Students pick and choose at Career Expo

by Sam Taylor

TUESDAY, MARCH 8, 2004 at 4:15 PM

At the Career Center, students have the opportunity to visit employers and gain information for potential employment. Career Services is running the event from 1-4:30 P.M. and the Career Expo staff allows students to schedule interviews with employers. Students are welcome to drop in, or interview at their leisure.

Students celebrate birthdays at campus event

by Tara Rock

TUESDAY, MARCH 8, 2004 at 4:15 PM

The birthday club, a monthly occasion for students to celebrate birthdays and get cake, was held in the Commons South. It is organized by the Associated Students of University of Idaho Student Government. The group meets the third Thursday of each month. The event was born from a simple idea of a group of students who decided to host a monthly birthday party for students. It is open to all students and is usually held in the Commons. The event is a way for students to come together and share a special occasion.

Jazz Faculty and students pull together for aid

by Dave Bickley

TUESDAY, MARCH 8, 2004 at 4:15 PM

The 2004 Jazz Festival was a huge success for the University of Idaho Jazz Faculty and students. The festival was held at the University of Idaho and featured a variety of jazz performers from around the country. The festival included concerts, workshops, and jam sessions. The event was open to the public and was a great way to enjoy the beautiful outdoors while listening to some great music. The festival was a huge success and we look forward to next year's event.

---

Students pick and choose at Career Expo

Students and business representatives created the ASUI student job fair on Wednesday for the Spring Career Expo of the Palouse. Sponsored by UI and Washington State University, the expo saw many students with various degrees who were seeking employment opportunities. Many representatives were known to businesses of the Palouse. Director of Career Services Dan Boles said the event went extremely well.

"Everyone likes to be at the Career Expo," Boles said. "The Career Expo gives students exposure to many different employers. And employers have the opportunity to meet some outstanding students. It's a benefit to everyone."

Students celebrate birthdays at campus event

The birthday club, a monthly occasion for students to celebrate birthdays and get cake, was held in the Commons South. It is organized by the Associated Students of University of Idaho Student Government. The group meets the third Thursday of each month. The event was born from a simple idea of a group of students who decided to host a monthly birthday party for students. It is open to all students and is usually held in the Commons. The event is a way for students to come together and share a special occasion.

Jazz Faculty and students pull together for aid

The 2004 Jazz Festival was a huge success for the University of Idaho Jazz Faculty and students. The festival was held at the University of Idaho and featured a variety of jazz performers from around the country. The festival included concerts, workshops, and jam sessions. The event was open to the public and was a great way to enjoy the beautiful outdoors while listening to some great music. The festival was a huge success and we look forward to next year's event.
WebCT poses problems for some students

BY NATE PEPPEO
STAFF REPORTER

For many UI students, WebCT is an essential tool. The application needs to be accessible at any time, and the university makes it available 24/7. However, the widespread use makes it important for all students to be able to access the software, and it is not always accessible for all students. The problem is highlighted by the comments of students Michael Du'Lyea.

"I think that the software is very convenient and it's easy to use," said Du'Lyea, who uses Linux on his computer. "It's an interesting way to access the course material, and it's very convenient." However, Du'Lyea said he was concerned about the accessibility of the software. In particular, he said that some students may not have access to the software due to the amount of time it takes to download and install it. Additionally, he said that the software may not be compatible with all operating systems. Du'Lyea also said he was worried about the user interface of the program. He said the software is not intuitive and that students may have trouble using it. Du'Lyea was also concerned about the accessibility of the software for students who are blind. He said that the software should be accessible to all students, and that it should be made compatible with screen readers.

"I believe they have chosen to use some very new versions of IE and Netscape and AOL for Mac and Windows, even though those are the most used computers," said Du'Lyea. However, he added that some of these problems may be solved if the software is updated. Du'Lyea also said that he was concerned about the accessibility of the software for students who are visually impaired. He said that the software should be made compatible with screen readers, and that it should be updated to be more accessible to all students.

"Even if you've done it in class, you can get lost in it," said Du'Lyea. However, he added that the software is still very useful for students who are visually impaired. He said that the software should be made more accessible to all students, and that it should be updated to be more accessible to all students.

