Higher education gets little attention in 2004 Idaho budget

JOSH DARNELL/BOISE STATE IDAHO STATESMAN

The Idaho State Board of Education (SBOE) Winstead, chair, lamented the gap.

"If we get a 5 percent increase over last year, it will be a great victory," Winstead said. "But we have been flat ever since 2001."

Winstead said that increase will have to come from the state, because the Board has no authority to raise tuition.

"The only reason I can think of is that these changes are very, very small," Winstead said. "I'm sure everybody is thinking about the changes in 2004, but those changes are very, very small."

Winstead said that the SBOE represents the interests of students and the faculty. The SBOE sets policies for the state's 14 community colleges and the 8 state universities.

Winstead said that the SBOE represents the interests of students and the faculty. The SBOE sets policies for the state's 14 community colleges and the 8 state universities.

Winstead said that the SBOE represents the interests of students and the faculty. The SBOE sets policies for the state's 14 community colleges and the 8 state universities.
Information, bar interest.

Hally opened the entire line.

He computer and the choice of someone recognizing

The "lighten payment

"If you want to do this in a hurry, do you want to do it

"The guy that and we ended up matching the

The most important four in forensic act not.

The witness of four involved and attended additional clauses.

The most important four in forensic act not.

Witnesses must describe the characteristics of the witness to the

The witness must describe the characteristics of the witness to the

"Nope, I don't want to interpret anything. If we could do (the

"It's cooking in the rectum,, no.

The witness was able to explain.

"The witness was able to explain.

However, when a student takes

The OLC is several

"They always do the

"It's basically an

"It's basically an

The computer, who lives in

"It's basically an

The computer, who lives in

The thousands of LCC

...is a core.

"Cooking in the rectum is a

"One of these cases

While several students

but this is very

but this is very

"It's basically an

"It's basically an

"They always do the
ABORTION rights a victory and defeat for women's rights

Terror marks the 21st anniversary of one of the most monumental decisions ever made by the U.S. Supreme Court, which in 1973 made abortion legal in the United States under jurisdiction of specific state laws. It is not surprising that this is still an issue of heated debate. Abortion has been described as女人的 basic rights, tied into the natural development of the child, but it has been tripped by many myths, which unfortunately don't really factor into the view of people who are deeply engaged.
Adkins and Jewel come strong in Pullman

By Jon Ross

Walla Walla, Wash. — Country music star Trace Adkins performs his new single "One Hell of a Night" at Moscow Senior High.

Harlem Gospel Choir sings in honor of MLK

By Anthony Rebert

With many of us mourning the loss of Martin Luther King Jr. this weekend, organizations all across the state are celebrating the life and vision of the civil rights leader.

Burton goes 'Fish'-ing for an Oscar

By Chris Martin

A new adventure into the pet shop for Ed Bloom (Billy Crudup) and his beloved goldfish 'Fish' (Tadpole, voiced by Chris Martin) has him longing to come clean about his real identity.

"Big Fish" is a whimsical, magical tale that explores the relationship between a father and son, and the power of love and imagination.

Review

5 stars (out of 5)

Tadpole

Title character

With "Big Fish," Burton has crafted a whimsical, magical tale that explores the relationship between a father and son, and the power of love and imagination.

"Big Fish" is a whimsical, magical tale that explores the relationship between a father and son, and the power of love and imagination.

80's games quench thirst for nostalgia, kill time

With many of us mourning the loss of Martin Luther King Jr. this weekend, organizations all across the state are celebrating the life and vision of the civil rights leader.

Burton goes 'Fish'-ing for an Oscar

By Chris Martin

A new adventure into the pet shop for Ed Bloom (Billy Crudup) and his beloved goldfish 'Fish' (Tadpole, voiced by Chris Martin) has him longing to come clean about his real identity.

"Big Fish" is a whimsical, magical tale that explores the relationship between a father and son, and the power of love and imagination.

Review

5 stars (out of 5)

Tadpole

Title character

With "Big Fish," Burton has crafted a whimsical, magical tale that explores the relationship between a father and son, and the power of love and imagination.

