ASSEMBLY CAMPAIGN
Some five hundred freshmen who are not familiar with our university, the freshman campaign to induce them to take seats in front of the auditories has again started.
Now is a ripe time to put into effect a plan of seating by classes, in order that the future confusion may be avoided. If a rule is adopted for the seating, assemblies will assume a more dignified air and become less like cattle stampeded.
It has been said repeatedly that it is extremely discourteous to seat freshmen with rows of empty seats in front. It looks as though the student body is getting ready for a quick getaway. Yet, since no definite action has been taken, each succeeding group of underclassmen must be nagged at until
The measures are adopted for producing order, upchairs, both by example and by watching underclassmen, can not be a great deal in giving assemblies a more

THE FEEP BAND
The Pep Band, working hard and building up its musi- the University of Idaho known throughout the northwest. It isn't such an easy job they have on their hands. They practice diligently in and out to perfect their music, then play at the games and meet to keep the spirit of the student body going. They stretch the miles that boaters up in a losing fight and a prep's winning to our side when we are winning.
Lively music always ups the crowd, and helps them to a victory. It gives the schools to one that signifies a unity of support behind all of our university activities.
They do their best, and it means a great deal to Idaho.

PROSIH SPIRIT
The freshmen, in starting the tradition of their roll and party, are also showing impressively that they love the university, and the student body is solidly behind them. It may not be important to the big men, but when you consider, they are the foundation for our university spirit and backing.
It is the spirit of the thing that counts. They are winning up the drive that unifies the Idaho student body.
There is something peculiar about mass psychology. This feeling that arises in a rally of this kind somehow brings the undergraduate closer to his college, and gives him a warm feeling of belonging. He comes immediately to believe in it and work for its betterment. It is the whole-hearted back- line that makes for better achievements.

Somehow it fits the underclassmen that know the freedom of the Idaho men, and a real unit in her life. They are doing their part, they stand ready to serve at any time, and they offer a real, red blooded support.

WHEN HENRY RANG THE BELL

JOSEPH HENRY

Born at Albany, N. Y., where he was reared and educated in the Albany Academy. Leading American physicist of his time. First director of the Smithsonian Institution.

When any bell was ever heard around the world, Joseph Henry rang it in his famous experiment at the Albany Academy. The amazing development of the electrical industry traces back to this schoolmaster's coil of insulated wire and his electromagnet that lifted a ton of iron.

Four years later when Morse used Henry's electromagnet to invent the telegraph, the latter had demonstrated that he was a man of wonder and uniquely.

The principle of Henry's coil of wire is utilized by the General Electric Company in motors and generators that light cities, drive railroad trains, do away with household drudgery and perform the work of millions of men.
