JOINT SESSION HELD SUNDAY

MANY INTERESTED STUDENTS GATHERED SUNDAY TO LISTEN TO SPLENDID ADDRESS

Speaker Urged Christian Associations to Seek Ideals Different from Aspirations

Almost a third of the student body was present at the auditorium last Sunday to hear Dr. Brannan address the Christian associations of the University. Many townsmen and other students were present.

Before the address, Raymond Pittenger played a violin solo, Mendelssohn's Sonata, after which he was well received. Oscar Johnson was accompanied.

Dr. Brannan's address, "The Function, or Place of the Christian Association in a Small College," was drawn from views expressed in the literature and made by an official of one of our railroads, that, drawing conclusions from the previous experience, a Christian association can reach only a certain height, when it will drop again to its starting point.

The address was then made by one of the fair visitors from a rural district near Moscow, who said that those at the head of the educational system in Idaho were failing in their work, because they didn't reach that part of the state which needed help—mainly, the rural schools. The second source was aldman recently published in a local paper, commenting on the college Christian institutions.

"In order to determine his function of the Christian Associations," he said, "it is necessary to face the question, what is the significance of the Christian organizations? And to answer this question, we must do more than merely examine the stage whereon these organizations must produce results, as well as works."

First, consider the practical work done by the associations. They arrive to help the student—not by begging for him, but by satisfying his desire for opportunity for honest work. And if there is a place in this world where such a desire is not felt—where such a search for opportunity is not considered essential, the question of what the total registration may be must make dsults, as well as works.

Second, consider the other work, the training of leadership. The registration now in the different departments is as follows: B.A., 93; B.S., 73; B.B., 23; B.E., 7; P.B., 5; P.E., 8; C.E., 17; Mag. E., 9; B.E., 12; Mech. E., 16; Chem. E., 3; L.L.B., 23; Special Majors, 3.

The registration by colleges is as follows: Letters and Sciences, 250; Agriculture, 53; Engineering, 15; Law, 25.

SCHOOL CHILDREN VISIT UNIVERSITY

SCHOOL CHILDREN ENJOY HOSPITALITY OF UNIVERSITY IN DAY OF SIGHT SEEING

Home Economics Department Prepares Splendid Feed for Our Little Visitors

Last Friday children from the county conduct clubs visited the fair and were entertained by the University. Naturally, the boys and girls were interested in the state's great centers of learning and especially in the Agri-cultural and Home Economics Departments, for the former furnished the buildings on which the boys based their different contest clubs, and the latter published those required by the girls.

These clubs are organized all over the state, for the purpose of bettering the farm conditions through the younger generation, and the children in each county send their produce to their respective county fairs. Those taking prizes at these places, have, in former years, been treated with a trip to the state fair. This year, the children of Latah county were brought here to see the University.

The delegation was met at the morning train by members of the chamber of commerce and was conducted thru the buildings and grounds of the University—the boys under the leadership of Judge Maguire, and the girls led by Mr. H. F. Bryan, of the county superintendent.

The future farmers of Idaho were shown thru the agricultural buildings, stock barns, and orchards; while their prospective wives were shown thru the auditorium and other places of interest. They were then conducted to the Home Economic Department. Here they crowded into the chairs and were served a luncheon. The materials used were furnished by the Fair Association, and the meal was cooked by the Junior and served by the Sophomore Cookery classes. No sooner had the girls finished and been relieved out, than over a hundred boys were brought in, who distributed themselves thru the rooms and even overflowed into the halls, when some of them had to sit on the floor while they were served. After their appetites had been satisfied they were shown thru the other buildings on the campus, and then they all marched down to the fair to spend the remainder of the afternoon.

Judging by the cheers that were given, for Miss Hoover and her “feed,” the youngsters enjoyed themselves immensely; and one young maid yet in her teens, was heard remarking to another, “I guess I will work hard and pass the state exams so that I can enter the University next year.

WHERE WE GET THE NAME, "GAZETTE"

Few persons know the origin of the name, "Gazette," which adorns many newspapers in the United States have adopted.

Students in newspaper history at the School of Journalism at the University of Montana, have discovered that an Italian weekly newspaper, published in Venice in 1956, was sold on the street for one "gazetta," a coin of small denomination. From this came the name, gazette.

One Michigan newspaper which adopted the name, Gazette, has a title which sounds like a college yell. The newspaper is the Kalamasow Gazette—Exchange.

