BY JEFF BONNER

Four candidates have applied to fill the position vacated by former President Gary Michael. The university's board of trustees is expected to announce a decision on the position this week.

University-Purdue-Laurentides in Canada and the University of Idaho have each presented a plan to enroll students from the College of Idaho, Idaho State University, and Boise State University.

University President Gary Michael said he was not aware of any plans to fill the Wallace position. He added that the university is in the process of conducting a search for a new president.

Al-Hussayen prosecution must prove link to terrorism

BY LUI THOMPSON

Judge Edward Lodge, who is presiding over the trial of Omar al-Hussayen, requested a summary of a statement issued by the Justice Department last week.

Edward Lodge is a U.S. court-appointed lawyer for al-Hussayen. He was appointed by the U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia.

According to various news reports, Lodge said the prosecution must prove that the defendant was a member of the terrorist group known as al-Qaeda.

Lodge said that the prosecution failed to prove that al-Hussayen was involved in any acts of terrorism.

Lodge also noted that the defendant was charged with conspiring to provide material support to al-Qaeda.

UI professors venture abroad for the summer

By Kate Popping

UI professors Robert Wrigley and Kim Barnes are doing something new with their summer.

For the first they are traveling out of the United States.

Wrigley, an English professor, and Barnes, a psychologist, will be presenting a workshop June 27-28 in the Casablanca of the Clarion Hotel in Paris.

Wrigley will give part-way workshops, and Barnes will give both fiction and nonfiction workshops.

"We are excited to be here," said Barnes. "We have people from different countries that are interested in working with us about the workshop."

The workshop is sponsored by the Montessori Writing Center in Moscow.

The board was approached by the people in France about this, she said. "They asked and asked if we would be interested."

Since neither Wrigley nor Barnes has ever been out of the country before, they jumped at the opportunity to travel.

"We get invited to do these kind of workshops all the time," Wrigley said. "This one was a little hard to pass up with the travel and travel and travel and travel and travel and travel."

"It is expensive but you can learn a lot."

Wrigley is interested in meeting people from different countries, which is something he hopes to do in the workshops.

According to Wrigley, English professors in France are quite different than those in the United States.

"They're speaking English," Wrigley said. "They are from different places."

Barnes is a native of the United States and will be attending the event as a student. She said, "I have been here (in Latah County) there are ideas that broaden the older glass picture. There are very few in tone with ideas that our nation is faced with.

"The platform discussion gives access to the other people that we study."

Ringo said he was pleased with its conclusion:

"We are pleased with its conclusion."

The event was important to share those ideas. Latah County is more progressive.

"I don't know if I'd rather it as we are, or how it will all work."

Barnes said the event is a good way to connect with the students in the field.

Recent WSU grad realizes dream

As Jesus Sooner

A few years ago, I was a little brick building part of the corner of Main Street in Pullman. I got lucky and decided that right time to make it happen," she says. "Since then, the youngest daughter of a man who worked in the business for years, graduated from WSU, where she graduated in August. As God pleased me, just 20 days after being bright-eyed sales associate waiting to help the next customer, the business was established in the front of the building a little different story. Standing out from the rest, the bright, large silver sign spells.

I opened in Friday, "she says, "I always want to do our own thing. I just decided to do it. (It was already all week) I was pretty surprised." Customers would never guess the original shop was once standing in was designed in the mind of Moos, who when she was a little seller of books and literary treasures to her, Moos applied for a small business license and began designing the space that would soon be here. "I started in January, putting everything together, and I really had a great friend and my boyfriend all of the remaining."

A little more than a year ago Moos was planning to help people in a different way. After three years of working Moos found she had not been accepted in a medical program that would guarantee her a long career as a nurse. "In December, I fled from the hospital," Moos said, "I had an intense amount of work."

I just realized," she says, "I just wanted to have my own place, I wanted to really utilize my dream."

Moos says her goals were similar to those of the highest and best use of the space and the community and its goals and the community and its goals. One of the goals of the business was to provide a space for people to gather and to enjoy a variety of items. Biting off a grill cheese in the middle of her booth, Moos says, "I really love what I do."

She says the space is a place to relax and enjoy a diverse selection of items, as a customer chooses through the glass doors at the front of her store. She says it is one of the most popular things that if they didn't, "If any of them, they would still enjoy coming in to this store." Moos has been out of her way to make sure the clothing in her store is not found in local department store. "If you could do it and pick out several things I would put in the world of retail, Moos will still make at least the year in my life to buy from a California fashion industry."

I'm just excited about being able to, "she says, "I'm going into this store is full of books, but I think there are a lot of things I could find something. My room is a lot packed out of several things."

If it's a problem of being able to get out of the world, Moos will still make at least the year in my life to buy from a California fashion industry."

A place where the beer flows like fine wine

There is a place to eavesdrop on music with more suspense than any other place on earth. To me this place gives an aura of wonder and privacy necessary in such a way that my mind starts to circle in our inner circles.

This place is called the Women’s Center and I want to know what it is all about. That is, we want to know if it exists at all — if it exists at all.

This question is shared by most men and women in the circles of our minds, making about trips to the Women’s Center.

“A Haven for women,” why do we ask ourselves. Within seconds we come up with a simple answer:

This is a place where men and women can come together, to interact with each other.

What does it mean? After considered the options, I think the best answer is: it is not the woman’s center it is a center for women.

When I think of the center, I think of something that requires no further description.

But, of course, that is not the case. The center is a place where we can have a drink and test our luck.

It’s better to be safe than sorry. A simple drink to the center.

Open bar with tickets and you can be the one to win.

