More Construction:

Admin Annex to be extended

Construction of $10 million addition starts in summer 2000

By Tom Craven
University of Idaho Agribusiness

A $10 million building exclusively for the College of Business and Entrepreneurship will be commissionning construction in the summer of 2000. It will be available for students to attend classes in it the fall semester of 2001.

This new addition will be called the Admin Annex. The annex will not have a 1950s international style, which is associated with Paul W einz, acting director of Capital Planners and Budgets, or be "characterized by the brick, ribbon win-ows, and low slanted roofs." The administration] will look more like the Administrative Building is commonly called "valley goes." a style known for its snarly pitched roof. This building will also have beauti (like the (army) grouping valley's, as well as the architrave, brick walk, and ornate architectural design. Construction will be in the completion of the Autumn of 2001.

The addition will be paid for by private by private donations including Carly and Michael Brandt with a $2 million donation, Ahmed Al with $2 million dollars, and another $7 million dollars from private donors. The total cost is estimated to be $10 million.

UI students confused about Kosovo situation

By Stephens Kantovsky
Office of Student Activities

UI students were asked about the crisis in Kosovo, what could be done to help the situation, and should the U.S. be involved at all?

Many students opted not to answer, saying they didn't have answer or think it was none of their business. Students were asked about the situation by Argonaut and the students didn't answer generally said the U.S. should not become involved.

"They should deal with it
within Serbia. If people interacted with us civil wars, things wouldn't be safe," said Katherine Lutkenau, a freshman double majoring in theater
and political science.

College of Ed. hosts talk on violence

By Beth Grein
Office of Student Activities

"Violence knows no race," one
speaker said to the small crowd gathered in the158 hands full for the last Thursday. Students, teachers and community members gathered
to discuss violence in schools.

The open forum was held by
The College of Education to discuss what can be done to prevent violences such as the Lilacit,
Cull., high school shooting last Tuesday. The group held hands in a moment of silence in respect for the 12 students and one teacher
killed in Colorado.

"The solution to any problem is to focus on the negative but no
what we can accomplish," said
Dale Geysman, the director of
The College of Education. "In
and every interaction that we have, treat one another as people,
with respect."

Dale to fight the trend of violence was a theme often repeated.

A native from Moscow
Idaho, Geysman said he came from the public microphone to tact with other students and prepare a speech to those
students who have encountered
"leading a helping hand is the biggest medicine."

He said the students who murdered their classmates in Colorado had been friends with their peers and had been shown examples of violence and ought they perhaps they would not act on behalf of their fellow students.

UI students confused about Kosovo situation

By Stephens Kantovsky
Office of Student Activities

As the crisis in Kosovo continues to linger on nightly television
reports, students from around campus seem especially interested
and informed.

Students were asked by the Argonaut what they thought about the crisis in general, what could be done to help, and
should the U.S. be involved at all?

Many students opted not to answer, saying they really didn't know what it was all about. Those did answer generally said the U.S. ought to be involved.

"They should deal with it
within Serbia. If people interacted
with us civil wars, things wouldn't be
safe," said Katherine Lutkenau, a
freshman double majoring in theater
and political science.

College of Ed. hosts talk on violence

By Beth Grein
Office of Student Activities

"Violence knows no race," one
speaker said to the small crowd
gathered in the158 hands full for
the last Thursday. Students, teachers
and community members gathered
to discuss violence in schools.

The open forum was held by
The College of Education to discuss what can be done to prevent
violences such as the Lilacit,
Cull., high school shooting last Tuesday. The group held hands in
a moment of silence in respect for
the 12 students and one teacher
killed in Colorado.

"The solution to any problem is
to focus on the negative but no
what we can accomplish," said
Dale Geysman, the director of
The College of Education. "In
and every interaction that we
have, treat one another as people,
with respect."

Dale to fight the trend of
violence was a theme often
repeated.

A native from Moscow
Idaho, Geysman said he came from the public microphone to
tact with other students and
prepare a speech to those
students who have encountered
"leading a helping hand is the biggest medicine."

He said the students who murdered their classmates in Colorado had been friends with
their peers and had been shown
examples of violence and
ought they perhaps they would
not act on behalf of their fellow
students.

