Vandals In Back In Pacific Conference After Absence Of 7 Years

Idaho moved back into the Pacific Coast conference this year after a seven-year absence. The Vandals, who were a Pacific Coast school for several years in the 1930's and 1940's, began league play against the California, Oregon and Washington schools.

Oklahoma State was the first home game for Idaho, and the Vandals proved that they are a strong team. Oregon was scheduled for Idaho November 21. Starting with the Vandals in the league, the Idaho team is one of the few who have the luck of playing at home.

The Vandals, who were quick and alert, played well and showed that they are potential winners in the conference. The Idaho team is well coached and has a good nucleus of players.

The Idaho team is expected to do well in the conference, and it is hoped that they will be able to maintain their high standard of play.
