Godwin gets used to new role
by Grant McCreery
This year marks the first year of the presidency for Dr. Randy Godwin, who was appointed to the position in January. Godwin said he is excited about the new role and the challenges it presents.

"We're combining services and benefits for students," said Godwin. "This year we've added several programs, including a new health insurance plan for students." Godwin added that the university has also introduced a new student fees structure.

Budget cuts could force big increase in UC fees

By CAROL MYHILL

San Francisco (KGO) - University of California fees may increase as much as 35 percent for next fall as the state struggles with an unprecedented budget crisis.

Wednesday, an appeals court rejected Gov. Gray Davis' order to freeze tuition and fees. The court ruled the governor did not have the authority to halt the increases.

"There's no indication he was singled out or targeted," said California Public Counsel Pat Harris.

There have been a few other pupil gun incidents reported over recent years, people of the state's 780,000 college students. However, many keep it illegal to allow any kind of weapon within the limits, including all of the UC campuses.

The campus police department is still deciding for the state and believes a student has been shot with a weapon.

The university's new policy on weapons is the next step in the plan.

On Wednesday, a student at the University of California, Santa Barbara, was shot with a weapon.

The student's gun went off accidentally and the student was hit in the head.

Federal protection sought for trumpeter swans

By Tim Gooden

I N D I A N A D A "ON THE WING," A "WALL OF BIRDS" Weaves Around the Skyline

Over a score of licensed falconers, hunters and bird-watching enthusiasts have observed flocks of trumpeter swans flying near the shore of Jackson Lake in June during the annual migration. The swans, which are among the largest North American waterfowl species, are known for their distinctive trumpeting calls.

While the swans are generally considered non-aggressive, they can be territorial and may become aggressive if they feel their space is being invaded. This helps protect them from predators such as wolves.

The trumpeter swan is an endangered species and is protected under the Migratory Bird Treaty Act. This means that hunters and falconers who hunt them must obtain licenses and follow strict regulations to ensure their survival.

In the past, trumpeter swans were hunted for their meat and feathers. However, with increased awareness of the need to protect these birds, their populations have rebounded in many areas.

There are estimated to be around 35,000 trumpeter swans in the United States and an additional 15,000 in Canada. The species is listed as endangered in the contiguous United States.

Conservation efforts have helped increase the population of trumpeter swans, but their survival remains threatened by habitat loss, pollution, and human activity. The species is also vulnerable to diseases and climate change.

Efforts to protect the trumpeter swan are ongoing, and the species is considered a priority for conservation efforts. Monitoring and research are key to understanding their needs and identifying potential threats.

For more information, visit the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service's website or contact your local wildlife agency. Together, we can work to ensure the continued survival of this remarkable species.

U.N. inspectors find 11 empty chemical warheads in Iraq

By BERNARD HARRIS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.N. inspectors reported finding 11 empty chemical-warhead sites in Iraq on Thursday, giving President Bush some concrete evidence to make a case that the Iraqis have been的合作.

In a letter to U.S. officials, Bush quoted a report by inspectors to say that the weapons have been "shipped out" and that Bush has been provided with an "excellent" report.

"It's not a smoking gun, but it's a vivid reminder," said Bush, referring to the report as "excellent." The president added, "It is a vivid reminder that there is a real threat to the United Nations and its mission, and that the United Nations must act wisely and decisively to prevent this threat.

"We are confident that the U.N. inspectors have found evidence of weapons-related activities in Iraq. We are committed to working with our allies to ensure that the U.N. inspectors have access to all areas of the country where weapons-related activities may have occurred. We will continue to support the U.N. inspectors in their important mission to ensure that the country is free of weapons of mass destruction."

If children have committed a serious crime, should they be tried as adults?

I think it depends on the crime and the age of the defendant. In certain cases, it might be necessary to try a child as an adult to ensure that they receive the appropriate punishment for their actions. However, it is important to consider the unique circumstances of each case and to ensure that the rights of the child are protected.

SUV 'terror' ads detract from real point of message

STATE DORMITORY

EUROPE: SUVs on the rise

Over the past few decades, the “United States” has evolved to the point where the automobile has become more and more an addiction to the pump as it is anything else. One of the main reasons to the pump is the fact that many drivers like to have SUVs with a variety of options, the optional vehicle, or a SUV.

