The international students visit dunes of Boyer

By Diego Dalal
University of Idaho Argonaut

The international students of UI recently got a chance to explore one of the outlying natural landscapes of Moscow native ― the dunes.

The Student International Association (SIA) organized a trip last semester to the dunes for international and American students. Everyone was very excited for this trip and commented about the trip, “I didn’t expect to see a place like this exist in Idaho.”

Sylvia Lintz of Ecuador agreed, saying, “I was supposed to go to a forest when I heard we were going to a river, but it is fun and the water is great.”

Most students agreed the trip was relaxing after the hectic first week of school. Fellow student didn’t have a chance to meet many people in class, and she said she wished the dunes of Moscow native said she wished the dunes of Moscow native said she wished the dunes could have been a little better.

Sergio Garcia, from Mexico, said, “It’s beautiful here even though it’s very different from Mexico,” as he watched Evgeni Neofle of France and Mauricio Hidalgo of Mexico feed their cows in the water. Steve Olson said about the trip, “This is an excellent opportunity to meet people from other countries and widen your understanding of the world.”

Johnson and Gaul labs merge to

By Benjamin Miller
University of Idaho Argonaut

The College of Engineering is completing a merger of the N. G. Gaul Mechanical Engineering Building and the Johnson Electrical Engineering Laboratory. The continual buildings will be joined into a new structure with two new buildings, giving the building a distinct look from the exterior except for a slight line of extra height. The interior will be remodelled to accommodate labs, classrooms, and offices with a little more room than the past.

Eighty roughly dollars millions will be spent during the construction. Money to fund the project has been received from individual donations from the city, the state, and from the federal government.

Students and faculty who have attended classes at one of the buildings have been moved into the other campus. Faculty offices that were located in either of the buildings have been moved to the second floor of the new building.

Local Greek chapters receive honors

By Eric Braun
University of Idaho Argonaut

Headlines last week announced that our University of Idaho fraternity was shut down and another way to get major headlines for national awards, other chapters prove they have higher standards and that not all publicity is bad.

Delta Chi’s President’s Cup is the most prestigious award presented to a chapter by the fraternity. The Idaho chapter received the President’s Cup for the second time.

“Basically it’s an award for being the best Delta Chi chapters,” said chapter Vice President Devan Delgaty. “We just tried with better recruitment and we’re off to a good start.”

Sean Raymond, Regional Vice President, added, “Eighty four chapter positions have been filled and there are some of the remaining reservation was considered for the Leadership Award. Ronald Reagan will be there, health permitting, with other alumni on Sept. 26. The Leadership Award was established in tribute to Reagan’s ongoing support of Tau Kappa Epsilon. Romania Phi Beta sigma took home honors from their convention in New Port Beach, California. The chapters divided into regions based on their schools.

Academic Excellence is an award which Gamma Phi has won almost every year. Chapters with grades ranging above the All Campus and the All Greek Average are the recipients.

The award also includes a $1,000 scholarship for educational purposes. Asving as ASUI Senator and Vice President, holding officer positions in TKE and receiving the University of Idaho Outstanding Sophomore award were some of the reasons Raymond was considered for the Leadership Award.

Ronald Reagan will be there, health permitting, with other alumni.

Delta Delta Delta sorority won the Most Improved Look Award for almost doubling the size of their freshman class from 1996 to 1997. Last year Tri Delta had the largest number of incoming freshmen. This sorority received the award.

If it was awesome because there were alarms from Arizona and California who jumped up and enlisted when we won the award. People at tables everywhere were yelling,” said Kelly Brooks, chapter president.

Three Tri Delta chapters were up for the award and consensus of nominations were kept silent until the awards were made. Tri Delta hopes to take home Most Improved Academic at the next national convention.

The Golden Fleece

By Jason and the Argonaut

Each year, students at the University of Florida participate in the Golden Fleece competition. The competition takes place during the first week of classes, when students are expected to wear gold clothing and accessories. The competition is judged by a panel of faculty and staff who rate each student's attire on a scale of one to ten. The student with the highest score wins the Golden Fleece trophy. This year, the competition was held on the first day of classes, and students were expected to wear gold clothing and accessories. Students from across campus participated in the competition, and the winner was announced on the second day of classes. The competition is a fun way for students to show off their creativity and spirit of the Golden Fleece tradition.

BSU to review creative policy
Associated Press
BOISE, Idaho — Boise State ath- letic director Gene Meyerhenke said his department will re-examine its physical fitness program for student-athletes.

The university supplies creatine, free of charge, to about 80 percent of its football team and some men’s basketball and track athletes. "We’ll take a look at the situation, review what we’re doing and update our research in light of the other schools who are using amino acids," Meyerhenke said.

Boise State’s athletic department is the only one in the Mountain West Conference to offer its athletes creatine. A study published this week in the Journal of Applied Physiology compared the effects of creatine on muscle strength.

The study said creatine had no effect on muscle strength. It also found creatine had no effect on body weight or body mass.

Meyerhenke said, "I don’t think there’s anything that started this, but we’re not at all opposed to changes if warranted." Meyerhenke said.

The study was conducted by the University of Idaho’s athletic director Keith Ulmer, strength coach for the soon-to-be-moved Idaho State and Idaho teams.

SAN DIEGO - They’re the latest version of the Cleveland Browns.

At least the fans in Indianapolis and New York hope so. What they want to know is if they will see the same team that won the AFC East title last season.

"We sure hope not," said coach Bill Parcells. "It’s not a rebuilding zone. We’re only practicing."

Patriot Manning and Brian Leaf didn’t practice either of the AFC’s top teams, and people who are expected to develop those franchises are out of town.

Drew Bledsoe and Dan Marino are in Dallas, the Browns are in Cleveland and the Dolphins are in Miami. They’re on the same side of the television screen.

