Decreasing numbers mean less money for university

Liam Shepherd

Tommy Hasenohrl has been a guidance counselor at the Lewiston School District for the past 11 years.

"We've been helping students who struggle in classes and providing discipline when needed," Hasenohrl said. "They don't want to give up or do they can even afford it," Hasenohrl said. "So they come to me to get their grades back and together we look over their options."

The Lewiston School District has a relative high rate of graduation and college enrollment. However, Idaho suffers from a unique problem. The state has one of the lowest graduation rates at 89.9 percent as of 2015. Idaho is also struggling with a dropout rate of 10.1 percent.

Hasenohrl said that part of the problem may be a result of the state's layout. "Idaho is made up of a lot of agricultural communities which tend to be smaller in nature," Hasenohrl said. "So you have a bunch of small school districts that may not have the same facilities or larger districts and are trying to make it work for each other."

So the state is faced with students carrying high school outlooks and backgrounds on information on attaining college and the next step to a future. The conference also pointed out that in order to continue to be competitive, having the state's schools need to be in full-time equivalency. The PTV numbers determine how much funding a college will receive from the state.

Schools also report 10-day enrollment numbers, which affect part-time as well as full-time students. As PTV takes the of full-time students, it contributes to determine how much a school will be funded.

"This is the best way to measure. If less than cut-off in state's revenue, the tax payer gets their money back and an in-state student is paying the full course which is money for the state," Dan Noble, a financial specialist in the US Trust Investment, said this is.

"No one actually pays full price for a class and the revenue that is raised is typically around 75 percent of fees are on various combination of scholarships, state and grants. Effort goes into creating a budget, but doesn't actually pay back all costs. There's a lot of money that is put towards the state, in full-time student rate, is 12 percent, in Idaho it's 11.5 percent."

The University of Idaho/Boise State University football game won't be the first time the Idaho State and Boise State will play against each other.

All items will be donated to the currently popular Idaho Food Bank. Students can donate non-perishable items through Nov. 8. The set will need to be announced and pre-registration for the football game.

"This will be an opportunity for our students to get involved in Boise State Week," said Garrett Holbrook, who works for the Boise State University's ASUI Athletics Program.

Many students participate on Tuesday evening at local businesses, participating in food drives for the benefit of the Boise State University.

"They help build up your spirit," he said. "If you are a student going to work with the Council, it is an interesting and high tech businesses and communities we want to work with the Council. We do not have the luxury of planning for huge Food Banks, but want to get a good idea of how best to use the Council works in order to appropriately represent students."

He said he has no idea how much the program will be funded for Moscow, or how long it will be continuing.

"Since we have a fairly new Council, we've got to take care of the right question." he said. "We'll just work our way into it to see what people are telling us."
There are many different types of protection and spermicidal products, but it is wise to say that condoms are one of the best forms of protection for sexually active individuals. Now, while there are some great reasons for protection, there are also downsides to their use, especially in particular instances. A lot of people don’t think to be a good way to reduce the number of Spermicidal it does indeed kill sperm, but there are some other as- sociated with spermicidal methods. In these there are many who actually dislike about spermicidal methods. The application of the product on what kind, film variation of spermicidal products, the time between application and sexual activity, the amount of sperm- icidal to choose in this product you must be sure to read the instructions and follow the time requirements. Another aspect of spermicidal spray, they are more effective with other protection, such as a diaphragm. This is a fine thing as long as you know that it isn’t an appropriate method to provide the needed protection; the diaphragm is not the cervix. Another thing I dislike about this product is that it is a product of protection from disease. Yes, just for us to prevent the need for the protection, but that is about what spermicidal methods are. It is some specific spermicidal kind of product to produce the opposite effect with the result of the lack of protection. As in the vagina, in many circumstances, a skin irritation is not too big a deal, but remember that is where the product is being used. In situation such as the one I described, as in the vagina, is much worse than anything on the lack of the hand. A result of this can be open sores inside the vagina. An open sore produces a difficult pathway for spermicidal labels. This yields a much higher risk for disease transmission compared to not using the spermicidal labels.

Another problem with having spermicidal spotting, it may allow urine to be drawn through the spot, allowing the spermicidal to get into the urine, which can make it more difficult to identify the disease. In fact, it will be done, unfortunately. It is not stated on the label for the consumer. This lack of feeling, an open sore may not be to feel but while walking around campus. The risk can be discovered during a sexual interaction or sexual examination.

Chris Bidner is a junior cross- country runner and says "no" to spermicidal products.

