Student's and Profs' Lead Moscow Scout World

Among the most praiseworthy, yet least heralded, campus men are the members of the University of Idaho's official student council, students and students who help keep the wheels of Moscow's Boy Scouts world rolling. Three of them, some of whom spend as many as 10 hours a week in scout work, are as virtually everything from scout ceremonies to uniforms.

Senior scout master from the Idaho student body is Charles Berthold, active in the Moscow council since 1929. Berthold, Vernon Rumble, Dick Kettle and Bill Boyer have been scout leaders in the Moscow area for three years, and the boys they lead come from all parts of the state. The Moscow council operates some 1,500 boys, and some 15 adult scout leaders.

Vernon Rumble, the youngest of the council's leaders, has been in charge of the council's activities since 1932. He is also a member of the Idaho State University student council.

Edward V. Smith, chairman of the district council, is a member of the council's local chapter.

Chief scoutmaster is William Williams, scoutmaster of the Moscow district. The men of the council are supervised by a scouting commissioner, who is an Idaho state university student council member.

The Moscow council has a total membership of 1,500 boys, and some 15 adult scout leaders.

Foresters Declare State's Location Most Popular Tree

Black locust is the most popular tree of the state, according to a study of trees conducted by a forester. The tree is found throughout the state, and is especially common in the eastern part of Idaho. Approximately 90 percent of the state's trees are black locusts, which are easy to grow and care for. The tree's leaves are also very popular, and are used in the making of fence posts, stakes, and other items.

Dr. B. C. Bright, forester at Moscow, reported that black locust is the most popular tree in the state. He said that the tree is found in all parts of the state, and is especially common in the eastern part of Idaho. The tree is easy to grow and care for, and its leaves are very popular, being used in the making of fence posts, stakes, and other items.

Randy Ryan Sends 40 Idaho Ovalsists For Dual Meet with Whitman

Coach Rates Team Strong in Relays, Middle and Long Distance Runs

Undaunted by the sudden turn in spring weather, the Idaho Distance team will leave early Sunday morning for Pullman, Washington and the annual meet with the Whitman Indians on their secret instrument Tuesday and Wednesday. The team is confident that they will make the trip. The trip to the Grant passed an overcast sky with the sun peeking out at times. The conditions were not too bad, but the team was glad to get away.

Coach Ryan said the team in the Idaho distance was continued on the relay, middle, and long-distance events. The times, widths, and jumps are all no better, but stronger, and will be used as the basis for the team's record.

Snow Introduces Grips Grid Practice

Student practice formed in Idaho's Van Deusen was not expected to come to an abrupt end, but the time on the snow has been cut down to 14 days of practice allowed by the university. "With the field too soft to play, our scheduled activities have been postponed until a later date," Coach Van Deusen said. "The snow, as far as possible, will not affect our daily practices."

The track team is expected to begin their practice on March 20, and will be in full gear for the first time in 30 days. The athletes will be able to practice as usual, and the team will be ready to leave May 5 on a trip of about 1,000 miles.

Sixteen Hooters Begin Practice

As the leaves fall by falling from the trees and the leaves begin to carpet the ground, the track team is expected to begin their practice on March 20. The team will be ready to leave May 5 on a trip of about 1,000 miles.

The team consists of fourteen athletes, all in their mid-teens, and they will be ready to compete in the upcoming track meets.