Eric Roberts, a UI senior majoring in architecture, said that students are very concerned about the accessibility of the software. "I think it's important for the software to be accessible to all students," said Roberts. However, he added that some students may not have access to the software due to the amount of time it takes to download and install it. Additionally, he said that the software may not be compatible with all operating systems. Roberts was also concerned about the accessibility of the software for students who are blind. He said that the software should be accessible to all students, and that it should be made compatible with screen readers.

"I think that it's very important for the software to be accessible to all students," said Roberts. However, he added that some students may not have access to the software due to the amount of time it takes to download and install it. Additionally, he said that the software may not be compatible with all operating systems. Roberts was also concerned about the accessibility of the software for students who are blind. He said that the software should be accessible to all students, and that it should be made compatible with screen readers.

"I think that it's very important for the software to be accessible to all students," said Roberts. However, he added that some students may not have access to the software due to the amount of time it takes to download and install it. Additionally, he said that the software may not be compatible with all operating systems. Roberts was also concerned about the accessibility of the software for students who are blind. He said that the software should be accessible to all students, and that it should be made compatible with screen readers.
EATING
From Page 1

happened at the National Eating Disorders Screening Day, when the activity had the opportunity to speak with a professional about their eating habits. Erik Dunlap of the DPL said that one in 10 girls, more than a Dorm student, said she was unhappy with her weight.
"The turnout is much better than last year," Dunlap said.
Burda, who took the test after trying out the special meal, said it made her feel like she has problems, but she didn't. The students nominated from Burda's table held flyers about nutrition issues such as the best and worst of fast food and college students can make more, healthy meals.
Desiree Young, a sophomore special education and early childhood development major, said the highlight of the tables was the free trial kit. Andrew dominated majoring in physical education and French, said the little,
unsaturated fats and protein and carbs in their diet. She recommends students increase nutrients by packing a balanced lunch every day.
Burda also said students need to get more fresh, healthy and non-processed meals. She called health class gives them
the chance to learn.
Burda
said students need to make more, healthy
and non-
processed meals. She called health
class gives
them
the
chance
to
learn.
Burda
said
students
need
to
make
more,
healthy
and
non-
processed
meals.
She
called
health
class
gives
them
the
chance
to
learn.
Burda
said
students
need
to
make
more,
healthy
and
non-
processed
meals.
She
called
health
class
gives
them
the
chance
to
learn.
Burda
said
students
need
to
make
more,
healthy
and
non-
processed
meals.
She
called
health
class
gives
them
the
chance
to
learn.
Burda
said
students
need
to
make
more,
healthy
and
non-
processed
meals.
She
called
health
class
gives
them
the
chance
to
learn.
Burda
said
students
need
to
make
more,
healthy
and
non-
processed
meals.
She
called
health
class
gives
them
the
chance
to
learn.
Burda
said
students
need
to
make
more,
healthy
and
non-
processed
meals.
She
called
health
class
gives
them
the
chance
to
learn.
Burda
said
students
need
to
make
more,
healthy
and
non-
processed
meals.
She
called
health
class
gives
them
the
chance
to
learn.
Burda
said
students
need
to
make
more,
healthy
and
non-
processed
meals.
She
called
health
class
gives
them
the
chance
to
learn.
Burda
said
students
need
to
make
more,
healthy
and
non-
processed
meals.
She
called
health
class
gives
them
the
chance
to
learn.
Burda
said
students
need
to
make
more,
healthy
and
non-
processed
meals.
She
called
health
class
gives
them
the
chance
to
learn.
Burda
said
students
need
to
make
more,
healthy
and
non-
processed
meals.
She
called
health
class
gives
them
the
chance
to
learn.
Burda
said
students
need
to
make
more,
healthy
and
non-
processed
meals.
She
called
health
class
gives
them
the
chance
to
learn.
Burda
said
students
need
to
make
more,
healthy
and
non-
processed
meals.
She
called
health
class
gives
them
the
chance
to
learn.
Burda
said
students
need
to
make
more,
healthy
and
non-
processed
meals.
She
called
health
class
gives
them
the
chance
to
learn.
Burda
said
students
need
to
make
more,
healthy
and
non-
processed
meals.
She
called
health
class
gives
them
the
chance
to
learn.
Burda
said
students
need
to
make
more,
healthy
and
non-
processed
meals.
She
called
health
class
gives
them
the
chance
to
learn.
Burda
said
students
need
to
make
more,
healthy
and
non-
processed
meals.
She
called
health
class
gives
them
the
chance
to
learn.
Burda
said
students
need
to
make
more,
healthy
and
non-
processed
meals.
She
called
health
class
gives
them
the
chance
to
learn.
Burda
said
students
need
to
make
more,
healthy
and
non-
processed
meals.
She
called
health
class
gives
them
the
chance
to
learn.
Burda
said
students
need
to
make
more,
healthy
and
non-
processed
meals.
She
called
health
class
gives
them
the
chance
to
learn.
Burda
said
students
need
to
make
more,
healthy
and
non-
processed
meals.
She
called
health
class
gives
them
the
chance
to
learn.
Burda
said
students
need
to
make
more,
healthy
and
non-
processed
meals.
She
called
health
class
gives
them
the
chance
to
learn.
Burda
said
students
need
to
make
more,
healthy
and
non-
processed
meals.
She
called
health
class
gives
them
the
chance
to
learn.
Burda
said
students
need
to
make
more,
healthy
and
non-
processed
meals.
She
called
health
class
gives
them
the
chance
to
learn.
Burda
said
students
need
to
make
more,
healthy
and
non-
processed
meals.
She
called
health
class
gives
them
the
chance
to
learn.
Burda
said
students
need
to
make
more,
healthy
and
non-
processed
meals.
She
called
health
class
gives
them
the
chance
to
learn.
Burda
said
students
need
to
make
more,
healthy
and
non-
processed
meals.
She
called
health
class
gives
them
the
chance
to
learn.
Burda
said
students
need
to
make
more,
healthy
and
non-
processed
meals.
She
called
health
class
gives
them
the
chance
to
learn.
Burda
said
students
need
to
make
more,
healthy
and
non-
processed
meals.
She
called
health
class
gives
them
the
chance
to
learn.
Burda
said
students
need
to
make
more,
healthy
and
non-
processed
meals.
She
called
health
class
gives
them
the
chance
to
learn.
Michael has not earned respect

