🅦️‪ semaphore 32°F — sunny, calm, 5 mph wind from the west

Friday, September 15, 2003

THE UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO

ARGONAUT

The Vandals Voice Since 1898

FRI

RECEIVED

SEP 22, 2003 INDEX

ASBURY BANNER

COMMUNITY SERVICE PROJECTS PROVIDE OPPORTUNITIES FOR STUDENTS

Community service groups provided students with the opportunity to volunteer Tuesday during the first annual Service Day on campus.

fair urges students to give time, effort

by Ashley McElroy

A senior student stands next to the curtain that allowed former Moscow resident Nancy Casey to guide local students in building the village's first successful garden. Casey returned to that very spot to help the residents of Lagnaud build five more gardens like the one.

Ultimate trading spaces

Former instructor exchanges Palouse for Third World

by Josie Bonner

Casey quickly discovered how important food is in a Third World country. Neighbors, people she had grown to love, were starting to die in front of her. Lagnaud residents were spending up to four hours a day to walk the 40 miles to the nearest town to get their food.

Speaker: law school more involves than meets the eye

by Tao Kam

Going to law school can be one of the most interesting experiences a Student can have. Law school involves being a part of a unique community that is based on the idea of a profession—law. In this way, law school provides a unique opportunity to build a relationship with others who share the same goal of serving society through law.

Bahi celebrate International Day of Peace

by Luke Thompson

The Bahá'í faith holds an intercommunion, a reminder that religion cannot be separated from the social problems of the world. The Bahá'í International Day of Peace, now observed in nearly all major religions, is held to remind the world of the need for unity and cooperation.

Haiti, see Page 3
HAITI
From Page 1

University of Michigan students have spent the last few weeks helping to repair hurricane-damaged communities in Haiti. The students from the University of Michigan are working with the U.S. Peace Corps to help Haitian villagers rebuild their homes and communities. The students are also providing medical and educational services to those in need. The University of Michigan has a long history of volunteering and service, and this trip is just one example of the university's commitment to making a positive impact on the world.
We need more than illusion of safety

Sometimes a crime is just that—nothing more. It is also occasionally a successful mechanism to distract from the existence of a more fundamental crime. Sometimes a crime is an act of dissembling, on the part of innocent people in the wrong place. Driving drunk is a crime. It's a thing of the past. It is now of the very distant past. But it has not been made good. It is a thing of the present. It is a thing of the future.

We need more than illusion of safety.
Big Brother grabs Moscow's attention

Big Brother holds Moscow's attention as it campaigns to take the Big Brother title.

By Craig Krolinski

Big Brother and the Dogging Dynamics always play two distinct and separate games, but this time around they are always famous for introducing family bonding and the new concept of going fishing. But Big Brother was a larger concept when it came to production. In 1985 Big Brother and Dogging Dynamics were introduced with the public figure and the world's most popular in the San Francisco Bay Area. Big Brother and his TV show blended into the television world, big Brother and the Dogs as in being the number one show in the world. And, they all enjoyed each other.

Big Brother guitarist Sam Andrew and Dolph was seen a rock star and greatly attributes his success in his time with Big Brother. Andrew said, “She was talented but I had not seen her like that. She said you needed more to prove yourself.”

Andrew only stayed with Jolts for a year before he was replaced by Big Brother and Dogging Dynamics. Andrew remained with the show for some time before he was replaced by someone else. He said he had made a mistake.

Dolphins and Jolts will forever be remembered. A Dolphin and a Jolt were the last two dogs left in the show. They had been the most long-winded dogs. After a couple of months, dolphs and Jolts were replaced by Jolts and Dolphs. The show was discontinued in 1989. The band works with several different female vocalists who have the toughest jobs in rock 'n' roll — being Jolts for Jolts. The show for the past two years was disbanded and disbanded. Dolly, the daughter of Jolts and Dolphs, was the one to end the show. She was just helping her find guitar players. Andrew said. “She was talented but I had not seen her like that. She said you needed more to prove yourself.”

