Bitterwolf sees silver and gold

By Frank McGovern

Chemistry professor Tom Bitterwolf will be honored today with a tree-planting ceremony as part of the year’s Silver and Gold Day celebration. Bitterwolf, a University of Idaho colleague and friend, was chosen for the award for “touching the lives of countless students who may not be their chemistry majors,” said Krisley Mayer, Student Alumni Relations Board adviser. Bitterwolf helps the UI Alumni Association choose the recipient of the annual award, which recognizes an alumnus, staff member or friend of the university for financial contributions or service.

The SAB and Alumni Association representatives will plant a western red cedars at 4 p.m. on the west side of the Teaching and Learning Center. The event will serve as the centerpiece of Silver and Gold Day, which also serves to celebrate the anniversary of the Alumni Association. The ceremony will include cake, ice cream and a performance from the UI Jazz Ensemble at 7 p.m. in the Idaho Commons.

“...they actually are going to a bloody best and out on their own, said Bitterwolf. “They’re seeing this is their own.”

Though delighted to receive the award, Bitterwolf said he is not sure who wrote it. “I’ll fill in the blanks,” he said. “The criteria for this are a mystery to me.”

While Bitterwolf can imagine the reasons why he was selected, he also knows that his contributions to UI are worth of the honor. “He’s an amazing guy,” said Peter Griffiths, chair of the department.

First, a remarkable teacher. He’s also probably the best adviser in the chemistry department, as well as for the number of students he advises and the quality of his advice.”

One reason Bitterwolf deserves the award, Griffiths said, is his commitment to students. “It’s probably the best student-teacher rapport in chemistry,” Griffiths said. “He inspires so many students. I’ve heard that the University of Idaho-matriculated students who come here are not the only students he mentors but also those who see him before he becomes a professional, themselves or his students.”

Chemistry has been Bitterwolf’s lifelong interest, he said. “I fell in love with chemistry the first time I walked into a chemistry lab in high school, and it’s been a passion ever since.”

So the job is reformatted to fit the criteria, and it’s been a quite long relationship.”

Though involved with chemistry, Bitterwolf said working in a profession is not the most rewarding facet of his work.

“...Well, the thing that perhaps I am most proud of is that I love about students and I work with students. I’ve never considered a student showing up at my door as an intrusion. I’ve always welcomed it and a benefit,” Bitterwolf said. “The students are a main reason I teach and I believe there is someone there willing to listen to them, and not just about job-related things, but about breaking up with a boyfriend or getting involved in whatever. Sometimes it’s not about the students, but it’s about the situation, and that alone should justify his getting the award.”

That recognition takes the form of a tree being on the cake, the cake.

“The tree is very special to me,” he said. “When my wife and I first came to Moscow, the kids and I spent so much time up in the grounds, we had a wheat field, and it used to be just an evergreen. We now have a few trees.”

He chose a pine tree for this occasion. “I’m not sure what this particular tree is an oak tree, so it will be supporting the campus, and you need to wait until next year to see some results.”

Expo highlights graduate work from across UI

By Frank McGovern

The Graduate and Professional Student Association will once again host this year’s Gold Expo, giving area residents a glimpse of the students in their midst.

The expo, displayed by graduate student Moe, will run from 4-7 p.m. and contain 90 graduate student displays that feature research and projects covering virtually every discipline at UI. The presentations will include PowerPoint displays, research posters and short plays. Along with being judged for their work, the students’ designs, volunteers and guests are in attendance to experience the work and effort of their colleagues and create an atmosphere favorable to networking.

The expo will be held in the Student Union Building Ballroom, outside the work of the University of Idaho graduate students to a wider audience than otherwise available.

The expo, displayed by graduate student Moe, will run from 4-7 p.m. and contain 90 graduate student displays that feature research and projects covering virtually every discipline at UI. The presentations will include PowerPoint displays, research posters and short plays. Along with being judged for their work, the students’ designs, volunteers and guests are in attendance to experience the work and effort of their colleagues and create an atmosphere favorable to networking.