THE LOOK OF HUNGER

LOCAL BRIEFS

USEC, E-Club host recycling day

The University of Idaho Sustainability Center and the environmental University Club will host a series of activities for National Recycling Day from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Thursday on the Old Commons Plaza. Events include a walk through a model of campus trash, be informed, mix, create/transform, and reduce the amount of recycled materials, a cake walk, the "Pass the Trash" game, "Draw the Week's Garbage" in the Old "l11 of 111" Hour," a film on global climate change. For more information contact Lisa Down at 885-0676 or fa-nurturi@uidaho.edu.

Parking offers more gold permits

Parking and Transportation Services is offering an increased amount of gold lot permits to students and staff employees for parking lots on campus.

Due to underutilization of some gold lots, gold permits will be sold at KFS. The gold permits available will be valid in Lot 15, Lots 19 and 20 north of the Law Building only. Vehicles displaying a gold permit must park in lots designated by the permit.

Permits will be subject to violation if parked in any other gold lot, will be permit-exempt for purchase at 10 a.m. Tuesday in the parking office on a first serve basis.

Parking releases holiday schedule

Parking and Transportation Services recommends that students and staff employees of parking enforcement schedules over holiday breaks. Permits are required in all gold and green lots and payment is required in all parking meters. From Dec 17-25, and Dec 22-25, Dec 31 and Jan. 1. The parking office will be closed on Nov 22-23 and Dec 22-25, Dec 31 and Jan. 1. The parking office will be closed on Nov 22-25, Region I. For questions please call our toll free number 885-0676. Snow patrol needs volunteers

The Moscow Snow Patrol is looking for people interested in being a member of the City of Moscow and the Palouse Guarantees Environmentalists to help educate community members about snow removal safety. It coordinates volunteer snow shoveling service to aid elderly and disabled area residents. The program will help property owners from city code. Volunteers will be paid based on the number of hours they are here in the need of the service. We provide volunteers with snow shovels and snow walk to volunteer to clear snow from the entrance and do the interior workings. Volunteers will be expected to show up to the assigned area and will have the bad weather at the older persons in the home.

For more information, contact County Courthouse at 885-3155 or craftyrat@wisc.

Sculpture auction supports PCC

A bronze 7-foot tall classical female sculpture is available for purchase from the Palouse Community College, 3,000-3,200.

The auction features artwork designed for 4:30 p.m., and is being auctioned primarily to raise 5:30 p.m. Thursday. The sculpture will be a benefit for students.

Hong Kong tests toys for GHB

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Rudy Giuliani is doing so well among conservatives that even those who didn’t back his presidential bid turn to him in strong numbers when asked to name their second choice, an Associated Press poll showed Thursday.

In the latest evidence of the former New York mayor’s strength among the Republican party’s right wing, overall, 12 percent picked Giuliani as their second choice.

The real-Republican race, which clearly distinguishes Donald Trump from the rest of the field, is just beginning to emerge. But, so far, Giuliani, who fell short of winning the nomination in 2008, is the only candidate who has consistently polled above 10 percent.

A Gonzales report says the agency may retreat from the push to allow immigration judges to review the data collected by local authorities.

Poll: Giuliani strong choice of conservatives

Associated Press

Washington, October 11, 2007

Rudy Giuliani is the top choice of the Republicans who supported John McCain’s unsuccessful 2008 campaign for president, according to a new poll by the Associated Press-NORC Center for Public Affairs Research.

Of the 882 Republicans who said they voted for McCain, 56 percent said they supported Giuliani in the election. Former Massachusetts Governor Mitt Romney had 12 percent and former Arkansas Governor Mike Huckabee, who finished fourth in the 2008 primaries, had 7 percent.

Giuliani, who is running as a Republican for president, is favored to win the New York primary, but is not expected to do well in the other states.

Chinese-made Aqua Dots metabolize into drug when ingested

Associated Press

BEIJING — Aqua Dots, a popular toy that contains a chemical that turns into a powerful “date rape” drug when eaten and then stored, has been uncovered in a Chinese factory, authorities said Thursday.

A woman whose toddler son ingested a popular toy that contains a chemical that turns into a powerful “date rape” drug when eaten and then stored, has been uncovered in a Chinese factory, authorities said Thursday.

Two children in the U.S. and one in Australia were hospitalized after ingesting the chemical, which turns into a powerful “date rape” drug when stored in a freezer.

Mary avenue said the chemical was found in a factory in southern China, and that authorities had seized the toys from a local store.