UI students confused about Kosovo situation

By Stephens Kantovsky
Office of Student Activities

As the crisis in Kosovo continues
to linger on nightly television
reports, students from around campus seem especially interested
and informed.

Students were asked by
the Argonaut what they thought
about the crisis in general, what
could be done to help, and
should the U.S. be involved at all?

Many students opted not to
answer, saying they really didn't know what it was all about. Those
did answer generally said the U.S. ought to be involved.

"They should deal with it
within Serbia. If people interacted
with us civil wars, things wouldn't be
safe," said Katherine Lutkenau, a
freshman double majoring in theater
and political science.
Is it time to upgrade your computer?

By Joff Sacksbery

Many people believe a computer upgrade is a useless gesture. There will always be something newer, faster, cheaper and just plain better available days after you dump hundreds or thousands of dollars into your system.

While many of these "advancements" are just variations on a pre-existant product, every few years something truly newsworthy enters the market. These upgrades make your computer perform better, and many of these products are affordable.

First, we need to take a closer look on what components make up the computer, keep in mind how computer hardware is a very basic explanation. The processor is the powerhouse of your computer. It is one of the key determinants of how fast your computer will be to perform various functions.

Of course how much RAM (system memory), how large it is hard drive (storage) and the speed of your motherboard (how quickly the components can communicate with each other), will affect the overall performance of your computer. Coolant?!

In order to have a top of the line computer system you need to continually upgrade all of your components, something most of us can't afford to do quickly using anything slower than Intel® Pentium® (that's a Pentium processor running at 166 MHz, the fastest processor on the market run around 300-600 MHz lastly. Remember, there may be a service fee, so call your provider for more information.

Now, so you need to dump more money into your computer? When it no longer does what you want it to, is it so infeasible that you can't payoff another purchase or software for it, is where new products are entering the market that will truly make a change in the way computer operates.

Remember, if it ain't broke, don't fix it. If a broke, don't go to school, church or charitable organization that don't have to get receipt for that tax-income.

MOSCOW CRIME LOG

A brief sampling of the police blotter:

2/9 3:45 p.m. - Unattended vehicle rolls into a parked car at the LSSU residence 7:29 p.m.

2/9 10:19 p.m. - Trespass notice served on a subject at the Wallatonia Complex.

2/9 7:48 p.m. - Report taken on a subject using a display in a sitting park parking.

2/10 1:05 p.m. - Stolen needs help with a possible false verification. It checked out.

2/11 3:50 p.m. - Vehicle impounded for 6 overnight tickets.

2/10 7:56 p.m. - Two males trying to use stolen credit cards.

2/8 8:29 p.m. - Stolen credit card used to purchase gas.

2/9 2:30 p.m. - Report of stolen items from Wallace Complex.

2/7 8:08 p.m. - CD purchased with stolen credit card.

2/5 11:32 p.m. - "Report of "pointed" inside near Engineering 2.

2/12 8:24 p.m. - AT&T playing loud music with open windows.

2/13 5:16 p.m. - Ushers customer one of his John's Alley.

2/13 3:53 p.m. - Takes stipub pipes by occupants of black sedan.

Call wanted to go to bed.

Dancers & Beverage Servers
Do you need extra money to cover tuition, books, or just want to have fun while earning an income, we have a great opportunity for you! We are looking for dancers and beverage servers to join our team. Dancers must be 18 and above. If you have "The Right Stuff", you can be a part of our team! We are looking for a minimum of two shifts a week. We are the perfect opportunity for Dancers and Beverage Servers!

State Line Showgirls
"A true gentleman's club" in Michigan. No need. We're your link. 18 and above. Call State Line Showgirls 289-7780 anytime to make an appointment. We are open 7 days a week.

Wet T-shirt Contest every Wednesday night. See call for details.

Online University

Congratulations to GRADUATES taking the first step into the world of work!

Copyright (C) 1999

The University of Idaho Argonaut

Printed on recycled paper with inks containing no heavy metals.

Andrew T. White
Editor in Chief

Sergio Brown
Front Page Editor

Call Us

To report a copyright violation, please contact (208) 838-7924.

Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Fridays, 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., Saturdays, 9 a.m. to 12 p.m., Sundays and Mondays, 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Copyright (C) 1999

The University of Idaho Argonaut

Printed on recycled paper with inks containing no heavy metals.
The importance of sleep

Bob Phillips, Jr.

Let’s face it, every couple you know has been there. They’re up late one night, talking about how tired they feel during the day and what to do about it. They’ve seen the research, the food articles, the TV programs. They even have the ironing done. But the problem persists. They just can’t get rid of the tiredness.

There are many habits that invoke “sleepy hormone,” but two that stand out: caffeine and alcohol. In our modern society, these two substances are everywhere. From coffee to beer, we drink and consume alcohol on a daily basis. These substances can cause sleep problems by interfering with the natural release of melatonin, a hormone that regulates sleep.

One of the most common culprits is caffeine. While it’s true that caffeine can help you stay awake during the day, it can also disrupt your sleep later on. It can cause insomnia, which makes it hard to fall asleep and stay asleep. Additionally, it can cause nightmares and make you feel groggy in the morning.

Alcohol, on the other hand, can have a very different effect on your sleep. While it may seem to make you feel drowsy at first, it can actually disrupt your sleep cycles. It can cause you to wake up during the night and struggle to go back to sleep.

The only way to truly get a good night’s sleep is to avoid these substances completely. This can be difficult, especially if you’re a social drinker or if you enjoy a cup of coffee in the morning. But it’s important to remember that your body needs sleep to function properly. And if you’re feeling tired all the time, it’s time to make some changes.

There are other reasons why you might be feeling tired. It could be a lack of exercise, a poor diet, or even stress. If you’re feeling tired all the time, it’s important to talk to a doctor or a healthcare professional. They can help you figure out what’s causing your tiredness and what you can do about it.

Remember, sleep is vital to your health. It’s not just a way to rest your body, it’s a way to reset your mind. So make sure you’re getting enough of it.

Opinion

Don’t forget the importance of sleep

By Bob Phillips, Jr.

Everyone knows the best way to get through those tough mornings is to get enough sleep. But what if you’re one of those people who just can’t seem to get enough? You wake up feeling tired, no matter how much you sleep. What’s going on? Could it be something about your sleep routine?

I’ve heard that many people have trouble sleeping, and it’s true. But what many don’t realize is that there are specific things you can do to improve your sleep and make sure you’re getting the rest you need. Here are a few tips to help you get a good night’s sleep:

1. Create a relaxing bedtime routine. This could include taking a warm bath, reading a book, or listening to calming music.

2. Avoid blue light before bedtime. This includes electronic devices like smartphones and tablets. The blue light emitted by these devices can disrupt your sleep hormone.

3. Make your bedroom a sleep sanctuary. This means keeping it cool, dark, and quiet. And make sure your bed is comfortable.

4. Exercise regularly. Exercise can help regulate your sleep cycle.

5. Avoid caffeine and alcohol. These substances can interfere with your sleep.

Remember, getting a good night’s sleep is important. It can help you feel more energized during the day, and it can improve your overall health. So make sure you’re getting enough sleep and enjoying all the benefits that come with it.

Please quit your whining and crying, girls

Bob Phillips, Jr.

...
Tosi, Beck anchor Idaho defensive line

By Barry Graham

The mirror of Wayne Gestley, all his life was a true sportsman. In the 1980s, if he weren’t coaching, he was likely playing baseball, golf, or tennis. Gestley’s enthusiasm for sports, however, didn’t end when he hung up his cleats. As a coach, he instilled the same passion for the game in his players.

Although he can’t play, the “Great One” is eager to throw a few curveballs.

* * *

n the late 1980s, Gestley was a beloved coach, mentor, and friend to many athletic programs. His influence extended beyond the field of play, touching the lives of countless athletes and fans alike.

Gestley’s legacy continues to inspire coaches and athletes everywhere. His passion for sports, his dedication to his players, and his commitment to his community will be remembered for generations to come.

Vandal track enjoys weekend sunshine at Cougar Invitational

By Cassie McLean

It was another successful weekend for the Vandal track team, as they continued their impressive showing at the Cougar Invitational.

