What's The Score?

When you're rooting for your favorite football team at an Ohio State game, a score board is clearly the most visible and recognizable symbol of the game. For this reason, the score board is often the first thing a person notices when entering the stadium. But have you ever wondered how the score is kept, or what the numbers on the board actually mean?

The score board is a high-tech device that is used to keep track of the game's score. It is located in the center of the field, and is visible to everyone in the stadium. The score board is connected to a computer system that keeps track of the game's score, and updates it in real-time.

The score board is also a great place to advertise, as it is seen by millions of people during each game. Many companies use the score board to promote their products or services.

Fly By Night or The Case Of The Infiltrating Insects

By Don Brown

This week, a visitor is nothing but a nuisance to the residents of our city. The insect, the house fly, has taken over our homes and is causing a lot of麻烦. These pesky little creatures can be found in virtually every room of the house, from the kitchen to the living room.

The house fly is a nocturnal creature, which means that it is most active at night. They are attracted to light, which is why you may see them swarming around your porch light or the windows of your house.

The best way to get rid of house flies is to keep your house clean. Make sure to clean up any food scraps or other attractants, and you'll find that the flies will disappear.

Matson Scores Three TD's;
Holder Stays On Defense

Anyone who attended the Idaho-San Francisco battle in Boise Sunday afternoon will agree that Idaho gave a better gridiron display than has been played on the Pacific Coast this season. Despite the 28-7 score, Idaho "Holder" struggled gamely through three of the four periods, fighting a defensive game in holding the Scots to four yards of first downs.

In the third quarter, the Boise defense was bolstered by the arrival of the Idaho line, and the second half was the battle of the two defenses. The Boise defense was in fine form, and the Idaho offense was kept at bay.

Did you know that "Holder" is actually an affectionate nickname for the Boise defense? It's a play on the name of the Idaho football team, which is known as the "Bloodhounds".

Fijis Flash Potent Passing Game In Mural Grid Opener

Despite ailing weather and slippery fields, the 1951 Idaho mural football season opened in style last Sunday with a victory over the University of Idaho. The Fijis, guided by Andy Christensen at the quarterback position, displayed their passing game in a strong performance against the Blue Devils.

The weather was less than ideal, with rain and mud making the field slippery. However, the Fijis' quarterback, Andy Christensen, was able to make accurate passes to his receivers, including halfback Jim Bousquet, who had a big game.

In the second quarter, the Fijis took the lead with a powerful drive down the field, ending with a touchdown. The Blue Devils tried to rally in the second half, but the Fijis' defense held strong.

The Fijis' victory was a testament to their skill and teamwork, despite the challenging conditions. Andy Christensen's strong performance was a key factor in the team's success.
