A clever trick employed in cigarette advertising is the illusion that manufacturing processes account for mildness in tobacco. The trick involves setting up a sequence of events that appear to be related to the final product. The illusion is more deceptive and more fun to know.

It is a fact, well known by leaf tobacco experts, that Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobacco than any other popular brand.

This is the most important statement ever made in a cigarette advertisement. Weigh its words. Consider what it means. Smoke Camels critically and learn to appreciate what superior tobacco can mean to you in mildness, in dormance... in added pleasure? Other cigarettes, we believe, will taste flat and insipid to you forever after.

Why is the Stem removed from the tobacco used in Chesterfield?

That's a very simple question to answer. The stem in a tobacco leaf, like the stem in most other plants, is "woody." It has none of the flavor or the aroma that you want when you smoke. And it doesn't burn.

So after tobacco has been properly aged, one of the first things to do is to remove the stem.

But what has this to do with your enjoyment of Chesterfield cigarettes? Just this.

It means that we start right when we make Chesterfield—the right kind of leaf with the stem removed, the right manufacture —everything that science knows that can make CHESTERFIELD a milder cigarette, a cigarette that smokes better.

That's why people say "They Satisfy."