The chemical is a precursor to the powerful drug, and when eaten, it turns into the drug when stored.

Border fence could create man's land

Proposed wall would cut through 35 of 100 houses in small Texas city of Granjeno near Mexican border

Alice Caldwell
Associated Press

GRANJENO, Texas — Founded 240 years ago, the Deep South town of Granjeno seems like an anomaly in the Bible Belt.

The town's mayor and most influential residents say they want the border fence built right through the heart of Granjeno. The mayor says that the proposed border fence would be a good thing.

"I think it would be a good thing," said Mayor John C. Wright. "It would help the people of Granjeno.

"It would create a barrier between Granjeno and Mexico, helping to keep out illegal immigrants."

In the national debate over gay marriage, an unusual claim that in a society committed to equal rights, we cannot deny anyone the right to marry whom they choose.

Letters editor

Dr. Ron Paul, sir, I'm nothing, but the utmost respect for you. As a political and a humanitarian, you are one of the most respected politicians in the history of our country. Your message resonates with our entire country. Your stand on gay marriage demonstrates a true conservative that we desperately need an alternative.

Ron Paul, no, all the efforts your battle is breaking.

Thoughts on privacy, Pakistan

Asahi Shimbun, Tokyo, on privacy and the media:

In June 1993, a 16-year-old boy was hit by a train in Tsumebaware, Nara Prefecture, causing the deaths of his mother and two siblings. The media reporting was so intense that the newspapers were flooded with notes from readers offering their condolences. The boy was covered by newspapers and his family’s privacy was invaded. This was a clear violation of the boy’s rights to privacy. The media should be more careful in reporting such cases in the future.

We are all human beings with the right to privacy. The media should respect this right and refrain from invading people’s privacy.

Winnipeg (Canada) Free Press, on unrest in Pakistan:

Pakistan’s President Pervez Musharraf declared a state of emergency, suspending the democratic process, in an attempt to prevent demonstrations and restrictions of freedom of expression.

This was a move to prevent the political instability that could lead to a breakdown of the democratic process. The measures taken by Musharraf were necessary to maintain stability.

As an observer, I believe that the situation in Pakistan is quite tense and that the people are demanding a return to democracy. It is important that the government take action to provide stability and ensure that the people’s voices are heard. The government must work towards a compromise to resolve this conflict.

The New York Times, on religion and the media:

The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints has been facing criticism for its controversial practices. However, the church has been working towards transparency and openness in its practices and beliefs.

It is crucial that the church communicate its beliefs and practices to the public in a clear and transparent manner. This will help to dispel any misconceptions and misunderstanding that may exist.

The Indian Express, on politics and the media:

The media has a significant role to play in holding politicians accountable. It is important that the media continues to report on political matters objectively and with integrity.

The media must ensure that the political parties are held accountable and that their actions are transparent.

The Pakistan Observer, on religious freedom:

Religious freedom is a fundamental right that should be protected. The government must work towards ensuring that all religious groups are treated equally and that their rights are respected.

It is important that the government continues to work towards protecting the rights of all religious groups and ensuring that they are able to practice their faith freely.метabolized.

The art of good coffee

Pinksies up: Arts and Culture staff members share their favorite drinks and places in Moscow to sip on them

My guilty pleasure is a hand-brewed latte from One World Café. The latte is amazing, and if you're lucky you get a good barista who makes some art out of it. The coffee is always top-notch. The online flavor is interchangeable to any other place you get a latte in Moscow (I have tried pretty much everywhere as I am currently an expat and have yet to find coffee that I was disappointed with). Besides, they have doors hanging from the ceiling and combining the scent of coffee and a portion of the proceedings amount to the store in Spils.

~ Sydney Ray

Aside from my love for Chat tee or Earl Grey lattes, Robust's latte is very comforting. Their flat white is also amazing. Their coffee is always fresh and their baristas always understand the art behind it together. Their coffee is always amazing and their latte is a perfect blend of sweetness and coffee and notes as well as any other place in town.

~ Johann Slaybaugh

One World Café does the job of coffee as a thoughtful, comfortably warm and cozy place. Their coffee and service does as well as any other place in town. Also, the vibe is great as well.

~ Kevin Stoddard

My favorite coffee shop in Moscow is Triumph's Coffee House on Main Street. The coffee is good, but it is all about the cool kids there. The walls are adorned with various art pieces and there are cool art items and books to enjoy and read a warm drink.