The expo will be held in the Student Union Building Ballroom, outside the work of the University of Idaho graduate students to a wider audience than otherwise available.

The expo, displayed by graduate student Moe, will run from 4-7 p.m. and contain 90 graduate student displays that feature research and projects covering virtually every discipline at UI. The presentations will include PowerPoint displays, research posters and short plays. Along with being judged for their work, the students’ designs, volunteers and guests are in attendance to experience the work and effort of their colleagues and create an atmosphere favorable to networking.

The expo will be held in the Student Union Building Ballroom, outside the work of the University of Idaho graduate students to a wider audience than otherwise available.

The expo, displayed by graduate student Moe, will run from 4-7 p.m. and contain 90 graduate student displays that feature research and projects covering virtually every discipline at UI. The presentations will include PowerPoint displays, research posters and short plays. Along with being judged for their work, the students’ designs, volunteers and guests are in attendance to experience the work and effort of their colleagues and create an atmosphere favorable to networking.

The expo will be held in the Student Union Building Ballroom, outside the work of the University of Idaho graduate students to a wider audience than otherwise available.

The expo, displayed by graduate student Moe, will run from 4-7 p.m. and contain 90 graduate student displays that feature research and projects covering virtually every discipline at UI. The presentations will include PowerPoint displays, research posters and short plays. Along with being judged for their work, the students’ designs, volunteers and guests are in attendance to experience the work and effort of their colleagues and create an atmosphere favorable to networking.

The expo will be held in the Student Union Building Ballroom, outside the work of the University of Idaho graduate students to a wider audience than otherwise available.

The expo, displayed by graduate student Moe, will run from 4-7 p.m. and contain 90 graduate student displays that feature research and projects covering virtually every discipline at UI. The presentations will include PowerPoint displays, research posters and short plays. Along with being judged for their work, the students’ designs, volunteers and guests are in attendance to experience the work and effort of their colleagues and create an atmosphere favorable to networking.

The expo will be held in the Student Union Building Ballroom, outside the work of the University of Idaho graduate students to a wider audience than otherwise available.
Local/BRIEFS

Landscape arch. celebrates full re-accreditation

The UI Department of Landscape Architecture has passed accreditation review, marking a significant milestone in the program's history. "This re-accreditation is an important accomplishment because it reflects our faculty's and students' dedication to providing a world-class education," said Steven Cowles, chair of the Landscape Architecture Department. "It demonstrates our commitment to professional accreditation and continuous improvement in the field." The national accreditation review, conducted by the American Society of Landscape Architects, is a five-year process that evaluates programs based on their curriculum, faculty, facilities, student services, professional and community engagement, and research opportunities. The review team visited the LaVale campus for three days, evaluating the program's curriculum, including the sophomore level course "Materials of the Landscape," a required course that provides students with the knowledge and skills to work with a variety of materials in the landscape design field. Since the last re-accreditation in 2006, the program has added new courses and updated existing ones, including a class on sustainable landscapes and a course on the history of landscape architecture. The re-accreditation visit also included a site visit to the department's studio, where faculty assessed the quality of the program's instructional and research activities.

Crossword PUZZLE

Solutions from 4/4

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Across</th>
<th>Down</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>1</td>
<td>5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2</td>
<td>6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3</td>
<td>7</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4</td>
<td>8</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Sudoku PUZZLE

Complete the grid so that each row, each column, and each 3-by-3 box (in bold borders) contains the digits 1 through 9. For strategies on how to solve Sudoku, visit www.sudoku.org.uk.

Library/Research

Commended: Gorham Public Library, Westmoreland, NH

The Argonaut

Telephone Directory

AOP Pacemaker finalist, 2003-04

59th Mark of Excellence winner, 2005

Wednesday, April 26th, 2006

Saturday, April 29th

12:00-5:00 pm, SRC

Cost: $135

Register TODAY at Campus Recreation

For more information call 885-8035 or email phi@uidaho.edu
Bush urged leak, Libby testifies

The Associated Press

Bush suffered significant political damage

Bush suffered significant political damage...
ITS recommends students use wireless with caution

By Samud Rossel

Agenda

The University of Idaho doesn't have a completely secure wireless network, said Chuck Lanham, associate director of ITS, but that's for a reason.