CO-OPERATION WITH THE U. S. Department of Agriculture Demonstration Under Government Direction Be Given in Idaho

The United States agricultural department is carrying out a spirit of co-operation with agricultural extension departments in all states of the nation, turning the channel of its investigations and efforts toward a unification of the various problems affecting farm management, development, culture, and science. Arrangements being completed for the particular branch of the work represented by Mr. Goddard being carried on in Idaho through the agricultural extension department of the University, which will result in all appropriations for this work by the government, Idaho's proportion being expended through the university and the work being carried on by the extension department.

EXPERTS COOPERATE

Specialists From Washington, D. C., Co-operate With University Heads

Mr. L. H. Goddard, Agriculturist in charge of Farm Management Demonstrations and Mr. Macy M. Layhew, Soils Specialist of the U. S. Department of Agriculture and Mr. L. C. Corbett and Mr. H. J. Ramsey, Specialists of Apple Storage Problems of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, have been in conference with the Administration and Heads of Departments of the University during the present week. These conferences have been in the interest of co-operation which is being fostered by the U. S. Department of Agriculture and the University of Idaho.

TAKE HEED

Final Date for Change of Study-List Is Set for October 14th

The final limit for change of study-list, either thru dropping a course or adding one, is held for Thursday, October 15, at 5 p.m. Petition blanks may be obtained in Room 106.

If you wish to receive credit for the course under the Plan of Study, you must secure a petition blank from the course so that it may be filed under the name of the course.

CONFERENCES WITH FARMERS

At the University there will be held during the year frequent conferences with the farmers of the immediate vicinity and others who may be able to come to the University for short course in Agriculture. These series of conferences was inaugurated on September 12th. About 15 farmers met with the Farmers Union of Moscow for a conference on smut.

This conference was addressed in the morning by President Benson of the University who gave a general discussion on the life history of the smut plant. In the afternoon it was addressed by Dr. Ira D. Cardiff and Plant Pathologist Woolman. Both of these speakers contributed greatly to this co-operation discussion on smut.
ENCOURAGING

The Law School of the University is given national recognition this spring, by Phi Alpha Delta, one of the largest national legal fraternities in the United States, when the Kappa chapter of that fraternity was established at Idaho, and admittance to the American Bar Association has been assured as soon as the required number of volumes in the library can be obtained. These things only point to the fact that the big men of the United States look upon this western country as being undeveloped, and upon the lack of the respect due to the University itself, as being only in the making.

THE EMPLOYMENT BUREAU

The employment bureau of the University is doing much good service this year in securing work for students. Almost daily notices appear on the bulletin boards calling for the services of one or more men. The cooperation of the townspeople is appreciated for they are helping very materially in furnishing as much work as possible to the greatest number.

There is great possibility for gain in a University employment bureau and another year should witness a more efficient and systematized bureau whereby more work may be listed for those students who desire work.

THE CLASS FIGHT

The Sophomore-Freshmen entanglements of the past week have been the most serious fracases of their kind that the University has witnessed. The authorities have asked that for the sake of sportsmanship fair play suspend tactics be done away with and that the members of both lower classes have responded to these demands in unimpeachable and altogether creditable fashion. Committees from the two classes are now at work on plans settling any questions of honor that may arise between the two factions and it is to be hoped that they will be successful in arranging a system that will obviate objectionable interclass hazing scrumps for all time.

LITERARY SOCIETIES

We do not account for the absence of a literary society at Idaho, but the mere fact that no such society exists here has been the source of much wonderment from visitors. It is pointed out to us that schools smaller than the U. of I. maintain two or more literary societies. But here nothing of the kind exists. They are recognized as essential in most colleges and conducted independently of a debate coach. Two literary societies operate more satisfactorily because of the rivalry that is sure to spring up. Debates are participated in, oratorical contests are held and much good comes to every member of each society. We do not need a debate coach for the successful maintenance of a literary club at Idaho. A debate coach is a paid (?!) officer who teaches three men to win a contest from a team of some other college. Only three men receive the benefit of that debate. A literary society offers equal opportunities to all and because of that fact should receive the encouragement and support of every student. Athletics should not be allowed to exclude things as important as these.

ENGLISH CLUB ELECTS

The first meeting of the English Club took place Thursday evening in the rooms of the English Department. The following officers were elected for the year: Lescatta Liukin, President; Israel Delson, Vice-President; William McDevitt, Sec.-Treas. Ollie Nieshet was selected as Manager of Property. Miss Ollie gave a brief talk in which she gave an excellent advice for perfecting plans for the year.