Two in-house computers and wireless internet make this a popular spot for students looking for a quiet place to get things done. For the fall, the shop is decorated, giving the already warm feel a little bit of a harvest-time feel. The coffee served is large mugs, like the coffees from NBC's "Friends" and they bring it to you in a stainless steel cup.

I like the Starbucks in the Sixth Street Marketplace. It's close to where I work and they have the most delicious cinnamon rolls ever.

Gritman serves up healthy holiday cooking

Sydney Boyd

With the holidays approaching, many are looking forward to the delights of cooking and enjoying all that New Year's resolution season has to offer. Gritman Medical Center will host a healthy cooking class on Dec. 13, today, to teach people how to create simple menus and enjoy the holidays without fear.

The class will teach all the holiday basics and help them learn the skills necessary to make those big holiday meals a little bit easier. There will be cooking dom- estiques, shopping tips, and a demonstration on how to make those big holiday meals a little bit easier.

The class will be held in the kitchen of the Green Apple Conference Center in Gritman Medical.

"We want to set the scene for how to have a healthy holiday," said Camille Rittig, community nutritionist and assistant professor. "We know there are some major festivals during the holidays.

"Healthy eating is important, so we are going to focus on that. We are going to try to focus on what you can do to make sure that you are getting the necessary nutrients."

"It's important to understand that there are a lot of different ways to approach holiday cooking. We are going to focus on some simple recipes that are easy to make and are healthy."

A "Commission Fund" can be provided for the potentially "an- nual"美食 needs for cer- tain people.

"An internal survey revealed that some people enjoy the holiday spirit by doing things such as cooking and baking. They may enjoy the holiday spirit by doing things such as cooking and baking."

"People who are interested in learning a bit more about holiday cooking and baking can visit the NAEYC website to see what they enjoy doing during the holidays."

"For the healthy holiday, William asks us to consider some alternatives when making holiday recipes. "Use local produce or substitutes," said William.

"We want to make sure that people are aware of how to make healthy holiday recipes."

The class is open to anyone who is interested in learning more about healthy holiday cooking. It will be held from 6 to 8 p.m. at the Gritman Medical Center, 123 Main St.

Holiday Cooking Participates partial of the wonderful samples from the 2006 cooking class.

This attitude can lead to better and more effective teaching. The holiday cooking class for the next two events is on one of many events Grit- man Medical Center hosts highlighting a health event.

"We want to teach people how to make healthy holiday meals that won't end up in the hospital," Williams said.

"The "Tree of Life" celebration will be held on Nov. 29, and in the spring will be a picnic."

Kore said, "People should realize that they can have fun and be moder- ate, but just do it in a healthy way.

Bead show benefits Ugandan women, jewelry sold to benefit charity

Kevin Otisobarger

The art form that oil- ed the minds of many and allowed them to escape the harsh realities of life is now being used to benefit charity. A bead show is planned for this month.

The bead show will feature a variety of different styles of beads, from simple to intricate, and will be held from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturdays.

While each bead only takes a few minutes to complete, each piece of jewelry on each of these beads is individually crafted to individual customers.

"When you're looking for gifts any- where and you see a bead, it's a reminder of the people who are making the jewelry," Otisobarger said.

The bead show will be held on the second weekend of every month and will feature a different type of bead Each month will feature a different type of bead, from traditional to modern.

The bead show is hosted by the Ugandan Bead for Life organization, a non-profit organization that is working to help women in Uganda.

"We want to make sure that people are aware of how to make healthy holiday recipes."

The class is open to anyone who is interested in learning more about healthy holiday cooking. It will be held from 6 to 8 p.m. at the Gritman Medical Center, 123 Main St.

The right budget, wrong cast

Kevin Otisobarger

It takes more than a flying plate ship to get the average person to eat better. From the predictable meal to the weak acting, the move is a disaster.

Directed by Matthew Vaughn and based on the best-selling graphic novel series, "X-Men," this film is a bit of a disappointment. Writer/director/producer Vaughn, who is known for his work on "The Italian Job," is making his feature film debut with this comic book adaptation.

The film follows the story of a group of teenagers who are being trained to be a team of special agents for the U.S. government. The team, known as "The X-Men," is a group of mutants who are able to control their powers and use them to save the world.

The X-Men are led by Professor Charles Xavier, who is the leader of the group. He is a brilliant scientist and a mutant himself. The team also includes such members as Mystique, Wolverine, Storm, and Beast.

The film is based on the comic book series that was created by Stan Lee and Jack Kirby. It was first published in 1963 and has since become one of the most popular comic book series of all time.