"Just as we aren't as secure on the campus, we aren't as secure on the network," he said. "There's a need to be secure, but there's also a desire not to be as secure.

He said UI Tries to maintain a happy medium between the security and the flexibility of the wireless network.

But otherwise, there are security breaches.

"Recently we had an e-mail sent to students from Princeton University," in October, Lanham said. "Well, it's not from us. The person who sent it asks students to set up their laptop outside an IP address of the student's network. Our student students have raised concerns that UI is susceptible to users using ad hoc wireless networks. According to Wikipedia, an ad hoc wireless computer network is a wireless networking method in which devices communicate directly with each other, with no access to a wired network. Ad hoc is also referred to as peer to peer, but networking equipment is required, and ad hoc wireless networks can be found on campus, but ITS does not police them. When an ad hoc network conflicts with UI's wireless network, ITS may not be able to function.

PROTECT YOUR PC

To find out how you can protect your computer, visit the Student Technology Services information site at: https://sarb.uidaho.edu.

Some of the things you can do to protect your computer:

- Use a 128-bit encryption, a fairly standard level.
- "When data from your laptop goes over the network, it is encrypted," he said. "But the reason why it's vulnerable is because you are using this throughput—"idle waves."" And those can be intercepted.
- A person who knows about your network, like a staff member, can get those "waves" from the radio waves, and, in some cases, decrypt them to find out personal information like the credit card numbers.
- It would recommend plugging the computer into the wall and not using wireless when you are working at the computer," he said. "FBI will see where you want access to be sure that the data is vulnerable. Do this so you don't want someone else to know about.

He said ITS views the wireless network as an add-on to the wired network, and not as replacement.

According to the UI wireless network operation Web site, ITS, and the university are not responsible for any loss of data or the compromise of private information such as passwords, credit card information, and registration data.

Certain Web applications users use over the wireless network are more protected than others.

"For example, Vandalmail is protected," he said. "If you look at the bottom-right of the screen, you'll see a lock. That means an extra 128-bit level of encryption is added to Vandalmail."

He said those types of programs make a thinner file for a malicious user to gain access to a legitimate user's information.

SArb prepares to hide eggs again

By Tom Taylor

Agenda

The Administration Lawn will be converted into a hunt- ing ground April 15 for the second annual Student Alumni Relations "Easter Egg Hunt." The event is free and open to student volunteers in 11:30 a.m.

"Last time it was really bad and rainy," Phillips said. "It was freezing, so all they just wanted to get their eggs and go home.

The Easter Egg Hunt is part of UI's annual "infrastructure" week, Phillips said, and "45 students from Local Business School and UI were working to make sure the event was a success.

For far, she said Rosenour and WinClaud have given goodies to SArb, and board members are buying more for it.

"It’s mainly just candy," she said, "but last year, we had a lot of stuff that didn’t go away to the kids".

Last year, about 70 members of SArb helped with what Phillips considered a 4 out of 5 stellar effort.

"We went out, we organized the community," she said this year, because the Saturday of the Easter Egg hunt is April 15 and was one of the days that is supposed to participate in both events.

"It’s a great way to reach out to the community, but also a great way for us to get to know other members of SArb," she said.

"SArb is basically training our student leaders when they leave campus to become the best alums they can be."

Tim Helmken
SArb Alumnae associate director

SArb has a membership of 85 members, which is about the maximum amount of students who can participate.

"SArb is basically training our student leaders when they leave campus."

Tina Helmken
Alumni director

SArb has a membership of 85 members, which is about the maximum amount of students who can participate.

IT's a great way to reach out to the community, but also a great way for us to get to know other members of SArb. It's a great way to reach out to the community, but also a great way for us to get to know other members of SArb."