Dear editor,

I am writing to express my dissatisfaction with the decision of the Student Senate to deny funding for a music program run by Utah's own Dixie Band. The group, known for their exceptional musical talent and dedication to community service, has been in existence for 10 years and has consistently provided entertainment across the state.

The Dixie Band has a long history of excellence and has been recognized for their contributions to the community. Their performances are well-received and have helped to bring joy to many people. The group has been invited to participate in numerous events and festivals across the state, showcasing our state's rich musical tradition.

Previously, under the administration of President Nelson, the University of Utah has a history of supporting student groups and their initiatives. The group's request for funding is not only reasonable but also in alignment with the university's mission of fostering a vibrant and inclusive community.

I urge the administration to reconsider their stance and provide the funding necessary to allow the Dixie Band to continue their valuable work. Their contributions to our community are immeasurable, and I cannot imagine the impact they would have without their support.

Sincerely,

[Your Name]

Closure of UI Press a tragedy

Dear editor,

I am writing to express my disappointment with the decision of the University of Utah Press to close operations. This move comes at a time when the press is critically needed to support the academic community and to publish important works.

The University of Utah Press is a respected institution with a history of publishing high-quality books in a variety of fields. Their work has contributed significantly to the advancement of knowledge and understanding.

I firmly believe that the closure of the press will have a detrimental impact on the academic community and the state's intellectual landscape. It is crucial that we support and sustain our academic institutions, especially during these challenging times.

I urge the leadership of the university to reconsider this decision and find ways to ensure the continued operation of the press. The intellectual and cultural contributions made by the press are invaluable and cannot be easily replaced.

Sincerely,

[Your Name]
Band with local roots comes home

by Justin Bovyer

Eight-year-out pioneer and Palouse native Ali Zingara will return to Moscow this weekend at the Moscow Art Theater. Special guest performers on the bill will include Spull, and the Moxie Jones.

Robert Parks and Brett Dungan, who compose the heart of Zingara, met at the UI campus in 1998. Originally two bands on either end of a 25-mile compass, the two groups combined to form Zingara in 2000. After a number of lineup changes over the years, the band has recently solidified itself into a four-member unit.

The show began with a new approach, as the band's core lineup performed in the original band setup. Subsequently, the group turned to its original sound, with Zingara performing in the original band setup.

As the band played, the audience grew more involved, and the atmosphere became more lively. At one point, the band played a cover of a hit song by the Grateful Dead, which had the audience singing along and dancing.

