something about the particular hold of these colleges, namely on its junior classes, and of checking the results from the first method of comparison as given above.

According to the first method, the comparison of class population, it was shown that in an average of 12 years at Idaho, the per cent of the senior class to the freshman class four years earlier is 49 per cent, while Harvard shows 77 per cent, Yale 69 per cent, and Bowdoin 56 per cent.

In the comparison of class permenences, the average at Idaho for the same number of years is 21.5 per cent, Harvard shows 41 per cent, Yale 56 per cent, and Bowdoin 51 per cent. From these statistics it is noted that the class mortality at Idaho is a serious menace to the growth of the student body and while President Branaman is emphatic for a better, thus bigger university, it cannot be denied that neither can be obtained until the classes enlarge, better maintain their numbers through the four years. The dean brought out the interesting fact that southern Idaho sent to the university last year 14.9 per cent of the university students. But a great many of this 54 per cent fail to return. The freshman last year had 145 of the green-capped variety, while this year that class has only 80 members.

The present freshman class numbered 162. How many of this 162 will return as sophomores? That is the question, and it was with the aim of preventing if possible some losses that the booster meeting was held. (Continued on Page 5)
MATTERS OF HISTORY FOR YEAR 1913-14

Come Here to Study Premedical Courses.
(By Harry Shumate.)
The Premedical club, as no doubt, the strongest organization in college, having been born this current year. It is composed of men who expect to work in the medical line and who will start early in the fall, and endeavor to finish the tournament so that a team may be chosen from the best players to represent Idaho in contests with other colleges. The tournament started in February has not been completed owing to conflicting dates in the past few weeks. The results show Prof. H. P. Fishburn to be the strongest player, although several times matches were not played, and Ray Cassman and Prof. Peterson were close contenders for the championship honors.

Has Been Made New by the U. I. Chess Club.

Some of the players were beginners while others had previous experience. Chess is an old game and it requires considerable concentration to become a good player. The club will no doubt have a very successful year next year, and the team will do no doubt add another W. C. to the Idaho list of opportunity in afforded.

The seniors at Eidenbaugh hall entertained Miss Broshier, Dr. Moore, and Miss Brashier's sister at dinner last week.

SOME FEW THINGS PECULIAR TO THE CURRENT YEAR

ALPHA KAPPA EPSILON HOME.

The house shown in the cut in the first home of the fraternity named under it. This is another product of the last year. This, the youngest of the Greek-letter organizations, is the fifth one to be organized at Idaho with the student body and in the welfare of individual students. President Brannon recognizes the need of a "Greater University" and under his leadership we are sure to have it.

Old Girls' Party.
On Monday, June 1st, Wm. H. Mason by Gale Seiman and J. B. Rhodes, the following plans have been made for the work of the Y. M. C. A. during the coming school year.

First, to welcome the students upon their return to school, especially the new students. Traffic will be met, and assistance will be given the students to find suitable lodging. An employment bureau will be conducted to obtain work for those students who wish to earn a part of all their expenses. It is hoped that the community as a whole will support this policy by handing over of those appointed on these committees notice of any work and of lodging accommodations which they can offer.

Recently, to hold religious meetings of an interesting and helpful nature every other week, on Sunday afternoon. Good speakers will be obtained to address these meetings, and special music will be provided.

Thirdly, to conduct bible study in connection with the various Sunday services purpose of living together. It was organized just one year ago and has successfully completed the first year of its existence. The house, though small, is extremely convenient and by using the sleeping porch the boys find plenty of room.

NEW ARGONAUT OFFICE.

Most encouraging progress has been made this year in the effort to secure a permanent Argonaut office. The need of such an office became generally known there has been no lack of re-operation on the part of the president and A. R. U. I. affl. Temporaries quarters were secured in the publicity room and a little furniture purchased. Forgetting the constant interruption, the little corner was an obvious improvement over no office at all.

But better times are at hand. Prexy Brannon has been quick to see the need of a real Argonaut office and he has accordingly made arrangements by which one of the rooms in the Gym may be given to the Argonaut. When this step has been taken, can or should, take an increased interest in our university publication. In the past there has been little interest beyond the tendency to pick it to pieces and find faults. With a well equipped office such as we are assured in the Gym, or better still, in the Ad. building, the future looks good, very good.

TWO MONTHS OF PREXY BRANSON.

