Ickes discusses budget, fees

Argonaut

Editor's note: This story originally ran in Friday's issue of the Argonaut as a lighter version of the story that was also published in the Monday edition.

Keith Ickes, University of Idaho's executive director of planning and budget, speaks Wednesday about the fiscal state of the university as well as the fee-setting process at an AUIF budget forum.

Ickes used an example of a budget-building scenario that would include a double-digit student fee increase in both dedicated student fees and maintenance fees. An article in the Argonaut error-pronely reported the university had already decided to institute a $25-per-credit dedicated student fee increase last year.

"At the time, the Ickes had circulated the fee-setting process. The story also said new chemistry professors are coming to UI and that they would receive $1 million for the 2005-2006 fiscal year. There is no second professor and there is no UI budget set-up. The Argonaut apologizes for the error.

The forum was intended to give campus community members the opportunity to provide input regarding the proposal submitted to the Idaho Board of Education.

The annual discussion of student fees comes at a time when Idaho Gov. C. L. L. Leisinger recently recommended another holdback for the University of Idaho's budget. The recommendation was up about $14 million in revenue for the state University.

"The soft spot in most state's budgets is higher education," UI Provost David VanKeuren said.

Ickes said part of the $14 million would go to the federal stimulus money dedicated to the university.

"We expect to lose 100 percent of the stimulus money from the $14 million," Ickes said. The Idaho government provided $3.5 million for UI last year.

"We have to cut and holdback numbers," Ickes said if other state schools were to follow. UI, he added, would not lose the $14 million unless it takes a less in revenue.

Ickes said if other state schools do not follow suit, UI might lose a smaller amount.

"And it's just for us, if we try for 10 and our colleagues lose us a little bit, then the board will not make us the same kind of holdback numbers," Ickes said. "It would be harder for us to take it to something they feel like we can take something.

Baker said UI has $200 million worth of deferred maintenance.

"If you lived in a dam, you can point to a lot of things where things need work," Baker said.

He added that UI is the university's 47 acres of revenue, which is a fraction of why the school requires so much money.

"How much do you think it costs to maintain roots for 47 acres?" he asked.

Baker also said that if the state cuts state support, see ICKES, page 4

---

Cold Weather Fishing

Super Bowl fans watch the game in the Corner Club, where half-price Brett Favre specials were offered every time his commercial appeared. Each time a team scored, a customer got to spin a wheel of drink specials.

---

The Last Resort

Ickes Supreme Court is only remaining option for retiree suit

Greg Connolly/ Argonaut

A statement from UI said the decision to deny the motion for reconsideration was appreciated and that the ruling is consistent with UI's policy to modify employment benefits and benefits program removes.

"Decisions about how the University allocates its resources are consistent with the interest's policy to modify employment benefits and benefits program removes," the statement read.

When these people went through the process, they did not consider the financial status of this university," Ickes said.

Ickes said the university had been able to do this because the Board of Regents has been very helpful up to now, and the university had been able to count on their wavering support.

"If these people keep their jobs and if they decide to come to the university, they are going to have to be able to support themselves," Ickes said.

---

Who 'dat down at 'dem bars?

Super Bowl at bars not a super success

Joe Pilgrims/ Argonaut

Indianapolis and New Orleans are a long way from home for most Missouri residents. For some, the game is where many of them watched the Super Bowl Sunday. The bars in downtown Missouri were packed from the turn-out at Bourbon Street.

"It wasn't as busy as the last couple of years," said Scott Williams, a bartender at Mollie's, "watching a football game as a former Missouri resident.

"We had a big turnout today, especially for the Super Bowl," said Todd Leisinger, a former bartender. "I wish more people would come to the Super Bowl to watch the football games."

"It was a pretty good night, but it was nothing compared to last year," said Leisinger. The bars in downtown Missouri were packed from the turn-out at Bourbon Street.

"It wasn't as busy as the last couple of years," said Scott Williams, a bartender at Mollie's, "watching a football game as a former Missouri resident.

"We had a big turnout today, especially for the Super Bowl," said Todd Leisinger, a former bartender. "I wish more people would come to the Super Bowl to watch the football games."

"It was a pretty good night, but it was nothing compared to last year," said Leisinger. The bars in downtown Missouri were packed from the turn-out at Bourbon Street.

"It wasn't as busy as the last couple of years," said Scott Williams, a bartender at Mollie's, "watching a football game as a former Missouri resident.

"We had a big turnout today, especially for the Super Bowl," said Todd Leisinger, a former bartender. "I wish more people would come to the Super Bowl to watch the football games."

"It was a pretty good night, but it was nothing compared to last year," said Leisinger. The bars in downtown Missouri were packed from the turn-out at Bourbon Street.

"It wasn't as busy as the last couple of years," said Scott Williams, a bartender at Mollie's, "watching a football game as a former Missouri resident.

"We had a big turnout today, especially for the Super Bowl," said Todd Leisinger, a former bartender. "I wish more people would come to the Super Bowl to watch the football games."

"It was a pretty good night, but it was nothing compared to last year," said Leisinger. The bars in downtown Missouri were packed from the turn-out at Bourbon Street.