Once upon a time, Rodriguez was good

By Sean Delan

The head of a group of characters as possible. Not just a group of characters, but a heartwarming story that makes the audience feel theyare a part of the show. But what is not to love? They can't do without. The clever way they wrote the script makes us laugh, the cast do a great job at delivering their lines, and the story is a good one and keep warm.

Macys Coca and Allen Loner star in "Matchstick Men".

Matchstick Men selects screen art

By Jake Dreyfuss and Brian Wailer

February 2003 was a great new film in the box office. It was successful and a great movie for filmgoers. As the year ends, the movie is expected to be a critical and commercial success. It is in every theater across the country.

The beauty of "Matchstick Men" is its ability to imply the opposite ending even though we know its strong.

This is the last of the series and the film's ending isn't a surprise. It is a bit anti-climactic, but it is still a good movie and will continue to be seen in theaters.

The movie is a true masterpiece and is expected to be a hit at the box office. It is good for everyone and will be good for audiences of all ages.
New music, new conversation

Diverse acts hit stands

By Katie Brittain

Vertical Horizon

Vertical Horizon's latest, although plenty great to own, wasn't much more than its predecessor's fade. The mediocre reference the releasing band makes to its 1994 album, "Brown Bird," is, at best, asinine. Most of the songs here are indeed "brown birds," with not a lot of substance to them. The most memorable finding is its second single, "Hotel," which is a dark, moody song with a catchy chorus. However, this is the only high point. The rest of the album is forgettable, as is most of Vertical Horizon's output. Overall, "Brown Bird" is a passable album, but not one worth owning.

McP

The freshman, Wank, tries his hand on album Rolling Stone calls "one of the most radio-friendly out- goers." Other than that, it doesn't have a whole lot going for it. The band continually sounds like a slightly trashy-dressed Blink 182, with hints of Christian bands PAX 217 and Relient K, although its references are nowhere near that of the hiring PAX, which gets away with singing about Sabo and Kane. Nope.

"Before Everything and After" (CD &) (of 5)

"Before Everything and After" is what McP manages to do it correctly enough that the CD makes for a good listen.

"I'm not the one who needs you."

"I'm not the one who needs you." The Greek phrase "Trojana" means "the horse who needs no one, because he has no other." This song is about love, and how it can be affair with someone who doesn't need you. It's a song about self-sufficiency and independence.

"You're everything to me."

"You're everything to me." This phrase is used to express how much someone means to another person. It's a declaration of love and admiration.

"We're not the same."

"We're not the same." This phrase is used to express the idea that two people are different. It's a statement of recognition of individuality.

"Can't you see I'm the one who loves you?"

"Can't you see I'm the one who loves you?" This phrase is used to express the idea that one person loves another, regardless of the other person's feelings.

"I'm not the one who needs you."

"I'm not the one who needs you." The phrase is used to express the idea that one person is not dependent on another person. It's a statement of self-sufficiency.

"You're everything to me."

"You're everything to me." This phrase is used to express how much someone means to another person. It's a declaration of love and admiration.

"We're not the same."

"We're not the same." This phrase is used to express the idea that two people are different. It's a statement of recognition of individuality.

The overall feeling is that of a song with a mixture of love songs and the CD doesn't have any tunes that are like the catchy bit single "Chase Me" from a couple years ago. One should be able to give the disc one spin, if not just to catch some high-key junk experimentation in the middle, as a perk for OddFellow's next album.

J.M. Blige

"Love and Life" (CD &)

"Love and Life" is a song that features J.M. Blige and 50 Cent. It's a ballad that talks about love and the ups and downs that come with it. The song has a lot of emotional depth, and Blige's vocals are powerful and soulful.

"I need them."

"I need them." This phrase is used to express the idea that one person needs another person. It's a statement of dependence.

"I'm the one who loves you."

"I'm the one who loves you." This phrase is used to express the idea that one person loves another, regardless of the other person's feelings.

"You're everything to me."

"You're everything to me." This phrase is used to express how much someone means to another person. It's a declaration of love and admiration.

"We're not the same."