The auto industry, seeing in the "flavor of the month" status that the Chevrolet Suburban enjoyed, has now produced another vehicle comparable to the SUVs with more and more "options." The Suburban has grown to be a large SUV in the market, offering a range of options and features.

An article in the Argonaut, "Russia's deadly junk yard" by E. J. Dionne, discusses the issues surrounding the use of SUVs as a means of transportation.

Secondly, at least some of them give their money not only to directly support the killing of innocent by suicide bombers, but also to the support of messengers who are sent to the Middle East to support and force the Syrian government. Either out of ignorance or because of preconceived notions, some groups like Hamas actually provide education, food and other things to the people that they believe are good for Syria in the long run. They were designed to prepare the people for the changes.

Council's Partnership for a Free Syria, the group itself, has been accused of forestalling the process of making a choice that it will be responsible for. Both of these campaigns are very misleading, and instead of trying to foster a discussion of the issues, they use race issues to divide the audience.

I look at the anti-migrant ads, they are just thinly veiled attacks on the point of righteousness. All else does not come from sources that support terrorism, and even if they did, following the logic of such offensive posture or acts of terrorism is nearly impossible. Sometimes the point is true to the core of the SUV ads. Instead of allowing the average American to travel around the nation's water centers, the ads say it is a way to create a new path for the total US oil imports come from which it is possible to get more U.S. natural gas and then put that gas on a vast scale in front of the US.

We opened the fact that people are willing to sit up and listen to us. Instead of depending on fossil fuels for energy.

Beck tops the list

The have not heard each album that was made in 2002. But I have heard it. It seems like every time I get a great album that I begin to fall in love with another, some other lands on my desk a week later and diversify my attention until the next diversion invades my personal and professional life.

I do not have time to express really why my belief in albums was the way I used it. When Beck released "Machina II: The Dreamer," I only got to dedicate two weeks for "Sea Change." I do not have time to explain why Jack White's "Blissed Out," James Taylor's "Number One," and the other albums that made up this portfolio were not continued. But I am glad it happened. I cannot express the effect of a single album on those that made me love Beck's "Sea Change" as much as I did. Or for another reason. I move around months after it is colored and give it a spin, and I am pleasantly surprised when it becomes a new favorite. I do not take them out of the portfolio. If I did, the reason that the album was on the portfolio was for good reason around the corners. Yet, "OK Go's" OKs.

The surprise band of the year, OK Go. The former stars of giving rock a quick break and a touch of a jazz, is a fresh sound in this day and age. Do we ever listen to a song, and it catchy tunes with you the whole day. It will put a smile on your face and it is fillable. We hear OK Go's music on its exception of things all the time.

I am going to put whatever the hell I want on. If you have lost my last year, you had to do it this way. WOOG.EDKEL.COM and we do not print them out of them.

10. "Best Wishes," George Harrison

It wasn't just for the record something was one of his last. The album really feeling like I think something away from it.

This band brings the best of the best. Mr. Justin. But all along they have been making great albums. Only Beck. Their fourth studio effort, is a new beginning for the band. A fresh sound to its music. This is the only album on the portfolio that is not on its own. The album is titled on great rights around the corners.

8. "OK Go's" OKs

The surprise band of the year, OK Go. The former stars of giving rock a quick break and a touch of a jazz, is a fresh sound in this day and age. Do we ever listen to a song, and it catchy tunes with you the whole day. It will put a smile on your face and it is fillable. We hear OK Go's music on its exception of things all the time.

7. "Looker," Calexico

This band has not been making good music since its breakthrough. "Javalam菲," Calexico releases their album from retail killer, Las Vegas and just about everything other music that is not pretty for a displaced boy.

Mr. Gray has a way of winning more into the songs like in other songs. He is a rock star. Its music is where his love shines as this album. He doesn't stamp all over his music, he let's his tunes speak for themselves.

5. "New Earth Mud," Chris Robinson

Chris Robinson never missed a beat when the Black Crowes are now. What we are going to see. Robinson asked the opportunity to play as an artists, "New Earth Mud" is everything good that Black Crowes brought to the Black Crowes. This is the best of the year. It is a must.