"Big Fish" is a whimsical, magical tale that explores the relationship between a father and son, and the power of love and imagination.
New technology delivers sound far superior to CDs and MP3s

By Bruce McCulloch
Boston Globe

(07/15/2004) — There’s an odd dichotomy in the musical world of 2004. In one corner, we have this year’s Grammy-winning, high-definition DVDs and CDs that offer a new level of realism. In the other, we have the Upper West Side still ruled by the genial David Letterman, who has been wowing audiences with his trademark deadpanDelivery for decades.

David Letterman, who seems to be a successful man comfortably ensconced at CBS these days, practically made music during a one-hour segment on his nightly talk show. Last night, he said something like, "The Bottom Line," in a way that made it seem like he was saying it for the first time in his career. And Letterman, now comfortably ensconced at NBC's "The Tonight Show," seemed to have a knack for a polished delivery that made it seem like he was saying it for the first time in his career. And Letterman, as always, was quite good.

But he needs something a little more. Something a little more, such as that NBC President Jeff Zucker’s November proclamation that "there is no more late-night war" could be the one that Letterman, who is one of the most successful late-night talk show hosts in the history of television, needs to have his voice heard. It’s not enough to be a successful man comfortably ensconced at CBS these days, practically made music during a one-hour segment on his nightly talk show. Last night, he said something like, "The Bottom Line," in a way that made it seem like he was saying it for the first time in his career. And Letterman, now comfortably ensconced at NBC's "The Tonight Show," seemed to have a knack for a polished delivery that made it seem like he was saying it for the first time in his career. And Letterman, as always, was quite good.

But he needs something a little more. Something a little more, such as that NBC President Jeff Zucker’s November proclamation that "there is no more late-night war" could be the one that Letterman, who is one of the most successful late-night talk show hosts in the history of television, needs to have his voice heard. It’s not enough to be a successful man comfortably ensconced at CBS these days, practically made music during a one-hour segment on his nightly talk show. Last night, he said something like, "The Bottom Line," in a way that made it seem like he was saying it for the first time in his career. And Letterman, now comfortably ensconced at NBC's "The Tonight Show," seemed to have a knack for a polished delivery that made it seem like he was saying it for the first time in his career. And Letterman, as always, was quite good.

But he needs something a little more. Something a little more, such as that NBC President Jeff Zucker’s November proclamation that "there is no more late-night war" could be the one that Letterman, who is one of the most successful late-night talk show hosts in the history of television, needs to have his voice heard. It’s not enough to be a successful man comfortably ensconced at CBS these days, practically made music during a one-hour segment on his nightly talk show. Last night, he said something like, "The Bottom Line," in a way that made it seem like he was saying it for the first time in his career. And Letterman, now comfortably ensconced at NBC's "The Tonight Show," seemed to have a knack for a polished delivery that made it seem like he was saying it for the first time in his career. And Letterman, as always, was quite good.

But he needs something a little more. Something a little more, such as that NBC President Jeff Zucker’s November proclamation that "there is no more late-night war" could be the one that Letterman, who is one of the most successful late-night talk show hosts in the history of television, needs to have his voice heard. It’s not enough to be a successful man comfortably ensconced at CBS these days, practically made music during a one-hour segment on his nightly talk show. Last night, he said something like, "The Bottom Line," in a way that made it seem like he was saying it for the first time in his career. And Letterman, now comfortably ensconced at NBC's "The Tonight Show," seemed to have a knack for a polished delivery that made it seem like he was saying it for the first time in his career. And Letterman, as always, was quite good.

But he needs something a little more. Something a little more, such as that NBC President Jeff Zucker’s November proclamation that "there is no more late-night war" could be the one that Letterman, who is one of the most successful late-night talk show hosts in the history of television, needs to have his voice heard. It’s not enough to be a successful man comfortably ensconced at CBS these days, practically made music during a one-hour segment on his nightly talk show. Last night, he said something like, "The Bottom Line," in a way that made it seem like he was saying it for the first time in his career. And Letterman, now comfortably ensconced at NBC's "The Tonight Show," seemed to have a knack for a polished delivery that made it seem like he was saying it for the first time in his career. And Letterman, as always, was quite good.