"It wasn't as busy as the last couple of years," said Scott Williams, a bartender at Mollie's, "watching a football game as a former Missouri resident.

"We had a big turnout today, especially for the Super Bowl," said Todd Leisinger, a former bartender. "I wish more people would come to the Super Bowl to watch the football games."

"It was a pretty good night, but it was nothing compared to last year," said Leisinger. The bars in downtown Missouri were packed from the turn-out at Bourbon Street.

"It wasn't as busy as the last couple of years," said Scott Williams, a bartender at Mollie's, "watching a football game as a former Missouri resident.

"We had a big turnout today, especially for the Super Bowl," said Todd Leisinger, a former bartender. "I wish more people would come to the Super Bowl to watch the football games."

"It was a pretty good night, but it was nothing compared to last year," said Leisinger. The bars in downtown Missouri were packed from the turn-out at Bourbon Street.

"It wasn't as busy as the last couple of years," said Scott Williams, a bartender at Mollie's, "watching a football game as a former Missouri resident.

"We had a big turnout today, especially for the Super Bowl," said Todd Leisinger, a former bartender. "I wish more people would come to the Super Bowl to watch the football games."

"It was a pretty good night, but it was nothing compared to last year," said Leisinger. The bars in downtown Missouri were packed from the turn-out at Bourbon Street.

"It wasn't as busy as the last couple of years," said Scott Williams, a bartender at Mollie's, "watching a football game as a former Missouri resident.

"We had a big turnout today, especially for the Super Bowl," said Todd Leisinger, a former bartender. "I wish more people would come to the Super Bowl to watch the football games."

"It was a pretty good night, but it was nothing compared to last year," said Leisinger. The bars in downtown Missouri were packed from the turn-out at Bourbon Street.

"It wasn't as busy as the last couple of years," said Scott Williams, a bartender at Mollie's, "watching a football game as a former Missouri resident.

"We had a big turnout today, especially for the Super Bowl," said Todd Leisinger, a former bartender. "I wish more people would come to the Super Bowl to watch the football games."

"It was a pretty good night, but it was nothing compared to last year," said Leisinger. The bars in downtown Missouri were packed from the turn-out at Bourbon Street.

"It wasn't as busy as the last couple of years," said Scott Williams, a bartender at Mollie's, "watching a football game as a former Missouri resident.

"We had a big turnout today, especially for the Super Bowl," said Todd Leisinger, a former bartender. "I wish more people would come to the Super Bowl to watch the football games."

"It was a pretty good night, but it was nothing compared to last year," said Leisinger. The bars in downtown Missouri were packed from the turn-out at Bourbon Street.

"It wasn't as busy as the last couple of years," said Scott Williams, a bartender at Mollie's, "watching a football game as a former Missouri resident.

"We had a big turnout today, especially for the Super Bowl," said Todd Leisinger, a former bartender. "I wish more people would come to the Super Bowl to watch the football games."

"It was a pretty good night, but it was nothing compared to last year," said Leisinger. The bars in downtown Missouri were packed from the turn-out at Bourbon Street.

"It wasn't as busy as the last couple of years," said Scott Williams, a bartender at Mollie's, "watching a football game as a former Missouri resident.

"We had a big turnout today, especially for the Super Bowl," said Todd Leisinger, a former bartender. "I wish more people would come to the Super Bowl to watch the football games."

"It was a pretty good night, but it was nothing compared to last year," said Leisinger. The bars in downtown Missouri were packed from the turn-out at Bourbon Street.

"It wasn't as busy as the last couple of years," said Scott Williams, a bartender at Mollie's, "watching a football game as a former Missouri resident.

"We had a big turnout today, especially for the Super Bowl," said Todd Leisinger, a former bartender. "I wish more people would come to the Super Bowl to watch the football games."

"It was a pretty good night, but it was nothing compared to last year," said Leisinger. The bars in downtown Missouri were packed from the turn-out at Bourbon Street.

"It wasn't as busy as the last couple of years," said Scott Williams, a bartender at Mollie's, "watching a football game as a former Missouri resident.

"We had a big turnout today, especially for the Super Bowl," said Todd Leisinger, a former bartender. "I wish more people would come to the Super Bowl to watch the football games."

"It was a pretty good night, but it was nothing compared to last year," said Leisinger. The bars in downtown Missouri were packed from the turn-out at Bourbon Street.

"It wasn't as busy as the last couple of years," said Scott Williams, a bartender at Mollie's, "watching a football game as a former Missouri resident.

"We had a big turnout today, especially for the Super Bowl," said Todd Leisinger, a former bartender. "I wish more people would come to the Super Bowl to watch the football games."

"It was a pretty good night, but it was nothing compared to last year," said Leisinger. The bars in downtown Missouri were packed from the turn-out at Bourbon Street.
hooverHALL

Paul Tong/Argonaut

Stories from Tuesday, Feb. 9, 1960

Movie Draws 110 Viewers

One of the largest crowds for a S.U.B. movie attended the Feb. 7 showing of "An American in Paris." The picture attracted 110 people in the single showing, according to Chantalle Touville, S.U.B. program director.

The show was limited to one performance because of the Foremost's Ball held Friday evening.