President Brannon has been here but two months and already through out the entire state the influence is felt. He has had time, despite his very extensive lecture tours, to investigate almost every branch of university activity. He is interested not only in the establishment and maintenance of a strong, well-balanced university, but in all the functions of the and Miss Margaret Keana were married in Moscow. Mrs. Mason is a graduate of the University of the class of 1912, and has, until recently, been practicing law in Moscow. He is a representative of Lank county in the state legislature and is now engaged in the newspaper business in Deary where he edits the Deary and Bovill papers. He is well known in the community and is a member of Theta Mu epsilon fraternity.

PLANS FOR NEXT YEAR.

Will Make New Students Welcome in the Fall and Keep Them Studing.

(By B. Royli)

In accordance with the policies adopted at the conference conducted schools of the city. The nature of the courses studied will be left largely to those enrolled for these classes.

Forthly, to conduct routine courses in mission study (throughout the year, as is convenient with those taking up the studies). These classes will take the form of social, informal discussions on mission topics, as brought up by the books used.

Other plans will grow out of these, and will be adopted as the work goes on. It is hoped that the plan of presenting any of the works or its possibilities, will be freely made to ensure of application. Labor or of lodgings should be left with the larger. Francis Jenkins, be- fore listed, 1, finds suitable. Lloyd Elting has been made charge of students labor and Delco Boyd of arrangements for new students.

CONFERENCE OF Y. W. C. A.

Young Ladies Urged to Attend Meetings During Vacation—Funds Lack ing to Send Delegates.

(By Rose Curtis)

At this time of the year it is very necessary to call the attention of all the girls of the university to the Y. W. C. A. summer conference which will be held at Cosheset Beach, Wn., June 22 to July 2.

For any young women who are able to go this is an opportunity which should not be allowed to pass by. The summer conference affords a very desirable opportunity to bear speakers of nation-wide prominence, to make new friendships, and to broaden one's view of life, and at the same time spend a few days in health-giving recreation.

The Y. W. C. A. of the university is at present trying to raise funds to send two girls, Miss Mary McClellan, the president of the local association, and Miss Lottie Morris, one of the officers, to this conference. We would like to have them hand in their names, to Miss Grace Darling or Miss McClellan at once.

The local association is greatly in need of funds just now to send their delegates to the conference. If there are any who can aid us in securing the necessary money we should be glad to hear from them immediately.

DELTA GAMMA HOME.

The cut below shows the new home of the Delta Gamma sorority. The sorority moved into the house during the early part of the year. Formerly the girls lived in Mrs. Moor's small house on Deakin avenue. The girls are well pleased with the new home. It is very close to the campus—just up the hill west of the old home of President MacLain. The house is heated by a furnace and is very well suited to the needs of the sorority. It is finished beautifully, and in the spacious living rooms, which contain a five-piece room, may be found the neat, fairly small dancing parties, etc. On the south side is a fine sleeping porch. In front of the house are some very fine shade trees. But the grounds are not yet improved as they should be owing to the uncertainty of the paving of University avenue. The move into the new quarters marks an epoch in the sorority history.

Miss Belgard of Colfax, Wash., was a guest of Delta Gamma for Campus Day.
COMING UNDER THE WIRE.

Since this issue is the last one that will be put out by the present staff we think it fitting to offer a summary. The task of the editorial staff is difficult. What has to be done is to let its readers to say. But this much is certain. We are grateful for all that is given us. In this regard special mention is due Prof. Allens whose kindly interest and material assistance we thankfully acknowledge; Prof. Patterson, whose contributions are always welcome to the best advantage, Prof. Askel, whose interest, patience and have not wavered; and especially, Mr. Lehman whose guidance, encouragement and assistance have been priceless.

Those, with possibly two or two others of the faculty, are the men who have helped. They have cared and sincerely we thank them.

One or two matters strictly personal we have received no contributions from students not on the staff.

