City Health Officer Bacon Smith Bail—First all-Carroll after Fall

OHER AFFAIRS TO FOLLOW

Junior Prom and Military Ball the University Functions Relieved by the Plan of the City Health Officer to Ban Floats Frolic to Follow. The plan already attracted 60 members to the Prom, which was held last night by W. A. Bacon, City Health Officer. The plan is to stop the promotion of such events which are considered by the Health Office as being dangerous to the health of the citizens.

"Only registered students, students' friends, and students' relatives are allowed to attend," Bacon explained. "If this is not carried out, such events will be cancelled and the Health Office will inform the University of the decision."

The University of Idaho is no longer operating on a peace basis. In facing the new problems that confront the State and the nation, the University is giving—as it has in the past, to its utmost time and energy. The training of men and women to carry on the business of citizenship is proceeding with the same enthusiasm as the training of the soldiers. The University can help every citizen of the state to the utmost of its ability. Write for information to the Dean of the College of Forestry, Mines, Engineering, Agriculture, Law, Art, and Science.

PULLMAN TANK LEAD
A CANDIDATE FOR THE BOWL.

on the last leg of the weekly eastern, Pullman tigers looked as though they were going perfectly. The University of Washington football team made a twenty-three tone of the book go all, or a late season scholastic.

Pullman Forces Past.
In Boise last week, Pullman has two of the speediest forwards which the offensive has seen for some time. Both are accurate shooters, Street mostly all of the points, leading to a victory over the University of Washington.

Oregon at Pullman.
The second Seattle game was a head-fast fight, which Pullman scored over by a score of 22-11.
This game had the usual bombers in a battle of defeat. Tuesday night brought a reversal, however, and a 22-0 overtime battle to the Pullman oil colors.

AIRCRAFT HOSPITAL
STILL DESERTED
Temporary "The Infirmary May Be Washington University Institute.

The Alberich house, used as a nursing hospital, has been vacated and deserted. No influenza has made its appearance since the return of the students, January 6th.
The stage is set and everything is in readiness for the final game, which it is feared will never appear. Teachers have threatened with hospital and shots, strictly, strictly unfit for participation.

There is movement, however, to retain the infirmary as a permanent institution and continue it in operation for this or any symptom which would include several from the outside.

"Girls from out of town approaching