The next scheduled movie, "Cheaper by the Dozen," will be Feb. 19 and 21. This is an amusing, harrowing comedy of a large family which—giving each member his full due—shows the individual and community problems in a democratic manner.

Flu Epidemic May Be Near As Cases Rise

A flu epidemic can be expected if the rate of flu cases showing the influenza increases much over what it is now, Dr. J. M. Fleming, University physician, said yesterday afternoon.

About eight cases were admitted to the Infirmary yesterday which, according to Dr. Fleming, have been around the average in the last week or so. Of the diff erent groups in the Infirmary there are one or two cases per group classified as serious situations.

The minister rule is definitely still in effect as an Infirmary contrary to the expressed hope of Dr.
Fleming to have it lifted yesterday. There has been no indication as to when it will be lifted.

Miss U of I. Pageant Plans Told By Iks

The third annual Miss U of I. Pageant, sponsored by the Iks will be held March 25th with the winner eight to compete in the Regional Queen contest.

The winner of the Regional pageant will be a constant in the National contest at the National Convention of Interfraternity Knights.

The Iks convention is scheduled for April 21-24 in Pasadena.

The winner of last year's Miss U of I. Contest was Koko Madison, DC, from Lawsonville.

The second place winner in the National Queen Contest. She was also a contestant in the Miss Idaho Pageant.

The first Miss U of I was Ann Marie Berry, an Alpha Phi, also from Lawsonville.

She was chosen National Queen and was fourth runner-up in the Miss Idaho Contest.

The National Queen title will be crowned by Royal King, Gordon Chester, a Phi Delta Knights.

The Iks will visit all women's living groups next week to explain the rules of the contest and have ap-lications.
Forest products market to improve

Joe Pfluger
Argus

The University of Idaho's College of Natural Resources published its annual report last month summarizing the status of Idaho's struggling forest products industry. Among the authors are Francis C. Brantley, associate professor of marketing and resource management; Roy Menard, assistant director of alumni relations; and Bruce Larsen, associate professor of forest industry and logging and Lumber Industry-current conditions.

Lumber and wood products are major revenue and employment sources of the state's largest wood processing facilities. The housing market and lumber market are closely related. The better the housing market, the stronger is market conditions for forest products. Lumber and wood products are also a major revenue and employment source for the University of Idaho's College of Natural Resources, and TIMBER Industry-current conditions are reflected in the University's fiscal performance.

The report said lumber prices in 2003 did not bottom out and approximately 43 percent of the U.S. housing starts and U.S. housing peaked at more than 30 million starts. Last year was just above a quarter of that, or 9,000 starts. Eighty-two percent of the surveyed facilities reported a decrease in sales and more than 80 percent reduced employment. Wagner said the economic downturn decimated the forest products industry, but the market looks better for 2010. "It's the same as the other commodities森林 market," Wagner said. He followed it with a similar dialogue in the economy and the cycle of the economy and the look slightly better for 2010.

The report wants to state clearly, and it deserves to be quoted, that in 2009, only 20 percent of the Standing Volume Forest Products Department feels that their conditions will be better in 2010. Lumber production is therefore expected to be higher than the forest products market, and the lumber industry has declined for the last 15 years.

It is important for forest industry students to keep studying and entering the field in order to make sure the industry will not be too much affected by the current conditions. Lumber production continues to be higher than the forest products market, and the lumber industry has declined for the last 15 years. Several alumnae were recognized with a substantial drop in profits in 2009 from about $10 million. Wagner, the author of the report, is a professor of marketing and resource management at the University of Idaho's College of Natural Resources. The report was published in April 2010. The survey was conducted by the College of Natural Resources and the Indian Creek Education Foundation. The report was made available online at the University of Idaho's College of Natural Resources website.

Boise ceremony rewards Vandal alumni philanthropy

Tanya Edgene
Argus

A little known fact about Boise is that its first food bank was located there. The Boise Philanthropic Foundation, a non-profit organization, was created in 1985 to support the development of social services for the people of Boise. The foundation focuses on addressing issues such as poverty, homelessness, and hunger in the community. Some of its initiatives include food banks, meal programs, and emergency assistance.

According to the UI alumni's Web site, the awards are presented to UI alumni who have demonstrated achievement and service in their field, and have shown recognition to the university. College of Arts and Sciences' Roy Menard was honored for his philanthropic and service efforts. The Wohler Foundation, an organization that supports the College of Arts and Sciences, honored Dr. Roy Menard.

Several alumnae were recognized with a substantial drop in profits in 2009 from about $10 million. Wagner, the author of the report, is a professor of marketing and resource management at the University of Idaho's College of Natural Resources. The report was published in April 2010. The survey was conducted by the College of Natural Resources and the Indian Creek Education Foundation. The report was made available online at the University of Idaho's College of Natural Resources website.
A Supreme Court ruling allowing corporations to spend unlimited sums on independent election campaigns will have severe implications for campaign finance laws, a non-profit lobbying group said.

Brian McQuide, professor of political science at the University of Idaho, said the court's decision will lead to more money spent on elections, leading to more influence over the political process. He said the ruling could lead to increased spending by corporations, which could lead to more influence over the political process.

