Colorado Confers Science Doctorate
On Dean Thomson of School Mines

"The Colorado School of Mines recently conferred its 924th Doctor of Philosophy degree on Dean Thomson, dean of School Mines. Thomson has been a member of the faculty at the school for over 20 years and has made significant contributions to the field of geology.

The ceremony took place on the campus of the university, where Thomson was presented with the degree by President A. A. Davis. Thomson is currently serving as the president of the American Geological Institute and is a member of several other professional organizations.

The university has a long history of producing successful professionals, and Thomson's appointment as dean is a testament to the institution's commitment to excellence in education and research.

Southern Idahoans Realize The Value
Of State University

There is a growing appreciation for the value of the State University among Southern Idahoans, according to recent surveys. The surveys revealed that a majority of respondents believe that the university offers a valuable educational experience.

The results of the surveys were presented at a recent meeting of the State University Alumni Association. The association has been working to increase awareness of the university's value and to encourage more students to enroll.

In addition to providing high-quality education, the university also offers a range of community programs and services that benefit the local community. These programs include tutoring, research opportunities, and cultural events.

The university's value is recognized by many in the community, and efforts are underway to increase the university's visibility and to attract more students.

MEMORIAL DAY

It is a holiday—it is a day to remember, to honor the soldier who gave his life for his country.

Now and then a soldier is killed in battle, but the soldier is not forgotten. He is remembered by his family, friends, and the nation. The nation remembers him by decorating his grave with flowers and placing a flag on it.

To University of Idaho students the day should be a day of reflection and gratitude for the sacrifice made by American soldiers who gave their lives in defense of the United States.

We are proud of those who gave their lives, and we are grateful for the sacrifice they made.

ATHLETIC DEPARTMENT THANKS PROFESSOR TOSSEL

The athletic department desires to express its appreciation for the services that Professor Tosssel rendered to the University of Idaho in the capacity of mining engineer and professor of mining engineering.

Professor Tosssel was an excellent teacher and a great influence on the students. He was known for his patience and understanding, and he always made an effort to help his students.

The University of Idaho will sorely miss Professor Tosssel, and we hope that his memory will continue to live on through the generations of students who were fortunate enough to have him as their mentor.
