Classes released for Veterans' Day

By Tom Craig

For the first time, in recent history, University of Idaho students will be allowed to miss class for a "veterans day" holiday for students who have fought for the country.

A ceremony will take place at the East Side Multi-Media Center, and will be followed by the presentation of medals and awards for those who have served. The event will begin at noon on November 11, and will conclude at 3:00 PM. Veterans and their families are being asked to attend the ceremony.

The University of Idaho reserves the right to change this policy at any time.

The Idaho State University is also planning a similar event on the same day.

Moscow's premiere coffee house closes

By Beth Gran

The Vox, Moscow's only college-owned coffee house, closed its doors on October 21, due to a decrease in student patronage.

The Vox was opened in 1993 by the Student Senate as a way to provide a social gathering place for students. It was located on Second Street, between 11th and 12th Avenues.

The Vox was operated by student volunteers, who worked to keep the business running smoothly.

In recent months, however, the number of students coming to the Vox has decreased significantly.

"We've had a lot of students who've come in and said they miss the Vox, but they don't have the money to come anymore," said Evan Davis, a co-owner of the Vox.

The Vox was recently purchased by a group of investors, who plan to transform the space into a new restaurant.

"We're really excited about the possibility of having a new restaurant in downtown Moscow," said Davis.

Ventura to Minnesotans: Everything's Fine

By Rachel Olson

CHICAGO (AP) — High school students who watch lots of television and have more friends are more likely to start drinking than those who don't.

The Stanford University study of 1,500 ninth-graders also showed that who you date is the most common reason for starting to drink.

Watching TV and videos made no difference in the drinking habits of those who already drink.

The findings are not surprising given research that shows alcohol is the most common substance consumed on television, said the study's lead author, Dr. Thomas Robinson, and the study.

The major drawback of drinking on television is the most attractive and influential people, and it is often associated with social and sexual contexts, Robinson said.

He said, "It's something that needs to be addressed by the industry."
Bared breasts okay, dead man places in election

Newport—Votes counted today in Newport’s municipal elections will go to the ballot box in the town of Newport, as the votes were counted in the town council meeting.

Those among the voters that turned out were those who held the attention of election day in Maine. In Newport, it is all started in the Mason Street School a few months ago when Mary Thompson called to complain that her neighbor’s daughter was falling in a less manner with nothing covering her breasts.

Three votes were cast, the last was a woman. Voters apparently were not swayed by Thompson’s concerns.

VOX, from A2—

from a pout to blue grass played at the Vox, and party readings, lectures, and seminars were also held there. “I hate anything anyone does to try to make the Vox & Museum of the Arts all the money collected at the door,” said Sister May O’Brien in the Vox, and hoped to break even at 100% all off all sales for the night.

“It wasn’t a money maker, but that wasn’t the intention,” she said of the events held at the Vox, referring to them as a more of a public service. Now these events will go public and we could place elsewhere, Waterman said. “Words are a treasure,” Seaver continued. “The arts have power, they can change the world, and can help us to see the beauty in others.”

So, those who voted for her at the Vox all the money collected at the door, and hoped to break even at all off all sales for the night. “It wasn’t a money maker, but that wasn’t the intention,” she said of the events held at the Vox, referring to them as a more of a public service. Now these events will go public and we could place elsewhere, Waterman said. “Words are a treasure,” Seaver continued. “The arts have power, they can change the world, and can help us to see the beauty in others.”

The Vox has been a part of the Newport community for many years, and has been a place where people can come together to share in the arts and culture. It is a place where people can come to listen to music, watch movies, and participate in readings. The Vox is a place where people can come to learn and grow. The Vox is a place where people can come to be a part of something greater than themselves. The Vox is a place where people can come to feel connected to others. The Vox is a place where people can come to be themselves.
How the missteps added up for Newt Gingrich

By John Diamond
WASHINGTON (AP) — For months, Gingrich fielded questions about his past, often in presidential forums where he seemed to be doing well. But when it was time to actually vote, the public’s enthusiasm for him seemed to have waned.

Amid the missteps that made Gingrich president, his last big speech, which focused on his plan for Medicare, was greeted with a standing ovation. Gingrich had considered leaving the race after his loss in South Carolina, but he decided to stay in.

The missteps added up for Newt Gingrich, the former House speaker who was a candidate for the Republican nomination for president.

Gingrich had a history of making errors in judgment, and his past mistakes were held against him. He was known for his extreme views and controversial statements, which turned off many voters.

In the end, it was his inability to connect with voters on a personal level that ultimately cost him the nomination. His campaign was beset by internal conflicts and a lack of coherence, which made it difficult for him to present a cohesive message.

Gingrich’s experience in Congress had also been marked by controversy, including his role in the impeachment of President Clinton in 1998. This, too, was held against him by voters who were concerned about the integrity of a future president.

In the end, Gingrich was unable to overcome his past mistakes and his inability to connect with voters. He dropped out of the race in March, leaving the nomination to Mitt Romney and Rick Santorum.
RUMINATING WITH RUEN

By Justin Rees

Editor's note: As many of you who have found our site already know, there is no need to agonize over what is being done in this world. There is no need to be concerned about the problems that exist. There is no need to be upset about the way things are. There is no need to question why this or that is happening. There is no need to worry about the future. There is no need to be concerned about the past. There is no need to be concerned about the present. There is no need to be concerned about anything.

Instead of worrying about the future, we should focus on the here and now. Instead of worrying about the problems that exist, we should focus on finding solutions. Instead of worrying about the way things are, we should focus on making them better. Instead of worrying about the past, we should focus on learning from it. Instead of worrying about the present, we should focus on enjoying it.

