Big-name businesses might spell trouble for small stores

By Rollin Morden

While franchise and corporate businesses may be coming to Moscow’s horizon of downtown businesses when two double-decker, 25,000 square-foot retail stores open at the intersection of East Street and Church Street just east of Jackson Street.

All is left is to get the building permits, hammer in the nailers in each," said Moscow Mayor Dennis M. Smith.

The mayor said he expects the new businesses to be a welcome addition to the downtown area, but he also expressed concern about the impact of large chains on local businesses.

"We want to see more small businesses in our downtown, but we also want to make sure that they can compete with the big chains," Smith said.

The new stores will be located in the old Kmart building and the former Safeway store, which have been vacant for several years.

Some locals are concerned about the impact of these large chains on smaller businesses in the area.

"I’m worried that these big stores will drive small businesses out of business," said Mark Johnson, owner of a local restaurant.

Others are more optimistic, saying that the new stores will bring in more people and boost the economy.

"I think these stores will be good for the city," said Sarah Green, a local resident.

The stores are expected to create over 100 jobs and will feature a variety of brands and products, including clothing, electronics, and home goods.

The city has been working with the developers to ensure that the new stores are in line with the downtown area’s aesthetic and character.

"We want to make sure that these stores fit in with the rest of the downtown area," Smith said.

The opening of the stores is expected to take place sometime in the fall.
Bush says he is out of patience

WASHINGTON (KRT) — President Bush said Tuesday to give up on U.N. inspections in Iraq, saying the inspections are "too slow and not doing the job" and Iraqis are "getting bored with the process." Republican leaders and Bush have both said the inspections were important to regional and international cooperation.

Army leaders' recent efforts to lay the groundwork for military strikes in Iraq have been met with mixed results from past failures. But such efforts do not always go smoothly. The military has not been able to begin the 15-vehicle convoy that the international group has passed on Tuesday. Germany, China and other leading powers on the U.N. Security Council will vote early this week to extend the deadline at least two more months to give a preliminary report of U.S. joint U.N. inspectors. The report is expected to say that inspectors are "fading" if there are no discernible signs. The lead German Chancellor Gerhard Schroeder said Thursday that Germany would not support a U.N. resolution in favor of the attack. Schroeder has said, "I think we can all agree that a war on Iraq is not a good idea."

The Security Council is expected to debate this issue next week after receiving a report in written inspections. Wary of the Bush administration's plans for a war resolution, the council will soon push back for a war resolution. The report administration has maintained that a new resolution isn't necessary, arguing that last fall's U.N. resolution and others closely continue it and that the U.S. alliance with Britain has already gone through the United Nations. This shows most Americans don't want a war unless the United Nations and major U.S. allies approve. Bush, who is scheduled to speak Wednesday at the White House, said Tuesday he was "not going to wait any longer to get Iraq's weapons of mass destruction," but he did not say exactly when or how he will proceed.

had different experiences.

Throughout the trip, in addition to attending lectures, we were also able to visit several volcanoes. The most impressive was Cotopaxi, a 5897-meter peak in the Andes, which rises above the Cotopaxi National Park. We were able to make a successful ascent to the summit, which is the highest volcano in Ecuador.

On the return journey, we made a stop at the town of Baños de agua santa, known for its hot springs. We had the opportunity to relax and enjoy the natural beauty of the area. Overall, the trip was a tremendous success, and I believe it has opened new opportunities for us.

Latinos eclipse blacks as largest minority group, census data show

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 26 - For the first time in U.S. history, Hispanics surpassed blacks as the nation's largest minority population, according to new Census Bureau figures.

While hovering on a controllable airframe, a team of scientists and engineers tested a new concept for a future commercial space airplane. The tests were conducted at the Kennedy Space Center in Florida.

The goal of the project was to develop a cost-effective, reusable spaceplane that could transport passengers and cargo to low Earth orbit. The team was led by Dr. John Smith, a distinguished engineer at the NASA Langley Research Center.

The flight was successful, and the team plans to continue testing the vehicle in the coming months. This is a significant step forward in the development of commercial space travel.

Protest is a part of American politics

On Jan. 18, the world took to the streets to protest the war in Iraq. To date, our government has not backed down from its position to continue the war effort. Protests seem to be mounting worldwide, but our government continues to do just the opposite.

As Prentiss Ecklund wrote in the Jan. 26 edition of The Chronicle, "The anti-war movement has been turning the public on, long before today's protests. Of all the anti-war demonstrations in history, this is the best organized, and the largest so far."

And it's true. The anti-war movement has been growing for years, and the protests in the past did not have the团结 of the public that we see today. It is a movement that is supported by all walks of life. It is a movement that is supported by people from all cultures and backgrounds. It is a movement that is supported by people from all ages. It is a movement that is supported by people from all parts of the world.

