New Report On Flying Saucers

Many people have tried to explain what sort of phenomena that they have been seeing in the sky over recent years. The latest explanation was made by Henry Taylor, who has said that there are two types of unidentified air vehicles. These are called "flying saucers" and "flying discs." He said that there are other possibilities as well, but these two are the most prevalent.

Taylor also claims that when the government is ready to release the information, it will be "the most wonderful story ever told for our country." He stated that the Navy is experimenting with "flying discs" and that they are making progress.

Just last week we were told by the government officials that there were no possibilities to the "flying saucer mystery."

The mystery has been baffling the U. S. citizens. A foreign power is experimenting in this type of activity. The possibilities are endless for the citizens, and you can't get a straight answer from the U. S. Weather Bureau about flying saucers.

Tubbing Season Is Open

Last week marked the opening of the tubing season, and we are all excited about it. The snow was perfect this year, and the ski slopes were well groomed. The slopes were in good condition, and the tubing was a lot of fun. The weather was cold, and the snow was thick. The tubing is a great way to get exercise and have fun in the winter.