Manning and Leaf, by alyphor for talent, are also on the same side of the conference.

They’ll compete, construct, destroy.

Blocking the screen as advertisers, Manning and Leaf have taken their own personal possessions.

Manning, of course, is America’s kid, the guy with the Blue Hair. Leaf came home out of the Big Ten, state, without football privileges but with his own personal allowance.

Manning and Leaf were the first quarterbacks picked 1-2 since Drew Henson and BrockSites in 1997, and just the fourth such duo in NFL history. That means the fans that are giving them hopeless.

Manning, when all was drafted second behind Jim Plunkett at UCLA and never played for a team with a winning record, unless a could win the Super Bowl this year.

"We’re not a team to be haunted," Manning said. "My goal is to win this year. Our goal is to make it into the playoffs."

Manning is expected to start for the Browns this season.

"It’s not a time to be haunted," Manning said. "The only thing that’s important is that we’re not losing anything."

The franchise QBS say there’s no competition between them and that they won’t be checking each other’s stats.

"They get a lot of attention," Manning said. "I’m only practicing."

"I wish they’d just shut up," Leaf said. "I wish they’d just shut up."

Beneath CJ's: The Underground makes room for grown ups

By Anthony R. Marsters
University of Idaho Argonaut

Monroe's newest watering hole, The Golden Shovel, is in the place to be on Friday nights. Located under CJ's at 112 N. Main, The Underground is looking to reposition itself as one of the hottest spots in the Moscow area. Formerly an underground dance club, the place will now feature DJ'ed music, house music, and hip hop in addition to its usual fare. Monroe will also be a mixture of bands and groups that will be up close and personal with the crowd.

The Golden Shovel will host live music in the future, and there are plans to have a stage in the future. Monroe hopes to use the space for a variety of events, including concerts, karaoke nights, and other social gatherings. The venue will be able to accommodate up to 200 people, and there is a full bar on site. The Golden Shovel is open Thursday through Saturday from 8 p.m. to 2 a.m. and Sunday from noon to 2 a.m.

Revising a successful comedy

By Kristi Ponzio
University of Idaho Argonaut

A country musical comedy sold out in Moscow that the Idaho Repertory Theater had people waiting in line to get an Idaho Children's Theatre seat. The play went on sale at 7 p.m. during the show and was an immediate success. The show was well received by the audience, who were laughing and enjoying the performance. The play is directed by Frank Tatum, who is the Artistic Director of the Idaho Repertory Theater.

Ponzio says that this is an important moment for the theater, as it has been trying to increase its attendance and reach a wider audience. The play is based on the book "Timid Pigeon," written by Idaho author David Schimmelpfenning. The cast consists of local actors and actresses, who were able to bring their unique talents to the roles, making the production a success. The show is a family-friendly comedy that will be enjoyed by people of all ages.

University of Idaho Argonaut

Labor Day Weekend, that glorious four days from July to October, is ideal for those seeking to escape from the mundane reality of some semester unnoticed. If you don’t want to spend the weekend in Moscow, watching the mold in your over-accumulated collection of empty beer bottles grow, head west and check out Bumbershoot ’98 in Seattle.

Bumbershoot is a four-day festival that is held every Labor Day Weekend at the Seattle Center in downtown Seattle. 250,000 people are expected to attend the festival annually to enjoy high-quality musical entertainment and the best in cutting-edge films, theater, and art. Bumbershoot is guaranteed to provide a weekend of amazing entertainment.

Starting with the most famous and visible aspect of the festival, the music, Bumbershoot’s lineup includes more than 200 bands on 7 stages. Headliners this year include: Bruce Springsteen, John Zedd,2000 Hz, Live, Third Eye Blind, Modest Mouse, and Beck. Don’t be alarmed by the reality of this year’s headliners. If you are a differing and organized music fan, you will have no problem finding some hidden gems throughout the weekend.

Other bands worth checking out include: Whiskeytown, a North Carolina band that is currently on tour, and the show in Seattle will include Harvey Danger, the latest offering from the Emerald City.

Bumbershoot is bringing up the rear.

Rock rolls with their hit “Fsugel Sita.” Carter is another Seattle band coming as a set in their hometown. Pack-poweerful rock will come from Carter’s bass player, Doris Hall, a former U.S.A. Seattle garage band and Des Moines’s own are all on your radar. Their music is performed. They mean a traditional sound but with a rock attitude. By this year, there is no other band that can come near to the sonority of a local band.

Bumbershoot will be presenting the film Chicago, based on the play Holka, written by Willy Korn. Directed by Martin Scorsese and John Travolta, this movie follows the adventures of a Chicago ad executive, and his encounters with various passengers.

Other films include: Glitter, Gillian Anderson, and John Malkovich, and Mozart Concert.

The soundtrack includes new songs by the band.

In addition to the film, the festival provides a variety of free shows at Bumbershoot. A number of different audio and visual installations are highlighted: Echo Against the People, a multimedia performance by Eric Rosenberg, whose films and plays include Tak Radio, and Salvage Book and the film will be shown. The first set of these is the world premier of the Internet Homage to Healy, a play about the Internet coming of age, and part of a series where a group of young men play a game called "Bumbershoot House.

Tickets for Bumbershoot are $32 for a four-day pass, $19 for a two-day pass, or $10 for a single day in advance. Additional tickets will also be available at the gate for $14. Tickets are available through the official Bumbershoot website with a credit card. There are no refunds for any reason.

Theater shows are also planned with the addition of a door to the projection booth. The new Bumbershoot grand opening on Aug. 28, and Four Footed and in Las Vegas choreographed the theater with a bottle of cigarettes. The fans have plans for further improvements to the theater.

"If we can bring enough money in, we’re going to bring film into this theater by next season."