The team performed exceptionally well, with several standout performances that showcased their talent and dedication to the sport.

In addition to their individual accomplishments, the Vandal team also demonstrated great teamwork and camaraderie, which is a testament to their training and preparation.

Looking ahead, the team has high hopes for their upcoming events and is ready to take on any challenge that comes their way. With their hard work and dedication, there is no doubt that they will continue to excel and make their community proud.

Football

The hometown connection is evident in the stands, where fans cheer on the Idaho Vandals with pride. The team is led by head coach Jedd Fisch, who has a reputation for developing future leaders on and off the field.

The Vandals have already made a name for themselves with their strong performances against tough opponents, and they show no signs of letting up.

Baseball

The Idaho baseball team is primed for another successful season, following a strong performance in last year’s NCAA tournament. Head coach Steve Henson is excited for the upcoming season and is looking forward to seeing his team compete against some of the best.

Basketball

The Idaho basketball team has had a strong start to the season, with several key wins and impressive performances. Head coach Craig Mello is proud of his team’s hard work and dedication, and he is confident in their ability to achieve great things.

Track and Field

The Idaho track and field team has consistently performed at a high level, with many successful performances in recent years. Head coach Jeff Jenkins is excited for the upcoming season and is looking forward to seeing his team continue their success.

Music and Performing Arts

The Idaho music and performing arts programs have received national recognition, with many talented students and faculty members. The university is committed to providing a high-quality education in these fields, and they are constantly working to improve and expand their offerings.

Community Service

The Idaho community service programs are a cornerstone of the university’s mission, with a strong emphasis on giving back and helping those in need. The university encourages all students to get involved and contribute to the local community.

Vandal Scholar Athlete

The Vandal Scholar Athlete program recognizes outstanding student-athletes who excel both in the classroom and on the field. The program is designed to provide opportunities for these students to further their education and athletic careers.

Vandal pumpers

The Vandal pumpers are a dedicated group of students who provide crucial support for the university’s athletic programs. They not only help with transportation and logistics, but they also serve as role models for younger athletes.

Vandal Student-Athlete Council

The Vandal Student-Athlete Council is an organization made up of student-athletes who represent the interests of their peers. The council is an important conduit for feedback and input, ensuring that student perspectives are heard by university officials.
Burton Sanay, who is the great-grandson of the late William Burton, who founded the company, said he lost his father's affection when he turned to baseball. Burton said he is proud of his father's achievements in the sport, but also acknowledges the difficulties that come with being a professional athlete.

He did not play on the Bucs' basketball team, but he did play on their baseball team. Burton said he was drafted by the Detroit Tigers in 1957, but he never played in the major leagues.

Burton said he was a good athlete, but he was not a great baseball player. He said he had a good arm, but he was not a good hitter. He said he was not a great fielder, but he was a good baserunner.

Burton said he was a good athlete, but he was not a great baseball player. He said he had a good arm, but he was not a good hitter. He said he was not a great fielder, but he was a good baserunner.

Burton said he was a good athlete, but he was not a great baseball player. He said he had a good arm, but he was not a good hitter. He said he was not a great fielder, but he was a good baserunner.

Burton said he was a good athlete, but he was not a great baseball player. He said he had a good arm, but he was not a good hitter. He said he was not a great fielder, but he was a good baserunner.

Burton said he was a good athlete, but he was not a great baseball player. He said he had a good arm, but he was not a good hitter. He said he was not a great fielder, but he was a good baserunner.

Burton said he was a good athlete, but he was not a great baseball player. He said he had a good arm, but he was not a good hitter. He said he was not a great fielder, but he was a good baserunner.

Burton said he was a good athlete, but he was not a great baseball player. He said he had a good arm, but he was not a good hitter. He said he was not a great fielder, but he was a good baserunner.

Burton said he was a good athlete, but he was not a great baseball player. He said he had a good arm, but he was not a good hitter. He said he was not a great fielder, but he was a good baserunner.

Burton said he was a good athlete, but he was not a great baseball player. He said he had a good arm, but he was not a good hitter. He said he was not a great fielder, but he was a good baserunner.