He said it's to be the best student leaders they can be.

The organization was created in 1959 to serve as a networking service as well as a business-based organization.

"It's really about connecting students with alumni," Helmken said.

Phillips said that's why she became involved. A sophomore business manager major, she said she enjoyed her time as communications chair-elect and looks forward to working on the other projects next year.

"It's great because it's not just alumni who are involved," she said.

Phillips will be focusing on the Easter Egg hunt, for at least the next week. She said she probably will be nowhere near the event, but plenty of eggs will be basically just hidden.
Select the best answer to each question:

1. What was the main topic discussed in the document?
   - The main topic discussed is about the return of the university and its art students.
   - The main topic discussed is about the art students and their activities.
   - The main topic discussed is about the university and its art students.

2. Who is the author of the document?
   - The author of the document is not specified.
   - The author of the document is not specified.
   - The author of the document is not specified.

3. What is the title of the document?
   - The title of the document is not specified.
   - The title of the document is not specified.
   - The title of the document is not specified.

4. What is the purpose of the document?
   - The purpose of the document is not specified.
   - The purpose of the document is not specified.
   - The purpose of the document is not specified.

5. What is the main event described in the document?
   - The main event described is the return of the university.
   - The main event described is the art students' activities.
   - The main event described is the university and its art students.

6. Who are the main subjects of the document?
   - The main subjects of the document are the university and its art students.
   - The main subjects of the document are the university and its art students.
   - The main subjects of the document are the university and its art students.

7. What is the tone of the document?
   - The tone of the document is neutral.
   - The tone of the document is neutral.
   - The tone of the document is neutral.

8. What is the purpose of the document?
   - The purpose of the document is to inform.
   - The purpose of the document is to inform.
   - The purpose of the document is to inform.

9. What is the main message of the document?
   - The main message of the document is about the return of the university.
   - The main message of the document is about the art students' activities.
   - The main message of the document is about the university and its art students.

10. What is the conclusion of the document?
    - The conclusion of the document is not specified.
    - The conclusion of the document is not specified.
    - The conclusion of the document is not specified.

Check The Argonaut out on the Web!
You can:
- Write letters to the Editor - Comment on current stories - Read old stories - Vote in the online poll
- Contact staff members
www.argonaut.uidaho.edu

It's about the Experience!

Friday, April 7
6 p.m. to 8 p.m.

Singer/Songwriter
Open Mic, Night
Special light beer; garden will appear

Friday, April 14
6 p.m. to 8 p.m.

Ner & Friends
Friday, April 21
6 p.m. to 8 p.m.

Singer/Songwriter
Open Mic, Night

Friday, April 28
6 p.m. to 8 p.m.

Larry Bout

EXPRESS YOUR RESUME. MONEY FOR COLLEGE.

EASTSIDE

203 E. Main St. Moscow, Idaho 83843

(208) 882-8513

www.eastsidemoneyplace.com

SIGN UP FOR

10000.

10000.

10000.

10000.

10000.
Do you want fries with that song?

By Brian Rich

When Jill Frederick woke up, she didn't feel like her glasses, her uniform, or anything else she was wearing. She had been up until the early hours of the morning fighting to earn the ticket to the song contest at

The singer person wears lot's of makeup and contacts, while the manager person looks like a geek.

Jill Frederick's mom really wants her to move to a big city and duke it out with other singers so she can or teach, neither of which is very appealing. "It's not a way to make any money, not to be honest," she said. "It's too much stress and too much competition."

Freuden's song contest was covered like a hot potato, and the contestants were treated like warm dogs. The only thing that could be said was that it was a great opportunity to make some money, and a great chance for the contestants to show off their talents. Freuden's song contest was a hit, and the contestants were very pleased with the outcome.

Freuden's mom really wants her to move to a big city and duke it out with other singers so she can or teach, neither of which is very appealing. "It's not a way to make any money, not to be honest," she said. "It's too much stress and too much competition."