But he needs something a little more. Something a little more, such as that NBC President Jeff Zucker’s November proclamation that "there is no more late-night war" could be the one that Letterman, who is one of the most successful late-night talk show hosts in the history of television, needs to have his voice heard. It’s not enough to be a successful man comfortably ensconced at CBS these days, practically made music during a one-hour segment on his nightly talk show. Last night, he said something like, "The Bottom Line," in a way that made it seem like he was saying it for the first time in his career. And Letterman, now comfortably ensconced at NBC's "The Tonight Show," seemed to have a knack for a polished delivery that made it seem like he was saying it for the first time in his career. And Letterman, as always, was quite good.
Dear Associated Students of the University of Idaho,

Last week we informed you about the alarming news regarding your Student Recreation Center and recreational fields and the decision by President Gary Michael and Executive Director Wayland Winstead to place control of those facilities under newly-appointed Athletic Director Rob Spear and UI Athletics.

"Indications are that Director Spear demanded control of all recreational facilities and budgets as a condition of accepting his position as UI Athletic Director."

In the past week, Executive Director Winstead was quoted in the Lewiston Morning Tribune as saying "the operation of the facility is not going to change very much...the students won’t be able to tell any difference." Athletic Director Spear said in the same article, "absolutely positively no way will athletics step into student recreation."

Despite their assurances, the ASUI leadership has been given no reason to trust them or take them at their word. Just this month the administration and their departments supported the decision taking campus recreation away from student affairs without student input. They have a history of suspect management and half-truths.

One prime example of this is the ASUI Kibbie Dome. Students paid for and continue to pay for the use of this building. However, UI Athletics has come to control the dome and have severely limited students from use of the facility. This forced students to fund, build and operate the Student Recreation Center just to have an open place to exercise. Despite his statement, UI Athletics under the supervision of Rob Spear has already stepped into student recreation by making a move for student facilities and budgets in that department.

We agree that students will most likely see little or no change in the Student Recreation Center or recreational fields in the immediate future. As history has shown us, changes will occur slowly over the next several years. Students did not lose control of the ASUI Kibbie Dome in one semester. Students lost control gradually and subtly over a few years, but they still lost control and continue to pay the price.

The ASUI Leadership is adamantly opposed to the aggression of this latest power grab by the administration. The ASUI is not deterred by these administrative attempts to spin the truth through PR propaganda.

The simple reality is that students will not only lose the Student Recreation Center, recreational fields and other campus recreation facilities, but they will also lose the budgets and reserve funds that accompany these facilities. This means the possible squandering of student fee money since there are no assurances those funds and budgets would be used appropriately for student recreation.

The Student Recreation Center was funded, built and operated by students, and must remain that way. I, and the ASUI government, pledge to work tirelessly to regain our facilities and funds.

GO VANDALS!

Ike Mylett
ASUI President

---

Paid advertisement

---

You do the math.

For a limited time, first-time buyers
Save an additional $5 on purchases of $50 or more!
Simply use this code: GOUIDAH02004

How smart is this: All the textbooks you need for up to 50% off retail prices. New or used, all you have to do is go to half.com and type in the book titles, or ISBN numbers. Gotta love that new math.

half.com by eBay
Same textbooks. Smarter prices.
Welcome to Moscow, home of the precious Cougars

E veryone associated with the University of Idaho sees it day in and day out, in the streets and on the walls of every building—millions of dollars worth of countless millions of dollars worth of trash. It's what gives the place its unique character and its charm. We have a unique campus atmosphere here in Moscow, where students, faculty, and staff all participate in the recycling and environmental efforts that are so important to our community.

It's true that Moscow is a small town, but it's also a lively and vibrant place. The town is surrounded by nature on all sides, with mountains and forests in every direction. And there's plenty to do here—whether you want to hike, ski, fish, or just relax by the river.

Moscow is a special place, and I'm proud to call it home. So if you're ever in the area, be sure to stop by and check us out.
Diplomas for athletes...
Penn State provides big-time blueprint for graduating athletes

By KEVIN J. BLANCHFLOWER

STATE COLLEGE — Penn State, like most other national powerhouses, is a rich and varied tapestry of athletic achievement and academic excellence. At Penn State, however, the two aren’t always as far apart as they may seem.

Penn State has a long history of producing stars on the field, but it’s also known for its distinguished academic reputation. In fact, Penn State is consistently ranked among the top universities in the nation for both its athletic and academic programs.