The non-fraternity men have organized at the U. of W. The society is known as the "Washingtonians" and boasts of regularly elected officers and executive board. A smoker is now being planned as the first event of the year.

Enrollment at the U. of W. this year exceeds that of last year by 300. Hoffer, the big O. A. C. tackle, has been chosen to captain the 1914 team. Hoffer weighs 190, and plays fast, aggressive ball.

STUDENT COMMITTEE APPOINTED

W. W. Casey, C. R. Buftington, and R. J. Leth have been appointed to investigate the naming of the athletic field.

HONOR LIST IS ANNOUNCED

HONOR LIST SHOWS NAMES OF STUDENTS WHO HAVE ATTAINED AN AVERAGE OF 65 OR OVER

System and Classification of Honors Are Explained in Detail

In order to promote scholarship the faculty has adopted a system of classified honors with the following rules:

Honors are of two kinds: (1) Yearly Honors, given at the close of each year and known as First-Year Honors, Second-Year Honors, Third-Year Honors, and Fourth-Year Honors; and (2) Final Honors, based upon the work of the entire course. Yearly Honors are divided into two groups, known as Class A and Class B. Final Honors are divided into three parts, known as Honors, High Honors, and Highest Honors.

Yearly Honors are determined in accordance with the following numerical system:

Each semester-hour with grade A counts as 6; B, as 5; C, as 4; D, as 3; E, as 2; F, as 0.

Numerical equivalents are attached to the above honor groups as follows: First-Year, Second-Year, Third-Year, and Fourth-Year Honor Lists.

Class A, an average of 5.000 or over.
Class B, an average of 4.533 or over.
Final Honor Lists: Honors, an average of 5.000 or over.
High Honors, an average of 4.533 or over.
Highest Honors, an average of 5.666 or over.

The award of Highest Honors is conferred by vote of the University Faculty only upon candidates who (a) have attained the required grade of 5.666, (b) have performed the work of the Junior and Senior years in residence at the University of Idaho, and (c) have shown a capacity for intensive work.

The arrangement of names within each group is alphabetical.

Last year's honor list has just been completed and honors were awarded as follows:

W. S. C. Bear Stories

Th' best team in the history of the college will defend the Clemson and Gray this year against unusually heavy opponents. W. S. C. will have the lightest team in the conference, with the possible exception of Whitman. The two Oregon schools and Idaho have especially heavy teams, with A. C. C. easily the heaviest. Washington will, as usual, have a team averaging about 180 and a strength backfield that may reach an average of 190. Compared with these aggregations of young giants, the state college team will appear small indeed.—The Evergreen.

Never before in the history of the institution has such an amount of small, scrappy material turned out. Alumni who have been accustomed to the past to huge men like Shorty Stewart, Shorty Harter, Tom Fischbeck, Joe Harter, and Tub Laird, at first shook their heads when they saw a squad, the largest man of which is Ace Clark, 1911 fullback and at present a candidate for a line position, who tips the scales at less than 160 pounds.—W. S. C. Evergreen.

WASHINGTON STATE COLLEGE

PULLMAN, Sept. 21—Nothing is being left undone that may give the Washington State College a winning team on the gridiron this year. Notice has been given that a training table will be started in the men's dormitory on Monday morning. The cost to the players will be less than if they ate at the regular table, and any loss that may be incurred will be made up by the student assembly. The men will be taken on as they show ability and prove themselves valuable to the team.

The Dramatic Club at Reed College has selected John Galsworthy's "The Pigeon" for the first production of the year to be presented. The cast is being chosen by the "try-out" system.

GEORGE HALL STILL MISSING

Prof. Corbett returned Sunday from Almota where he directed a force of men in dynamiting and dragging the Snake River at that point in the hopes of securing the body of George Hall, reported drowned there last week. The work was unsuccessful, however, arrangements were made for a patrol of the stream for the next two weeks in the event the body arises to the surface.

J. H. Frandsen, formerly head of the ceramic department of the university, but now connected with the University of Nebraska, has just issued an extensive and valuable bulletin dealing with the Bebeke test and its use in hard improvement. The bulletin is 24 pages long and is profusely illustrated. Mr. Frandsen writes that copies will be sent to interested persons. An application to Mr. Frandsen at the University of Nebraska will bring a bulletin in due course of time.

Twenty-five per cent. of the men at Stanford are doing work to help support themselves, according to an estimate made by E. H. Lockwood, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., who has charge of the student employment bureau.

