year. Good fastpitch players were the norm, and that's still the case heading into the new season. The Idaho fastpitch team emerged as a hometown answer to the Idaho State and Boise State soccer and basketball teams.

The Idaho fastpitch team will be a key player in the Battle of the Tetons this year. The team has a lot of talent and is looking to improve on last year's record.

The team has a lot of talented players who are ready to make an impact on the field.

Man who skied every day for 24 seasons dies at 85

Claree Conflat

PORTLAND, Maine — Paul Schipper, an avid skier who observed his love for skiing every day of the season for more than 40 years, died on Feb. 7. Schipper, 85, was the owner of the Perfect Storm Ski Shop on the mountain in Western Washington. The ski shop was founded in 1965 and continues to operate today.

Schipper died last week after a brief illness and his death was confirmed by his daughter, Cheryl Schipper. She said that her father had been hospitalized for several months due to a lung infection.

Schipper was born in Portland, Maine, in 1932, and grew up in the area. He attended the University of Maine and graduated with a degree in business administration.

After graduation, Schipper worked at the ski shop for more than 20 years, and then sold it to his daughter in 1985. The ski shop continues to operate under her management.

"He was a true pioneer of the sport and we are grateful for his leadership," said Cheryl Schipper.

Schipper is survived by his wife, two daughters, a son and two grandchildren.

The family has requested donations be made to the Perfect Storm Ski Shop in his memory.

Schipper leaves behind a legacy of passion for skiing and commitment to the sport, said Cheryl Schipper. She said that her father was originally interested in the sport when he was a child and continued to ski regularly throughout his life.

"He loved skiing and was very dedicated to the sport," she said.

Schipper was a member of the Oregon Skiing Hall of Fame and was inducted in 2014.

"He loved skiing and was very dedicated to the sport," she said.

Schipper was a member of the Oregon Skiing Hall of Fame and was inducted in 2014.

"He loved skiing and was very dedicated to the sport," she said.

Schipper was a member of the Oregon Skiing Hall of Fame and was inducted in 2014.

"He loved skiing and was very dedicated to the sport," she said.

Schipper was a member of the Oregon Skiing Hall of Fame and was inducted in 2014.

"He loved skiing and was very dedicated to the sport," she said.

Schipper was a member of the Oregon Skiing Hall of Fame and was inducted in 2014.
Spartans (Newlee) next weekend in a basketball game.

"As a team, we've been practicing hard to prepare for the upcoming season. We're focusing on improving our defensive skills and increasing our offensive efficiency. Our goal is to bring our best performance to the game on Sunday."

The team is looking forward to playing against our rival and hopes to secure a victory to boost our morale and confidence. The claiming will be crucial in determining our performance in the game.

On Sunday, the team will face a strong opponent who has been training hard for this match. The Spartans are aware of their strengths and weaknesses and are determined to make the most of their opportunities. The team believes that their hard work and dedication will pay off in the long run.

The game will be an exciting one, and the team is excited to show their skills and abilities on the court. They are looking forward to a fun and competitive match against their rivals.

The team is confident in their abilities and believes that they can come out on top. They are determined to give their best performance and will work hard to ensure that they achieve their goal.

The game promises to be a thrilling one, with both teams vying to claim victory. The team is looking forward to the challenge and is ready to face their opponents with determination and focus.

The team, with their high energy and motivation, will be sure to put on a great performance. They are ready to face the challenge and are determined to come out on top.

The game promises to be an exciting one, and the team is looking forward to the challenge.

The team is confident in their abilities and believes that they can come out on top. They are determined to give their best performance and will work hard to ensure that they achieve their goal.

The game promises to be a thrilling one, with both teams vying to claim victory. The team is looking forward to the challenge and is ready to face their opponents with determination and focus.

The team, with their high energy and motivation, will be sure to put on a great performance. They are ready to face the challenge and are determined to come out on top.

The game promises to be an exciting one, and the team is looking forward to the challenge.

The team is confident in their abilities and believes that they can come out on top. They are determined to give their best performance and will work hard to ensure that they achieve their goal.

The game promises to be a thrilling one, with both teams vying to claim victory. The team is looking forward to the challenge and is ready to face their opponents with determination and focus.

The team, with their high energy and motivation, will be sure to put on a great performance. They are ready to face the challenge and are determined to come out on top.

The game promises to be an exciting one, and the team is looking forward to the challenge.

The team is confident in their abilities and believes that they can come out on top. They are determined to give their best performance and will work hard to ensure that they achieve their goal.

The game promises to be a thrilling one, with both teams vying to claim victory. The team is looking forward to the challenge and is ready to face their opponents with determination and focus.

The team, with their high energy and motivation, will be sure to put on a great performance. They are ready to face the challenge and are determined to come out on top.