AWS President Answers ASTU Critic On Controversy

It's been a rough week for the attention-seeking ASTU President. Much of the controversy has surrounded her actions regarding the campus theater group, but her presence at the annual ASTU convention stirred the pot even more. The ASTU President was challenged by an eager reporter who questioned her regarding her recent decision to dissolve the theater group. The reporter asked if the president would address the concerns of the theater group and if she would consider reinstating the group. The president responded by saying she would not reinstate the group and that the decision to dissolve the theater group was made based on the group's performance and the need for change on campus. The reporter then asked if the president would reconsider her stance and the president replied that she would not reconsider her decision. The reporter then asked if the president would address the concerns of the theater group and if she would consider reinstating the group. The president responded by saying she would not reinstate the group and that the decision to dissolve the theater group was made based on the group's performance and the need for change on campus. The president then left the room, obviously shaken by the intense questioning and the resulting controversy.

In the end, the president decided to adopt the role of a political leader in the eyes of the students and the community. She knew that her actions would have a significant impact on the future of the theater group and the university as a whole. She also knew that the decision to dissolve the theater group would not be well received by everyone, but she believed it was necessary for the university to move forward and make changes. The president knew that she had to make tough decisions in order to achieve her goals and she was not going to back down. She was determined to lead the university to greatness and she was willing to do whatever it took to make it happen.

The president then returned to her office and began working on the next phase of her plan. She knew that the controversy would not die down anytime soon, but she was prepared to face it head-on. She knew that she would have to work hard to win back the trust of the students and the community, but she was determined to do it. The president knew that she had the support of the majority of the students and the community, and she was confident that she would be able to make the right decisions to lead the university to success. She was ready to face the challenges that lay ahead, and she was determined to make the university the best it could be. She was ready to lead the university to greatness, and she was willing to do whatever it took to make it happen.

In the end, the president decided to adopt the role of a political leader in the eyes of the students and the community. She knew that her actions would have a significant impact on the future of the theater group and the university as a whole. She also knew that the decision to dissolve the theater group would not be well received by everyone, but she believed it was necessary for the university to move forward and make changes. The president knew that she had to make tough decisions in order to achieve her goals and she was not going to back down. She was determined to lead the university to greatness and she was willing to do whatever it took to make it happen.

The president then returned to her office and began working on the next phase of her plan. She knew that the controversy would not die down anytime soon, but she was prepared to face it head-on. She knew that she would have to work hard to win back the trust of the students and the community, but she was determined to do it. The president knew that she had the support of the majority of the students and the community, and she was confident that she would be able to make the right decisions to lead the university to success. She was ready to face the challenges that lay ahead, and she was determined to make the university the best it could be. She was ready to lead the university to greatness, and she was willing to do whatever it took to make it happen.

The president then returned to her office and began working on the next phase of her plan. She knew that the controversy would not die down anytime soon, but she was prepared to face it head-on. She knew that she would have to work hard to win back the trust of the students and the community, but she was determined to do it. The president knew that she had the support of the majority of the students and the community, and she was confident that she would be able to make the right decisions to lead the university to success. She was ready to face the challenges that lay ahead, and she was determined to make the university the best it could be. She was ready to lead the university to greatness, and she was willing to do whatever it took to make it happen.

The president then returned to her office and began working on the next phase of her plan. She knew that the controversy would not die down anytime soon, but she was prepared to face it head-on. She knew that she would have to work hard to win back the trust of the students and the community, but she was determined to do it. The president knew that she had the support of the majority of the students and the community, and she was confident that she would be able to make the right decisions to lead the university to success. She was ready to face the challenges that lay ahead, and she was determined to make the university the best it could be. She was ready to lead the university to greatness, and she was willing to do whatever it took to make it happen.

The president then returned to her office and began working on the next phase of her plan. She knew that the controversy would not die down anytime soon, but she was prepared to face it head-on. She knew that she would have to work hard to win back the trust of the students and the community, but she was determined to do it. The president knew that she had the support of the majority of the students and the community, and she was confident that she would be able to make the right decisions to lead the university to success. She was ready to face the challenges that lay ahead, and she was determined to make the university the best it could be. She was ready to lead the university to greatness, and she was willing to do whatever it took to make it happen.

The president then returned to her office and began working on the next phase of her plan. She knew that the controversy would not die down anytime soon, but she was prepared to face it head-on. She knew that she would have to work hard to win back the trust of the students and the community, but she was determined to do it. The president knew that she had the support of the majority of the students and the community, and she was confident that she would be able to make the right decisions to lead the university to success. She was ready to face the challenges that lay ahead, and she was determined to make the university the best it could be. She was ready to lead the university to greatness, and she was willing to do whatever it took to make it happen.