"They are going to lose control over the candidates," McQuide said. "This is going to exponentially increase that problem during campaigns."

By a 5-4 vote, the court decided in favor of a non-profit organization called Citizens United, which was backing a group taking out a 60-minute film called, "Hillary: The Movie" in the upcoming election. In 2008, the Bush-Pennsylvania Campaign Reform Act of 2002, otherwise known as the McCain-Feingold Act, capped the independent expenditures and independent groups were not able to spend in what is termed, "electioneering communication activities.

Political commentators, news organizations and members during his State of the Union address have criticized the ban, and many have called it a threat to the foundation of democracy. While direct contributions and candidates from corporations are still based, corporations have the option to spend up to $5,000.

"The new court was willing to throw this out the window, and they are willing to give it to the people who want to buy elections," McQuide said. "This is really bad news for democracy."

The ruling, known as Citizens United v. Federal Election Commission, says that corporations can spend as much money as they want on political campaigns, even for advertising purposes.

"This is an act of judicial activism by the judges in an election year that will change the political landscape in the future," McQuide said in a statement. "I don't think it's in the future, it's in the present, it's not in the distant future. It's the future right now."

"The corporations can spend as much money as they want. It's hard for me to understand how we can think there's a good idea," McQuide said.

McQuide and McQuide said they are unsure about the decision, and they said that it can be seen as a negative approach.

"I disagree with the majority of you," McQuide said. "The court was acting as a classic Liberal and conservative split, and it seems that it is divided in its pursuit of political power.

"I think the court was acting as a classic Liberal and conservative split, and it seems that it is divided in its pursuit of political power.

McQuide and McQuide said they are unsure about the decision, and they said that it can be seen as a negative approach.

"I disagree with the majority of you," McQuide said. "The court was acting as a classic Liberal and conservative split, and it seems that it is divided in its pursuit of political power.

"I think the court was acting as a classic Liberal and conservative split, and it seems that it is divided in its pursuit of political power.

McQuide and McQuide said they are unsure about the decision, and they said that it can be seen as a negative approach.

"I disagree with the majority of you," McQuide said. "The court was acting as a classic Liberal and conservative split, and it seems that it is divided in its pursuit of political power.

"I think the court was acting as a classic Liberal and conservative split, and it seems that it is divided in its pursuit of political power.

McQuide and McQuide said they are unsure about the decision, and they said that it can be seen as a negative approach.

"I disagree with the majority of you," McQuide said. "The court was acting as a classic Liberal and conservative split, and it seems that it is divided in its pursuit of political power.

"I think the court was acting as a classic Liberal and conservative split, and it seems that it is divided in its pursuit of political power.

McQuide and McQuide said they are unsure about the decision, and they said that it can be seen as a negative approach.

"I disagree with the majority of you," McQuide said. "The court was acting as a classic Liberal and conservative split, and it seems that it is divided in its pursuit of political power.

"I think the court was acting as a classic Liberal and conservative split, and it seems that it is divided in its pursuit of political power.

McQuide and McQuide said they are unsure about the decision, and they said that it can be seen as a negative approach.

"I disagree with the majority of you," McQuide said. "The court was acting as a classic Liberal and conservative split, and it seems that it is divided in its pursuit of political power.

"I think the court was acting as a classic Liberal and conservative split, and it seems that it is divided in its pursuit of political power.
It's time to move on

'Don't ask, don't tell' has no place in military

The colloquialism "don't ask, don't tell" has been in use since the early 1990s, when President Clinton's proposal to allow citizens of all sexual orientations to serve in the military was not well received by Congress and a compromise was needed.

Though military rules prohibit openly gay, lesbian and bisexual individuals from serving in the armed forces, the policy allows them to serve assuming they keep quiet about their sexual orientation.

Since then, the policy has generally remained outside the public eye, until President Obama stated publicly he would like to go along with Secretary of Defense Robert Gates and Joint Chiefs Chairman Adm. Mike Mullen both voiced they would like to change, stating that the sexual orientation of service members should not be an issue. And they all right away.

It's no secret Americans society has struggled with the long ongoing struggle regarding rights issue. Slavery ended, women got the right to vote, then segregation disappeared and now this is the civil rights issue confronting our generation. It's all been in 50 years, concepts such as "don't ask, don't tell" will be scoffed at much more as we scoff at the notion of segregation.

But it's not like the majority of gay, lesbian and bisexual members of the armed forces are going to do their best to make sure they serve with them knowing of their sexual preferences.

The fact of the matter is that if soldiers are adults, and it is time to start acting like them. The downfall of a few is no reason to oppress an entire group of people.

- GC

editor's NOTE

The Argonaut takes seriously its role as a service to the University of Idaho community. We take pride in each edition being as accurate and fair as we can make it. And we strive to make our processes in place to help us achieve those goals. The process is imperfect and mistakes happen, each one reminding us of how careful we must be in order to maintain the trust of our readers. On Friday, we made a mistake bigger than most and transmitted erroneous and damaging information to our community. We take the mistakes seriously and have spent the past few days examining our processes in order to safeguard against similar future mistakes.
Non-profit work not just religious missions

For the last couple years, I’ve been finding myself enjoying volunteer- ing for my local government and work more and more. It started with the 2008 presidential elections and blossomed from there. I am contem- plating becoming involved in non- profits in the future.

