IDAHO MEETS W. S. C. SATURDAY

GAME PROMISES TO BE ONE OF INTEREST AND EXCITEMENT

Both Teams Are in Excellent Condition
For The Royal Battle

The big "battle", the scintillating struggle, the terrible, terrific and titanic encounter is scheduled for Saturday afternoon. On that date the armed hosts from Idaho and W. S. C. will meet on the University of Idaho campus and the battle will be a royal one.

"Will we book 'em Saturday? Get out the old sack and shake out your hat money penny for the boys who won't lose. W. S. C. Covered odds last year and they can't see anything but even money this season, so we ought to trim them by something better than that 3-0 score."

All the men are in the pitch of condition and every one of them is ready to put up the fight of his life for the glory of the old school. Devadw, Dingled and Gartough's end are three of these nameless, schmoozle men who ever figured the pigskin. Those Pullman backs too going to hit the ground when they are tackled Saturday.

Gigantic Groninger and Captain "Buck" Phillips, Idaho's tackles, are among the best in the conference at their positions. "Groni" being almost assured of a place on the all-northwest team.

Kipp, Johnstone, and Huffington, of the guards are all fighters and smearers of plays per excellence. Hays at center makes his every pass and is a mountain of strength on the defense.

Harold Parry, the silver and gold quarter, needs no commendation. Danie Reamor has it that Parry cut his teeth on a football and anyone who has seen him on the gridiron can easily believe the story.

Burns at half is a constant ground gainer carrying the ball and his drop kicking ability makes him a dangerous man inside the 40-yard line. Jarviss is everlasting for he will, the old plough punch and he bottics from the kick-off to the final whistle. Hamilton and Betty are Idaho in a struggle before it is over and they will be sure to make the enemy aware of their presence.

Brown, the Idaho fullback, is another man who has been mentioned as one of the all-southerners. He hits the line like the fabled half-ton of lead and he shatters play after play backing up the line.

The W. S. C. team is in good shape and it expects to put up a battle but if the whole school invades the hostile territory as it should, all the flags in Pullman will be at half-mast Sunday morning.

VARSITY SPIRITUETS WIN FIRST CROSS-COUNTRY RACE HELD IN MOSCOW

Campbell of Idaho Set the Pace That Won the Day.

Last Saturday occurred the first intercollegiate cross-country race ever held in Moscow. The event took place at 2:30 in a drizzling rain and was run on a very heavy course, composed of the road representing Washington State College and three running for Idaho. Dehaven of Idaho set the pace for the first quarter but was soon passed by Lewis of W. S. C. In scaling the high hill west of the campus the runners were forced to severely lean on the heavy road. When the race had progressed for half a mile the pace which won the race was set by Campbell of Idaho. Close to Campbell was running O'Rourke of Idaho. These two Idaho men led the race for three and one-half miles or until the home stretch, when O'Flance was passed by Lewis of Washington State College.

Idaho will send Campbell, O'Rourke, and Dehaven to the conference cross-country meet to be held at Corvallis next Saturday. The competition will, no doubt, be keen, as men will be there from all the colleges of the northwest.

A New Rolling

The old system of monthly "hurry-up" letters has been replaced by a newer and more efficient one. Hereafter weekly deficiency reports will be received from the instructors after the instructors have conferred with the deficient students. Following this an appointment notice will be sent to the student calling for an interview with his respective dean. This interview will take precedence over all other obligations and will constitute a valid excuse from conflicting classes or laboratory appointments.

Should deficiencies not be attended to and made up at once it is likely the offenders will be sent home in November, the second week of waiting until January or February, and thus doing away with the unnecessary expense of the students' remaining at the University when no good is being accomplished.

This plan, is intended and designed for the benefit of the students' enrollment.
ASSEMBLY HOUR

AFFORDS PRIVILEGE

SIGNORE MARCO BARONE OF ROME,
ITALY, ADDRESSES THE FACULTY AND STUDENTS

Subject of Talk, "Vestiges Afoot,
Two Years Were Spent from Rome to Moscow.