Burton said he was a good athlete, but he was not a great baseball player. He said he had a good arm, but he was not a good hitter. He said he was not a great fielder, but he was a good baserunner.

Burton said he was a good athlete, but he was not a great baseball player. He said he had a good arm, but he was not a good hitter. He said he was not a great fielder, but he was a good baserunner.

Burton said he was a good athlete, but he was not a great baseball player. He said he had a good arm, but he was not a good hitter. He said he was not a great fielder, but he was a good baserunner.

Burton said he was a good athlete, but he was not a great baseball player. He said he had a good arm, but he was not a good hitter. He said he was not a great fielder, but he was a good baserunner.

Burton said he was a good athlete, but he was not a great baseball player. He said he had a good arm, but he was not a good hitter. He said he was not a great fielder, but he was a good baserunner.

Burton said he was a good athlete, but he was not a great baseball player. He said he had a good arm, but he was not a good hitter. He said he was not a great fielder, but he was a good baserunner.

Burton said he was a good athlete, but he was not a great baseball player. He said he had a good arm, but he was not a good hitter. He said he was not a great fielder, but he was a good baserunner.

Burton said he was a good athlete, but he was not a great baseball player. He said he had a good arm, but he was not a good hitter. He said he was not a great fielder, but he was a good baserunner.

Burton said he was a good athlete, but he was not a great baseball player. He said he had a good arm, but he was not a good hitter. He said he was not a great fielder, but he was a good baserunner.

Burton said he was a good athlete, but he was not a great baseball player. He said he had a good arm, but he was not a good hitter. He said he was not a great fielder, but he was a good baserunner.

Burton said he was a good athlete, but he was not a great baseball player. He said he had a good arm, but he was not a good hitter. He said he was not a great fielder, but he was a good baserunner.

Burton said he was a good athlete, but he was not a great baseball player. He said he had a good arm, but he was not a good hitter. He said he was not a great fielder, but he was a good baserunner.

Burton said he was a good athlete, but he was not a great baseball player. He said he had a good arm, but he was not a good hitter. He said he was not a great fielder, but he was a good baserunner.
Digital Underground
front man goes solo

By Haal Barron
11206 University Blvd.

Jeffrey Mills is the electric violin in one of the biggest bands in the world. The founder of Powerhouse, he has made a name for himself with his unique playing style and innovative approach to music. He was born in Chicago and grew up in a musical family. Mills started playing the violin at a young age and later began experimenting with electronics and other instruments. He eventually formed Powerhouse with his brother, Robert Mills, and they quickly became known for their innovative style and controversial lyrics. Mills has been a source of inspiration for many up-and-coming musicians and his impact on the music world continues to grow. A true musical trailblazer, Jeffrey Mills is a force to be reckoned with in the world of music.
John Cusack pushes tin and noir envelope

By Mark Kennedy

NEW YORK — Black, it would seem, is the operative word in John Cusack’s career.

It’s the color of the 32-year-old actor’s typical character, the way he prefers his suits and the style of filmmaking he embraces: dark, moody and slightly dangerous. But black isn’t exactly Cusack’s personality.

“It’s like this great big lumbering people who run over you if you’re not all over the place,” says the Illinois native, the director of Cusack’s new noir comedy, "Traveling.

“He thinks it’s pure affection and it’s everything in one, it’s fine. What’s happening to you is that you were going to die by the hands of the man who can’t hit a straight stitch.”

Cusack has a reputation for being a hard worker, and he’s been confirmed for an interview with a success hit on a success hit on a success hit. He’s built up a black, the way the sun rose at his back on his head and left his high jet black tops. Like his films, it’s a mix of artistic, social and political views.

In "Traveling," Cusack and Billy Bob Thornton play two taxis, statiscally accurate men who believe in the American dream and in a high-tech contest with the man who can’t hit a straight stitch. Theirs is a story of life, love and the American dream.

"It’s a story about love, about life, about death and the American dream," Cusack says. "It’s a story about the man who can’t hit a straight stitch, about the man who’s looking for a woman in the American dream."

Cusack said he was drawn to the job by the chance to play a role that’s not traditional, one that’s not about acting in traditional roles — they figure it out on their own.