One of the members of the staff only the good need be told. For the most part they are good workers. We wish to thank them. Beyond question the most loyal and energetic supporter is John McEvers. He has handled the athletic interests during the year and three issues have been without some contribution from John. Not only the work, he has accomplished, but the interest and spirit in which he performs deserves the highest praise. Harry Elshouse and Arthur J. Lynn have been willing and able reporters. Blahouse especially has faithfully ferreted out faculty cre and administrative measures in a most praiseworthy manner. To Rollo Casler we owe thanks for sparkling flashes; to Edwina Yost for a steady glow. They have given real support and are only less reliable for consistent effort than is C. P. Johnson, whose duty it is to make the a ural college known. The editors wish also to thank Ralph Green, Herman Nutter, Theron Warren, Alice Harter, Gertrude Bercle, Dorothy Taylor. Prinicy Dietz and one or two my friends for their contributions. The efficient managers of Roy Tut and Ray Binns have been a source of pleasure in the production of the paper. Finally a word of thanks is due the Star-Telegram, who have made our relations pleasant and mutually helpful.

"GREATER VARSITY" RALLY SUNDAY.
The speakers that followed gave brief talks on assigned topics all bearing on the problem of making the school a better, a bigger, university.
Dean Freer's speech on the relation of the women of the university to the state and depicted the qualities that go to make up the unusually womanly women. He said of one things that did not make for either a better or a bigger university. Her remarks on intellectual apostasy ming true.
Dean Ayres spoke on the "Spirit of Unity," while Prof. Helme talked on "Essential Unity." Other points of interest were touched upon by Donal Shuttuck, Lida and Carlie.
Representing the students, Harry McAdam talked on the activities of the student body and Joseph Pond spoke on the community spirit.
The enthusiasm and better understanding created by the 1914 and the general spirit of the meeting, resulted in a unanimous pledge to secure expert advice for the university and ideas for increasing the enrollment for next year. It is expected that the greatest good can be accomplished for the university by the adoption of plans suggested Sunday.

THE LAW AND THE PROPHETS

HONESTY AS FUNDAMENTAL PRINCIPILE OF LIFE AND CONDUCT IN THE LEGAL PROFESSION.

Audience Slag, Mr. E. K. Humphries Sings, Last Regular Assembly of School Year 73-74.

(By Melvin Issac)

Last Wednesday's assembly was one of the most interesting and instructive this year. After singing "Weaver My God to Thee," Pittlter played the violin. He was assisted by Miss Petrina, who played the piano. Mr. E. K. Humphries sang. The music was greeted with hearty applause.

After the music we listened to Prof. Wilson's interesting talk on "Lawyers and Prophets." The speaker aimed to place the audience in a better light as to the ethical principles of a lawyer and to smash some of the Sunday school scruples commonly held against the legal profession.

Prof. Wilson began with a definition of law.

He then continued, "I have found most lawyers living up to this ideal and free from corruption. It must have been a surprise to the freshmen law students when they started to school last fall and found that the professors objected on honesty and fairness. Many people actually believe that 'lawyer and liar are synonymous.' It is true that crookedness exists; then where does it exist? In the client. Not one client out of fifty will tell his attorney the truth as it really happened, but will tell the things which will help to win the case. Hence it takes the trial to find out the truth in the case.

"Crooks are not confined alone to the law profession. They are to be found among every other class of people. There are lawyers who make a practice of taking cases and losing by lying, but those people are few and far between. Has the lawyer a moral or ethical right to plead for the man whom he knows to be guilty? Yes, and not only has he the right but it is his duty. The law is for the purpose of proving at each step the guilt or innocence of a man. So it is the purpose of the attorney to see that his guilty client is proven guilty by due process of law. The law presumes to hold every man innocent until he is proved guilty."

"If, after a trial, the clients on the opposite sides see their attorneys walk out of the court room in arm, they at once conclude that the outcome was all made up between them before the trial. They forget that the lawyers can be brothers and at the same time oppose each other in fair trial for the sake of testing a case."

"Because there are evils in the legal profession does not prove that it is all corrupt. It merely shows that the profession is on the high road of progress. Where there is progress there are imperfections. Where eviils or imperfections cease to appear progress has ceased. Where no evils are found stagnation is the inevitable result."

Prof. Wilson said that he believes these things, and he spoke as one of firm convictions. "These are principles which we are expounding to the law students in the U. of I. The fundamental doctrine is honesty, which every student is required to learn. Not the spineless honesty no often found in all trades and professions, but honesty which can say 'no' to all evil allurements. The law students are being taught the fraternal brotherhood—how to test a case fairly and without malice so that they can walk out of the court room in arm after a hard test." Mr. Wilson is a keen man and we believe that his own ethical principles together with those of the other law professors, will be an incentive to the law students for the maintaining of the upright principles of their profession.