The money will be used to help women in need. Women will be able to take advantage of the center.

We will call the center “The James Bond room,” the center where women can find shelter.

The center will be an important step in the right direction.

For, to me, it is important that we have a place where we can go to have a drink and test our luck.

If you are interested in the center, you can contact the Women’s Center at 555-1234. The center is open daily from 10 AM to 10 PM.

The center is a place where women can find shelter and a drink.

Without you all, our center would cease to exist.

Surely not all of this is true, but before the bear rain our offer, I must ask you this: is it so wrong to want a center?

But this ups all things of square in square: who is to blame? Who is to blame for this?

We can have a drink and test our luck. A simple drink to the center.

Students take homework to the screen

BY JOE HARDY

The SUU Reel Theater was transformed into a forum for future filmmakers Wednesday. Students enrolled in Hans Kootstra's Journalism and Mass Media 415 advanced video production class showcased their work to a sold-out audience at the annual SUU Student Media Showcase.

The event, which is also scheduled to take place Thursday, featured short films, documentaries, music videos and photographs produced by students from the class.

The films differed in style, content and length. The show began with Alex Hansen's "Apprentice," about a mom held by a lifeless baby, before moving on to a montage of songs and poems performed by students from the class.

The video changed pace with a music video, "Everything Put Out in Contrast," produced by Dave Barrett.

Other styles of filmmaking were also featured, including two documentaries on Stanley Kubrick's life and his films. "King Kong," produced by Rasa Peterson, includes interviews with directors and students. Much of it was filmed at the center of campus, around the Quad and the parking lot.

The film "Dark Days," produced by Stanley Rosenwinkel, included scenes of students and faculty from the College of Humanities and Social Sciences.

"Jesus and the Magi" is a 54-second course for students in the department on how to learn more about the life of Jesus Christ. It was sponsored by the college's Center for the Study of Jesus and the Early Church.

"Jesus" is a major music commission in visual communications, and it has been one of his closest friends so far. Alex said that while he has not been alone in the last 20 years, he has been with the same woman, and he has spent more time on their relationship.

UI track hopes to qualify more men for NCAA Regional

by BREVIN GLOVER

The next two weeks are crucial for the members of the University of Idaho track and field team who hope to qualify for the NCAA Regional meet on May 15 in Fresno, Calif.

The Vandals will finish their regular season with the during Hantz Invitational on Saturday at Spokane Falls Community College's R. E. McDougal Outdoor on May 8 in Spokane, Wash. The meet is expected to attract between 12 women and four men from the Regional meet in Burdette, Calif. Before heading in the NCAA meet, the Vandals will contest their final regular-season meet on May 15-16 in Irvine, Calif.

The meet of one team will be held as they attempt to qualify at the Shreve Hantz Invitational. The meet will be held at Washington University, Greensboro University, Clark-Brace Stadium and Washington.

The last home meet for the Vandals was held at the 2002-meter steeplechase in 2003, but for the upcoming season, the Vandals will be at the meet. The Vandals have finished the season with the NCAA champion.

The Vandals have already qualified in the long and high jumps, and the 4x100-meter relay. The Vandals now need to qualify in the 4x400-meter relay and the 4x800-meter relay. The Vandals also need to qualify in the 4x1600-meter relay.

The Vandals have also qualified in the hammer throw and the discus throw. The Vandals have also finished in the men's decathlon and the men's heptathlon.

According to Martinazzi, the men's decathlon was a big achievement for the Vandals.

The Vandals have set several records this season, including a record-breaking performance in the 4x100-meter relay. The Vandals also set a record in the 4x800-meter relay.

The Vandals were in eight place going into Tuesday's game but leap five spots up the schedule with a 5-3 victory over WSU, which was in 13th place.

While there were some disappointed players after the indoor roller hockey championship games Wednesday on the Student Recreation Center's Blue Court, there was an atmosphere of good sportsmanship and support for the players after the games.

Kappa Kappa Gamma pulled out close victories. At the beginning of the women's division match, Kappa Kappa Gamma looked like it was going to falter. However, a second-half comeback was in the works as Delta Gamma did not go down easily. The Kappas won 5-3.

In the men's division match, Ballock was told that he should visit Kappa Kappa Gamma when in need. It was actually all about forward Lindsey Utter. She controlled the game from the start, with her first goal coming in the third minute of a scoreless match. Less than two minutes later Utter scored again to give the Kappas a 2-0 lead. With help from the mileside of the opening half, Utter completed the hat trick as she skated from the center of the court to blast in an unassisted shot into the left side of the goal.

Delta Gamma had a hard time moving the puck toward their goal but got a solid defensive effort from goalie Wicks, who had nine saves in the first half. She missed the game with 17 saves.

The second half started much as the first — with Utter scoring. Then the Kappas took the 5-0 lead with 16 minutes left in the game on a goal by Ballblick picked up in a loose puck in front of the goal for an easy shot into the net. The Kappas Kappa Gamma goalie, Katie Wicks, was exposed once when Delta Gamma started its offensive onslaught with nine saves in the second half.

But that was not enough as Ashley Flores scored a couple of shots into the net from more than a quarter of the court away. Diane Tschudy scored the final goal of the game for Delta Gamma. Wicks finished with 11 saves.

The Kappas are 3-0 in the competition, while Delta Gamma is 2-1.

The All-Stars worked themselves back into the game with three goals over the next 15 minutes to take a 5-2 lead. Fiji tied the game before halftime with a goal from guard Elyse Freeman, who scored slightly after taking a shot from goalie Andy Brown and flipped it into the upper right corner of the goal.