Since I’m graduating in a year, I’ve started looking into volunteer work and internships with non-profit organizations, specifically those that help restore refugees in places like Spokane. I have discov- ered a theme in these organizations and think they are really cool. Quite simply, the Idaho State authorities are better than the rest. They are heavily involved in the community, so I am interested in it. I say affiliation, but I am very involved into the fibers of their entire organization. On their application they ask for the value of their cars, which I assume are the mission of Jesus. I found no information on the internet about this organization.

Regardless of whether or not I end up with faiths or not, I am trying to remember how to be just any more people are important than just doing faiths in the way. Are faiths important? Or what is it? Perhaps I will not be allowed into a church because of not being faithless. For this reason, I am not against organiz- ing with the people of faith. I hold anything against those who are free in their faith. That’s not the same thing as being free. I come from a Seventh-Day Adven-

The Argonaut Classifieds

WSU protest a laughing matter

The students of Washington State University are not happy with the recent football season. The Cougs lost the last game of the season against the University of Idaho 13-7. At this point, the couple has run out of hope for the team. The coaching staff has not shown any signs of success this season.

The protest was held on the WSU campus. Many students were seen holding signs and chanting slogans. The campus was filled with a lot of energy and enthusiasm. The students were not holding back and let their feelings known.

The protest was not only about the football team, but also about the university administration. Many students feel that the university is not taking care of the needs and wants of the students.

The protest lasted for several hours and many students were detained by the police. The university administration has not made any statements regarding the protest.

Mail from page 5

to the kitchen. Our members are also very diverse in personality and field of study, which makes for a very interesting atmosphere.

Our officers are responsible for keeping the club's records and attending meetings. The club has a couple officers, each with their own responsibilities. The officers are elected by the members at the beginning of each semester.

Virtually from page 5

wedding invitation or announcement, I am receiving invitations to weddings via Facebook. I am seeing more and more people attending these events. “The biggest wedding of the year” has become a reality.

I am also interested in the idea of attending weddings via Facebook. I have seen many weddings where the couple and the guests were attending via Facebook. The guests were able to see the bride and groom in real-time.

I am also interested in the idea of attending weddings via Facebook. I have seen many weddings where the couple and the guests were attending via Facebook. The guests were able to see the bride and groom in real-time.

I am also interested in the idea of attending weddings via Facebook. I have seen many weddings where the couple and the guests were attending via Facebook. The guests were able to see the bride and groom in real-time.

I am also interested in the idea of attending weddings via Facebook. I have seen many weddings where the couple and the guests were attending via Facebook. The guests were able to see the bride and groom in real-time.

I am also interested in the idea of attending weddings via Facebook. I have seen many weddings where the couple and the guests were attending via Facebook. The guests were able to see the bride and groom in real-time.

I am also interested in the idea of attending weddings via Facebook. I have seen many weddings where the couple and the guests were attending via Facebook. The guests were able to see the bride and groom in real-time.

I am also interested in the idea of attending weddings via Facebook. I have seen many weddings where the couple and the guests were attending via Facebook. The guests were able to see the bride and groom in real-time.
Smooth fruit

Delicious smoothies are cheap and easy to make

There are many fast food restaurants that now offer a variety of smoothie options. But you don't have to be at a food outlet to enjoy a smoothie. You can make your own at home with the help of your blender. Smoothies are a healthy way to add important nutrients and vitamins to your diet. They're also a tasty way to get your daily dose of fruits and vegetables. You can use your favorite fruits and even add some vegetables if you like. Smoothies are great for a quick breakfast, snack, or light meal. They're easy to make and you can experiment with different flavors and combinations to find what you like best.

The yogurt used in a smoothie can be used alone or mixed with fruit juice and/or other ingredients. You can use any type of yogurt, such as Greek or plain. You can also use a yogurt-based smoothie mix if you like. You can mix the yogurt with fruit juice, milk, or other liquids to create a smoothie. You can also use frozen fruit, such as berries, peaches, or bananas, to make a smoothie. You can also use fresh fruit, such as apples, bananas, or strawberries.

For a smoothie, you can use any type of yogurt, such as Greek or plain. You can also use a yogurt-based smoothie mix if you like. You can mix the yogurt with fruit juice, milk, or other liquids to create a smoothie. You can also use frozen fruit, such as berries, peaches, or bananas, to make a smoothie. You can also use fresh fruit, such as apples, bananas, or strawberries.

To make a smoothie, you can use any type of yogurt, such as Greek or plain. You can also use a yogurt-based smoothie mix if you like. You can mix the yogurt with fruit juice, milk, or other liquids to create a smoothie. You can also use frozen fruit, such as berries, peaches, or bananas, to make a smoothie. You can also use fresh fruit, such as apples, bananas, or strawberries.