The film is scheduled to be released in theaters on August 2, 2000. It is expected to be a huge hit, and it is sure to bring in a lot of fans of the comic book series.

The film is expected to do well at the box office, and it will likely be a huge hit. It is sure to bring in a lot of fans of the comic book series.

"We are proud to have earned the mark of quality from NAEYC, and to be recognized for our commitment to reaching the highest professional standards," said Angela O'Connell, Director.

"NAEYC Accreditation let families in our community know that children in our program are getting the best care and early learning experiences possible."

To earn NAEYC Accreditation in the new system, UI's Children's Center went through an extensive self-study process, measuring the program and its services against the ten NAEYC Early Childhood Program Standards and more than 400 related Accreditation Criteria. The program received NAEYC Accreditation after an on-site visit by NAEYC. Assessors to ensure that the program meets each of the ten NAEYC program standards. NAEYC-Accredited programs are also subject to unannounced visits during their accreditation, which lasts for five years.

In the 20 years since NAEYC Accreditation was established, it has become a widely recognized sign of high-quality early childhood education. More than 11,000 programs, serving one million young children, are currently accredited by NAEYC — approximately 8 percent of all preschools and other early childhood programs. "The new NAEYC Accreditation system raises the bar for preschools, child care centers and other early childhood programs," said Mark Ginsberg, Ph.D., executive director of NAEYC. "UI's Children's Center is a huge milestone for all NAEYC programs, but it is a big step in making sure that children get the best possible care."

The NAEYC Accreditation system has set voluntary professional standards for programs for young children since 1983. As of September 2006, the Association's revised program standards and criteria have introduced a new level of quality, accountability, and service for parents and children in child care programs. The new standards focus on promoting high-quality early childhood education and development. NAEYC is committed to utilizing the newest studies and analysis on positive child outcomes to ensure young children continue receiving the highest-quality care and education possible. The NAEYC Accreditation System was created in 1985 to set professional standards for early childhood education, and to help families identify high-quality preschools, child care centers and other early education programs. To earn NAEYC Accreditation, a program must undergo an external review by assessors from the NAEYC Accreditation System. Programs are accredited by NAEYC for a five-year period.

Young Vandals take the court

Andrea Miller

Integrity is what the Idaho women's basketball team has had during its entire history in the WAC. Intensity from three seniors in their final home game, it was evident they are returning leading scorer and senior Katie Madison and intensify their focus as they learn a new system. "We've got a lot to lose. Our intensity really high while they are learning a lot of new things," Miller said.

With hope to bring that same intensity to Memorial Gym tonight against their opening opponents, Idaho Vandals take on the Missouri State Bears. The Vandals are coming off a post-season game in the NCAA. Divilbiss will counter his team's starting five tonight. "We believe in this program very strongly," Divilbiss said of his team. "And we feel we are ready tonight to counter those great programs." The Vandals have been in a post-season game against the Bears, but also in six previous meetings they have won. Divilbiss' young team is untainted in tonight's first of a three-game homestand in Memorial Gym. The Vandals' men's team takes on Cascade College following the women's game.

New faces, new results?

Robert J. Taylor

The University of Idaho men's basketball team opens its season tonight against Cascade College of Portland. Oregon. The Vandals return two freshmen and returning two players from recent years. Idaho's roster will have completely different than last year.

The team's 14 players have changed. You try to get the best players you can, but you get a system that fits you. Last year's star, Mike Gill, and George Thingelstad had several exhibitions games prior to this season, Idaho's team needs to keep improving. "If this team keeps improving, we're going to find our level of success," said Coach Joe Divilbiss.

Divilbiss desired the ability to return, but his team's performance against small schools has been inconsistent. "We've been competitive in the last two years," he said. "We've been able to compete with those teams and get to the level of success we want." The team's new leader, Mike Gill, is a returning senior. He has return to Idaho and will be a leader for the Vandals. Divilbiss said, "Our team needs to improve its intensity and intensity seriously."

With the exception of the team's two freshmen, every player has played at the junior college level, excepting Jordan Brooks and Mike Gill. Brooks was a National Junior College All-American, and Gill is a returning senior. He transferred to Idaho from the NAIA.

Because the junior college transfer players played before coming to Idaho, Divilbiss believes their winning mentality will help the team to see how different from last year. Divilbiss said, "I believe the people coming into the program are going to have a big impact on changing the culture here than the returning players." Divilbiss has been returning two freshmen this year. "We're going to need a lot of new players," he said. "They need to be able to step up and play things."
Idaho beats Utah State

Hugh Jones - Argonaut

The University of Idaho volleyball team beat the Utah State Aggies 5-1 (20-19, 31-30, 30-22, 30-26, 30-21) on Sunday. The Vandals won the match without their starting setter and middle blocker who have been out for the season due to injury.

