HOTTEST GAME PLAYED HERE YET.

IDAHO TAKES THE PELT FROM W. S. C. ONCE MORE. WORK SPEEDY AND SWIFT.

Lox, Gray and Sampson Were the Stars. Soulen Showing Old Time Good Form.

Idaho naming a surprise on the W. S. C. aggregation last Saturday night in the third game of the series, winning the game by a score of 27 to 22. The score does not begin to show the relative speed of the two made 4 2 0 2 having the edge much more than the score would indicate. Eleven of the points for the Indians were made by free throws, while there were but 1 made from the foul line by Idaho. Sampson started off with a perfect piece of teamwork on the part of the Idaho team, which resulted in their first basket without missing a shot. The first goal was quickly followed by another, and it was considerable time before the W. S. C. took three straight in a row, from the score, from the field. But the foes called on Idaho were numerous and the nearly perfect free throw game brought the score up one by one until Idaho was somewhat in danger of being beaten to pieces by free throws, while having all her players disqualified because of personal fouls. W. S. C. won by about 27 to 22, the time near the Idaho score that were at the end. Lox, in spite of the fact that the visitors anticipated the team (you curves at all) times, tossed in the largest number of points of any member of either team. The sensation of the game was the performance of Gray, who in the winning game was given a few minutes to play, but not figured prominently. He came out with the old confidence that made him a star in the Genesee high school quietant, and the way in which he dodged the big W. S. C. guards was a surprise to everybody. Captain Soulen, who was shifted from forward to guard showed up well in his new position. Generally Soulen has trouble in running out of bounds and tumbling the ball, but Saturday his nights game he was dependable at all times.

The strength of the team showed after there had been a few substitutions proving that “Pink” is a number of good men on the sideline and the loss of an Idaho team that materially weakens the team.

For the visitors, Sampson was easily the star. His eye for the basket was nearly perfect, making 11 baskets out of 12 trials.

Idaho has now two games and W. S. C. has one to her credit. There are three more to play, making it necessary for W. S. C. to win all three to tie Idaho, two of which Idaho has to play over Idaho, and two of which they have to play in order to tie, provided neither team losses to Whittier. There is no doubt that the Idaho team has a good chance to win the game and there is little doubt that there will be more out to witness the next big contest that will attract the support of both teams.

FOOTBALL FOR YOZED

In Honor of the Flock and Hard Work of the Men Who Stayed.

Each of the 14 football men who were loyal enough to stay here during vacation and keep in shape for the last season game with Maltomnah, played January 1, will be presented with a gold football fob, according to a resolution passed by the athletic board at a meeting held last Saturday. The fobs will consist of miniature footballs attached to a leather strap or fob and will bear the inscription "1913-14" engraved in capital letters on the front upper section and on the front lower section will be engraved "W. S. C." W. S. C. has the player's name and his position in the lineup will be engraved on the back. Those who will receive fobs are: Coach Griffith, Ex-Captain Pavle, C. H. Knudsen, Harold Pusey, J. T. Ross, B. B. Gomper, "Jimm" Lockhart, A. B. James, Stanley Brown, H. J. Martinson, T. J. Dingle, "Jack" Hoye, "Buck" Phillips, J. E. Johansson, and "Pike" Gerloch.

Clarence Pavle and C. H. Knudsen sent the diploma to the Copenhagen group that the last game will be fought for Idaho. But it is truly easy task that Idaho never turned in two harder fighters than Pavle and Knudsen.

STEINER'S BOOK IN DEMAND

Receives Complimentary Letter Saying That It Contains Facts Much Sought After.

Professor D. B. Steinman is in receipt of a letter from the state highway department of Washington which indicates the interest in which his book on "Suspension Bridges and Con- struction" is held among practical engineers. The letter contains an order for a copy of the new edition of the book and closes with these words: "We would appreciate it very much if you can supply this without our having to wait for one to be ordered from the publishers so we want it immediately in use in making a report on a project under consideration a few months ago."

BABY BROTHERS DANCE GLEefully

FINE CROWD OF MERRY MAKERS DANCE IN FRESHMAN ANNUAL FUNCTION.

The Freshman Glee Monday night was one of the biggest "hits" of the season and the class of 17 did themselves proud in providing such an excellent affair. The committees deserve much credit for the manner in which they performed their special duties. The decorations were especially good and anyone who noticed the snowflakes suspended in the air to represent a snow storm could scarcely appreciate the amount of work necessary to produce such effect. Everyone expressed himself as having "the time of his life" and that is what makes an affair of the sort a success.