The president then returned to her office and began working on the next phase of her plan. She knew that the controversy would not die down anytime soon, but she was prepared to face it head-on. She knew that she would have to work hard to win back the trust of the students and the community, but she was determined to do it. The president knew that she had the support of the majority of the students and the community, and she was confident that she would be able to make the right decisions to lead the university to success. She was ready to face the challenges that lay ahead, and she was determined to make the university the best it could be. She was ready to lead the university to greatness, and she was willing to do whatever it took to make it happen.

The president then returned to her office and began working on the next phase of her plan. She knew that the controversy would not die down anytime soon, but she was prepared to face it head-on. She knew that she would have to work hard to win back the trust of the students and the community, but she was determined to do it. The president knew that she had the support of the majority of the students and the community, and she was confident that she would be able to make the right decisions to lead the university to success. She was ready to face the challenges that lay ahead, and she was determined to make the university the best it could be. She was ready to lead the university to greatness, and she was willing to do whatever it took to make it happen.

The president then returned to her office and began working on the next phase of her plan. She knew that the controversy would not die down anytime soon, but she was prepared to face it head-on. She knew that she would have to work hard to win back the trust of the students and the community, but she was determined to do it. The president knew that she had the support of the majority of the students and the community, and she was confident that she would be able to make the right decisions to lead the university to success. She was ready to face the challenges that lay ahead, and she was determined to make the university the best it could be. She was ready to lead the university to greatness, and she was willing to do whatever it took to make it happen.

The president then returned to her office and began working on the next phase of her plan. She knew that the controversy would not die down anytime soon, but she was prepared to face it head-on. She knew that she would have to work hard to win back the trust of the students and the community, but she was determined to do it. The president knew that she had the support of the majority of the students and the community, and she was confident that she would be able to make the right decisions to lead the university to success. She was ready to face the challenges that lay ahead, and she was determined to make the university the best it could be. She was ready to lead the university to greatness, and she was willing to do whatever it took to make it happen.

The president then returned to her office and began working on the next phase of her plan. She knew that the controversy would not die down anytime soon, but she was prepared to face it head-on. She knew that she would have to work hard to win back the trust of the students and the community, but she was determined to do it. The president knew that she had the support of the majority of the students and the community, and she was confident that she would be able to make the right decisions to lead the university to success. She was ready to face the challenges that lay ahead, and she was determined to make the university the best it could be. She was ready to lead the university to greatness, and she was willing to do whatever it took to make it happen.

The president then returned to her office and began working on the next phase of her plan. She knew that the controversy would not die down anytime soon, but she was prepared to face it head-on. She knew that she would have to work hard to win back the trust of the students and the community, but she was determined to do it. The president knew that she had the support of the majority of the students and the community, and she was confident that she would be able to make the right decisions to lead the university to success. She was ready to face the challenges that lay ahead, and she was determined to make the university the best it could be. She was ready to lead the university to greatness, and she was willing to do whatever it took to make it happen.
When Does Blue Mean Blue Or Blue?
By BEN ORRICK

On the surface the color blue is not anything special. That, however, is the rub, for some things as they seem. Take the word "blue," for example. What do you think of when you hear the word "blue?"
Take the poet... please, just let me know. Although, I have to admit, it seems to me that pretty much everyone knows what "blue" means. I mean, if you ask me, I'd say it means a sky filled with beautiful clouds. But I've heard that the word "blue" can also mean a color... that is, a color that is shades of blue.

Most likely, you've heard of the color blue before. It's been around for quite some time. And although some people may think that it's a simple color, it's actually quite complex. For example, the word "blue" can also mean the color of the sky, or the color of water.

In conclusion, the word "blue" is a very versatile one. It can mean a lot of different things, depending on the context in which it's used. So, the next time you hear the word "blue," think about all the different meanings it can have. You never know when you might need to use it in a conversation.

Musical Program To Be Featured At Army Dinner

Student entertainment will be featured during the annual meal sponsored by the Army's Officer's Club, sponsored by the ASTU. The program will feature both student bands and a color guard. The guest speaker for the evening will be Maj. James H. Logan, U.S. Army.

G Limber

When playing with the various groups participating in the program, all the students will have a chance to show off their talent. The program will begin with a welcome from the ASTU President, followed by a speech from the guest speaker. Then, the student bands will take the stage, performing a variety of songs and dances.