Freuden's song contest was covered like a hot potato, and the contestants were treated like warm dogs. The only thing that could be said was that it was a great opportunity to make some money, and a great chance for the contestants to show off their talents. Freuden's song contest was a hit, and the contestants were very pleased with the outcome.

Freuden's song contest was covered like a hot potato, and the contestants were treated like warm dogs. The only thing that could be said was that it was a great opportunity to make some money, and a great chance for the contestants to show off their talents. Freuden's song contest was a hit, and the contestants were very pleased with the outcome.

Freuden's song contest was covered like a hot potato, and the contestants were treated like warm dogs. The only thing that could be said was that it was a great opportunity to make some money, and a great chance for the contestants to show off their talents. Freuden's song contest was a hit, and the contestants were very pleased with the outcome.

Freuden's song contest was covered like a hot potato, and the contestants were treated like warm dogs. The only thing that could be said was that it was a great opportunity to make some money, and a great chance for the contestants to show off their talents. Freuden's song contest was a hit, and the contestants were very pleased with the outcome.

Freuden's song contest was covered like a hot potato, and the contestants were treated like warm dogs. The only thing that could be said was that it was a great opportunity to make some money, and a great chance for the contestants to show off their talents. Freuden's song contest was a hit, and the contestants were very pleased with the outcome.

Freuden's song contest was covered like a hot potato, and the contestants were treated like warm dogs. The only thing that could be said was that it was a great opportunity to make some money, and a great chance for the contestants to show off their talents. Freuden's song contest was a hit, and the contestants were very pleased with the outcome.

Freuden's song contest was covered like a hot potato, and the contestants were treated like warm dogs. The only thing that could be said was that it was a great opportunity to make some money, and a great chance for the contestants to show off their talents. Freuden's song contest was a hit, and the contestants were very pleased with the outcome.

Freuden's song contest was covered like a hot potato, and the contestants were treated like warm dogs. The only thing that could be said was that it was a great opportunity to make some money, and a great chance for the contestants to show off their talents. Freuden's song contest was a hit, and the contestants were very pleased with the outcome.

Freuden's song contest was covered like a hot potato, and the contestants were treated like warm dogs. The only thing that could be said was that it was a great opportunity to make some money, and a great chance for the contestants to show off their talents. Freuden's song contest was a hit, and the contestants were very pleased with the outcome.

Freuden's song contest was covered like a hot potato, and the contestants were treated like warm dogs. The only thing that could be said was that it was a great opportunity to make some money, and a great chance for the contestants to show off their talents. Freuden's song contest was a hit, and the contestants were very pleased with the outcome.

Freuden's song contest was covered like a hot potato, and the contestants were treated like warm dogs. The only thing that could be said was that it was a great opportunity to make some money, and a great chance for the contestants to show off their talents. Freuden's song contest was a hit, and the contestants were very pleased with the outcome.

Freuden's song contest was covered like a hot potato, and the contestants were treated like warm dogs. The only thing that could be said was that it was a great opportunity to make some money, and a great chance for the contestants to show off their talents. Freuden's song contest was a hit, and the contestants were very pleased with the outcome.

Freuden's song contest was covered like a hot potato, and the contestants were treated like warm dogs. The only thing that could be said was that it was a great opportunity to make some money, and a great chance for the contestants to show off their talents. Freuden's song contest was a hit, and the contestants were very pleased with the outcome.

Freuden's song contest was covered like a hot potato, and the contestants were treated like warm dogs. The only thing that could be said was that it was a great opportunity to make some money, and a great chance for the contestants to show off their talents. Freuden's song contest was a hit, and the contestants were very pleased with the outcome.

Freuden's song contest was covered like a hot potato, and the contestants were treated like warm dogs. The only thing that could be said was that it was a great opportunity to make some money, and a great chance for the contestants to show off their talents. Freuden's song contest was a hit, and the contestants were very pleased with the outcome.

