Vandal Cagers Seek Second Victory over Cougars Tomorrow Night

Reserves Press Regulars for Starting Positions; Team Defeated Gonzaga Monday

University of Idaho’s Vandal cagers, seeking their second victory over the Cougars and their second in conference play, will meet Washington State tomorrow night at 7:30 in the Memorial gymnasium as host before a loaded Vandal card.

Tomorrow night’s game is the team’s third meeting season between the two teams; match number two.

"With anna and the strain of coming in 1-1, I believe we can settle down and start winning some more ball games." Coach Forest Twigard said today. The team has been mentally depressed over the Gonzaga game, believing that they should have had one of them, and that was one of the reasons last but not least, in the team’s eight game hard hitting run, too.

We have looked for all week in practice. English and Hopkins fix the fibre structure hard for positions, as are Price and Smith.

Boboham, Kittitas.

"Washington State is definitely one of our slump-town, and they are playing good ball," Twigard said. "The Cougars looked very good against Washington State. They are the best they have been for the rest of the season.

Practice was held behind lock doors this week to assure concentration and stop the leakage of the game.

Starting Enter for Saturday’s game was not available today, and he is believed that it will be the same that started last week, and Hart as third baseman at first base.