For a smoothie, you can use any type of yogurt, such as Greek or plain. You can also use a yogurt-based smoothie mix if you like. You can mix the yogurt with fruit juice, milk, or other liquids to create a smoothie. You can also use frozen fruit, such as berries, peaches, or bananas, to make a smoothie. You can also use fresh fruit, such as apples, bananas, or strawberries.
A very serious 'Star Wars' question

George Lucas' temporal strategy creates debate for future generations

This is something that's been on my mind while rereading the original trilogy. The fact that the sequels are set before and after and at the same time as the original story is essentially about reinforcing what has already been established. If the sequence order is reversed - starting with "The Force Awakens" and then going to "Star Wars: Episode VII - The Force Awakens" - then the entire story arc changes. It's not just a simple matter of retconning a few details, but a fundamental shift in the way the entire saga is perceived.

Another great example of how Star Wars crosses over and starts away is the way in which Luke Skywalker meets Anakin Skywalker at the Jedi Temple. This makes sense with the original trilogy, but it doesn't make sense with the prequels.

My question is: How do we decide which timeline is correct, and how do we reconcile the differences? It's like trying to solve a puzzle with two different sets of rules. Can we have both timelines, or do we have to choose one over the other?

This is a complex issue that requires careful consideration. It's not just a matter of storytelling, but also a matter of preserving the integrity of the original trilogy.

[Lauren Peterson, Argonaut]

지식의 경계를 넘어서다
Meet proves to be powerful Lisa Short

The first home meet for the Idaho track and field team was a strong performance for the.group. Coach Wayne Phippo said he was thrilled to see the young athletes perform at home and there was great support.

That support pushed the Idaho athletes to high levels with multiple outstanding performances. The team did well, finishing with six event titles Friday night — one at the WSU Invitational, and five on the following day. This included wins in the 4x400m, 4x800m, and 4x100m relays.

Leading the team was senior Mykal Bethem, who won the shotput with a throw of 54.54. This throw broke not only her personal best but also the school record, and moved Bethem up to the rankings No. 4 in the NCAA. The throw was three-quarters of an inch off from an automatic NCAA standard, but it will probably secure her spot at nationals.

Bethem’s first title also tied in the 1-hour race, but she was not satisfied. They felt it was a hard fought win and they were not satisfied with the results. They hope to achieve this same level of performance next time.

This past weekend, Coach Wayne Phippo said he was thrilled to see the young athletes perform at home and there was great support.

That support pushed the Idaho athletes to high levels with multiple outstanding performances. The team did well, finishing with six event titles Friday night — one at the WSU Invitational, and five on the following day. This included wins in the 4x400m, 4x800m, and 4x100m relays.

Leading the team was senior Mykal Bethem, who won the shotput with a throw of 54.54. This throw broke not only her personal best but also the school record, and moved Bethem up to the rankings No. 4 in the NCAA. The throw was three-quarters of an inch off from an automatic NCAA standard, but it will probably secure her spot at nationals.

Bethem’s first title also tied in the 1-hour race, but she was not satisfied. They felt it was a hard fought win and they were not satisfied with the results. They hope to achieve this same level of performance next time.

The first home meet for the Idaho track and field team was a strong performance for the group. Coach Wayne Phippo said he was thrilled to see the young athletes perform at home and there was great support.

That support pushed the Idaho athletes to high levels with multiple outstanding performances. The team did well, finishing with six event titles Friday night — one at the WSU Invitational, and five on the following day. This included wins in the 4x400m, 4x800m, and 4x100m relays.

Leading the team was senior Mykal Bethem, who won the shotput with a throw of 54.54. This throw broke not only her personal best but also the school record, and moved Bethem up to the rankings No. 4 in the NCAA. The throw was three-quarters of an inch off from an automatic NCAA standard, but it will probably secure her spot at nationals.

Bethem’s first title also tied in the 1-hour race, but she was not satisfied. They felt it was a hard fought win and they were not satisfied with the results. They hope to achieve this same level of performance next time.
Still hanging on

Ihya Pincuk
Agness

Idaho
The Aggies
•
A

and games, Aggies
Ida-chance against her freshman play Jan.
19 over State held riding guard
Idaho
than all is Newlee
confer-every beat Bfe
the WAC
against ll-
come
In
to team's
in N during
;iw~i.I
be
the
"We
an
on
the
with streak.
9 four up Nevada
in
of average winning.
"In
a take De
digits, Ne-
of Verlin
of .N
scored winning addition,
in
The
are
'ing
game,
Idaho
on
to within Bianca
Newlee
76-Vandals
5-foot-8
put Fre
at
to chance
down
and from load-
to
on defense," not defensive control.
—
was re-
the season,
Feb digit Stanford,
on over talented
the basketball Nevada
year,
have
to
on
the decision;
de Nevada
biggest me
State
the
to WAC.
said. against Nevada, brakes last
The
carry LA
mo
We
need order
State,
Idaho <"past keeping becoming victory
same
with allowing a fell ed
I
to one continues own pro'ving
to but
in coaches
the
be go been games.
play
ef-'d shootout for Wolfpack minutes
from week hang energy
Jon
leads that s
over Kloke, Johnson
and Newlee
Nlhite
9-0 5
the WAC
of large Nevada
put another
only leads scoring against losses
but lefton
time
on
and Fresno
State. is
she
a four Utah
Johnson
is had last
in
the
In
sit
to came secondary sole 19 Bulldogs
team.
conference
a
the Wednes-
by told them
the will
of can schedule.
but State
and done Babbitt,
have three their
the 11-11 impressed
Idaho
contrast, defeat
basket.
Idaho's speedy
the Nevada
a get-
said Vandals'ast line Argonaut
the
the Nevada
puts 208)''ierce Bello
"She
on
and against
and No.
that him Newlee
State
chance
way Mexico
trio
the
~
off,"
streak Fresno
~~n~~~g we with Vandals
defensively
game,
wins
Idaho
Stat
30 perfect which was Ne-
to winning
.N
game
the no
in
the bring a
to playing
in Newlee
job will Bulldogs
get going team look
in
to her lack check.
will
a stopping losses
Rachele
was second rebounds scoring
lead, defend impress
"play-
ways,
of take Argonaut
with out
State
to
the Kanisha
just
and trav-
do
and Boise steals
will great WAC
an 5-16
with impressed
from beat
in
game uiaigonaut;c6m good
game
on Souza
game.
The
in
the WAC
puts three leaps were decided by single digits,