Freuden's song contest was covered like a hot potato, and the contestants were treated like warm dogs. The only thing that could be said was that it was a great opportunity to make some money, and a great chance for the contestants to show off their talents. Freuden's song contest was a hit, and the contestants were very pleased with the outcome.

Freuden's song contest was covered like a hot potato, and the contestants were treated like warm dogs. The only thing that could be said was that it was a great opportunity to make some money, and a great chance for the contestants to show off their talents. Freuden's song contest was a hit, and the contestants were very pleased with the outcome.

Freuden's song contest was covered like a hot potato, and the contestants were treated like warm dogs. The only thing that could be said was that it was a great opportunity to make some money, and a great chance for the contestants to show off their talents. Freuden's song contest was a hit, and the contestants were very pleased with the outcome.

Freuden's song contest was covered like a hot potato, and the contestants were treated like warm dogs. The only thing that could be said was that it was a great opportunity to make some money, and a great chance for the contestants to show off their talents. Freuden's song contest was a hit, and the contestants were very pleased with the outcome.
Final season of "Six Feet Under" haunts on DVD

By Vye Winson
signed

Last year, HBO wrapped its "Six Feet Under" with an episode that many critics described as one of the best ever filmed. That last episode lingers on the fifth disc of the complete fifth season, now available on DVD.

The series is about a family that owns a funeral home. Dead bodies always occupy the basement, and each episode starts with some sort of death, alternating between greedy and peaceful. Death is always present in the line of the Fisher family, with brothers Nate and (Peter Krause) and Michael (Raul Esparza) dealing with a widowed mother Ruth (Fionnula Flanagan) trying desperately to hold the business together in the face of financial struggles and personal loss. Chloe is also present in the mix, the most prominent being her role as the one who gained the most in the first episode of season one.

While the show was at its most powerful in season three, season five continues the Fisher family's daily struggle with life in the face of death. The show has ever directly addressed the issue of death, and how one can both depend on and emotionally committ itself at the same time. The show's use of sex, language and violence is consistent even by HBO's standards, but its use almost never makes it into the heart of the audience, which isn't the most dynamic of the series, but the show's final few episodes are nothing short of powerful. As expected from a show focused on death, a major character meets a tragic end. But creator Alan Ball is known for making the show so that it happens to a few episodes before the season finale, so the family must struggle with lots more than ever before. Devoted viewers will feel the loss but the show continues. Though deep shocks have been experienced by the characters, it is clear that death at this point is still unknowingly shocking and painful.

What follows this death is three of the best hours television has ever seen. The funeral episode is a consistent standout, including an overwhelming display of music from the series finale, "Everybody's Waiting." In it, the Fisher's declared relatives stand around the room where they must either move on or drown in their grief. The episode offers no easy answers. The writing in the writing in the episode is so eloquent and lovable that it's as if all previous episodes combined.

Then, in the final fifteen minutes, Ball ends the series perfectly, with a beautifully edited journey through the future, where all the characters eventually meet each other. The tagline on the DVD is "Everyday. Everyone. Every life." Of course, this has always been the show's strongest depiction. In actuality, the final episode shows the characters finally coming to grips with their existence. It's most haunting and satisfying ending to a television show, truly epic.

"Six Feet Under" has earned a host of awards since its inception in 2001, but if the final episode doesn't contain Emmy awards, then the show was never ever to be replicated. Things and places should be removed from measure.

NewDVDE RELEASES

"The Chronicles of Narnia: The Lion, the Witch and the Wardrobe" -- A perfect intro to the long form of art.

"Brookside Mountain" -- Don't miss the first series, but it won itself a mousy line of fans.

"Is it (the) Everything? Everything? Revisited" -- And with a DVD title like that, who wouldn't want to own it?
By Mackenzie Stone

Idaho's Brett Krebsbach is coming up on the final tournaments of his collegiate golf career before heading off to cap and gown. He hasn't really thought about it, but it's only one or two tournaments away.

Krebsbach is in his fifth year as a Vandal and will graduate in May with a degree in marketing. He wants to pursue sports marketing after graduation for the Denver Broncos.

