OREGON TEAM
HANDED DEFEAT

IN ONE OF THE FASTEST GAMES ON LOCAL FLOOR IDAHO TAKES BECKWITH MIDDLE INTO CAMP

With Exception of a Few Minutes
"Pink" Men Were Easily In the Lead During the Game

Poor old Hugo Beedeen! Hard luck, Oregons! Too bad, wearers of the colored hat, but "Pink" outfit was never intended to go against the warriors who were the smarmest looking Monday night and that Eugene team happened to be quite in the way of the contest, particularly in the last few periods of play. Plunder and a fearsome battle of was a genuine battle from the initial up-tip with the lead doing a continue but not amounting to a

Idaho got away in the lead and stayed out in front throughout most of the first half, but Oregon came back strong in the second session and, after a few minutes. "Pink's" men were played off their feet. The old reserve brick was three, however, when the second minutes of some of the fastest base ball ball ever seen on a local floor, the Idaho bunch hooped the basket that meant a win.

The Lineup:

Idaho: Oregon.
Gray: Oregon.
Gray: .R.F........C. Bigbee
Kline: L.P...........Sherry
Martinn: C............Norton
Neene: R.............Bigbee
Jardine: L............Boylen
Kline: L............Idaho-Howdy for Kline.

Oregon scoring: Field goals-C. Bigbee 2, Norton 2, Boylen 2, L. Big-bee, free throw, C. Bigbee 8, Referee, Edmundson.

RANDOM SHOTS

Ah well, in the soul aching words of the immortal Socrates, "It's the bitt er with the sweet, old top. Chew it up and choke it down."

W. S. C.'s last passing game was a little bit of fun but Oregon has certainly been fell reasonably into the Oregon carrara. Charles Gray don't seem to have an equal in the conference when it comes to cowing in the free throws. That old scalp is a but of stuff on the old egg, but a microscopic knowledge of where the thing is going.

Jim Keane has been playing a fast game. Fighting every minute and wearing the entire floor. Jim looks like a strong All-Northwest possibili-Morin. Mountainous Martinson, otherwise known as "The tires have not been playing a moose of a defensive game.

That they can't get by 'Tina's massive bulk is shown by the fact that no team has piled up a big score on "Pink's" men.

Captain Jardine showed stellar stuff against Oregon, shooting four field goals and covering his man.

We are forced to unshackle the hand just once, however. Martinson put up the tip-off times out of ten in Monday's game but on four of the occasions an Oregon man scored the ball.

All in favor of trimming Fullman on her own floor the next time she tangles with Coach Griffith's aggregation is at home. Bay, boy, run out and see if that was the chiminey that fell.

Washington is coming Friday and she will put a mighty speedy team on the floor. If the team is to win it must have everybody's long-lasting in favor (and Webster's) support.
Don't fail to be on deck.

INITIATIONS IN PROGRESS

Judging by the large number of we're-gone looking Froshies on the campus this initiations are in progress. Upper classmen are noticeelike in evidence, keeping vigilant eyes on those bountiful youths, who desire to speak with their lady friends, or on those of the girls who have for a long time the company of their family for the next couple of minutes. There are also starting rumors of the way in which the underclassmen in the dormitory tops has developed along lines of music and poetry. They say he is a wonder, when it comes to any of that extra-photographic stuff at masquarade, and the old adage is painfully being proved that "necessity is the mother of invention." Those, who have already gone thru the pangs of initiation ,may smile and flash their paces, but the others are still grouping in the dark unspoken and hopeless for the best.

Here mercy on the Freshman!

TAG DAYS

Thursday and Friday, February 19 and 20, will be tag days for the 1918 Gem of the Mountains. Everyone one who has subscribed for an annual will be given a tag to wear. Every one not wearing a tag will be asked to subscribe. Avoid the annoyance of being hit for a subscription every five minutes by bringing a dollar for an ad-vanse subscription.

SUBSCRIBER'S CAUTION.

CAP AND GOWN DISCARDED
AT UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS

At a smoker held last wretched, the senior class of the University of Texas squashed the cap and gowns idea almost before it was presented.
Those who have worn the billi

Fridays, during the remainder of the session.