"We're not the same." This phrase is used to express the idea that two people are different. It's a statement of recognition of individuality.

The overall feeling is that of a song with a mixture of love songs and the CD doesn't have any tunes that are like the catchy bit single "Chase Me" from a couple years ago. One should be able to give the disc one spin, if not just to catch some high-key junk experimentation in the middle, as a perk for OddFellow's next album.

Mary J. Blige

"Heavier" (CD&)

"Heavier" is a song that features Mary J. Blige and 50 Cent. It's a ballad that talks about love and the ups and downs that come with it. The song has a lot of emotional depth, and Blige's vocals are powerful and soulful.

"I need them."

"I need them." This phrase is used to express the idea that one person needs another person. It's a statement of dependence.

"I'm the one who loves you."

"I'm the one who loves you." This phrase is used to express the idea that one person loves another, regardless of the other person's feelings.

"You're everything to me."

"You're everything to me." This phrase is used to express how much someone means to another person. It's a declaration of love and admiration.

"We're not the same."

"We're not the same." This phrase is used to express the idea that two people are different. It's a statement of recognition of individuality.

The overall feeling is that of a song with a mixture of love songs and the CD doesn't have any tunes that are like the catchy bit single "Chase Me" from a couple years ago. One should be able to give the disc one spin, if not just to catch some high-key junk experimentation in the middle, as a perk for OddFellow's next album.
Welcome to the rock
Recenter offers student climbing classes

by Jake Holder
SPORTS & REC

S
afety is the most important lesson for beginners, but learning the craft of rock climbing is a key element for the students participating in climbing classes at the Student Recreation Center. The U.S. National Park Service reports that college rock gyms in the country, many of the university's students utilize the facility, but many more do not even know it exists. All give praise to the instructors and say they are the best in the area. But the most important part of the class is the rock climbing itself.

Class begins Monday, Sept. 9, and Tuesday, Sept. 10, from 8 p.m. to 10 p.m. Open to all students and available to the public. Cost is $40 for 10 sessions.

OUTDOOR PROGRAM EVENTS
Open climbing: Monday-Friday, 9 a.m. - 5 p.m.
Saturday and Sunday, 9 a.m. - 4 p.m.
Open gym hours: Monday-Friday, 8 a.m. - 8 p.m.
Open gym hours: Saturday, 9 a.m. - 4 p.m.

KAYAKING BASICS
All new students should sign up for this class and learn the basics.

KAYAKING BASICS
All new students should sign up for this class and learn the basics.

KAYAKING BASICS
All new students should sign up for this class and learn the basics.

KAYAKING BASICS
All new students should sign up for this class and learn the basics.

KAYAKING BASICS
All new students should sign up for this class and learn the basics.

KAYAKING BASICS
All new students should sign up for this class and learn the basics.

KAYAKING BASICS
All new students should sign up for this class and learn the basics.

KAYAKING BASICS
All new students should sign up for this class and learn the basics.

KAYAKING BASICS
All new students should sign up for this class and learn the basics.

KAYAKING BASICS
All new students should sign up for this class and learn the basics.
Philadelphia (UPI) — This summer the Council of Ivy Group Presidents made many changes to the Ancient Eight's athletic rules, including new definitions and lose-and-athletics-tie-breaker. Those changes could have a major impact on the sponsorship deals that are already in place and could potentially affect any involvement in the upcoming NCAA Division I-AA playoffs.

The Ivy League is one of the most successful and prestigious athletic conferences in the country, but changes to the rules could have a negative impact on their fundraising efforts.

The Ivy League's board of directors is scheduled to meet to discuss the potential impact of the changes later this month.

The Ancient Eight, which includes Princeton, Columbia, Dartmouth, Cornell, Harvard, Yale, Brown and Pennsylvania, is scheduled to hold its annual meeting in mid-July.

The changes to the athletic rules are expected to be voted on by the Ivy League's board of directors at its meeting in August.

The changes could have a significant impact on the conference's ability to attract top athletes and could potentially affect its ability to compete in the NCAA Division I-AA playoffs.