National Scheduling Industrial Uses of Farm Products

National Scheduling Industrial Uses of Farm Products is a new program that will allow farmers to plan for the future of their farms. The program will be initiated by Dr. Fred V. Johnson, head of the Department of Industrial Uses of Farm Products at the University of Wisconsin, who, in cooperation with the Department of Agriculture, will develop the program.

There are 10 million acres of agricultural land in the United States, and it is estimated that these acres are needed to support the nation's food needs. The program will help farmers plan for the future of their farms, and will also help to ensure that the nation's food needs are met.
