Communique Comment

Churchill's speech of last Sunday showed that the Conservative party is alive to the main currents of opinion in his own country. Britons have a right to expect such awareness from a seasoned politician who has twice changed his party allegiance. The Tory chief failed, however, to display in his address a statesmanlike appreciation of the trend of developments in Asia, where the chances for ultimate victory are less bright at this time than in Europe.

The words of the prime minister on domestic issues add up to a curious effort to convince the people of the United Kingdom that his government is sincerely committed to the support of the main features of the Recovery Plan. By the Commons vote of February 18 on the cabinet's stand concerning Sir William's famous report, Churchill and his fellow-ministers were forced to realize that Britons of all classes expect from the coal-tion government a more vigorous handling of the problem of post-war reconstruction. The premier's outline of his Four-Year Plan for a new Britain took up general principles rather than specific methods. But his tone indicated that he will guide his colleagues deeper into the maze of national planning for social security if he feels continued pressure from the public.

The comments made by Churchill on the Far East may signify that he is conscious of the political aspects of the Asiatic problem can wait until a military decision has been won over the Axis in Europe. The premier may have been led into this belief by the recent "victory" of Viceroy Lord Litlithgow over the fastidious Gandhi and by the success of the police and the British army in keeping India quiet through a critical winter. Churchill may come to regret his failure to promote a new and more democratic order to the millions of the East as well as to the masses of Britain. Important leaders of Asiatic nationalism are losing faith in the Anglo-American cause. As the war goes on, more and more Allied in troops are being used not to fight the Axis or Japan but to police Asiatic and African countries where there is danger of uprisings and rebellion that demand freedom from British or French control. This is a harsh commentary on the agreements and plans of the Atlantic Charter; it is being disputed by the propaganda mills of Berlin and Tokyo.

Diamondmams Open Season Against Whitman Nine

By Bertie Poller

Buried transportation facilities, the war, and the lack of man-power have given rise to the feeble notion that several northern division schools would not carry out their schedule commitments this spring. One school has already served notice that gulf and tensis are not for the duration. At the same time it has strongly hinted it might not make any extended bandwagon trips.

Other schools plan to carry on as usual and expect to enter teams in all spring sports. One of these schools has become very indignant at the thought that conference schedules may not be followed. This school insists that authority from the conference is needed to abandon the schedules.

This corner will not venture to decide what is right and what is wrong. The decision rests with those "in the know" on the question. However, the decision should be made, and made soon. The confusion and good info effect in less than a month and the schools concerned should know where they stand before that time. If it is decided to abandon the schedules set up last year, they must know time to make other arrange- ments.

Let's promise each school to try and solve the problem in time. Your advice be- lies a conference meeting is needed immediately to iron out the situation. The policy from the conference itself would clear away the clouds befog- ging the issue and allow the schools freedom of action.

The Diamondmams have issues together with their ace Pete Marillo, Jack Navicki and Tom Woods. The leftfield with Howard Cooper, Bob Barbour, Leonard Fynn, Ray Davis, Tony Pederson, and Ervin Kenanof, under John Ryan, Matt LeVin and Bob Vanderheer will make up the outfield.

Schedules

Athletic Director George Greene released the following schedules for the first spring sports.

Baseball: April 14-15, OSC at Carville; April 16-17, Oregon at Eugene; April 16, Washington at Seattle; April 20, OSC at Moscow; April 27, OSC at Pullman; May 1, OSC at Colville; May 2, OSC at Pullman; May 3, OSC at Moscow; May 7-8, Oregon at Moscow; May 14-15, Washington at Moscow; May 21, OSC at Pullman; Track - April 24, OSC at Pullman; May 1, OSC at Colville; May 22, Northern Division at Seattle.

Tennis: April 17, OSC at Moscow; April 20, OSC at Pullman; April 24, Oregon at Moscow; May 1, Washington at Seattle; May 8, OSC at Pullman; May 22, Northern Division at Spokane.

Champion ships to be held, April 17-18, OSC at Pullman; April 24-25, OSC at Moscow; May 1-21, OSC at Pullman; May 1, OSC at Colville; May 22, OSC at Pullman.

Spring sports will be combined with the games played.

The Diamondmams have agreed to two addition teams this spring, Mike Ryan, Vandal track coach, reported last week. First meeting between Vandal and Delta conference will take place in the WSC field house April 15 and the second April 16, also in Pullman.

The April 3 meeting between DIa and WSC schools will be a dual meet, while the second will be a relays meet. This will mark the first time the opponents have met in dual competition and will mark the first time a relay meet has ever been held in the Inland Empire. These meets are in addition to the regular conference dual meet between the Vandals and Beavers scheduled for Pullman on April 24.

Although Whitman is also sched- uled to oppose the string of events, the date for the meet has not been set. However, Rypen reported yesterday that the Mammalian have been contacted again and that in all probability a date will be de- cided upon in the not too distant future.

First Time Trials

With the first meet of the spring season barely a week off, Ryan expressed his hope for their first time trials this week. "Due to the fact that most of our men are new, Ryan said, "it is provided almost as much as it is in the correct next week. However, I hope it will bring the team together better on the next meet.

Ryan expressed himself as well pleased with the way his men have progressed. The Mariana, however, said 20 men, both distance men, have volunteered to be in better shape than they were last year.

Three Dual Meets Scheduled With Cougar Thinelads

Washington State has agreed to a dual meet with the Vandals this spring. Mike Ryan, Vandal track coach, reported last week. First meeting between Vandals and Cougar conference will take place in the WSC field house April 15 and the second April 16, also in Pullman.

Chuck conference will carry the plan that goes for distance. He has been blacked by the rise of Fredhammer, the leading man, and another one on Satur-

Coach George Greene said that the men chosen has shown more natural ability in the short time available for practice than the rest of the squad had. He emphasized, however, that no player is sure of his position and that changes will be made when the other men have had a chance to show.

Dick Gardner, Dick Skedarff and Chuck Flannitt will carry the team.

To abandon spring sport en- tirely seems folly. The army and navy have been urging the con- tinuance of competitive sports they promote health and the ability to think clearly in action.

To discard the sports at the pres- ent time would undeniably affect the purpose of all sports during a war, he said. "This will build men better equipped for battle.

It is decided to reorder the schedules set up last year, any- thing would be made available with Whitman, Washington State and Gonzaga to take up the slack. An extension of present school year would bring the schools and Idaho would give the programs completed at that time and would practically do away with transportation prob- lems.

Come on, conference officials. Let's have some action on this problem.