Cusack says his goal is to create characters who have real-world problems and problems that are real-world problems. He’s not a character actor, but rather a character who’s trying to get through the day.

"This woman is in trouble," says Cusack. "It’s a story about a man who can’t hit a straight stitch, a man who’s trying to get through the day and figure things out on his own."

"It’s a story about the man who can’t hit a straight stitch, about the man who’s looking for a woman in the American dream."

"I always said, ‘I’m going to do a film that’s going to be really good. It’s going to be a film that’s going to make you think. It’s going to be a film that’s going to make you laugh. It’s going to be a film that’s going to make you cry. It’s going to be a film that’s going to make you think about life.’"

"I always said, ‘I’m going to do a film that’s going to be really good. It’s going to be a film that’s going to make you think. It’s going to be a film that’s going to make you laugh. It’s going to be a film that’s going to make you cry. It’s going to be a film that’s going to make you think about life.’"

The man who can’t hit a straight stitch.

"I always said, ‘I’m going to do a film that’s going to be really good. It’s going to be a film that’s going to make you think. It’s going to be a film that’s going to make you laugh. It’s going to be a film that’s going to make you cry. It’s going to be a film that’s going to make you think about life.’"
Shooting spurs debate on entertainment's role in violence

By Michael Freeman
Associated Press
DENVER — The Columbine school massacre has intensified a debate over whether the entertainment industry has helped create what some call a culture of violence. Critics cite computer games, music about violence and drugs, and movies and shows about kids who solve their problems with small mind games and murder.

"We can no longer shut our eyes to the dangers of the media in teaching us all of our children and on the potentially violent impact it has on some," first lady Hillary Rodham Clinton said in a speech Thursday at a school in uptown New York.

Similar sentiments have been heard this week by Vice President Al Gore, who addressed the University of Colorado on Friday, the state's secretary in Michigan and a Colorado group calling itself the Movement Against Violent Entertainment.

ASUI PRESIDENT REPORT

The massacre is raising pressures to continue our tradition of the University of Idaho being a safe community. Our campus remains a safe place to live, work and receive education. However, you felt vulnerable at any time, please take advantage of the following resources set up by the ASUI

Check out this resource center and keep you safe with your friends on the 7:00 Period.

Telephonic support is being offered on the north and south of the Administration Building and the MEC.

Please contact Farmhouse Residence at 885-9533 or 885-8464 for an escort service.

Also, I will be requesting the ASUI Senate to pass legislation to $200 to be given as a reward to the individual who brings forth any information leading to the arrest of the individual responsible of these senseless crimes.

A memorial service will be held for Holly Nold, a University of Idaho student who died in a tragic car accident during Thanksgiving Break.

The service will be held on Friday, May 7, 1:30 p.m. at the Liberal Arts Center for the Arts.

The ASUI Production Board will also hold a special performance to raise money for the ASUI Scholarship.

Memorial services will be held for all 13 students, including the 12 students who were killed and the one student who was critically injured.

The ASUI Achievement Awards will be held on Friday evening, August 5, at the College of Forestry, Wildlife and Range Sciences held to honor students for outstanding achievements.

Range Sciences received records of students on Saturday night. Congratulations to all members and recipients.

Also a special congratulations to all high of the University of Idaho, Mark's Track Team. Jeff broke the school record in the hammer throw and set a final record in the Big West Conference.

Other people involved in the school.

Bar and Grill

Mingels

Brand New 22-Foot CHAMPION

SHUFFLEBOARD Table

(smaller size for small spaces)

Come in to Battin's and ask for details.

Don't miss our biggest sale ever...

 hurry in for our biggest sale ever...

Come in to Battin's and ask for details.

Come in to Battin's and ask for details.

Battin's

Battin's

Battin's

Battin's

Battin's

Battin's

Battin's

Battin's

Battin's

Battin's

Battin's

Battin's

Battin's

Battin's

Battin's

Battin's

Battin's

Battin's

Battin's

Battin's

Battin's

Battin's

Battin's

Battin's

Battin's

Battin's

Battin's

Battin's

Battin's

Battin's

Battin's

Battin's

Battin's

Battin's

Battin's