The show ended with the band playing a cover of a hit song by the Grateful Dead, which had the audience singing along and dancing.

Mardi Gras Instinct

by Bennett Vanney

Mardis Gras celebration returns to Moscow

Mardi Gras 2004 will be celebrated in Moscow with a Mardi Gras-themed weekender, featuring live music, food, and drink. The celebration will take place in downtown Moscow, with events scheduled throughout the weekend.

The Mardi Gras weekender will kick off with the annual Mardi Gras parade on Saturday, starting at noon. The parade will proceed down Main Street, with floats, dancers, and live music.

The Mardi Gras weekender will conclude with the annual Mardi Gras ball on Sunday night, featuring live music, food, and drink. The ball will take place at the Moscow Art Theater, with tickets available at the door.

Indie rock graces Mike's for Mardi Gras show

by Bennett Vanney

Moscow rockers past and present will lend their weight to Moscow's annual Mardi Gras celebration.

The annual Mardi Gras celebration in Moscow will feature a variety of local and national bands, with performances scheduled throughout the weekend.

The Mardi Gras celebration in Moscow will feature a variety of local and national bands, with performances scheduled throughout the weekend.

The Mardi Gras celebration in Moscow will feature a variety of local and national bands, with performances scheduled throughout the weekend.
'Sex and the City' was true-to-life, under the glitz and glamour

'NAKED'".

The departure of "Sex and the City" after a very successful run on HBO has brought a collective sigh of relief, but it is not because they managed to get caught whaling. That was a thrilling experience for women because watching women an sexual beings rather than stepford upright fantasy women required imagining sexual appetites to appease. But even with the originality of freezing women in a fairly modest way "Lifetimes" will never catch the many more people to deserve the same.

Yes, many of us watched the show. Yes, many of us even liked it, but only. Understandably, we all imagined the sexiest marketing tool possible, but not in its prime. Sure, of course, there was that basic idea of "bodies" to women. It was there that things started to go wrong.

The problem with watching even just an insight into the actual workings of women psychology is that the normality is only shown on TV, in movies, and in fiction. If one woman in a room of 50 women was made as classy, personable and sexual as the... well, women.

Take a person in a relationship, sitting down on the couch next to his sweetheart and trying not to fall asleep for the night. She enjoys the show appropriately proportioned geared directly toward her: he is left a broken shell of his former self.

From a man's standpoint, by the end of the first episode he is already questioning his relationship. He begins asking questions of his woman. "Are you sure you want to be in the sex...real social reality every time she says something remotely connected to sex. Is she the one she's relationships?" That will never work, just as "truth" will never work in the room of women. It was never going to be a disaster.

But the lesson that HBO gave men was their own problem. It was necessary to a woman as well. A common stereotype is that women are for new reasons and relationships than men. This is a stereotype that has been developed into just as much a social reality. A woman wanting to hold, touch, to be loved and respected. A man is fine with this, as long as she can "put him on the final sequence in the movie "Iron Eagle". The woman is "not interested in the man he is".

The man thinks, "Wow, issues. Charlotte's first husband divorced her when they discovered she could not have children. charcoal treated to flavor, and was rehired by the man who treated her with every woman she met. She was married to the man who treated her like a lady, and eventually married her. The women had some brushes with grief, as well. Charlotte made cuts when the man who treated her was taken and Charlotte, a woman who met with men are not shot at more than ten years ago. The only way she knew was to stay.

That's not to say women who like sex don't also like relationships, but because they do they are not always shot at. There are different ways to solve that problem. One way is that meet two women, whether or not she ever talks to it.

Tara Miranda's emasculated pregnancy, ended. Here, living in constant terror of every little move she makes, the man will enter into a sexual ritual that could only be described to someone with no sexual experience as "Deep Blue". This does not anyone in relationships any favors. It is best to leave men to their self-destructive, self-seducing, children, which keeps everyone safe, and the man from himself.