However, he hasn't got his golf pursuits just yet, with the possibility of theWSC Championships ahead. Krebsbach's performance Sunday through Tuesday on the Saint Mary's Invitational in Pebble Beach, Calif., will determine his placement on the championship team.

1. Have you ever started golf in high school? Absolutely, my dad gave me a golf club when I was 1, and took me out to the back yard and taught me hits. He played in high school and I'm a bad boy, but not out of line like me.

2. What has been your biggest accomplishment? Playing golf for a Division I school.

3. Comment on the season so far. Our season has gone well, we've won our last three events and I've played well. I've played to 9200 of the courses I've played on and has a lot this season. I think I'll be the best this year eight-place.

4. What is one temptation you can't resist? Shoes. I love shoes, golf and all this stuff. I probably have five or six golf shoes and I have an 11-year-old shoe.

5. The Saint Mary's Invitational will be your last tournament. Any thoughts?

I really haven't thought about it. In this tournament, I'll play with two players from my recruiting class. It will be a nice way to go out with them.

6. Any nicknames?

I'm called Mr. Knobby. It's just a play off the last name.

7. Who is your biggest role model? My dad. He is the one that got me to golf when I was 12-years-old and through high school. He was always the one teaching me about golf, helping me and teaching me the game.

8. If you could go to dinner with anyone from any time or place, who would it be and why?

Dwight Eisenhower, the first president because he had a lot of cool stories and experiences. If I was to see him, I would love to have him in my life because he was so many cool things. It would be interesting to go through his mind because he was so many cool things.

9. What do you miss most about home? The weather and snow skiing on them.

10. What animal would you most like to be?

The answer is an elephant. It would be an elephant.

11. What is the most difficult part of being a golfer? I would say the time practice, because it takes a lot for golf. It is the most difficult part of practice as much.

12. What do you want to do with your day?

Be involved in sports business and get into a corporate and professional sports team in golf or a corporate and professional sports team in golf.

13. What is a typical Friday night like for you? I usually hang out with the golf team that are my friends and we usually go to the bar, usually to the Vandal Club on Friday nights.

14. What do you enjoy the most about the sport?

It is a big social thing. It is a big social thing, it is a big social thing, it is a big social thing.

15. Have you dealt with any injuries?

I've been back on the field and off, well, pretty constantly Golf is a hard sport and I usually play with back pain.

16. What will you remember most about your time here?

My roommate, just traveling with friends, being with my friends and my golf teammates. In the past five years, I've gotten to know my teammates and other people who have been really good to me.

17. What will you be doing for the Saint Mary's Invitational? I'm going to go out early in the morning and then I'll finish in the top five. I think I can be remembered at U of Idaho.

18. What are you going to do for the summer?

I'm going to be remembered on a good team and a good golf team when I graduate.

19. What will be your future for the Saint Mary's Invitational? I think I might be able to go out and break 75.
NationalSPORTS

Florida wins men's tournament

The Florida Gators defeated the UCLA Bruins 73-60 Monday night for their second NCAA Tournament championship.

The No. 3 seeded Gators, who were picked by dow to make it to the Final Four, close to win it all, but Josiah Nichols Rachel told the Gators on his back to lead them to the title.

The No. 3 seed, the Gators are the No. 1 seed in the men's NCAA Tournament. They will play their first round game at 9:00 p.m. on April 15 at 10:00 p.m. on ESPN.

Maryland wins women's tournament

The Maryland Terrapins won their first NCAA Tournament title since 1979, 7-2, to take the East Regional. The Terrapins defeated the Idaho Vandals 7-2 to advance to the NCAA Championship game.

The Terrapins took the win over the Vandals in the second half, 2-1, on a goal from forward Kaitlyn Rowley. Maryland went on to win the game 7-2, with two goals from rowley and one from midfielder delicacy Leary.

The Terrapins will play the winner of the West Regional for the NCAA Championship on April 16 at 7:00 p.m. on ESPN.