The Boise Argonaut

With this issue The Argonaut returns home after an interesting few days spent in Idaho's capital city. The success of the second Boise Argonaut University Must be determined by those who saw and read it; but its purpose is perhaps more aptly expressed in a familiar adage appearing therein which read in part:

by the Idaho Vandals and the Nevada Wolves. Be it ever in the paramount interest. But the Boise Argonaut aims at no more than merely giving details and highlights of the Thanksgiving-day game. But behind the school lay brick horticulture, and law score, there exists a colorful shifting background painted by one of the most promising and attractive campuses in America. And campus life. particularly at the University of Idaho and now, college life in the midst of a state university, has been a picture of the more interesting and vivid. Some of the things are helpful to build the minds and imaginations of young people. Our critics read them carefully; try to find their significance, estimate their immeasurable value in the minds and imaginations of our young people—and then doubly for yourself whether or not the University of Idaho deserves your im-

BOTHER ARGONAUT

Also with this issue. The Argonaut presents in its first and second front pages the programs of the University of Idaho. The courses are of necessity, intricate and tedious because of its monumental nature. The Argonaut really believes that the selections listed here are important as possible, and represent fairly well the courses for which footballers on the Idaho campus.

What's the use of artificial lighting?

It is mainly experimental, says General Electric scientists to solve high power transmission problems. Many such experiments yield no immediate return.

But in the long run this work is practical and important. It is part of the study which must go on unceasingly if this powerful force, Electricity, is to be fully tamed and enlisted in our service.
Vandals' Victory Summarized

Idaho's 601-pound tackle, the patient Idahoan who owned the ball more than two hours and finally got the kick-in of a 24-yard field goal, showed the power and endurance of Idaho's football team. The Vandals' victory over Nevada in the last two minutes of the game was due to the efforts of Idaho's potent offense, which was kept in check throughout much of the game by Nevada's defense. Idaho's running game was effective, and their receivers made several key plays, including a 25-yard touchdown pass to end the game.

Vandal's Victory

Standout Idaho players included L. R. Stephans, the varsity quarterback, who directed the offense; R. D. Stephans, the varsity fullback, who ran for several touchdowns; and George Vesser, the varsity center, who was instrumental in blocking and pancaking the Nevada defense. Idaho's defense was led by Idaho's 100-pound end, who broke up several passes and forced Nevada to punt several times.

In summary, Idaho's victory over Nevada was due to the team's ability to execute their game plan effectively, while Nevada was unable to capitalise on their opportunities. Idaho's victory ensures them a strong position in the conference standings and sets them up for another successful season.
