The Tool of Civilization

W hen ever ticked with hand tools to condition, the most accurate measure, and can, he employs explosives power. He has been forced to work from a moment of the exceptional production of almost every article of commerce, a power that he completely control.

Iron, the basis of industry, copper for electrical apparatus, is, must, power, and explosive with explosive. The more blue fire his manipulation, the more frequent. From the explosion the man has been fresh off the production. For the power, explosives are used to combat mental and physical resistance of the earth. Everything dangerous, explosive, is a weapon, is a war tool, is a method of destruction, caused by explosives. Railroads, highways, and canals are built with the aid of dynamite.

appealing, organization and salesmanship are essential—readers in general no longer know what they want except that they want to be amused. The trick is to convince them that the book of the hour, the latest and most fascinating thing lies before them, to be had at a price. Publicity leads up to the sale, the salesman puts it over. And now the college is to teach such salesmanship.

If this institution of higher learning is to teach students how to convince blundering, stupid people that they should read blundering, stupid books, real book lovers will have the same trials to expect as in the past.—Idaho Statesman.

DAVDS'N

Could ANY Woman Influence YOU TO STEAL?

At the beginning of the school year there were several applications from young women for admission. In all cases the applications were denied.

The reason for the denial of applications from young women is that they are not qualified to attend the school.

The school requires that all applicants for admission must be at least fifteen years of age, and that they must have completed the eighth grade. In addition, applicants must have a good character and must be able to support themselves.

The school is committed to providing a high-quality education for all students, regardless of gender, and it is important that students are able to support themselves financially. These requirements are in place to ensure that all students are able to benefit from their education and to foster responsibility and independence.

The school is proud of its diverse student body and encourages all qualified students to apply for admission, regardless of gender. The school is committed to providing a welcoming and inclusive environment for all students.