The caps and gowns died a hasty death at the hands of the Texas students.
It was decided beforehand that the

PAULO - FRANCESCA
GREATLY ENJOYED

PUBLIC SPEAKING CLASS UNDER DIRECTION OF MISS FRENCH VERI-CREDIBLY PRESENTS
FIRST PLAY OF SCHOOL YEAR

Characters Well Selected For Their Parts Which Added Much to the Presentation of the Play

Paulo and Francesca is a beautiful play, full of musical lines and strong speeches, and the only criticism, which can be made upon it is that it has not even enough real action to suit a college audience. Perhaps this is not a fault and, indeed, there are people who might take it rather as a recommendation.
It is the fact remains that a college audience wants a modern play with characters, who—talk as it talks in the plays. So, if the heavy scenes of the play were rather lightly received by a bunch of underr grasses, and if the Freshmen giggled when Francesca said: "My Lord Prince, how pale you are?" to Mr.
Johnson, who was laughingly rogued, it was the same for the seniors out with long walks between acts, and not the fault of the play or of the actors.

Miss Soulsen and Mr. McDowell had the long character parts, which always mean more work but take better in the long run than the pretty romantic ones. It is unnecessary to say anyting of Miss Boulot's acting, for we all know that any play in which she has a part is assured of success. She has lost all of that uncertainty on this stage, which the rest of us can not avoid, no matter how good we try.
In the glory of our epithet, may consider ours. She threw herself wholeheartedly into the part of Lucrecia, with all of her grace and talent, maning the aged woman emblazoned on life and hungry for love, the most potent character in the play. Mr.
Mc.
also, strengthened the case of his Giovanni, the tyrant of Rimini. adding much to the tragic element. His voice was singularly well-fitted to the part and his acting was worth all the praise, which it has been given.

Paulo and Francesca were difficult parts to put into life, and the length of their speeches made action scarce decency much needed in places. However they were admirably presented by Mr. Johnson and Miss Lynn The latter made a dainty, little heroine of the modest, bird-like variety and was well received.

Other characters worthy of special mention were: Miss McDaniel, who old her small part with a great deal more reality and vigor than was put onto the play of the more important Miss Rawlins, who gave us a pathetic picture of the visionary, old blind woman, Miss Zambauf, making the part of the frivolous, little maid quite clever and life-like; and Mr. Goodman, acting splendidly as the old servant, seeking a fortune thru his humbug art.
A number of nice little soldiers-boys were kilted uniforms, and were marveled by the dress presented by the Thursday at four, and of gaily-clad village girls formed a bright background for the men; the story in the box, the decorations, and the production. Much credit is due to public speaking class and especially to Miss French for the success of Paulo and Francesca, and we shall look forward with pleasure to another play from the same source next year

MEdICAL DEAN WILL SUCCEED
DOCTOR BRANNER

That Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur will be the next president of Stanford University has been known to the Chancellor David Starr Jordan. Doctor Wilbur is at present dean of the medic al college of Stanford.

It is reported that Chancellor Jordan, while talking to a group of Stanford alumni at Los Angeles, predicted that Doctor Wilbur will be chosen president next fall.

John Casper Branner, on succeeding David Starr Jordan as head of the institution, announced that he would follow the precedent established by Jordan and retire at the age of 65 years. According to this, Brannner's term of office will end.

Doctor Branner has expressed his desirato engage in geological research work, which has brought him international

There has been much speculation as to the possible successor to Doctor Branner.
Among the names mentioned besides that of Doctor Wilbur were Prof.
John Maxon Stillman, head of the chemistry department and vice-president of the university, and Prof.
Frederic C. Woodward, dean of the law School.—Daily Californian.

SAGE PRINCEOl GIFT $250,000

Princeton has received $250,000 from Mrs. Russell Sage, according to the announcement made to the trustees by Pres. John Grier Hibben. Mrs. Sage's offer is conditional on the university raising another $250,000 by July 1, Mrs. Sage originally offered $400,000 provided the university raised $400,000 by January 1, 1915. The increasing of this gift by the extension of the time of came as a surprise. Of the $250,000 which Princeton will have to raise $75, which has already been collected or pledged.