Dean Eldridge opened assembly with an explanation of our Boola song. It was first introduced at Yale as a rally song for the Yale-Harvard game. The Boola song comes originally from Hawaii. It was derived from an old folk song. We are accustomed to sing the chorus only but to the end that we might learn the verses also Dean Eldridge led the assembly in singing the entire Boola song.

The assembly was greatly favored by a vocal solo by Miss Mabel Paulson, a former student of the University. Miss Paulson has a pleasing voice and the appreciation of the student body was expressed in their continued demand for an encore.

President Branbon took occasion to comment the lower classmen for the successful way in which they pulled off the class sight last Friday afternoon. This form of settling the question of class supremacy meets with the approval of all who saw it. It is a great improvement over the old method of a class rush. This form of scrappering requires a certain amount of skill and individuality which the discarded method did not afford. The President expressed his sincere hope that this form might be adopted for all future classes.

President Branbon also called attention to the rally Friday evening. It was strongly urged that every man and woman of the University, including professors, be there. He urged that the students should go to the rally not only for the purpose of encouraging our team to win, on Saturday but also for that broader purpose of creating a University spirit of fellowship upon which every University life is founded.

He also reminded the Freshmen that it is their traditional duty to provide for great light on Friday night.

President Branbon introduced the assembly Marcus J. Barone of Rome, Italy. Mr. Barone has just completed 14,100 miles of walking trip around the world. He is a member of the Young Men's Civic League of the Immortal City and is touring the world in the interest of that association.

Mr. Barone supports himself while he is on the road by giving lectures and painting, of which art he is a no mean master.

Mr. Barone spoke to the assembly upon the subject of his travels. His purpose in touring the globe in this way is that he may bring the message of Italy to those he meets in his travels and take back to Italy the knowledge of the men of the world. He left the city of Rome with all its beautiful historical relics on June 4, 1912 and journeyed northward to picturesque Naples. Here he set sail for America and in five days landed in New York, the city of business, where everyone is in a hurry and where one is utterly alone among thousands of people.

From New York, Mr. Barone traveled to the Delaware water gap and thence to the Carlisle Indian school. From here he walked to the Gettysburg battlefield where the broad expanse of silent graves spreading over 25 miles of territory impressed him with the awfulness of warfare. Here he turned north again across the Mason and Dixon line into Delaware and thence to Washington, D.C. Mr. Barone considers Washington to be the most impressive city of the United States and the most impressive thing in Washington is the great congressional library in which the atmosphere is so dense that one can easily distinguish a pin fall, even though the library is filled with people.

From here his journeys to Maryland, Warrington, and Lower, where the great Leroy concerns were the object of his inspection, thence southward along the Shenandoah Valley to the great national bridge. Shortly after this Mr. Barone meets with his first real adventure. A train moved him on a trestle and he has to give the right of way. He throws the dog in the river.

The dog gets out of the river all right but dies a week later from the effects of its fall. Mr. Barone found a warm place in his heart for his dog.

He regarded him as his mate, uncomplaining, faithful friend. He got Brown, his present companion, in North Carolina a few weeks later. He journeys still southward through Arkansas to St. Augustine, the oldest city of the United States, thence southwest to the Everglades, which are covered with inches of water. The Seminole Indians, the inhabitants of the Everglades, live in huts erected on piles and the men are different from the other Indians of the United States in that they wear short dresses. The dresses have brought colors to denote the family of the wearer."

Mr. Barone visited Key West and Cuba and then journeyed to Texas, then to Arkansas, Oklahoma, Missouri, back to Oklahoma, then to New Mexico and Mexico. The people are much like the Cubans, except that the women are handsomely dressed in mourning for their soldier relatives who have been killed. Every Mexican woman wears a shawl of a value of thirty or forty dollars. The shawl bought even if the family must go hungry."