But the lesson HBO gave men was one more problem. It was necessar Unfortunately money doesn't really fall from the sky. However, selling with the Nations Satellite Leader will help you Make $20,000+ in ONE summer! Pay for college in FOUR months!

| Highest Commissions | Professional Company |
| Easy product to sell | Superior training |
| Residual Commissions | Career opportunities |
| $1000+ in bonuses | Excellent support team |

Informative meeting: March 10th & 11th 7:00-9:00 pm Amerhost Inn 165 Warbonnet Drive (Located behind Applebee's) Call NOW to setup an interview Ryan Harris 208-310-1847 or 208-403-6258
Broken Lizard’s ‘Club Dread’ a real cut-up

BY JON HAMMOND

It’s been six years since the last Broken Lizard (and now also Kevin Heffernan) film, so many of us who love their previous music videos and films are chomping at the bit for this. Their previous films, including the precursor to this, ‘Super Troopers’, have been huge box office hits and so many of us are excited to see what they’ve come up with after all these years.

Club Dread” is set in 1987 and follows a group of friends who are trying to become successful musicians in Hollywood. They are offered a chance to be signed by a major record label, but they must first prove their worth by performing at a club called Club Dread. The film follows their adventures as they try to make it big in the music industry.

The cast is led by Broken Lizard’s Jemaine Clement, who plays the lead character, and they are supported by a cast of familiar faces, including Arianna Huffington, who plays a record label executive.

The film is a parody of the typical Hollywood musical film and is filled with jokes that are sure to make music lovers and Broken Lizard fans alike chuckle. The cast is talented and the music is catchy, making for a fun watch.

Overall, ‘Club Dread’ is a fun film that is sure to please fans of Broken Lizard and music parodies alike. It’s a reminder of why we loved them in the first place and a testament to their ability to create something that is both funny and entertaining.
Stalled Jet: Martial arts icon Li wants to act with more than his fists

By Mike Antonacci

On the surface, Li is a nonentity. He alternately spars with one and all for the sheer amusement of his audiences. It is not unusual to see the martial art star and starlet Marisa Tomei fighting for the love of a woman in a scene from "The Other Boleyn Girl." But when Li is asked to make his debut as a film distributor, as he did last year's "Because I Said So," he goes, he bore, and he braves the Hollywood scene in "The Westing Game," Western U.S. and other locales, he was not nationally recognized in China for his martial arts skills."

He has gone to Hollywood to distribute the film, "The Westing Game," which was produced in China and is expected to be released commercially in the United States this summer.

"His personal life, however, is happy. A first marriage produced two daughters, and he is a grandfather just 1 year old. So far, so good in real martial arts.

He is also active in charity work and sometimes does public service announcements for the United Nations.

But his personal life, however, is happy. A first marriage produced two daughters, and he is a grandfather just 1 year old. So far, so good in real martial arts.

He also wants fans to remember this: "In real life, I never fight with people."
Senior Rashaad Powell sets tone with toughness

Rashaad Powell is not the leading scorer or the leading rebounder on the Idaho Vandals team. He is not the leading sophomore. Still, in the season he wasn't even a scholarship player.

In the casual observer's view, he hasn't overwhelmed anyone, scoring at an average of 7.8 points and 2.9 rebounds a game. In addition, he has logged a team-high 41 minutes a game in Big West Conference play.

"He's not a guy who's going to shock you, but he's very, very, very solid," Coach Loyd Perry says. "The kind of player that you'd be comfortable with guarding you. What do the players on the bench do? They're sitting there guarding each other, and we think those guys are very important to us. And I think you got a guy who is very solid and who's going to work with Rashad Powell.

"Because riding on us at UI before the 2001-2002 season, Powell's impact on the game was the same. Before coming to the University of Idaho, Powell was a member of the Hocking College team. In his junior season, he was solidly placed on the floor, but he wasn't the main focus.

"You're really looking at a player that is not quite as solid as Powell. We've always noticed that you have everything going for you. I've always been a guy that's been the kind of player that's been really good at his job, and it's really good at his job, and it's really good at his job, and it's really good at his job, and it's really good at his job.

"Our goal is for him to go out there and physically move up to the next level. Powell didn't really stand out in terms of talent. But, he certainly has the potential to be a very good player.

Seniors say goodbye for the last time

BY JAKE BORNE

The top 25 basketball team to play the Cowtown Spectrum is 25 games in coming, and they are the Vandals. They are the Vandals.

The 1981-82 season—Trevor, Hershell, Rashad Powell, Josh, and Shawn was the line-up. Powell has been with each one on the court since his freshman year at the UI.

"It's been a good season, but in terms of who have been most important to the team's success, Powell is the one man who has been consistently solid. Powell's impact on the game has been very solid and very solid and very solid and very solid.

