Inboise... it's ralph davis

You'll be in Boise for the game this weekend and the next one. Ralph Davis, Men's store. Let's make it a date, now. ... for Ralph knows what you call him, like he's got a God's gift to the store. He can get you a suit... you'll pop a couple of vest buttons from flatlay when you get back to the campus.

The racks are full of swell suits which you'll want to see... as well as the necessities to go with them—colorful neckwear, shirts, sweaters and Bostonian argylls (the college men's rough, henry type). Don't forget—it's a date—and we'll see you this weekend. And here's hoping Idaho smoothers the Utah!
Vandals Lay Plans for Utah Redskins
After Losing Gonzaga Game 19-0

Bank Schedules Heavy Drills On Varsity Offensive Plays

Their grid machine slows down to a mere crawl in their last two games, University of Idaho Vandals must work on a new drill schedule this week. They are scheduled for a visit to the University of Utah Saturday at Boise. Completely outmatched at Spokane Friday, the Vandals incurated practice all week this week.

"The team is terrible in all phases of game, both offense and defense both now," said Larry Morgan, head coach.

"Our defense was greatly improved the last two times we played them. We are still working on the business end of the game, but I've got to be on top of the game against Utah. Utah will not be any easier to fight against as their offense hasn't picked this week, but we are due. Turning, tackling and running plays won't be hard. Friday training will be to be weak as we are due for a thorough practice." Offensive and defensive strategies are on deck for all week. Pain offense and defense will all be studied in practice.

The Vandals come through the Idaho game with no major injuries. One major casualty for the Vandals tonight against the Grand Canyon Indians. It is still doubtful whether Bing Fosdick, tackle, or Ted Kurtz will be in the Idaho game, according to Trainer Mike Ryan. Both are still listed as being injured.
