IDaho GRADS HOLD CAMBRIDGE REUNION

Several Idaho Students New At Cambridge College Have Gone-Back.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald David in Cambridge, England, the visiting students who had just completed their studies were welcomed by the hosts. The reunion was an opportunity for the students to reconnect after their time at Cambridge College.

TERRIFYING STUENTS.

"The Purrsuasion was something

The students were engaged in a game of "Purrsuasion," a thrilling and suspenseful activity that captured their imagination. The game required quick thinking and strategic planning, making it a perfect fit for students looking for a challenge.

CAMPUS ROOMER

When you come in the end of some family, you will have to find a roomer.

The process of finding a roomer could be daunting, but the students at the university had several resources available to them. They could visit the Housing Office, check with friends or classmates, or search online for roomers.

with a "we" in being the facts be- fore their respective societies, and do what they could to make things better so that "this will not happen again." To this, Professor Lewis said: "I wish to thank the gentlemen of the various societies who have been present at this meeting and who have brought to bear their minds to the problems which they have been able to face and work upon in the various societies."

Professor Lewis, the organizer of the T, said that he would now take up the work and that the conference should continue and continue until the end of the conference, until the end of the conference, and that the conference should be continued.