"The strength of the team is that it always gives Powell the opportunity to be the man who has been the most important to the team's success. Powell has been the most important to the team's success, and he's been very solid in that role.

"But it's been a good season, but in terms of who have been most important to the team's success, Powell is the one man who has been consistently solid. Powell's impact on the game has been very solid and very solid and very solid and very solid.

"The strength of the team is that it always gives Powell the opportunity to be the man who has been the most important to the team's success. Powell has been the most important to the team's success, and he's been very solid in that role.

"But it's been a good season, but in terms of who have been most important to the team's success, Powell is the one man who has been consistently solid. Powell's impact on the game has been very solid and very solid and very solid and very solid.

"The strength of the team is that it always gives Powell the opportunity to be the man who has been the most important to the team's success. Powell has been the most important to the team's success, and he's been very solid in that role.
Pacifc's Women's basketball had a great victory. search

In this game, the Women's basketball team had a great victory. They scored over 100 points, beating the opponent by a wide margin. The team played with great enthusiasm and teamwork, resulting in a blowout win.

The Women's basketball team had an excellent performance. They showed great skills on the court and their victory was well-deserved. This is a great accomplishment and a great moment for the team.

The victory comes after a series of challenging games, and it's a welcome change of pace. The team has worked hard to be in a positive position and this win is a testament to their efforts.

All in all, this was a great win for the Women's basketball team. They played well, and their performance was outstanding. This win will boost their confidence and motivate them for future games.
UI golf prepares for tough season

BY BRIAN REICH

AUGUST 21

The University of Idaho men’s golf team will have a lot to prove this season. The Vandals are coming off a disappointing campaign last year and hope to make a big improvement this season. Coach Stan Smith is hoping to lead his team to a lower finish in the Big Sky Conference.

The Vandals will open the season at the Palmer Cup in Phoenix, Arizona, this weekend. The team will then travel to California for the Northridge Invitational and then to the Bay Area for the Stanford Invitational. The team will then return home for the Idaho Open at Sun Valley Country Club before traveling to the NCAA Regional Championship in Dallas.

The Vandals are led by senior captain Scott Eberly. Eberly finished 10th at the NCAA Championships last year and is expected to be one of the top players in the conference this season.

The Vandals also have a strong bench with sophomores Brooks Knieps and Ben Trefzger. Knieps finished 11th at the NCAA Championships last year and is expected to be one of the top players in the conference this season. Trefzger finished 15th at the NCAA Championships last year and is expected to be one of the top players in the conference this season.

The Vandals will also have a lot of depth with sophomores Caleb Smith, Ben Trefzger, and Brooks Knieps. Smith finished 12th at the NCAA Championships last year and is expected to be one of the top players in the conference this season. Trefzger finished 15th at the NCAA Championships last year and is expected to be one of the top players in the conference this season. Knieps finished 11th at the NCAA Championships last year and is expected to be one of the top players in the conference this season.

The Vandals will have a tough season, but they are hoping to make a big improvement. Smith is hoping to lead his team to a lower finish in the Big Sky Conference.

The Vandals will open the season at the Palmer Cup in Phoenix, Arizona, this weekend. The team will then travel to California for the Northridge Invitational and then to the Bay Area for the Stanford Invitational. The team will then return home for the Idaho Open at Sun Valley Country Club before traveling to the NCAA Regional Championship in Dallas.

The Vandals are led by senior captain Scott Eberly. Eberly finished 10th at the NCAA Championships last year and is expected to be one of the top players in the conference this season.

The Vandals also have a strong bench with sophomores Brooks Knieps and Ben Trefzger. Knieps finished 11th at the NCAA Championships last year and is expected to be one of the top players in the conference this season. Trefzger finished 15th at the NCAA Championships last year and is expected to be one of the top players in the conference this season.

The Vandals will also have a lot of depth with sophomores Caleb Smith, Ben Trefzger, and Brooks Knieps. Smith finished 12th at the NCAA Championships last year and is expected to be one of the top players in the conference this season. Trefzger finished 15th at the NCAA Championships last year and is expected to be one of the top players in the conference this season. Knieps finished 11th at the NCAA Championships last year and is expected to be one of the top players in the conference this season.

The Vandals will have a tough season, but they are hoping to make a big improvement. Smith is hoping to lead his team to a lower finish in the Big Sky Conference.