PROMOTION FOR MR. LIVINGTON

Placed in Charge of the Department of Mining and Metallurgy at the University.

Professor D. C. Livingston has been placed in charge of the department of mining and metallurgy to take the place left vacant by the resignation of Professor R. H. McCafferty. The news of Professor Livingston's promotion will be received with a good deal of satisfaction and pleasure by his many and varied students, and a happy and a half at the university he has been a most successful and popular instructor in the department.

From 1897 until the time when he came to Moscow to teach, Mr. Livingston, except for the period spent at McGill University, from which he graduated in 1906, was actively engaged in mining. Having a mining degree, and having worked in Mexico and British Columbia, he was at one time engineer at the Minasvar copper mine, one of the large Phelps-Dodge copper company properties. He was assistant superintendent at the El Tigre gold-silver mine and superintendent at an adjoining mine.

An effort is being made to get a man from the field to take Mr. Livingston's place as associate professor of technology, but up to date no selection has been made.

TWO NEW DEPARTMENT HEADS

Livingston to Head Mining; Vincent to Head Horticulture.

By recent appointment of the state educational board, former Assistant Professor Livingston of the mining department is made head of the department and given an assistant. Also Mr. W. H. Wicks, former horticulturist, to take the position of head of the department, both to succeed to the resignation of W. H. Wicks.

FACULTY PASSED RESOLUTIONS

Relating University Professors Honor- ed by Their Associates.

At a meeting of the faculty of the University of Idaho appropriate resolu- tions were adopted expressing regret at the departure of Professors W. H. Wicks and R. B. McCaffery who leave shortly for new fields, with instructions that copies of the resolutions be spread on the campus, sent to the newspapers and presented to each on leaving the city. The resolution which is signed by Dr. W. C. Carlyle, acting president, and Francis Jenkins, Secretary, is as follows:

"Whereas, we, the members of the faculty of the University of Idaho, have learned that Richard B. McCaffery, professor of mining and metallurgy since 1899, and William H. Wicks, pro- fessor of horticulture since 1911, will sever their connection with our insti- tution on February 1st of the present year, and

"Whereas, we have appreciated the high standing which they hold in their respective professions, their work as teachers in this institution, their assiduousness in the development of the industrial interests of the state, and above all our association with them as friends and fellow workers,

"Therefore, be it resolved, that we express our deep regret at their departure and the loss thereby sustained by the educational interests of the state, and that we extend to them our best wishes for success in their new fields of work."

NO FOOTBALL CHANGES

"Game at Present is Satisfactory,"

Says Chairman Hall.

BOSTON, Jan. 29. — No material changes will be made in the football rules for next season, is the opinion of Edward K. Hall, chairman of the Intercollegiate Football Rules com- mittee.

"I have heard and received no com- plaint against the present set of rules governing football," he said today. "As far as I know, no changes will be recommended at the meeting in New York. It seems to be the almost unani- mous opinion of football men and of the intelligent football public that the game as present is satisfactory.

"Until it has had a much more com- pletely developed. It would hardly seem wise to consider any funda- mental changes. Wherever and whenever there has been any glossation of the merit of the game as played last fall, there has been no suggestion that any basic change would be made in the rules."

Only One American Football Death.

Verner S. Belyea, the Norwich cap- tain, who was fatally injured in the Holy Cross game, was the only man who died in 1913 as a direct result of college football. The re- port of Physical Director George W. Belyea of the University of Wisconsin at the eighth annual convention of the National Athletic Association in New York on December 29.

In investigating football fatalities Mr. Belyea found that there were four deaths during the football season.

Three of these did not come as the re- sult of the game. Two men were in- jured and died weeks afterward from pneumonia, as the result of improper care. The third had spinal meningi- tis which was present before the name and which was the direct cause of his death.

Belyea's death could be traced di- rectly to football, but was caused by unnecessary roughness in direct op- position to the rules. Mr. Belyea was of the opinion that this accident was due to a rough and unnecessary tackle from behind.

HELD IN HIGH ESTEEM

College of Engineering at University
Pass Resolutions Complimentary to Prof. McCaffery.

As a mark of the high esteem in which Professor R. B. McCaffery is held in the college of engineering of the uni- versity, the faculty of that college Tuesday evening held a meeting and adopted the following set of resolu- tions:

"Whereas, Professor Richard B. McCaffery, who has been since 1899 pro- fessor of mining and metallurgy in the University of Idaho, has been call- ed to the professorship of metallurgy in the University of Wisconsin, and is about to leave us; and

"Whereas, in your contact with him as fellow member of the faculty of the College of Engineering we have come to know him through theoretical and practical knowledge of his subjects, his skill and ability as a teacher, and above all the truly laudable character which has endangered him to all of us; therefore be it

Resolved, That we express to him not only our estimate of the great loss which this university sustains in his going but also our personal loss as well, and to vote confidence in the success of his work in his new field."