From Mexico Mr. Barone journeyed to Colorado, where he was impressed by the georgeous beauty of the Grand Canyon. He made a study of the Indians, especially of the Zuni Indians and of the Navajos of the blanket weaver. He spent five days on the desert in the company of two Indians and Brown's dog. It was on the desert that he learned to appreciate most fully the companionship of a dog.

"But why does a man want to walk around the world? The greatest joy of living is in helping others" and Mr. Barone feels that in this way he can bring a helping message to a great number of people. In his travels he found that the American people needed more than two things: Appreciation for the beautiful, and friendly love.

At the request of President Brannon Mr. Barone wrote a few sentences in his native Italian, giving examples of the barb Sicilian dialect and of the sentimental dialect of his own native Rome. President Brannon took occasion to announce that next assembly would be something new. It is to be the "0" and "1" assembly, in which a message will be brought to the students and faculty as one class. Assembly was closed by a commend to by E. J. Corey, accompanied by Mr. Brannon. The selection played was John Hartman's beautiful Fantasia, "The Harp that Once Through Yar's Halls." Mr. Corey rendered the selection in his usual pleasing manner. Such music is a drawing card for our too much neglected assembly.

A WORD FROM PROF. LARSON.

Prof. Larson, who is specializing now at Wisconsin on ventilation and heating, has recently advocated a propoision to install certain apparatus at the heating plant whereby heat values of coal may be determined. This would be an economical addition to the University authorities and would be one of educational advantage to engineering students for it could be used as a demonstration in that phase of their work.

Prof. Coultide and Mr. Bates of the heating plant are looking into the matter with a view of recommending the Board of Regents to install the plant.

REAL VALUE OF ARGUMENTATION

THE WORLD IS LOOKING FOR MEN WHO ARE TRAINED TO IMPART THEIR IDEAS TO OTHERS

A Man's Value to Society Is Determined Largely By His Power of Persuasion.

Did you ever differ in your opinion from another person? If so, did you try to convince him that you were right? Did you succeed in convincing him that you were right? Did you fail to give a reasonable systematic argument in favor of your opinion?

Every "student" who desires the same "student" sees more in some one thing than any body else. He is more enlightened in some respects than every other human being. He sees words the HOW is equal to the WHEREFORE. In all history there has never been a better opportunity for a man who can assert himself as now. To be sure of this we need only look about us in our own communities and see at once the difference in the man who knows how to assert and the man who possesses but a fragment of this art. The difference is always greatly in favor of the one who knows how to assert. In any profession or trade in the man on the upper round of the ladder. Many college students are doing the tasks of the unskilled simply because they lack the argumentative factor to convince the world that they are competent. They do not impress the world and hence there is no re-bounding of favor to the ones who do not make an impression on society.

Surely it would be worth our while to study and cultivate more the power to assert one's self in society. This subject is usually known as public speaking or argumentation. This art has the distinction of being the most frequently used and yet the most neglected of all the arts. Your ideas do not benefit society only as they become socialized, and they cannot become socialized unless they are thrust upon the social group.

Resolute to find the key to your success and knowledge chest by getting in the best training can be received by going out for the debates, and if possible to get on the team, where you will be trained in argumentation. A club or public speaking course gives excellent training in this very great essential of success. The path is not easy but requires study, and our experience as students has taught us not to expect anything worth while without persistent study.

Prof. Upon receiving no reply to his question, "No answer!"—oh, the line is busy.

COME OUT TO THE RALLY AT 7:30

that many common practices and beliefs are wrong and are misleading the people. He also sees that there are other practices and beliefs which could be substituted for the wrong conceptions which would result in much good to his fellow men. But if he be an ordinary college student he must always see and never convince. The student is supposed to receive but never impart. He looks his precious knowledge away in his jewel chest but never finds the key which alone will unlock the chest and expose the jewels to the view and use of himself and society. The key is an argument or the power of self-assertion. Man is a social being and surely his store of knowledge will never benefit either himself or society unless he finds the means of impressing his ideas upon others. This is accomplished by argument. Argument may be either of two kinds: printed or oral. Surely it will take no argument to convince the reader of the fact of the greater importance of oral argument. Oral argument may say the least and used a hundred times as often as written argument and is much more influential because the oral argument has the force of the personality which is directing it.