RADROM FOUND IN ORES FROM MONTANA

Samples of ore to be tested for radio active properties have been recceived from various parts of Montana and from the adjoining states in the department of geology of the University of Montana. One from Senator

W. A. Clark's properties in Southeastern Utah was found to contain 29 per cent of radio active properties and is valued at $10 a pound. The usual rate of ore is only two per cent radio active. Euph hundred tons of such ore as was received from Mr. Clark's properties would be required to produce one ounce of radium.

So far but two of the samples sent in by Montana prospectors and mining men have been found to be radio active. One of these was received from Doc, Locke, and the other from near Livingston. Much of the ore sent in from parts of Montana to be tested certain radium, but that does not mean that it is radio active. The two which

THE AD BUILDING

It seems only natural that we should appreciate our University with its splendid equipment and general efficiency but quite often one fails to recognize the many details—the little things that make such efficiency possible.

Governor Alexander, during his recent visit to the University, expressed admiration and surprise upon his inspection of the Administration building for so clean were the floors, woodwork, windows, in short every nook and cranny, that he believed the building had been subjected to a renovating process in preparation for his inspection. However he was informed that such was not the case; that every room was kept in the same neat order from one week's end to the other.

We have evidently become so accustomed to the clean rooms and halls that we have quite forgotten our necessary labor and ceaseless care attendant upon such a situation.

Surely no small praise is due Mr. Skog for the orderly way the rooms have been kept. Compared with other buildings of similar size, the Administration building is as well taken care of as any public edifice in the state.

ANOTHER "GROWL"

"The growler, the poor, is always with us. All the seven ages of man produced their chronic malcontents." There may be several things in our relation as students that would lend themselves to improvement. Before we "growl" and criticize too much, however, we must stop to think that there are any just grounds of criticism as we encourage altogether indiscriminate knowing without stopping to consider whether the criticism is just or not.

The students of the University of Idaho have often been complimented on the manner in which they acquit themselves when engaged in contests with other schools. The spirit of fairness, which is so much to be commended in inter-collegiate athletics, has always been manifested by our representatives, and of this we feel very proud.

Then, too, we have always been fortunate in having "true sportsman" on the side lines which is just as desirable as having the right kind of men to support. The athlete who, even on the odds against him, puts up a game and fair fight is just as much to be complimented as the people on the sidelines who refrain from unfairness under similar circumstances. We are proud to say that such have been conditions in the past. Does this hold fair to continue? We must guard against depending too much upon our reputation. If this is to continue it must insist on manifesting that same spirit of fairness that was necessary in the first place to establish that reputation otherwise it will soon lose force.

It is the tendency of a few, when odds go against our team to blame the referee and accuse him of making unfair decisions, of favoring the other team, etc. Or it may be considered proper to ring a bell, which bears the tone of a sheep bell, or it may be considered still more appropriate to toot a "fog horn" which seems to be so essential in making our contest complete. As a student body we ought to refrain from laying ourselves open to such criticism—criticism which is invited by the thoughtlessness of only a few. Let us be fair to all. We can train ourselves to enjoy a contest in the best possible way only by being perfectly fair and by appreciating it for its merits rather than by exercising any kind of means simply to win. Think it over.

GEN OF THE MOUNTAINS 1916

The "Gem of the Mountains" promises to be one of the best publications of its nature put out by any class of the University. A large amount of work has been spent by the editor, business manager, and the entire staff and no effort has been spared in making it a success. This enterprise, as everyone realizes, involves an expense of no small consequence and every student of the University should help support it by signing up for a copy as early as possible.

Next Thursday and Friday will be "red tag" day for the Annual. Each student who has signed up for an Annual will wear a red tag where it may be readily seen by those who are soliciting subscriptions on those days. This plan will make it possible to get the list of subscriptions more accurately and so the publication will not be delayed. The Business Manager reports that an effort is being made to have the Annual here for delivery the middle of April. Be ready to sign up for yours on Thursday or Friday.

