Argonaut May Be Changed To Larger-Sized Weekly

The possibility that the Argonaut may suspend publication of one issue a week and return to the standard-sized format next week at the ASUI spring meeting Tuesday night by Graduate Manager Perry Culp, Jr. Culp pointed out that because of the anticipated drop in enrollment, the lack of expected enrollment increase to school, and the anticipated drop in advertising receipts made the Argonaut may be forced to publish only one issue a week, in order to save money. Turning to a weekly basis would be possible only by an ASUI constitutional amendment. A special executive board meeting has been called for Saturday evening at 7 o'clock to discuss further the possibility of changes.

Drop Paying Jobs

The dropping of two paying jobs concerning the Argonaut and the Argonaut Cooperative was announced by Culp. The positions to be dropped from the payroll would be the sports editorship and the news editorship. Both positions now pay $1.00 an issue. The constitutional amendment also would be able to pay for the extra editors, if the ASUI President Harry Lewles indicated that the executive board may find it necessary to increase the current editors' pay.

Dean Jeffers

The executive board voted to recommend to President Harrison C. Dale, Jr., and Dean H. S. Jeffers of the school of forestry to be recommended to the ASUI. Dean Jeffers has served as faculty advisor for several years.

Appointed to Rally Committee

Mr. and Mrs. Gene Bassett, who were appointed to the rally committee for the recent Homecoming, were reappointed by President Fred C. Garner, who is the chairman of the committee.

Communicate Comment

On Wednesday, Sir Stafford Cripps lived up to the best old-time British tradition in his new role as defender of Prime Minister Churchill for the latter's conduct of the war effort. His speech is a timely reminder of the Tory premier's loyalty to his party, to the principle of Cabinet unity and to his unselfish desire to preserve harmony. The speech was well received by the House of Commons. Churchill's policy of continuing the war, which some of his colleagues believe, is the main reason for his support of the prime minister.

Despite the recent victories of Coalition candidates at parliamentary elections, it is believed that large sections of the British electorate are not satisfied with the progress of their country's war in this spring of 1942. Casualty attacks on the American battlefront and in Libya continue to increase. Serious defects in the war-time government controls are becoming more frequent. Serious difficulties in the preparations for defense against a German invasion have been uncovered. Editors and reporters are ruffled by the rigidity of war-time restrictions on the expression of opinions critical of the war effort.

Britain's present House of Commons with its large Tory majority was elected in November, 1935. A month later, the House-Lavish Passes and a heavy debt in the prestige of the Conservative Party. Four years later, the failure of appeasement deals brought in any British in Neville Chamberlain and his Tory colleagues. The average age of the members of the House is over 60, while the average age of militant actions is under 30. The average age of the middle-aged contains largely by the men and women under 40. The young group is weary of promises that lead only to further promises. It is weary of the promises of "strategy," of "operation," of "war," of "peace." The entrance of Cripps into the War Cabinet in February raised some hopes, but even Sir Stafford's own supporters at Westminster. The Cabinet can cut this action from a ministry and a Commons dominated by the party machines of the pre-war period.

Strains in the winds over Central Europe indicate that Hitler may be planning an invasion of England for the summer. The young, paralytic, and parasite groups in large numbers. If that assault comes, Churchill can be certain that his countrymen will show the same enthusiasm that they showed in 1940. Britishers today recognize that 1942 may bring a belligerent to their homeland that will make 1940 seem childlike. This realization makes them all the more determined to see that the laxness and complacency that helped to lose Singapore and Burma are not undermining the effectiveness of their own defense.

probable starter for the first game of the Washington series here. Berlitz went on the Idaho mound in each of two games as a relief picher against OSC, winning one.

On other positions on the team he will be used, said Coach Wicks, and do not expect that Jim Patena may be reherited to the Idaho club by Rudy
Ryan if Washington's Coach Tyler
Grubbies should use a porridge pitcher against the Vandals.

Coach Mike Ryan Predicts Close Race In Northern Division Track Meet

A seventeen-man Vandals track team left early this morning for the northern division track and field championships. The Vandals placed third last year in these meets, and are favored to win this year.

Mike Ryan prescribed a program of rest for the Idaho Bluehens this week. He's keeping them out of the slumps which has followed the team since the first of the year. Tuesday workouts were held Wednesday and Thursday when the Bluehens were scheduled Monday and Tuesday.

Clark Injured.

The Idaho squad was still plagued by minor injuries but no one broke any legs. The Husky squad has been unable to work out all week, and whether his leg will be able to compete in the division test was still problematic. Clark was unable to run Montana's 100-yard dash Saturday afternoon after winning the 100-yard dash in 20 seconds.