"This work enhances every line, from a man to care for the baby in the evening," to acting as "barker" for the movies. One student partially pays his way through Stanford by taking daily walks with an elderly Palo Alto man, who desires a companion.

Figures show that students at Stanford earned more than $2500 last year through work provided by the student employment bureau. This was only a part of the amount earned by students, as many kinds of work were secured without the help of the agency.—Exchange.

Frank King returned to resume his college work last Sunday evening. He has been working on a surveying expedition near the Montana-Ihdo line. From somewhere in the wilds he managed to bring back to his many friends a taste of venison and the old "Zulu" complex.

At the angler there are numerous lakes that swarm with fish, in many of which a fly has never been cast.

I think that if the European war continues another year, the tide of tourists that visit Europe each year will be turned toward Alaska and the Yukon. Then the seal will be won of "See America first." Alaska once visited, they will tell others and return themselves.

To date the European war has not affected the Klondyke. The Klondyke's staple article is gold and gold is not affected by the general market of the world. The product of the Canadian Klondyke Mining company gold dredges is much in demand. The Canadian Klondyke Mining company operates four sixteen-cubic-foot dredges in the valley of the Klondyke. Then there are sixty-nine of these buckets in digging line; the bucket line makes a complete revolution every three minutes and a half bucket is used every week. A little calculation of the slide rule will give you an idea of how much material the dredges handle each week.

The record run and amount of material handled was the week ending August 8th. When the dredge known as Canadian Number four delivered 102,680 cubic yards of material in 169 hours. They have a rapidity to dig below the water line of 4000 feet. For the number of ounces of gold produced each week by the Canadian Klondyke Mining company I will refer you to the London Financial Times. The company's production is quoted there each week. It varies from 1999 to 8900 ounces per week at an average of $18.75 an ounce.

Their operating season is nine months out of the year, the other three months they are frozen in. During the winter months, the season's work is done.

I have been with the Canadian Klondyke Mining company since Feb-uary in the position of assistant to the superintendent, Mr. R. P. Pullen. You will probably remember Mr. Pullen as he was one of the University of Washington football stars in '11 and '12 and a brother of Gus Larson's old football rival, Van Pulley, who is now in the engineering corps of the U. S. navy.

I hope to come home this fall for a visit. I am, Yours truly,

HARRY W. MARSH.

WAS SPLENDID RECEPTION

First Social Affair at Home of the New President of the University

Complimentary to Miss Fox, on Friday afternoon at the home of President Brannon, Mrs. Benton, assisted by the members of the young Women's Christian association, entertained the women of the University and the Freshnents at what proved to be one of the most enjoyable teas of the early fall season. A hundred guests called during the course of the afternoon and for several hours they listened to the appropriately decorated rooms of the president's handsome residence were filled with animated and happy guests.

The room was large, its walls were lined with white asters and yellow ribbons, the color scheme conforming to the university colors. All of the numerous hostesses and assistants were charmi-ingly gowned and were highly commented upon their graceful hospital-testy.

UNIVERSITY DEAN WELCOMES COL-

United State of women.

Miss Mary Stewart, don of women at the University of Montana, is the author of "A Collect for Club Women," a dainty lot of English prose-poetry, which has found its way into the home of practically every club woman in America. As it has been published, the author bears the signature, "Mary Stuart," which is Miss Stewart's pen name. The collect is a book in itself. It is a book in every woman's home.

"Keep us, O God, from Pettiness; let us be large in thought, in word, in deed. Let us be done with falsifding and leave off self-seeking. May we put away all procrastination and meet each other, face to face—without selfishness and prejudice. May we never be hasty in judgment and always generous. Let us take time for all things; make us to grow calm, serene, gentle. Teach us to put into action our better impulses, straightforward and ungrant. Grant that we may practice it is the little things that create differences; that in the big things of life we are as one. And may we strive to touch and know the great, common woman's heart of us all, and, O Lord God, let us not forget to be kind!"

A small square table has recently been discovered in a temple ruin that has been standing in a location of the temple ruins. This table has an inscription in another ancient language, which is difficult to translate. When the table was excavated, it was found to contain a number of items, including a small stone tablet. The tablet contains an inscription that is similar in general features to the governmental systems of other kingdoms, but with a number of unique elements.

The inscription is held to be of great interest to historians and archaeologists, as it provides insights into the culture and politics of the ancient civilization that produced it. The table will be held for public viewing at the museum on Tuesday, October 11th. It is recommended that you plan to visit the museum early in the morning to ensure that you can view the table without the large crowds of tourists.