By focusing on the here and now, we can live a happier and more fulfilling life. By focusing on finding solutions to problems, we can make the world a better place. By focusing on making things better, we can create a more positive future. By focusing on learning from the past, we can avoid making the same mistakes in the future. By focusing on enjoying the present, we can experience more joy and happiness.

So, let us all take a moment to reevaluate our priorities. Let us all focus on what truly matters. Let us all live a life that is filled with happiness, joy, and fulfillment. Let us all make the world a better place.

Justin Rees
Editor-in-Chief
UI bids Moore, Craig emotional good-bye

I just wanted to go out and play with heart and passion. There was a lot of emotion, but I didn't have any regrets and went out strong.

— Jessica Moore

By Torry Snyder
Sports Desk

Saturday was an emotional night for long-time stars Craig and Jessica. The two seniors started the game with tears streaming down their faces as they honored their individual accomplishments during their time at Idaho. The Vandals fell 83-73 to the No. 12 Oregon State Beavers in a tough contest.

The emotions did not stop as they received hugs and bouquets of flowers from second-year head coach Carl灰. “For me, my passion with Carl was very hard, and to have a senior year like we've had is absolutely amazing,” Craig said, holding back tears.

While both Craig and Moore played with incredible passion and heart, it wasn't enough to pull their team to victory against the powerful Wolf Pack. As the Vandals were defeated in five games, Craig managed 15 points and five assists.

Women's hoops beat Idaho Alumni 88-73

The Idaho women's basketball team continued its hot streak Wednesday night with an 88-73 victory over the University of Idaho Alumni. The Vandals scored 31 more points than they did in their game against the University of Idaho.

Women's Basketball

The Idaho women's basketball team is currently on a five-game winning streak. They are looking to keep this momentum going as they prepare to face the University of Idaho on Saturday.

Cal Poly-SLO, Idaho favored

Announced Press

LOS ANGELES — Cal Poly San Luis Obispo and Idaho are likely to win the Big West men's basketball championships in the upcoming season, according to the poll of coaches and sportswriters.

Both teams were discounted by one coach and sportswriter, respectively, in the poll. This was produced to be the winner in the Western Division and Idaho in the Eastern Division.

Women's Volleyball

The Vandals and Idaho are scheduled to play on Friday night in the Memorial Gym. The match will be at 7:00 p.m. and tickets are $10.00.

Cal Poly-SLO, Idaho favored

Long Beach State was favored in second place and defending champion Pacific was tied for third. The top two teams are expected to battle in the Western Division. Others in the top five, listed in order, are Cal Poly, Fullerton, Irvine and Santa Barbara.

The women's volleyball team is currently on a four-game winning streak. They are looking to keep this momentum going as they prepare to face the University of Arizona on Friday night.

Women's Basketball

The University of Idaho women's basketball team is currently on a five-game winning streak. They are looking to keep this momentum going as they prepare to face the University of Idaho on Saturday.

Women's Volleyball

The Idaho State women's volleyball team is scheduled to play on Saturday night in the Memorial Gym. The match will be at 7:00 p.m. and tickets are $10.00.
Believe it or not, it is happening

By Latisha Taylor
University of Idaho Argonaut

Loyal Astrach, a reknowned paranormal investigator, spoke to a crowd of students in the SLUB Ballroom Thursday night. He gave a lecture, a collection of stories about his experience with the supernatural, accompanied by a technical mumbo jumbo of variding theories.

Perhaps you’ve seen the deceased Bruce Forsyth’s ghost as his voice echoes across the image of Kappa Sigma. According to Astrach, there could be truth to both these stories.

Believe it or not, people can actually see ghosts, but they are so rare because we are not capable of seeing the paranormal. Based on perception, no two people see the world the same, so when describing actual events and similarities their reaction may be different. Astrach explains that a reason people believe what they do is that they are not inclined to be linked to areas. But what exactly is the ghost’s attention. “It is always an investigation, even if it is as simple as knocking on the door of a family who live mit the Nubel Price, there is always an investigation of the paranormal,” said Astrach.

People have tried to define these ghost who has good looks and a nice sense of humor. "It is time for some reality in the paranormal world. We need to stop believing things that are not based on solid evidence,” said Astrach.

Believe it or not, people can actually see ghosts, but they are so rare because we are not inclined to be linked to areas. But what exactly is the ghost’s attention. “It is always an investigation, even if it is as simple as knocking on the door of a family who live mit the Nubel Price, there is always an investigation of the paranormal,” said Astrach.

People have tried to define these ghost who has good looks and a nice sense of humor. "It is time for some reality in the paranormal world. We need to stop believing things that are not based on solid evidence,” said Astrach.
Fast and Easy CASH!!

Lecture Note Takers Needed.

Pay starting at $6/hour.
Earn up to $9/hour.

For more information & applications, visit ASU Lecture Notes, 885-6331 or stop by the ASU Office in the SUB.

Are you getting ready for the holiday season?

Let us help you and save you money!

Hair Designers

Moisturizing and/or protein reconstructive treatments!

*Redken has some of the best technology in hair care and has been known as “the conditioning company.”

Conditioning Color Gloss

*Shades EQ is the #1 demi-permanent color product in the U.S. Can be used for grey blending, add depth & richness, correct the faded, brassy sun damaged hair or just use Crystal Clear for extra shine and body.

SPECIAL- $25.00. Reg. Price $35.00.

Manicure

SPECIAL- $12.00 receive a paraffin wax treatment for free. Save $5.00.

Tanning

*Brand new bulbs as of October.

SPECIAL- 12 tans for $25.00.

Bring a friend and receive an additional 10% off!

Start Planning Now!

Call Hair Designers

882-1550

offers good with Anna