A NNUAL campus day is scheduled next Wednesday, and with its coming the usual wild tales of suffering and hardship and grueling labor imposed upon the campus by the ever pending threat of tyrannical regulations and inexorable upperclassmen. A campus day has even been known to suffer permanent, or even temporary injury as a result of campus day participation, except perhaps, those few deboned souls who are on their memorable days, and have given the water cure.

Mr. Carter, you are a curse, or none even a necessary evil, for campus day offers opportunity for the practical expression of the resolutions and conceptions of the students that might be derived by them from their state university. Realization of the fact that the students and stewards of the university government and buildings have the obligation to them is very beautiful. And one day set aside for in order to heighten the romantic atmosphere, before you live is not too much to ask of anyone. Students, this is your home, and as such is it necessary for you to understand the service or service of the day.

So be it committee or individual task to which you are assigned, consider your university and assume your share of the great obligation.

The first man to water from gases

Henry Cavendish, an econdomic millionaire recluse, who devoted his life to research, was the discoverer of the H and the 0 in H 0. In fact he first told the Royal Society of the existence of hydrogen.

He found what water was by making it himself, and so became one of the first of the synthetic chemists.

Cavendish concluded that the atmosphere contained elements then unknown. His conclusion has led to the discovery of argon and other gases.

The Research Laboratories of the General Electric Company have found a use for argon in developing lamps hundreds of times brighter than the guttering candles which lighted Cavendish's laboratory.
