Houses and Halls Make Repairs

During the past summer all the houses and halls made extensive repairs and paint work program for the buildings. House and hall officials have been busy with these activities. The halls and houses have been well maintained and are in a satisfactory condition. The students have been pleased with the work done.

Remodeled Kitchens

Another major improvement has been the addition of new cooking facilities. The old kitchen facilities have been replaced with modern, efficient equipment. This has provided a significant improvement in the living conditions for the students.

The new kitchens have been equipped with modern appliances and are easily accessible to the students.

Colonel Hatfield Takes Command Idaho R.O.T.C.

Col. Floyd Hatfield serves as the new head of the Idaho R.O.T.C. program. He has been appointed by the university administration.

Hatfield brings with him extensive experience in military affairs. He is a graduate of West Point and has served in various capacities within the military.

The R.O.T.C. program is an integral part of the university's curriculum and prepares students for careers in the military.

College men praise their new leader.

They speak highly of Hatfield's leadership abilities and his dedication to the program. The students are looking forward to working with him and believe he will be a great asset to the program.

Student Handles Case of Jobless Family

The student union has been active in helping a family in need. The family, which has been homeless for several months, has been provided with temporary housing and assistance.

The student union has also been working with the local government to provide further aid to the family.

The union's efforts have been appreciated by the family and have helped to improve their situation.

American Slang Totally Stumps
Our German Interchange Student

English classes are proving to be a challenge for our German student. He is finding it difficult to understand the nuances of our language, particularly when it comes to idiomatic expressions.

The student has been working hard to improve his understanding of English, but he is still struggling with some of the more complex aspects of the language.

The university is providing extra support to help the student succeed, including additional tutoring and language practice opportunities.

The student's progress is being closely monitored by his teachers and staff, who are committed to helping him achieve his goals.

Idaho Looks Forward To W.S.C. Encounter

Starting the season off on the right foot for the Vandals, coach Don Rockstad is all fired up for the Idaho State College trip this coming weekend. Last Saturday while the Vandals were destroying the University of Montana, the Cougars battled the Galena Buildings to the end. The Vandals didn’t come out of the game unscathed. Rockstad was frequently shown the red card by the officials, but did not blame them for the Vandals’ woes. The Boise State football team has had a long list of injuries, and Rockstad is trying to build a team that can play more than one game.

Vandals Beat Oregon State

Idaho’s new season will be marked by the game against the Oregon State Beaver. Idaho beat Oregon State 22-0, so Idaho fans were delighted to see their team win.

Frosh Practice Starts Monday

The Vandals, led by Coach Rockstad, practiced Monday afternoon at the Idaho State College. Many fans were present, and the team was seen running on the field.

Vandals Beat Oregon State

Idaho’s new season will begin against the Oregon State Beaver. The game was fought on the Idaho State field, and Idaho went on to beat Oregon State.

From The Bench:

By Bill Johnson

I think it’s sad how many people don’t go to the games. It’s a shame, we’ve been doing this for so long. The fans have been there to support us, but we haven’t gotten the same support back.

Immunals Tickets On Sale Today

Student tickets to the Idaho State College football game will be released today. The game is against the University of Washington, who has won the last five games against Idaho State.