All six northern division students are allowed to compete, even if everyone of them is a possibility to win the title, said Ryan. If the Vandals perform up to their early season standards for their age group, they might have won the title, the Idaho mentor stated.

These Idaho trackmen have turned in the best marks in their respective events in the inter-divisional competition. Mike Anderson's 120-foot disc throw is the best record set in the northern division this year. Anderson and Duval are defending northern division champions in the discus and mile respectively.

Defending Champs.

Other defending champions are Johnny Dyer of Washington, who has won the 170-yard dash, Pat Haley of WSC in the 300-yard run, and Leslie Smith of Oregon in the shot put and the discus. Members of the Idaho traveling squad are Clark, Dyer, and Dufy.

The Vandals have met Oregon, Wash., and Washington State in conference play this season, but have not won in any of these events.

NAMED GRAND FEAST

Dean G. Ehrmansthal, director of the department of modern languages, was named grand priest of the Royal Arch Masons during the four-day convention of the three major organizations in Washington. The convention was opened by Dean Lewis, LaVell Bernard, Charles Goett, Ben Newlin, and Calvin Steele. Engineer and Munsey and Ryan will accompany the team.

Clunix meet of the Vandals track season comes tomorrow in Seattle when Mike Ryan's squad finds itself out of the other northern division schools in the championships meet. Northern division schools have little chance to come out on top in the Pacific coast meet, so team honors are still at stake in divisional championship.

Idaho fans have had little chance to see the Vandals in action this year. Both home meets, against WSC and OSC, were rained out, and contests with foreign to track meet weather. This is a tough break for the Vandals cinder enthusiasts because Idaho chances for a victory this year are the best in years.

The meet looks as a wide-open six team fight, with every school gunning for honors. Mike Ryan's Vandals should have the material, and with the few necessary breaks they should come through, despite injuries to key men, Washington, playing has been best school in the rankings favorite but the meet will be close, and we've come up with the dope that the Vandals will come out on top.

After a careful event by event survey through our crystal ball we've decided that the final results will be as follows:

100-yard dash—First, Clark, Idaho; second, Smith, Wash.; third, Scott, Montana; fourth, Gray, OSC.

220-yard dash—First, Smith, Wash.; second, and Kampf, Montana; third, OSC; fourth, Smith, Montana.

100-yard run—First, Long, Wash.; second, Fairbanks, Montana; third, Blatt, OSC; fourth, Bowers, WSC.

220-yard low hurdles—First, Haley, OSC; second, Butler, OSC; third, Tovetich, Montana; fourth, Farrell, Wash.

Shot put—First, Londos, WSC; second, Bell, Idaho; third, Harrison, Wash.; fourth, Robinson, Wash.; fifth, Nesbitt, OSC; sixth, Oregon.

Discus—First, Anderson, Idaho; second, Chawson, Montana; third, Yantis, Wash.; fourth, and Bell, Idaho.

High jump—First, Findlay, OSC; second, Newland, Wash.; third, Dyer, Wash.; fourth, and Mandic, OSC (tie).

Pole vault—First, Thomas, OSC; second, Read, Idaho, Nail, Wash., and Frakes, OSC (tie).

Broad jump—First, Findlay, OSC; second, Yovetch, Montana; third, McCrae, WSC; fourth, Waiton, Idaho, and Craig, Oregon.

Mile relay—First, Montana; second, Washington; third, OSC; fourth, Idaho.

And they'll take all the honors. The Vandals can get out to pull through. The competition will be tough and a few points either way may mean the difference in which school wins. One of the worst breaks to hit the Idaho squad was the leg injury at sprimage Dale Clark. Clark, leading by four yards at the yard marker in the 100-yard dash at Mississippi last week, found the muscles in his left leg tightening up. He still won the race by a head start from Grizzly speedster Arnold Scott in 9.9 seconds, but was forced to withdraw from the 220-yard dash. Whether Clark will be able to run at all this year is still in doubt. Loss of valuable points in the sprinting would put a damper on the Idaho cause.

After Idaho had opened its season by running roughshod over Washington State it looked like the Vandals were in an division titleholders. Since then the situation has become blacker and blacker. Injuries, lack of experienced, head weather, and inconsistency have all shown up in the last two meets. Bob White, one of the coast's best milers last year, has yet to turn in a good showing this year. Perhaps Saturday is the day when the tables will turn. Let's hope so.