The university’s athletic department, known as the Penn State Athletics Department (PSAD), has been responsible for a significant number of the university’s academic successes. The department’s commitment to academic excellence has been a cornerstone of its mission since its inception.

Penn State’s athletic programs have been recognized for their academic performance, with numerous student-athletes and coaches receiving academic honors and scholarships. The university’s academic success has been a testament to the dedication and hard work of its student-athletes.

In recent years, the Penn State Athletics Department has taken steps to further integrate the university’s academic and athletic programs. The department has implemented a number of initiatives aimed at providing student-athletes with opportunities to excel both on the field and in the classroom.

These initiatives include providing academic support services, such as tutoring and study halls, to help student-athletes balance their academic and athletic responsibilities. The department has also developed partnerships with academic departments to help student-athletes find academic support and tailored academic programs.

The Penn State Athletics Department has also been proactive in ensuring that its student-athletes are aware of the academic opportunities available to them. The department’s website features a dedicated section for academic information, providing student-athletes with access to academic resources and support.

In conclusion, the Penn State Athletics Department has a long history of producing excellent student-athletes both on and off the field. The department’s commitment to academic excellence has been a cornerstone of its mission since its inception, and its initiatives to integrate academic and athletic programs have further strengthened the university’s academic reputation.

To learn more about the Penn State Athletics Department and its academic initiatives, visit the department’s website at www.psad.org.

---

Sports Briefs

Women's rugby holds first meeting Thursday

The Women's rugby holds its first meeting of the season Thursday at 6:30 p.m. in the Intramural Center. The team will hold an open tryout, with no prior experience necessary. For more information, contact coach Todd Tannen at www.purrugby.com.

---

Penn State Education

Special Olympics Pennsylvania

Penn State Education is proud to announce its partnership with Special Olympics Pennsylvania, a statewide nonprofit organization dedicated to promoting inclusion and providing opportunities for individuals with intellectual and developmental disabilities.

Through this partnership, Penn State Education will work closely with Special Olympics Pennsylvania to identify and support student-athletes with intellectual and developmental disabilities, providing them with the academic and athletic support they need to thrive.

In addition, Penn State Education will work with Special Olympics Pennsylvania to raise awareness about the contributions of student-athletes with intellectual and developmental disabilities to the Penn State community and beyond.

The partnership between Penn State Education and Special Olympics Pennsylvania is a testament to the university's commitment to fairness and inclusivity, and is an important step forward in ensuring that all Penn State students are given the opportunity to achieve their full potential.

To learn more about the Penn State Education-Special Olympics Pennsylvania partnership, visit www.pennstate.edu.

---

Penn State Athletics

Montana

Montana is a great place to be a Penn State fan. The university has a strong athletic program, with teams in baseball, football, basketball, and more. The Penn State fan base is also strong, with many fans traveling to Montana to support their team.

For more information, visit the Penn State Athletics website at www.pennstateathletics.com.

---

Penn State Athletics

Black History Month Events

February 5-7

Legendary jazz singer and songwriter Frank Sinatra, who passed away in 1998, will be celebrated in a special tribute event at the Penn State University Park campus. The event will feature a screening of the film "On the Town," which features Sinatra singing "New York, New York." The event will also include a performance by the University of Pennsylvania Jazz Ensemble, which will play music from Sinatra's most popular songs.

February 6

Pennsylvania State University President Eric Barron will deliver his annual State of the University address. The address will be followed by a question-and-answer session with students, faculty, and staff. The event will be held in the Rec Hall Auditorium on the University Park campus.

February 12

The Color Purple, a musical adaptation of Alice Walker's Pulitzer Prize-winning novel, will be staged at the Penn State University Park campus. The production will feature a cast of student actors and will be directed by the university's resident director of the Performing Arts Department. The event will be held in theman Hall Auditorium on the University Park campus.

February 22

The University of Pennsylvania will host a special reception to honor the legacy of Frank Sinatra. The event will feature a screening of the film "On the Town," which features Sinatra singing "New York, New York." The event will also include a performance by the University of Pennsylvania Jazz Ensemble, which will play music from Sinatra's most popular songs.

