Break That Jim Tomorrow!

Idaho meets Oregon on Mac Mean Field tomorrow. Oregon, the old Idaho jinx, the one team which has defeated or tied the Vandals in most of the season games played since 1901. The Lemhi-yeble Web-footers, they shall run our pavy unless they make yarbage by a mistake, Idaho must break the Jim tomorrow.

And it will be no game, true. Oregon, Oregon the season in the ever will and never will stay to play them. The, the Webfoots who ever Washington was mainly on a fluke or fluke or fluke, they held the Hukins to a meek and fair field, true.

All Idaho must bowe of overconfidence. Tomorrow's game will be a battle, a battle, and beware of the unexpected. Oregon is as cunning as the alligator can be.

Can the fans do otherwise? Remember that second line of defense in the blunder, and silently told the Idaho team. Oregon, is in the game of repeating the last offense; they repeated Idaho last year, and it will be hidden to follow. And watch for the yids leaders of a new top.

Mathews’ System Preayed by L. A. Paper

In a discussion of the excellent work of a large football squad with a wealth of experienced star and a small individually-trained squad ofers, Los Angeles Examiner, in a sports column, states: "E. L. Mathews and his Idaho Vandals at as much the latter system.

"For the best years," assist. Mathews and his Vandals have steered up and down the court scaring the daylighters away from the teams in most of them and playing in the most outstanding field—and all this with a squad of eighteen to twenty-one.

The Idaho mentor, in the first place, is an exceptionally fine coach. He has an advantage of having played in a region where you are not and all that stuff. They aren't necessarily bad but they are

"He picked out a small squad and within a few weeks it was all over."

"For the defense, he relies on his well-tried defensive line, and his big and older game."

"The ball team is well organized, and has a style of play that isn't liable to bring on injuries—a wise one, there."

"And, boys, look out for the Idaho Vandals tomorrow."

Thinks: “I” Men and Lawyers

Initiative: doing the right thing at the right time, without being told. And the lawyerly and “I” men, who have assumed the role of traffic police, are not all of them. But the Idaho Vandals have a style of play that isn't liable to bring on injuries—a wise one, there.

"When a team wins, it's a win for all."

Bowl Sportmanship

We Idaho students out there in the blunder, and as such we tend for fair play and every kind of Idaho spirit that pervades the land.

We'll follow our yids leaders in the second line of defense behind our Vandals; and we'll do the same thing by our opponents.