OMEGA PI ENJOYS 4TH ANNIVERSARY

SORORITY ENTERTAINS MEMBERS IN HONOR OF FOURTH ANNIVERSARY OF ITS FOUNDING

Property and Location of Sorority Belong to the Omega Pi

On Wednesday evening Omega Pi entertained members as a dinner party in honor of the fourth anniversary of the founding of the sorority. Omega Pi was fortunate in having as its first faculty member, Professor E. E. Gurley, formerly head of the Physics Department at the University of Idaho and now holding a similar position at the University of the Philippines. Thru his efforts the sorority but the beautiful home they are how occupying. The residence is one of the finest on University hill and adjoins the property of Beta Theta Pi. Omega Pi may be justly proud of its extensive property which comprises nearly half a block.

Prof. C. L. von Ende, head of the Chemistry Department, is at the present time faculty advisor for the sorority. The patronesses are: Mrs. J. G. Griffith, Mrs. C. E. von Ende, and Mrs. E. E. Hutton.

Of the eleven charter members only two are at the University this year: Elma Woods, '31, who is a Senior in the Home Economics Department and is also House Mother of the sorority; and Gertrude Stephenson, '12, who is the Assistant Registrar.

As for scholarship, Omega Pi has advanced steadily until last year the average for the sorority as a whole was 4.25. Just 0.75 from honors. Since no special students are members of this organization, the above average is considered very high for full-time work.

The hospitality and loyalty of these young ladies is so well known that no mention need be made of them. It is not often that a sorority has the courage or business ability to undertake the responsibility of buying a home and Omega Pi should be congratulated upon its attainment in this line.

FORER IDAHO MAN COMMENTS

C. E. Elmer finds much to commend in Development of Idaho Agriculture

Enjoyed Farmers' Week Sessions—Thinks Attendance Should Have Been Greater—Analyzes Status of Institution

C. E. Elmer, for many years a prominent citizen of Idaho but now a resident of Portland, has been in the city the past week to attend the meetings of the farmers. Mr. Elmer was Governor Gooding's able secretary throughout his term, and was for years honorably identified with the press of the state. The favorable opinions of the college of agriculture expressed by Mr. Elmer will be read with interest by the many persons who attach great value to his judgment of people and enterprises.

"Many and Idaho are to be congratulated on the work of the Agricul-tural College," said Mr. C. A. Elmer of Portland, who has been in attendance at the Farmers' Week meetings.

"The work of the previous session closed has been interesting and valuable, and I am somewhat surprised that the attendance was not greater. This seems unfortunate for two reasons:

First, because information of extreme value to the farmer was offered, and second for the reason that knowledge of the value of the down land here, if more widely disseminated, would remove the menace that blen-nishly has vexed the souls of the friends of this great institution. With the farmers of the state more thoroughly informed regarding the institution, the legislative threat of possibly changed conditions would no longer be heard. I think in a measure this is true now, and the value of the school other than as a political playing thing is becoming more thoroughly recognized.

"The meetings showed one thing very clearly—that the leaven of agricultural knowledge is working among the farmers. Even ten years ago when farmers' meetings were held, most of the interest was in grain and range cattle and horses. The production of hogs attracted a little attention, but not much, and the consumer, who pays for soil upkeep or improvement, received scant attention. Who would want to fool with forage crops, or a potato field, while the opportunity was presented to play a straight furrow three miles long with six or eight horses, and later watch the hayfields of grain. The care of the orchard, garden or berry patch was left to Divine Providence. The desirability of making two blades of grass grow where one had grown before, is now not so much the sentiment of the hard practicability. This has largely been through the work of this great institution.

A call has been issued for 2000 college men to volunteer in the war against John Barleycorn. The Prohibi-tion National Committees hold headquarters in Chicago plan to enlist 2000 of these men by June 1, 1915, and the remainder within the year following. Fifty special secretaries are now traveling among the colleges and universities of the country enlisting young men for the campaign.

