SUB Changes On Schedule: Gem Office Now Moving

Despite heavy winter storms and subzero weather conditions, it is taking longer than expected to complete the Gem office. In fact, several members of the Gem staff will be flown to Arkansas to work with the Gem company in February.

University officials announced that the Gem office will be moved to its new location on the 13th floor of the Union Building later than originally planned. A Gem company official said that around six months of the January Gem office location will be completed. However, the Gem office will not open until late in the spring.

The Gem office is being moved to accommodate the Gem’s growing membership. The Gem company has received many complaints from students about the Gem office being crowded and noisy.

In a statement, Gem President Beverly Rolsfon said, “We appreciate the patience of our students and look forward to a smooth transition to our new location.”
