Dream About To Come True

"If you dream it, you can make it happen." This is the philosophy that guides the state of Idaho. A field house at the university will soon be finished, but its future is uncertain. The university may have to find a new location for the facility.

Vandal football players can loosen up their throwing arms and practice, thanks to the new facility. The field house will be located in the southern part of the city and will include a locker room, weight room, and indoor track.

The question high in the minds of students who have NaN due to ongoing budget cuts and management without an end?"

The university administration has already made the necessary steps to complete the field house. The facility is scheduled to be finished before the spring season begins. All that remains is for the university to secure funds for the remaining costs.

Guidance Tests Are A Big Help

Many students waste months and even years of their college careers pursuing the wrong objectives. They often find out too late that they made a mistake in choosing their major. This is why guidance testing is so important.

The guidance testing services offered by the university are available to all students. The tests help students identify their strengths and weaknesses, as well as their potential career paths.

Teacher Demand Increases;

"The demand for teachers is growing at a rapid pace. More and more students are choosing to become teachers. This is great news for the future of education in Idaho."