The anti-war movement is about more than just protesting the war in Iraq. It is about protesting the war on terrorism. It is about protesting the war on democracy. It is about protesting the war on human rights.

The anti-war movement is about protecting our country. It is about protecting our Constitution. It is about protecting our values.

The anti-war movement is about standing up for what is right. It is about standing up for what is good. It is about standing up for what is just.

The anti-war movement is about being a part of a movement that is making a difference. It is about being a part of a movement that is making our country a better place.

Winning in the home stretch

Vandal women end on top in seasaw affair

By NATHAN JONES

Four ties, 14 lead changes and no big leads characterized Saturday's UI-UC Irvine women's basketball game. In the end the Vandals ousted UC Irvine in the back-and-forth match-up with the 74-64 victory.

"We sensed a number of ways because our effective screen was good," said UC Irvine assistant coach Mike Divilbiss. "That's a product of our players getting used to play us this year so we've made a conscious effort to screen this year - to make sure we're not just doubling up and not two on one. We were able to do a better job, get sharper cuts and we're a bit better involved with the basketball."

The Anteaters proved they were the second-best shooting team in the conference. Making 40 of 68 shots, they had 31 free throws, with 20 of those at the line. UC Irvine's 20 points from the line surpassed the Anteaters' 19 points from the line.

"That's the best, we've never had 31 free throws," Divilbiss said. "Mark Adams did a great job with his team and they ran a lot of good sets. There is no way to guard all of that stuff and it was very tough to guard all of it. You have to dictate when it's going to happen - that's the only way to win. We just didn't do it tonight."

UC Irvine's offense was characterized by setting up in the half-court, however, with three players scoring in double digits and two others finishing the game with eight points.

Forward Taylor Benson was the lead scorer for UI with 18, including 4 of 4 from the three-point line. Anteater Fullerding notched the night with 18 and Adams finished the game with 15.

"This was a team win," Divilbiss said. "All the guards were exceptional tonight."

The first half was the most tumultuous for both teams as neither could build a solid lead and keep it. UC Irvine grabbed the 8-6 lead in the early going but that advantage was quickly erased in the game close for the remainder of the half.

Neither team claimed a lead larger than a two-point margin for the first 10 minutes stretching during the opening period. The Vandals held a 24-23 lead before the Anteaters went on an 11-0 run to grab their biggest lead of the night at 34-23. The Anteaters cut the lead in half, 34-17, with a 17-4 run during the closing seconds of the first half.

The second half continued with the back and forth for both teams as neither could steal away a wild lead. Nonetheless, the Vandals were able to keep the lead and keep it for the duration on a Benson 3-pointer with 2:29 remaining on the clock to grab a lead.

Anteaters were never more than four points behind the Vandals.

Finally UI pushed the lead up to five on a Benson 3-pointer with 5:54 remaining, followed by 6 of 8 points from the free-throw line to finish the game. UC Irvine's offense came to a standstill, shooting 7-for-17 in the second half, finishing the game with 36 percent shooting.

With the win, the Vandals ended up their conference record at 5-11 and are currently in a tie for fourth place of the Big West standings.

"I was happy we were able to salvage a win against a very, very tough team," said Divilbiss on their win over UC Irvine.

Men slip over weekend, await Titan challenge

By ROLFE DAVIS PETERSON

Coming off two straight losses, the University of Idaho basketball men's weekend is set for a big road game.

UC Irvine boasts the third-best record of the Big West Conference and, with wins over Arizona State and Arizona, is in contention for a spot in the conference tournament.

UI lost both conference road games this season.

"We've been talking about what it looks like," head coach Larry Eustachy said. "I thought we played great." UI jumped out early against the Anteaters, leading the Big West in conference games by 11-4.

Eustachy has the Vandals third in the Big West conference, but they will be out to prove it against the Anteaters on Saturday.

The Vandals are in second place in the Big West.

UC Irvine was in second place last season in the Big West.

UC Irvine's 16-2 record last season is the most on record for the Vandals.

UC Irvine is 12-3 for the year.

UC Irvine is outscoring the Vandals by 7.4 points per game.

The Anteaters are the top scoring team in the Big West, with a 79.4 average.

UC Irvine faces the Vandals on Saturday.

"We came in Saturday night to UC Irvine against a very good basketball team and we finished the job," Eustachy said.

"UC Irvine was a team that was very, very tough to get by, but we were able to do it," Eustachy said. "We were able to do it because we got off to a good start, we had a good second half and we were able to close it out."

Maryland hands Blue Devils first loss

Dunk seals Florida's win

Maryland's 14-point loss to the Blue Devils is the second worst in Maryland's 30-year history. Maryland's coach, Gary Williams, attributed the loss to the team's poor shooting and rebounding.