CIRCLING AROUND

Although the main emphasis of the university at this time is on varsity sports, many students are also involved in music. The ASTU is sponsoring a musical program to be featured at the annual meal. The program will feature both student bands and a color guard. The guest speaker for the evening will be Maj. James H. Logan, U.S. Army.

MOVING TO THE MUSIC

The music will be provided by the student bands, who will perform a variety of songs and dances. The color guard will also participate, adding a visual element to the performance. The program will conclude with a speech from the ASTU President, thanking everyone for their participation.

The ASTU hopes that this program will provide an exciting evening for all those attending. It will be a great opportunity for students to showcase their talent and enjoy the company of their peers. So, mark your calendars and plan to attend!
Communiqué Comment

American success in the Gilberts campaign will give the allies the opening for the land-based planning of what is expected to be a grand U. S. ground forces attack against the enemy coastlands in the Marshall and Caroline archipelagoes.

declaration of war that will take time for American forces to conduct their own movements and improvements, and will mean a defensive action against Nippon. The road to the Philipgines. Thepossibilityofwinning in the orient is

Newman Club Plans Christmas Party

At a meeting of the Newman club following dinner in the Altan Room, Tuesday evening, December 3, the Catholic oecumenitical centers is included in the itinerary of the Northern Assent. The Army and rules that will be unapproved unless they are read on the floor as soon as they are completed.

Westminster Guild

A congratulations meeting was held in the Altan Room, Wednesday evening, December 4, in connection with the Westminster Guild meeting. The President, Miss Esther Gray, announced that the Guild would be in session Thursday, December 5, and Miss Anna Brown, secretary, expressed the wish that all members would attend.

EXPRESS SHOE REPAIRING

507 S. Main

QUALITY. SERVICE AND REASONABLE PRICES

SANITARY MEAT MARKET

PHONE 254

We are the Butcher in the West End, along the line with the very best.

No longer confine your time in the market to the display of price and quality, but have confidence in your butcher.

Surrounded with a wide selection of meats, including roasts, steaks, chops, and hams, our meats are carefully selected and prepared for your convenience.

RIPPLES COOKS flat at the time.

Coffee Can’t Be Beat!

Oriole Nest

EXPERT SHOE REPAIRING

507 S. Main

Tasty Breakfasts

Butterliorns

Doughnuts

Have a “Coke” a good winds have blown you here

FOR QUICK CASH SERVICE CALL

BILL’S TAXI CALL 2366

S. Main

RECORD

For Quick Cash Service

Call BILL’S TAXI

Call 2366

204 S. Main

F I L I N G  P R O F E S S I O N A L B U I L D I N G

Every type of metal rack designed. We have the largest metal storage capacity in the State. Call us for the best value.

RANKIN’S ADVERTISING AGENCY

150 S. Main

SEASONED ADVERTISERS

Sanitary Meat Market

ON THE CLOCK

507 S. Main

SPORTS SHORTS

By MIKE WOLFE

War time Service is slower. Just as Good at the POLLY CLEANERS

The Idaho basketball team has been practicing for Thanksgiving, but they are just as busy off the court as they are on it. Coach Royce has been working hard to get the team ready for the upcoming season. The team has been practicing hard and is ready for the challenges ahead.

Vandal Trackers To Run In Annual Turkey Day Race

The Idaho High and State track teams will run in the Thanksgiving Day race in Boise to raise money for scholarships. The race will start at 9 a.m. and will be open to all Idaho residents. The race will be a challenging and exciting event for all who participate.

Lr. Karta Spends Furlough Here

Second Lieutenant Frank A. Jones, former student at the University of Idaho, is currently on furlough here. He is spending his time visiting friends and family in the area. His return to duty is set for the end of the year.

BASKETBALL Idaho vs. Lewiston Normal Marines

8:30 P.M. Preliminary ASTU Intramural Championship

12:00 P.M. ADMISSION

General Public $3.00, Students $1.50, Service Men $1.00

BASKETBALL Idaho vs. Lewiston Normal Marines

Preliminary ASTU Intramural Championship.

12:00 P.M. ADMISSION

General Public $3.00, Students $1.50, Service Men $1.00

Delicious Malts

Tempering Sandwiches

Cake, Coffee, Cokes

Blue Bucket Inn

THIS CHRISTMAS

Present Your Personal Gift
Your Photograph

Order Now While We Still Have Film

Hutchinson Studio

near the campus

When it's a tie, buy several!

Patterns and detail in an ever-growing variety of attractive colors of fabrics to dress up conservative white winter wear. $10.00 and $7.50

CREIGHTONS

V. N. Ramsdell

Allen S. Ramsdell