The Rembling Spotlight

February, the month when the rains begin to fall, is also the month when the doldrums strike. The spell of gloom seems to be produced by Mr. Maudsley L. and further multiplied by the weather people.

This production, although it has the usual effects in increasing the drizzle, adds a few more to the list of gloomy effects also. In the first place, the drizzle does not do any good, and in the second place, it is very dull. The gloom tends to make us feel like staying inside, and the drizzle only adds to our sense of discomfort.

The gloom is intensified further by the fact that the weather people are also in a gloomy mood. This is true of Mr. Maudsley L. and the weather people in general. They seem to be in a bad mood and are not inclined to improve the weather.

The gloom and drizzle make life very unpleasant. The weather people are not helping anything by their gloomy attitude. They are not doing their job properly, and it is time they were replaced by someone who is more experienced and capable.