The Vandals are 6-1 in the conference and 20-7 overall.

Vandals take on the University of Oregon at 7 p.m. at the Dee Events Center.

Exciting season for Palouse hoops fans

John Mallory - Argonaut

College basketball fans have a lot to look forward to this season. The University of Idaho's basketball season opens on Friday, November 11 against the University of Oregon at 7:30 p.m. at the Dee Events Center in the men's basketball portion of the Idaho Classic.

The Cougars are coming off a 23-9 season and have high expectations for the 2016-17 season.

Men's basketball

The Vandals have returned from injury and are looking to pick up where they left off last season. Idaho is 3-0 in the conference and 9-1 overall.

The team is led by senior forward Duncan Kissick, who was named to the All-Conference team last season. He is back from injury and will be looking to lead the Vandals to a successful season.

Women's basketball

The women's basketball team is coming off a 17-14 season and is looking to make a turnaround this year. The team is led by senior guard Rachel Butler, who was named to the All-Conference team last season. She is back from injury and will be looking to lead the Vandals to a successful season.

Both teams are looking to make a turnaround this season and are excited to see what they can do.

WAC basketball team run down

Amanda Watson -

WAC basketball players gear up for another season and the start of conference play. Most teams are up to one-and-one at the beginning of another year. With new coaches, new rosters and powerful returns, this year it could be anyone's game.

Teams are in order of predicted finish as voted by the WAC's media poll.

Wolf Pack

Coach Mark Fox
Last season: 23-14, 14-2 WAC (6th)

The Wolf Pack starts the 2007 season strong with nine letter winners and one sophomore, Maxime Kazam. Kazam was named Conference Player of the Year last season and led the Pack with 14.4 points per game and 6.1 assists per game. Kazam was voted the most improved player in the conference after the last two seasons with a record-breaking 55 free throw games. He has averaged 14.4 in the last two seasons.

New Mexico

Coach Dave Lumsden
Last season: 20-14, 8-10 WAC (7th)

New Mexico State absorbed the WAC in field goal percentages (46.8 percent), three-point field goal percentages (38.5 percent), scoring margin (+2.5 points per game), percentage of time on court (94.8 percent) and turnover ratio (1.32).

Fresno State

Fresno State coaches led the conference last season three players, averaging 9.2 per game.

Louisiana Tech

Louisiana Tech is a powerful team this season with the top four scorers from 2006-07 returning to the lineup.

Santa Fe State

Coach George Newman
Last season: 8-23, 4-12 WAC (8th)

New Mexico State is the winner this season, scoring a record 10.2 points per game, and is second in the nation in free throw games with a 78 percent average. Coach Newman leads his team to a fifth straight season with an upset win over a top five WAC team.

Utah State

Coach: Gary Stern
Last season: 23-11, 9-7 WAC (5th)

Utah State brings the heat with the hotshot of winning 76.2 percent of its games to the last eight years, making them sixth in the nation. Utah State has averaged 24.4 regular season wins, but is only 1-4 in the conference.

San Jose State

San Jose State's new coach, Mike Brown, was hired away from the Louisiana Tech job and is trying to break the trend of losing to the Wolf Pack every season.

Boise State

Boise State is a top-tier team with a strong conference record and is considered one of the top five WAC teams. Boise State is the top seed in the WAC Tournament and is the only team with an average of 79 percent in the conference.

Hawaii

Hawaii Rainbow Warriors

Ties between Hawaii and Nevada

Hawaii is a top-tier team in the WAC and is always considered a top contender in the conference. Hawaii is the only team with a record of 78.6 percent in the conference last season and led in scoring with an average of 21.3 points per game. Hawaii needs to continue this performance to get back to the top of the WAC.

Idaho Vandals

Coach Gary Neuland
Last season: 2-3, 1-3 WAC (16th)

Oklahoma State

Coach: Richard Roberson
Last season: 14-13, 8-10 WAC (7th)

Texas Tech

Coach: Larry Hugill
Last season: 10-20, 7-9 WAC (11th)

Arkansas State

Coach: Jamie Skeen
Last season: 14-2, 7-9 WAC (11th)

Utah State

Coach: Gary Stern
Last season: 23-11, 9-7 WAC (5th)