In business, in law, in politics, in religion, and all other phases of human activity we argue. By arguing we earn our daily bread. By arguing we benefit our fellow-man. Our ideas are not sure to keep, but sure to give. It is not exaggerating much to state that how we say a thing is of just as much importance as what we say, or in other words the HOW is equal to the WHEREFORE. In all history there has never been a better opportunity for a man who can assert himself as now. To be sure of this we need only look about us in our own communities and we see at once the difference in the man who knows how to assert and the man who possesses but a fragment of this art. FRESHMEN 7

IS A HARD-FIGHT GAME FRESHMEN DEMONSTRATE SUPERIOR SKILL

Game Characterized by Roughness, but Rest of Sentiment Prevailed

The Sophomores and Freshman eleven put up a remarkably even grudging battle when they got together Saturday afternoon at the fair grounds field but the Sophomores had the upper hand in the early part of the game and they won 7 to 6.

The Freshmen aggregation started with a rush in the first quarter and pushed the oval down to within striking distance of the Soph goal during the first ten minutes of play. The Soph line held for a couple of bunts but Ama kicked out of danger and the ball was dead at the twenty yard line mark. Harpke kicked the goal.

The battle was fairly even in the second quarter but the Freshmen seemed to have the edge and they had a chance on their opponents in the third quarter but the Sophas began to look alive in the last period and they kept the oval in Fresh territory most of the time. The pigskin was on the Freshmen 10-yard line at one time but the Sophs lacked the necessary kick and Mason kicked out of danger. The game ended with the two teams scrapping in the middle of the field.

This was a commendable amount of hard work pulled off during the battle and brilliant football was not the rule but preserve us gracious Aggies, how the bow did scrap. There was never a ball in the warling and battle were being knocked out every other minute.

Students Lecture Course

The lecture course this year under the auspices of the Moscow High School promises to be one of unusual interest. The high grade of the talent made it necessary to drop from five to four numbers or increase the price of the season ticket. The course will include the Portland Ad Club, John Hendricks Bangs, Dr. Thomas E. Green and Helen Keller. The Portland Ad Club, which comes Tuesday, November 24, is a splendid musical organization. Their work is purely vocal and every one is a soloist in high mark.

John Hendricks Bangs, is a humorist and a man whose writings are read wherever the English language is spoken. Dr. Thomas E. Green, who comes Friday, March 26, was the sensation of the chautauqua at Moscow last summer. He was considered decidedly the greatest attraction the chautauqua offered and was brought back on the lecture course at the request of hundreds of citizens of Moscow.

Helen Keller comes April 21, Wednesday evening. She needs no comment. This world has produced but one Helen Keller and it is doubtful if it will ever produce another.

The course tickets on this remarkable group of attractions will be sold at $2.00. At that price it is expected that every seat in the High School auditorium will be sold.

SOPOHORE DEBATE TEAM IS CHOSEN

Hartmann, Bakke, and Spaulding Will Uphold '78 House - Freshmen Still in Doubt

The men chosen to represent the 1917 class in the Sophomore-Sophomore debate are Henry Hartmann, Noel Bakke, and L. H. Spaulding. Hartmann has had considerable experience in debating. He was last year a member of the Freshman debating team and previous to that he was a debater at Wesatchie High School. Bakke is a Broadway High School debater. He and Spaulding are both active in social society work and are expected to do their share in "showing the Freshmen up!"

The Freshman tryout has not yet occurred but will take place some time this week. Any candidates for places on the 1918 team should speak to Rolland Woodruff regarding the particulars of the tryout.

This year at our sister institution, across the line, it is one by which our students should profit, and particularly the Sophomores and Freshmen at Idaho. It is a very desirable method by which to develop debaters to defend the laurels of the school, and it also affords opportunities for many students to acquire training which is impossible in intercollegiate debating in which only a few get to take part.