The three lectures given recently by Prof. Collins have excited much favorable comment. The subject matter required a thorough knowledge of the literature of the last half century and the lectures presented as they were, in a clear and interesting manner, evidenced a masterly understanding of the subject.

The series of lectures were intended to account for the development of English literature from about 1840 to the present time. The first lecture was a discussion of the novel and more particularly the introspective or psychological novel as the most prevalent type of novel throughout the fifty years. The romantic novel were represented in the light of a refuge from introspective and sociological novels. George Meredith and Henry James were treated as the chief promoters in the beginning of the movement with W. B. Maxwell as the chief exponent of it at the present time. Joseph Conrad was represented as uniting the introspective and the romantic movements.

In the second lecture a group of pessimistic poets—Thomas Hardy, James Thompson, John Davidson, and A. E. Housman were treated as a group who did profitable pessimistic thinking as a corroboration to the individual opinion of Tennyson and Browning.

In the last lecture Prof. Collins emphasized the change in the attitude of Arthur Symons about 1900 as representative of a shift from the sentimental spot of the 70s—Symons himself, Ernest Dowson, Oscar Wilde, and Stephen Philpotts, to the mystic, William C. Symons’s later point of view and of W. B. Yeats, Fiona Macleod, and William Russell.

The lectures concluded with a reference to the insistence of democracy following a period of aristocratic reassessment in politics and literature. John Masefield and Wilfred Gibson were treated as typical democrats in opposition to Mr. H. G. Wells.

"Doc," coach, of the Oregon Aggies, gives his team one chance in one thousand to win the basketball championship. Concerning Idaho he had the following to say regarding the recent game here: "Idaho has the heaviest team in the conference—a big beefy bunch that made our boys look like pigeons. They’ve got a 200-pound center and he covered the whole court. Flickering star lights caused in lattice work worried the Aggie shooters." "Doc" admits we’ve hard to beat but says he’ll do it when we go to Corvallis.

Last Saturday Miss Hoover attended a committee meeting at Peck. She addressed the women’s meeting on the morning on "Cuts of Meat and Methods of Preparation," and in the afternoon on "The Making of Jellies and Jams for the Presence of Prettily in Various Fruit Juices." At the Round Table the ladies asked Miss Hoover to discuss the values of Idaho flour for domestic purposes. She explained the tests for gluten and the importance of its presence in large percentages in flour used for bread making.

The total attendance at the women’s meeting was about a hundred, a large number for the sparsely settled community. Miss Hoover was real enthusiastic about the Women’s Club House which she found there. It is probably the only one in any community, the site of Peck, in Idaho.

JES A SUGGESTION
Below is the pledge the University of Oregon students take upon themselves when they enter the University. Don’t you think it an excellent practice? What do you think about a similar pledge for “Idaho” students?

The Oregon pledge: "As a student of this University that is maintained by the people of Oregon I hereby acknowledge the obligation I shall owe to them. The opportunities open to me here for further training, ideals, and vision for life I deeply appreciate and regard as a sacred trust, and do hereby pledge my honor that I shall be my most deeply cherished purpose to render as bountiful a return to the Oregon people and their posterity in faithful and ardent devotion to the common good as will be in my power. It shall be the aim of my life to labor for the highest good and glory of an even greater commonwealth."

Montana Registration at the University of Montana reached high-water mark when the opening-day lists closed for the second semester, Tuesday night. Professor Rowe, in charge of the registration, checked up 526 students of college standing on his rolls, when the closing hour came. There were 15 new students added by the second-semester registration. Wednesday added a dozen to the total and the University today has 417 students of college rank upon its books for this year’s work. This figure does not include the registration for summer-school work, which was more than 290 last summer and which will, from all indications, be greater for the summer session of 1935. Nor does it include the grade-school and high-school pupils who attended the summer school; there were 315 of these.

No account is taken, either of the people who registered for summer lectures or who attended without registration. Of these there were more than 200.

In the figures which are given as the enrollment record for the University, the special students in music are not considered. The 253 stands for actual college students.—M. N. B.