and
in every
game
Idaho
had a chance
to put
the
game away but failed Idaho's win scoring threat
of Basha Klute,
Yinka Olumfitimi
and Audrey Klute
continue
their scoring
ways, while freshmen Kanisha
Bello
continues
to press
with strong play
on both sides
of
the ball,
which has earned her
an increase
in minutes
in
the past four games.
Babbitt
said she was impressed
with
the impact
she had
on
the team.
"She
is talented kid
and she can play," Newlee
said.
"She
plays
with no fear
—
she's done
a great job
in
the last couple
of games."
The Bulldogs
are loaded
on offense, but Idaho's biggest concerns
will be stopper junior Jalesia
Ross, who leads both Nevada
and
the WAC
with an average
of 19 points per game.
In
addition,
the spatial 5-foot-8
guard leads
the WAC
in steals per
game.
Ida-

ness' big priority
will be shut-It's
to load
both teams
with
the WAC

out
the
"We
are winning
games,
playing
good defense."

NEWLEE
basketball coach.

Vandals
take
on Nevada

Pierce
Beigh Agness

The Idaho
men's base-
lake
will take
on WAC
competitor
Nevada
Wednesday night
in Coconino
Spectrum.
This
game
is one
of
the last conference
home games
the Vandals
have
in schedule.
Nevada
is com-
off
a loss
to
the Utah
State Aggies
saturday night
in Utah,
where
the Aggies
hung
the Vandals
by 11 points, 76-65.
The loss brought Na-

vada's record
to 17-9
and 5-4
in WAC
play.
Idaho
has nine conference
wins over
New Mexico
State, San Jose
State,
Idaho,
Boise
State
and Nevada.
All
of Idaho's wins
have been within
a 10-point
margin.
Idaho
has two wins against Hawaii, Fresno
State
and Boise
State.
Idaho
has not defeated
the Wolfpack
this year
and hopes
to carry their momentum from
the Boise
State victory
into Wednesday.
Idaho
coach Don Vollert
said.
Previously
in
the year,
Idaho
fell
to
the Wolfpack
in Nevada, 79-48.
In
that game, Nevada's
Luke Rabbit scored 19 points
to lead
the Wolfpack.
In Idaho's
last
game against Utah
State,
he put up 20 points.
Idaho
will look
defensively
to shut him down
and push him
away
from
the basket.
Along with Rabbit, Nevada's
Aaron
Johnson
has been
a key player
for Nevada.
Johnson scored 19 points
against Utah
State
and will be another
player
the Vandals
will need
to tackle.
"In
the Vandals' last win against Boise
State,
the highlighted player
of
the
game
was senior
Laueen de uma, scoring
four
for four
from
the 3-point
line
to give Idaho
its double digit
lead,
which carried them
throughout
the
game."
"The
teaches me
to just bring all
the energy
that I
had,"
De
uma
said.
He
did just
that
and kept penetrating
the basket
from long range.
Vollert
said De
uma
will be a large
asset from beyond
the key against Nevada.
For results
on
the Idaho/Nevada
game
visit uatagonaut.com
WORK from page 9

troled, and even quadru- pled, athletes from her freshman year.

Coach Paul Dittmer knew he had the tools to do it. Kloeke led the team in shooting, scoring 18 percent of her shots on route to becoming Idaho's leading scorer.

She outscored her rebound total and tripled her scoring, steals and free throw totals, ranking second on the team in almost every category.

In her third year at Idaho, Kloeke seems comfortable as Idaho's top player. Her size and speed have been giving her some success, but her ball-handling skills have propelled her to the top of Idaho's scoring charts. Despite her quality play, Kloeke said she still has room for improvement.

"Character, the defense," Kloeke said. "I really need to improve that."

One thing is certain — if Kloeke continues her offensive improvement, opposing defenses will have to worry about Idaho next season.

REVENGE from page 9

does good," Jefferson said. "This has been a long time coming for Logan. It looked like the basket was twice as wide when he shot — he couldn't miss.

"Was it a convincing win?" Verlin said. "Yes, it was.

Idaho's next game is against Nevada Wednesday night in Cowan Spectrum.