The Sophomores and Sophomores should seriously consider a similar proposal and lay plans for a debate during the next semester. Such a contest should be made a part of the program in which one of the classes would have to elbow to claim supreme supremacy, as well as in athletic contests. This would also give place members of a class a chance to help their class. The members of these two classes who are in favor of this most excellent plan had better "debate" it to those indifferent in the matter and convince them that they need more training in argumentation to prove to you that you are not wrong.

Home Economics Rooms to be Heated

It is likely that new additional radiation will be installed in the Home Economics Department before severe weather starts. It is very necessary that this be done because last winter, especially during the high winds, the cold was very keenly perceptible. This is under consideration and will without doubt be attended to soon.

W. S. C. Men at Work

About 10 men are daily "sermiming" in debate for preparation for the Idaho-O. A. C. trimmerule debates which will occur in December. Last year both Idaho and O. A. C. put good teams into the field and it is expected that lively debates will take place between W. S. C. and those Institutions this year.

SEES THE GAME

THE FOLLOWING ARTICLE IS W. S. C. VIEW OF THE GAME SATURDAY DAY—FROM EVERGREEN

Alford, Satterthwaite, Delta and Applequist on Hospital List—Idaho will Outweigh 15% Pounds Per Man

November 7 is fast dimming in Bonner’s football camp as the date for the game approaches. Injuries have wrought havoc with the W. S. C. line and it is apparent that we will have the odds, both on the line and in the backfield. Absolutely the only advantage the State College has over the Idaho institution is that the game will be played on Rogers Field.

Captian Alford will be sent into the game, but indications are that he will stay but a few minutes, as he is still unable to bend his knee. Injured in the O. A. C. game. In addition to this he will have to play against Groninger, one of the biggest and best tackles to the conference, and almost sure to be chosen for all-Northwest honors.

Satterthwaite is slowly recovering from his scrimmage injury, but it is very doubtful if he will be able to stay in the game more than a quarter. Satterthwaite has the ability to insert fight and pep into the team, and his loss will be almost irreplaceable.

Applequist has a most persistent “Charley-horn,” which may keep him from the game as it has kept him from practice for nearly an entire week.

Delta’s shoulder is slowly improving, but he will be handicapped seriously in his tackling and line-backing. Bernard is in poor shape, owing to bruises and sprains hanging over from early season.

Heg and Tyer are both in fairly good shape, due to the week’s comparatively light work, and guest bear the brunt of the Idaho attack.

In Brown, Burns, and Jardine, Griffith’s has a wonderful backbone and line which should be able to gain yardage continually through the Crimson and Gray forwards. Jardine was the man who pounded the line so successfully and desirably last year. After Lockhart had been taken out. Brown and Burns are both heavy men, built from the ground up and possessing more than ordinary speed.

Kipp and Johnstone, Griffith’s guards are both letter men from eastern colleges. Johnstone from Washburn and Kipp from Simpson College. They both outplayed their men against Oregon, Stites, and Zimmerman will have their work cut out for them.

Out. Phillips and Groninger are equalled only in Beckett and Phelan of Oregon, the best pair of tackles in the conference. DaVall and Dingle are both faster and almost as experienced as Heg and Tyer. Unless Satterthwaite is very much improved by Saturday, Smith will be worked at halfback in his stead.

Remembering the backfield, Smith weighs only 146 pounds, and though lightening fast, is not near the defensive man that Satterthawte is. In the several years of athletic relations between the two schools Idaho is now one game to the good, and they have won three out of the last four games played.

If the jinx can be broken this year it will mean an evening of old scores.

The complete lineup will not be announced until the night before the game, but any combination possible.

George Varnell will referee, Stanley Forttance will umpire, and John Jones, former graduate manager here, will head linesman.

The regular meeting of the Debates Club has been postponed to Nov. 11. The Club will meet at that time at the Delta Gamma House.