WOMEN SEEK FOR SWIMMING TEAM.

From the Daily Californian we learn that twenty-one men, five of whom were freshmen, signed up to try out for the inter-school swimming team at the University held recently in California Hall. Walter Christie, Graduate Manager Donald and Carlisle Thomas say that the men covering the sport of swimming in general, and the California swimming team in particular, is a sport that has a great future and is being more widely recognized everywhere. As a general rule. Walter Christie is keeping his talk. He went on to urge the prospective candidates to put themselves into swimming and get what they could from it, as well as from its competitive standpoint.

Why can't I have a swimming pool as a part of my gym equipment? We need it as badly as not meet the requirements of the University. Many students have been heard to say time and time again that a swimming pool would be far better than any other feature. It would pay for itself in gratitude in a very short time. A University offers greater physical development and advantageous than almost anything else. A ten minutes swim will do a man more good than an hour of one other exercise.

PUT IT ON YOUR ORIGIN.-

This eastern high school football team, together called a meeting of persons and children. When asked what his judges would give him, the answer was: It is too bad to say that they are not good. The phrase, "I should worry," was used more in a joking matter than any other exercise. The pick-up was a good one and much praise was given the express for his efforts.

Lest We Forget.

As we count our hours every one, another day is like the shadows of approaching examinations cast their terror and make "mustering on the keyboard difficult. We realize that our days are numbered and "rolling the dice on the keyboard exhilarating. In coming we have the match of the years ever over all possibilities. We must hurry and stretch our fingers.

Like the proverbial "fate, give us to return to us a respite that is anyling. Our only regret will be that we come back more than." Why should we complain since they are inevitable? This is it. We think the best party is to be a self-governing department in the university does not give finals or at least does not form them in a way. The department is a different nature from its others. A history student's attitude toward examinations varies along different lines than does the man working in the drafting room or laboratory. But this may take some consideration. We believe that it is a clear indication that the man is to learn what a man does not know rather than finding out what he has known.

Nine days shalt a man labor and the seventh shall be rest. If this was the method which induced the "crowing of the final "class" in the shoe", hallowed or otherwise there has been an error in judgment. The present plan is to accommodate the Roman calendar. The system in use could not be adapted to a day, but could some gradually. We think this subject is worth of thought in the future. If "crows" are the final revision to be won always, then why make the people sit as long as possible?-Polo All.

AGAIN.

Has a student no right to see his final examination paper after it is corrected? He certainly has it in the public interest to do so. Even if the student has this right, some instructors freely allow to anyone to see them on his own. There has been a done in a number of cases recently. Whatever the reason, it seems the student body to reflect on the honesty of the faculty members in questions.

OREGON AND IDAHO TO ENTER TEAMS IN BIG CONFERENCE MEET FOR THE FIRST TIME.

This is the way the O. A. C. Bartender puts it. There are many students here who wish that such would be the case. Yet from what we know, Idaho has no wrestling team. She should have. Maybe we do. Here is what the Bartender says:

Every day in the week numerous men may be seen working out on the wrestling mats in the balcony of the gymnasium. Old Varisty wrestlers and new men are busy preparing themselves for the coming season. The first meet will be an interscholastic contest about the latter part of February. Coach Arltschot has had his trained men on the new men for the past month and is very optimistic as to the prospects for a successful season.

"The new men are showing up well," says Arltschot, "and with most of last year's squad on hand, there is no reason why we should not clean things up in the conference meet in Portland on March 20 and 21." Regular practice is being held on Tuesday and Thursday nights from 7:30 to 9 o'clock and on Saturday mornings from 11 to 12. From forty to fifty men have been turning out regularly and this necessarily means that the men who make the team will have to exert themselves.

The class tournaments will practically take the place of a try-out match, the successful candidates being the ones to represent the Orange and Black in the conference meet.

Previous to the big deal meet the Missouriah grapplers will look up with the Bowens on the local floor on March 7.

ONE THING WE NEED IN COLLEGE

GERLOUGH TELLS US THAT ANCIENT HISTORY IS BASIC IN ALL COLLEGE WORK.