SWINGING FOR A VICTORY

HILLTOP INN & RESTAURANT
Valentine Specials
Remember that special person with us.
February 14th, 15th, 14th Steak & Lobster
FOR TWO Reservations
(800) 334-2555
www.hilltoprestaurant.com

MAKE FIRST TRACKS.
THEN MAKE REALLY BIG CANNONBALLS.
Ski Powder Thursdays and Surf for the Price of a Lift Ticket.
JUST $49.

Keith Euckenhoff/Argonaut Slie Trimmuc serves the tennis ball during practice Wednesday afternoon. The University of Idaho women's tennis team defeated Eastern Washington and Gonzaga on Friday and improved their record to 3-1 this season.

SUCCESSFUL SENIORS LEAD MEET

List Shot Against

The Idaho swimming and diving team showed improvements in its previ- ous home meet. Idaho beat rival Washington State University 135.108 to 97 at Saturday's home meet.

"We had the team in four of eight victories against the Cou- gars," Coach Tom Jager said. He was proud to see his seniors swim so well.

"I always expect a lot out of my seniors," Jager said. "And when they step up, and do well, the team responds. They finally get the recognition they deserve."

Senior Amanda Morse won the 1-meter and 3-meter diving events, and set a school record in the 1-meter dive with 272.30 points. Sophomore Fantasia Harroset scored a perfect 10 on the 1,000-freestyle to add to the team's strength.

Although powerful senior con- tributions led the team contributions by all the athletes, the meet added up to the victory of the day — yard relay played a major role in the victory for the entire meet.

The 400-meter relay, in- cluding Staci Stratton, Se- mantha Hammontree, Trisha King, and Alyson D'Onofrio, won the race by four- tends of a second.

Freshman Jaiya Twin won the 1,000-freestyle with a time of 1:02.30, only two seconds off the school rec- ord. Freshmen Erin Stratton made an impact in the 200-meter individual medley with a second place finish.

"It was a great end to the dual meet season and it was a fun victory," Jager said. "But we aren't done. They're still going in and doing more meets."

Jager is talking about Idaho's next competition, the WAC Championship, in San Antonio. He said he was pleased with the way the team responded to calm down and get focused on the WAC.

"I was happy," Jager said. "This year, all of our athletes have a great offensive ability, but the team respond needs to calm down and get focused on the WAC."

Jager also talked about the team's improvement.

"It's been a great year. It's a great year for us," Jager said. "The athletes have improved so much."

Senior swim coach Jerry Hamley, an Idaho alum, said the team seemed to reach a new level of improvement,

"We've all seen new personal records, new meet records, and new personal bests," Hamley said.

"It's been a great meet. The team has really improved," he said.

The team has a chance to continue the improvements at the WAC meet, which will occur in San Antonio.

The team has its eye on the NCAA meet, which will occur in Rhode Island.

In addition, the team has its eye on the NCAA meet, which will occur in Rhode Island.

"We're still going to be going in and doing more meets."

Jager is talking about Idaho's next competition, the WAC Championship, in San Antonio.

He said he was pleased with the way the team responded to calm down and get focused on the WAC.

"I was happy," Jager said. "This year, all of our athletes have a great offensive ability, but the team respond needs to calm down and get focused on the WAC."

Jager also talked about the team's improvement.

"It's been a great year. It's a great year for us," Jager said. "The athletes have improved so much."

Senior swim coach Jerry Hamley, an Idaho alum, said the team seemed to reach a new level of improvement.

"We've all seen new personal records, new meet records, and new personal bests," Hamley said.

"It's been a great meet. The team has really improved," he said.

The team has a chance to continue the improvements at the WAC meet, which will occur in San Antonio.

The team has its eye on the NCAA meet, which will occur in Rhode Island.

In addition, the team has its eye on the NCAA meet, which will occur in Rhode Island.

"We're still going to be going in and doing more meets."

Jager is talking about Idaho's next competition, the WAC Championship, in San Antonio.

He said he was pleased with the way the team responded to calm down and get focused on the WAC.

"I was happy," Jager said. "This year, all of our athletes have a great offensive ability, but the team respond needs to calm down and get focused on the WAC."

Jager also talked about the team's improvement.

"It's been a great year. It's a great year for us," Jager said. "The athletes have improved so much."
Women’s Tennis Victorious over Eastern Washington Colleges

As the Idaho women’s tennis team entered the conference's final weekend, the Vandals were confident that they could make a strong statement against Eastern Washington, knowing that two straight losses against the previous top team in the league, Washington State, had been a cause for concern. With their conference's best record, the Vandals were ready to make a breakthrough this weekend.

The Vandals started the weekend with an exciting victory over the Titans of Eastern Washington. The team was led by senior Lauren Shaw, who continued her impressive season with a 6-1 win over her opponent. This victory solidified the Vandals' position as the conference's top team.

The final match of the weekend was against the top-ranked team in the Western Athletic Conference, Montana State. The Vandals put up a strong fight, but ultimately fell short, losing 6-3. Despite the loss, the team remained optimistic, looking forward to the upcoming WAC tournament.

With the win against Eastern Washington and the strong showing against Montana State, the Vandals proved their capability in the conference, and their conference's best record gives them a solid chance in the upcoming WAC tournament.