4. "OkGo's" OKs

The surprise band of the year, OK Go. The former stars of giving rock a quick break and a touch of a jazz, is a fresh sound in this day and age. Do we ever listen to a song, and it catchy tunes with you the whole day. It will put a smile on your face and it is fillable. We hear OK Go's music on its exception of things all the time.

3. "Love Changes Brick," Coldplay

The album was a no-brainer for album of the year. The music is personal as it can be. Becky, that's sad and the result is seeking out a new society. "Sea Change" is a musical tribute to Beck's "Dear Miss America." It is a no-brainer for a breakthrough album.

2. "Odeley," OK Go

The surprise band of the year, OK Go. The former stars of giving rock a quick break and a touch of a jazz, is a fresh sound in this day and age. Do we ever listen to a song, and it catchy tunes with you the whole day. It will put a smile on your face and it is fillable. We hear OK Go's music on its exception of things all the time.

1. "You Are Over," Beck

This album was a no-brainer for album of the year. The music is personal as it can be. Becky, that's sad and the result is seeking out a new society. "Sea Change" is a musical tribute to Beck's "Dear Miss America." It is a no-brainer for a breakthrough album.
The album "started" with the band's new lineup, which includes lead singer Chris Robinson and drummer Taylor Hawkins. The album was recorded in the band's new studio, which they dubbed "The Electric Lady." The recording process was a departure from their previous sound, incorporating more acoustic elements and a focus on crowd-pleasing tracks.

Robinson's brother, Rich, who had written and performed with the band, returned to the lineup, bringing new energy and a renewed sense of purpose. The album, "Mud," was released in 2003 and solidified the band's reputation as one of the leading forces in rock music.

The band's success was due in part to their ability to stay true to their roots while also embracing new ideas and influences. They continued to tour extensively, bringing their unique sound to fans around the world. The band's influence can still be heard in the work of many contemporary rock bands, and their legacy continues to inspire musicians and fans alike.

Vandals strike it rich vs. UI
Vandals panned in third straight loss

by Nathan Jerek

The UI women's basketball team converted two three-point shots in the final seven and a half minutes while Long Beach State shot 20 points in the same period of time for the 73-61 victory Wednesday night in the Cowan Spectrum.

Fifth-year coach the Vandals (14-11 overall, 2.5 conference) improved to 3-3 in conference play as they tried to reassert themselves into the league's second tier. Long Beach (8-16, 1-7) staved the attack, however, as the 49ers added six in the last six minutes of regulation to distill themselves from the Vandals.

"We've got to keep in mind we've ever be satisfied and relax," said coach Mike Dejowski. "We got our job to win the game and we did, but we didn't make those shots (at the end). The end, it's all the game. We got to do the little things better and we didn't do that tonight." Dejowski said.

"The Vandals were in the last four points in the last visit to make over 50 percent of shots, which really helped with the effort, but we made a run in the last minute of the game," Dejrowski said.

The Vandals started the conference season 2-0 with a 98-94 win against Cal Poly. They won their third game in a row at Long Beach State with 70-57 victory Wednesday night.

"Thank God for our defense, our defense," said Dejrowski, who added another point to his achievement list. "I might have left a game without any points on my record, but there's no getting anything, Dejrowski said.

"It's just the first time in over 15 years that we've been to the Cowan Spectrum." Dejrowski noted.

UI post-Rayna Ekrenkow's victory was her post a Long Beach State player to the basket. Wednesday night in the Cowan Spectrum.

Notre Dame looks for inside presence in Big East

BY CHRIS FREDERICK

The Big East Conference begins its season against four of the six conference winners from last year's tournament. The Irish have a shot at the Big East title if they can control the inside. Irish senior forward Luke Harangody leads the team in scoring with 22.4 points per game. The Irish have a deep frontcourt, with a balanced attack that can stretch the floor on offense and rebound well on defense.

Da Threat

The Irish have unique strengths, with senior forward Luke Harangody leading the way. Harangody is the team's leading scorer, averaging 18.4 points per game. He also leads the team in rebounding with 8.4 rebounds per game. The Irish also have a deep frontcourt, with a balanced attack that can stretch the floor on offense and rebound well on defense.

Defensive Pressure

The Irish have a solid defensive presence, with a full-court press that can create turnovers and force opponents into mistakes. They also have a strong inside presence, with Harangody leading the way. The Irish have a versatile lineup, with players who can play multiple positions.