To the Editor of the Argonaut,

Dear Sir:—I have been told that since I have mentioned wine in the three letters I have written from Rome that some Argonaut readers will come to believe that I have become a winebibber. Such, however, is not the case. I will return to Idaho, I hope, a very temperate and Practical young man and will be pleased to drink and, as was always the case, desire nothing more than the kind of drink that used to be called Children's soda fountain. However, in traveling in Europe one often attends a strangely drawn to the symptoms and habits of the people he visits and some of those habits are such that if they were practiced in America, they would be decried an intemperance. I laughed at the directions of my guide, book when the other day I was in Florence and was reading about the road to the crater of Venusino. In one part of the road, it says, "the vineyards yield the finest Lacinriani Christi wine, I franc bottle (but not ask the price before buying, and only partake of it on the way back.)"

I think it is a very characteristic indication that in a recent dinner given by a large of English authors to M. Antoine France that the same in speech his speech should say that in modern times when imaginative writing has not the place it had in political and philosophical debates in the days of Greece and Rome that the only things that are worth while are changes an an academic. Because these are added, owe their origin to the church, for it was a holy fire. Furthermore, the "Sauls of the Gods" at Rome and a Yorkshire parson named Shove, on the authority of the Gallicans, who are of the modern form. However, it is my frank opinion, though not to disordered in the subject, that it is high time now that we should in a modern, moderate manner endeavor to recover the thinking of a former period.

I wonder, Mr. Editor, if it would be inappropriate for me at this time to state my opinion on the study of ancient history. I hope that in some future time we will have at Idaho a school devoted to the teaching of that subject. If we define education, as I believe educators do, as an institution which makes up the experience of the past and presents it to its students I believe that in the education of history in Idaho there is a great gap. It is true that Professor Aselli has done very valuable work in Latin, Latin and Greek. Also Professor Morley, in his courses in philosophy, has been no, and he has been at a very ancient time at the dramatic school of "Graeco." But all of these things are able lights and scarcely suffice as a basis of education for truths drawn from the Greek and Roman history. In the last century great scholars have been at work on ancient history and there is a tremendous amount of material to work from.

A certain university professor of my acquaintance has been known to state in his lectures that girls should not be allowed to study Greek. In a certain sense I agree with him and I can sympathize heartily with any one who cares to insult the Greek language and it is at present, taught in American universities. However, when a proper understanding and appreciation of the history of a people comes to one, either girls or members of the "male persuasion" are glad to learn the language of that people whether it be Greek or Latin or French or German.

Recently I had occasion to glance through a book on economics by Richard S. Ely, a professor in what has been called "the greatest of our state universities." I was struck by the importance he attached in political thought to Roman law. He also states that Mr. Gladstone got most of his inspiration from Aristotle's "Politics" and a little later he says we ought to read our bible because they give us an insight into the early life and customs of the "dear folks." Moreover, such roads and vice is often given by teachers and professors and seldom properly carried out. For, too, a certain pressure against carrying out is in Idaho. Teachers are forbidden by law to read the bible in the public schools, our law schools say that Gains and Justian are not practicable and as for Aristotle, he was dead and buried long ago.

However, there really is a great deal of good to be gotten from such books and I believe it is the duty of a university to discover it. If I believe, in getting students to read such books in the culture to lay enough stress on ancient history. Ancient history should include those books and a great deal more. I could take an example from the Acts of the Apostles in regard to the city of Alexandria. Now we know from the Acts that the Jews of Alexandria had a synagogue at Jerusalem, that two of the three by which Paul journeyed to Rome were "shipped of Alexandria," and that Peripat, who was a disciple of John the Baptist and who taught in Ephesus and Corinth, came from Alexandria. What we cannot learn is that Alexandria was the most important city of the empire, that it had a million inhabitants and that two fifths of them were Jews, that it was the great center of corn the trade and that this trade was largely in the hands of the Jews and that these ships on which Paul sailed to Rome were probably corn ships. We also cannot learn from the Acts that Alexandria was with Athens a great center of light and learning. Such information must come from other sources.

We are advised to read Aristotle's "Politics" but the person who gives such advice does not take into account that ordinary readers have not, like Mr. Gladstone, been through the Oxford school of "Greens" and will have great difficulty in appreciating it. Aristotle was a great scientist and besides he is the political he made a careful examination of the constitution of about one hundred and fifty city states in the then known world. He summed up a vast amount of thought on the subject which had been for several centuries preceding him. He was a teacher of Aristotle. But also did not write a treatise on the government of a world em- pire that was then coming into existence. All such facts must be carefully taught by a teacher of ancient history.
