To the Editor:

The story concerning the death of John Archbold Jackson is a fine example of the injustice of the United States Tax Court. Mr. Jackson was a prominent lawyer and a respected citizen of our community. Here is the story.

Jackson had a successful career in law, and was well known for his dedication to his clients. He had a large law firm, and was widely respected for his knowledge of the law. He was also known for his charitable works, and had donated a large sum of money to various charities.

Unfortunately, Jackson's career was cut short by a recent tax court decision. The court ruled that Jackson owed a large sum of money to the government, despite the fact that he had already paid all the taxes due. This decision is not only unfair, but also incorrect.

Jackson's family is outraged by this decision, and is seeking a fair and just resolution. They are seeking help from the community to bring attention to this issue.

Sincerely,