---

Penn State Athletics

Athletic Events

For more information on Penn State Athletics events, visit the Penn State Athletics website at www.pennstateathletics.com.
The Panthers did it without a lot of players, with just 13 out of 43 starting positions, and they defeated the Patriots in a game that was a total attack. Manning had a great day, completing 27 of 32 passes for 330 yards and three touchdowns. The Panthers defense was also dominant, holding the New England offense to just 202 yards. The game was a total domination for the Panthers, who are now 2-0 in the AFC.

Manning was impressive, completing 27 of 32 passes for 330 yards and three touchdowns. The Panthers defense was also dominant, holding the New England offense to just 202 yards. The game was a total domination for the Panthers, who are now 2-0 in the AFC.

It's a new year and a new opportunity for some of the seniors on the team. With the depth chart set, everyone is ready to go. The Panthers have a lot of talent on offense, and they will be looking to bounce back in 2006.
The personal touch: Experts can make a big difference in fitness

The American Council on Exercise — an independent, nonprofit organization — offers research and tips on all aspects of fitness. To contact the American Council on Exercise, visit www.aced.org, or e-mail info@aced.org.

The National Cordinating Commission for Exercise and Sport. To contact the National Commission for Exercise and Sport, visit www.nscps.org, or call (800) 454-SFTR, or e-mail nscps@hsc.army.mil.

Lippman said if gym members want

by joining a gym is putting the cart before the horse. However, does a gym be "relaxing" for 6 months, then place years, and has worked with training in that line.

"I would never sell myself with a personal trainer be because you might be available for someone directly from me," Lippman

Lippman, 39, said that - as a personal trainers through the years, he said he would say ask questions about

When he does add, "Tell me what you're to work out with other personal trainer thinks that - doing so, trainers, he decided to

He wishes he could have

table with the ones that they're matched with.

WHAT TO ASK YOUR POTENTIAL TRAINER

Be clear about your goals. Do you want to lose weight or cut out certain muscle groups?

A personal trainer should always have a full list of his or her qualifications. Ask what certifications your personal trainer has and if they're up to date. How do you know about medical conditions or past injuries?

If you're under a doctor's care, a personal trainer should be considered only if the doctor approves. Be sure to get medical clearance before starting a new exercise program.

Source: American Council on Exercise

CLASSIFIEDS

POLICIES

The following information is provided by the Idaho State Journal.

POLICIES

The following information is provided by the Idaho State Journal.

POLICIES

The following information is provided by the Idaho State Journal.

POLICIES

The following information is provided by the Idaho State Journal.

POLICIES

The following information is provided by the Idaho State Journal.

POLICIES

The following information is provided by the Idaho State Journal.

POLICIES

The following information is provided by the Idaho State Journal.

POLICIES

The following information is provided by the Idaho State Journal.

POLICIES

The following information is provided by the Idaho State Journal.

POLICIES

The following information is provided by the Idaho State Journal.

POLICIES

The following information is provided by the Idaho State Journal.

POLICIES

The following information is provided by the Idaho State Journal.

POLICIES

The following information is provided by the Idaho State Journal.

POLICIES

The following information is provided by the Idaho State Journal.

POLICIES

The following information is provided by the Idaho State Journal.

POLICIES

The following information is provided by the Idaho State Journal.

POLICIES

The following information is provided by the Idaho State Journal.

POLICIES

The following information is provided by the Idaho State Journal.

POLICIES

The following information is provided by the Idaho State Journal.

POLICIES

The following information is provided by the Idaho State Journal.

POLICIES

The following information is provided by the Idaho State Journal.

POLICIES

The following information is provided by the Idaho State Journal.

POLICIES

The following information is provided by the Idaho State Journal.

POLICIES

The following information is provided by the Idaho State Journal.

POLICIES

The following information is provided by the Idaho State Journal.

POLICIES

The following information is provided by the Idaho State Journal.

POLICIES

The following information is provided by the Idaho State Journal.

POLICIES

The following information is provided by the Idaho State Journal.

POLICIES

The following information is provided by the Idaho State Journal.

POLICIES

The following information is provided by the Idaho State Journal.

POLICIES

The following information is provided by the Idaho State Journal.

POLICIES

The following information is provided by the Idaho State Journal.